TANDY HALL GROUND BREAKING WILL BE FRIDAY

Ground breaking ceremonies for Charles Tandy Hall, the 42,000-square-foot facility that will almost double space available for the Neeley School of Business, will be held Friday. To begin at 11:30 a.m., the public event will be held in front of Dan Rogers Hall. Presiding will be Chancellor Bill Tucker.

Brief remarks will be made by Bayard H. Friedman, chairman of the board of trustees, and Mrs. Anne W. Sowell, president of the Anne Burnett and Charles Tandy Foundation. The significance of the new facility will be noted by Neeley School interim dean Kirk Downey.

Breaking ground along with Friedman will be trustees Dee J. Kelly, who heads the board's development committee, and Vernon L. Smith, chairman of the University's buildings and grounds committee.

Also taking part will be representatives of donors of $100,000 or more on the $8.2 million project that will complete renovation of Rogers Hall in addition to construction of the three-story Tandy Hall. These include the Tandy Foundation, J. E. and L. E. Mabee Foundation, Houston Endowment Inc., Amon G. Carter Foundation, Tandy Corporation, Davidson Family Charitable Trust, James L. and Eunice West Charitable Trust, Hoblitzelle Foundation, Fort Worth Clearing House Association, Dodge Jones Foundation, Brown-Lupton Foundation, Texas Electric Service Company, Marvin Gearhart, William Michero and the William and Catherine Bryce Memorial Fund and Leo Potishman Foundation, Texas American Bank/Fort Worth trustee. Special guests will include TCU trustees, whose annual spring meeting will precede the ceremony.

Music will be provided by the TCU Band under the direction of Robert Blanton.

Tandy Hall will honor the late Charles D. Tandy, alumnus and trustee of TCU who transformed a small enterprise into Tandy Corporation/Radio Shack, a world leader in consumer electronics. Initial commitment for the new structure was made by the Anne Burnett and Charles D. Tandy Foundation.

Expected to be completed in June of 1988, the three-story building to be constructed immediately west of Rogers Hall will feature connecting corridors on all floors. The first floor will house facilities for assessment and instruction in communication for business, including teleconferencing centers, a management services laboratory and simulation laboratories with video equipment, a board room, the dean's office and seminar area.

Specialized facilities on the second floor will be dedicated to the management of information services program and TCU's student-operated Educational Investment Fund. Electronic data processing laboratories as well as classrooms will provide the setting for learning management of changing technology. Investment management equipment including news wire service, quote machines and areas devoted to trading, analysis and research will complement classroom/study facilities for the investment program.

Endowed by the Tandy Foundation in 1986, the Charles Tandy American Enterprise Center will be housed on the third floor. An executive conference room and offices for research activities also will be located there.

Architect for the project is the Fort Worth firm of Kirk, Voich and Gist. Construction is expected to begin about April 1.

Business studies have been a part of TCU's curriculum since the institution was founded in Thorp Spring in 1873. In 1944 the School of Business, housed in Rogers Hall since its completion in 1957, was designated as the seventh major unit in the University's academic structure. It achieved membership in the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business and accreditation of its undergraduate and graduate programs in 1963.

In the event of rain, the ceremony will be in the auditorium of Rogers Hall.

FINANCIAL AID MAKES 586 AWARDS

A total 586 Chancellor's, Dean's and Academic Achievement scholarships have been awarded to applicants from across the nation. Announced March 16 by the financial aid and scholarship office, this is the largest and most competitive group of students ever to complete the process.

Applicants are reviewed on the basis of high school courses, grades, standardized test scores, leadership, extracurricular activities and recommendations.

Of the 586 awardees, 291 had SAT scores of 1200 and above and ranked in the top 10 percent of their graduating classes. In the top 15 percent of their classes were an additional 295 persons with SAT scores of at least 1100.

DISCOUNT BALLET TICKETS AVAILABLE

Discount tickets for the April 4 performance of Fort Worth Ballet will be available for $8 at Student Center information desk March 30-April 4. The tickets, normally priced at $12.50, are in the "D" section of Tarrant County Convention Center Theatre. Featured performers will be Heather Watts and Jock Soto of New York City Ballet.

TRUSTEE DINNER TO HONOR MONCRIEFS

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. "Tex" Moncrief Jr. will be honored Thursday evening at a dinner hosted by Chancellor and Mrs. Bill Tucker for members of the board of trustees, their wives/husbands and special guests.

To be held at Shady Oaks Country Club, the event will include the formal introduction of faculty members holding two chairs endowed by a $2 million gift from the Moncriefs in 1985. Three other chair holders will be introduced.

Holder of the W. A. Moncrief Jr. Chair of Physics, the first endowed position in that department, is C. A. Quarles. The TCU alumnus, who earned two degrees at Princeton, joined the faculty in 1967. An atomic collision specialist, he formerly was a physicist at the Brookhaven National Laboratory. He has served as department chairman.

Holder of the Charles B. Moncrief Chair in Geology, named for the couple's son who is a TCU alumnus and member of the board of trustees, is Nowell Donovan. A specialist in the evolution of sedimentary basins, the native of Scotland joined the faculty last fall. He is widely known as originator/leader of "Georoots," a field trip program sponsored by the American Association of Petroleum Geologists.

Also to be recognized during the evening are Eugene Boring, internationally known New Testament and classical history scholar who holds the A. A. and Helen Bradford Chair of Religion Studies; Don Jackson, former political science chairman and Supreme Court fellow who is the Herman Brown Professor Political Science; and Grady McWhiney, Civil War historian and author who holds the Lyndon Baines Johnson Chair of United States History.

An athletic endowment fund also was established with a portion of the 1985 gift from the Moncriefs, who have generously supported Harris College of Nursing and the Ranch Management Program. They joined his parents, Mrs. W. A. Moncrief and the late Dr. W. A. Moncrief, in making a $4 million gift for construction of a new residence hall which will bear their name. The couple belong to TCU's Clark Society, and she served on the Harris College board. An independent oil producer, he is a graduate of the University of Texas School of Engineering.

COMEDY TEAM WILL PERFORM FRIDAY

Comedy Laff-off, a New York group, will be presented at 8 p.m. Friday in Student Center ballroom. Team members are Ron Darian, Friedhoffer and Dave Kelly.

Sponsored by the performing arts committee of Programming Council, the program will cost $2 with TCU ID, $3 for all others. Tickets are on sale now at the Student Center information desk and will be available at the door Friday night.

MATHEMATICS TEACHERS EASIER TO RECRUIT

Efforts to recruit science and mathematics teachers have been more effective in the area of mathematics than in science, according to a new survey co-authored by education dean John Mangieri. The study also indicates that the field of education soon will experience significant shortages of teachers of music, fine arts and computer science.

The survey, by John and Dr. Richard E. Kemper, chairman of the instruction and teacher education department of the University of South Carolina College of Education, is a follow-up to a 1983 poll of 4,000 U.S. high school students regarding their level of interest in teaching as a profession.

Only 9 percent in that earlier study professed to be "very interested" in teaching. Others said it would take considerably better salaries, faster pay increases and more chance for advancement to make the teaching profession attractive to them. This second study by John and Kemper was geared to finding the level of interest in teaching among high school seniors in the top half of college-bound students. The new survey was conducted in urban, suburban and rural school districts in Mississippi, Tennessee, Ohio, South Carolina and Texas.

Of the 589 participants, 261 (44 percent) were male, 328 (56 percent) female, 129 (22 percent) members of minority groups and 460 (78 percent) white. Again a small number (8 percent) reported themselves "very interested" in teaching as a profession, while 25 percent indicated some interest. Follow-up questionnaires went to those 196 seniors.

A total 173 completed usable questionnaires, and they showed that 72 percent of the males and 39 percent of the females would prefer to teach in grades 7-12, indicating kindergarten and early elementary classrooms may continue to be staffed predominantly by women. Only 8 percent of the men but 42 percent of the women preferred kindergarten through third grade.

Just as sex differences existed in grade levels so did they exist in subject matter to be taught in the upper grades. Five percent of the men and 38 percent of the women would like to teach English, while 17 percent of the men and 7 percent of the women preferred history, geography or civics. Almost a quarter of the males and 13 percent of the females would like to teach mathematics.

If educators hope to reduce or eliminate sex bias in U.S. schools, the report stated, they must make an effort to change the perceptions of English as a woman's field and mathematics as a man's field. Asked what major they preferred in college, 25 percent of the 173 seniors intended to study mathematics, 20 percent psychology, 15 percent English, 12 percent history, 9 percent science, 2 percent music or fine arts and only 1 percent computer science.

INDIAN SCHOLAR TO SPEAK THURSDAY

Dr. Charles Roberts of California State University at Sacramento will speak Thursday as guest of the history department in a Research Fund-sponsored lecture. The free public event will begin at 7:30 p.m. in Room 205 of the Student Center.

"Choctaw Odyssey: The Life of Lesa Philip" will be the topic of the presentation that follows an American Indian people from the Dust Bowl of Oklahoma to California. Much of his lecture is autobiographical.

Holder of the Ph. D. degree from the University of Oregon, Roberts is well known for his Indian bibliographies as well as the 20th century history of his tribe. Many of his works have been published.

PHOTOGRAPHIC SHOW OPENS MARCH 31

Four women photographers based in the Metroplex will show their pictures March 31-April 17 in Student Center Gallery. Opening reception for the showing by Robin Dru Germany, Judy L. Miller, Cindy Sims and Frances Merritt Thompson will be held from 4 to 6 p.m. March 31. Subsequent hours will be 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays and 1-4 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays. The four also will give a Brown Bag lecture at noon April 1 in the Gallery.

Ms. Germany, of Dallas, holds the bachelor's degree from Tulane University and the Master of Fine Arts in photography and printmaking from NTSU. Her works have been shown at Camera Work in San Francisco, St. Edward's University in Austin and 500X in Dallas.

A graduate of the University of Kansas who holds master's degrees from the universities of Tulsa and Iowa, Ms. Miller has taught at the University of Arkansas-Little Rock and at Austin College. She formerly was executive director of Allen Street Gallery in Dallas, and has had photographs shown at AfterImage in Dallas, the Dallas Museum of Art and Louisiana Tech as well as in the juried Art in the Metroplex 1986 showing at TCU.

Ms. Sims, photo lab supervisor for the TCU art department, has been awarded a 1987 regional National Endowment for the Arts grant in photography. Holder of undergraduate and graduate degrees from Texas Tech, she has taught at UT-Permian Basin in Odessa. Her photographs have been on view at galleries in Midland, Amarillo and Joplin, MO.

A photography instructor at SMU, Ms. Thompson is president of the board of Allen Street Gallery in Dallas. The SMU graduate has been a staff member at Laguna Gloria Art Museum in Austin and has been artist-in-residence for the Austin Independent School District. She also has had photographs selected for Art in the Metroplex.

SENIOR TAKES A PROFESSIONAL STEP

It's one thing for a university theatre major to stage a senior production on campus. It takes a lot more courage to undertake such a project in the world of professional theatre.

Senior Tim Burt of Childress will take just such a step March 29-31 when he directs "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" in the Front Room of Stage West. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m., and admission is free, though donations will be accepted.

In Edward Albee's prize-winning drama about one drunken evening in the home of a college professor, Burt has cast TCU students Keri Healey of Arlington and Edgar Landwehr of Lavallette, NJ, as the host couple, a bitterly revengeful pair motivated by enormous personal sadness. The young instructor and his wife who get caught in the cross-fire when they stop in for a nightcap will be played by Jeffrey Combs of Muleshoe and Alison Bode of San Antonio.

MILITARY SCIENCE RECOGNIZES OUTSTANDING CADETS

Army ROTC cadets who have excelled in academics and military science will be honored at an awards ceremony Thursday. Set for 3:30 p.m. in Room 141N of the Moudy Building, the event will be followed by a pass-in-review of the entire corps, said Capt. John McCleary of military science.

The pass-in-review will be staged in the north parking lot of Amon Carter Stadium; traditional and patriotic music will be provided by the 2nd Armored Division Band. All students, faculty and staff are invited, and refreshments will be served following the festivities.

FACULTY COLLOQUIUM TO HEAR SOCIOLOGIST

Lewis A. Coser, distinguished sociologist/political scientist, will address the Faculty Colloquium on Values and Public Policy at 3:30 p.m. Monday on "Are Intellectuals Obsolete?" The lecture, to be presented in Moudy Building Room 156S, will be open to the public.

In his lecture, Professor Coser will deal with the fact that both American and European intellectuals have had a difficult time of late. In a world dominated by specialists, generalists are no longer as much in demand as they were 100 years ago.

His March 30-31 visit to TCU is co-sponsored by the faculty colloquium, the political science department and the campus chapter of Phi Beta Kappa. In addition to the public lecture and visits to sociology and political science classes, he also will be honored at a reception at 5 p.m. March 31 at 3833 South Dr., home of Charles Lockhart and Jean Giles-Sims.

Coser, Distinguished Professor of Sociology Emeritus at State University of New York and a past president of the American Sociological Association, also taught at Brandeis University for 17 years. He is the founder and an editor of Dissent and a member of the editorial advisory board of Political Science Quarterly.

Elected a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, he was twice a fellow at the Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences and has been both a Fulbright senior research scholar and a Guggenheim fellow.

Coser is the author of "The Functions of Social Conflict," "Men of Ideas," "Continuities in the Study of Social Conflict," "Greedy Organizations," "Political Sociology" and "Refugee Scholars in America: Their Impact and Their Experiences," published in 1984 by Yale University Press.

DUTCH ART LECTURE SET MONDAY

"The Dutch Gamepiece--Trophy or Token?" will be the title of a public slide/lecture by Dr. Scott A. Sullivan at 2 p.m. Monday in Moudy Building Room 132N.

Dr. Sullivan, interim chair of the art department at North Texas State University, is a specialist in 17th century Flemish and Dutch painting. He is the author of a book entitled "The Dutch Gamepiece" as well as a number of articles on other Renaissance and Baroque topics.

MARCH 31 EVENT WILL HONOR TRUSTEE

The Brotherhood Citation of the National Conference of Christian and Jews will be awarded John Roach, president and chief executive officer of Tandy Corporation, at a March 31 dinner hosted by the organization's Tarrant County chapter. The 36th annual event will be held at the Worthington Hotel, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Chancellor Bill Tucker is chairman for the occasion. William S. Banowsky, president of Gaylord Broadcasting Company, will be dinner speaker.

Roach, holder of two TCU degrees and member of the board of trustees, was chosen for the honor on the basis of his significant contributions to the community as well as for exemplary promotion of brotherhood. In his current Tandy Corporation position since 1982, Roach has been widely recognized for his business leadership, receiving honors as chief executive officer of the year by Financial World and in the Top 100 Technology of Technology Magazine. A distinguished lecturer for the national business education honor fraternity of Delta Pi Epsilon, he was honored as distinguished TCU alumnus in 1981.

Reservations for the March 31 event, as well as additional details, are available from NCCJ executive director Emily Trantham at 332-3271.

3-ON-3 TEAM FINISHES HIGH

The Horned Frog varsity team isn't the only big basketball winner around campus. The three-on-three basketball team fielded by Black Student Caucus won second place in regional championship play during halftime of the Dallas Mavericks game March 14.

The team, made up of Darron Turner of Houston, Dwayne Rumber of Alexandria, VA, and Ricky McCain of Colleyville, lost only to Wayland College in championship play.

NEW FACULTY, STAFF APPOINTMENTS

Alumnus DAVID LYNN, B.B.A. 1984, joined the development staff as assistant director for Central/South Texas. He formerly was an educational specialist with Tandy Corporation/Radio Shack.

Currently completing the Ph.D. at the University of Minnesota, SHANNON SHIPP will join the School of Business marketing faculty in the fall. The Dallas native is author of works in such publications as Business Horizons, Psychology and Marketing and Handbook of Industrial Marketing. He holds degrees from the University of Tulsa and the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute.

A former instructional technologist at Comanche Peak, NANCY HAYWORTH joined the development staff as assistant director of its information services on March 2. The North Texas State graduate was a programmer/analyst with the Harris Methodist Health Systems in 1980-85.

SMITH TO PLAY EUROPE PROGRAM MONDAY

Fort Worth audiences attending Emmet Smith's organ recital at 8 p.m. Monday in Robert Carr Chapel will hear the program he has prepared to present in Notre Dame Cathedral in Paris and at the Kreuzberg Festival in Bonn, West Germany, next summer.

Included in the recital will be two pieces dedicated to Emmet by the composers Jean Langlais of France and Daniel Gawthrop of the United States. The Carr Chapel recital will mark the premier of Gawthrop's Partita, and the composer will travel to Paris in July to hear Emmet perform the Partita. Also on Monday's program will be works by J.S. Bach, Nikolaus Bruhns, Walford Davies, Maurice Durufle and Felix Mendelssohn.

Emmet, who has concertized widely in the United States and Europe, also played the opening recital of the Kreuzberg Organ Festival in 1980. A Fulbright Scholar in organ in Paris in the 1950s, Emmet has taught 10 TCU students who earned Fulbrights to study in Europe as well as two who studied there on Rotary International Scholarships.

He was a Minnie Stevens Piper Professor in Texas in 1974 and won TCU's Chancellor's Award for Distinguished Teaching in 1984.

*** **

M.F.A. SHOW OPENS MONDAY

Three-dimensional objects with two-dimensional images painted on them will be shown by Patrick Kelly of Bowie in a Master of Fine Arts thesis exhibition March 30 through April 4 at Moudy Building Exhibition Hall. Patrick is a North Texas State University graduate earning the M.F.A. degree from TCU in painting.

The three-dimensional objects are symbolic--often political--in nature, Patrick said, and they bear two-dimensional images appropriated from media.

Opening reception for the show will be from 7 to 9 p.m. Monday, and subsequent hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays and 1 to 4 p.m. Saturday.

ORDER YEARBOOKS BY APRIL 1

Staff, faculty or departments wanting a 1987 yearbook must place their orders by April 1 with the Student Activities Office. Call Laura Puckett, Ext. 7926, for more information.

'KILLER' LED FROGS TO THE TOP

From a team with seven successive losing seasons, Jim Killingsworth took the Horned Frogs to top levels of basketball honors during his eight-year tenure as head coach that ended March 17 when he announced his retirement. It will become effective June 30, marking the end of a 38-year coaching career with an overall record of 748 wins and 292 losses.

The Oklahoma native, who plans to spend a relaxed retirement in Utah, is known for bringing the best from his fiercely determined players in a manner respected by coaches, fans and young athletes across the nation. This year he guided the Purple cagers to their second straight Southwest Conference regular-season win, sharing the title with A&M and Texas last year and dominating the courts this year while taking the SWC title four games ahead of second place Baylor.

En route to one of the school's most successful basketball campaigns ever, Killer's Frogs reached and maintained their first-ever national rankings by Associated Press and United Press International wire polls. They also equaled the school record for most victories in one season with this year's 24-7 mark and were TCU's first representatives in NCAA post-season tournament play since 1971. The 1987 "dream year" ended with Notre Dame scoring the one-point 58-57 win in final seconds of NCAA second-round action in Charlotte, NC.

Jim, whose TCU record stands at 130-106, coached three teams to the NCAA finals...twice at Idaho State as well as TCU this year. Two of his Frog teams took part in the National Invitational Tournament...in post-season play in 1983 and pre-season in 1986.

Following 7-19 and 11-18 seasons at the start of his TCU career, Jim's third team raised its record to 16-13 and, for a second straight year, the first "Killer Frogs" reached semifinals of the SWC Post-Season Classic. He was named SWC coach of the year. His 1982-83 team had a 23-11 mark and went to the quarterfinals of NIT. Before the recent climb up the SWC and national basketball ladders, he coached 11-17 and 16-12 seasons.

Coach of the year honors came again in 1986 after his cagers had a 22-9 mark, were crowned SWC tri-champions and competed in the NIT. His latest team drew attention and sellout crowds with the runaway conference title, NCAA post-season action and another coach of the year honor.

Of TCU's "winningest" cage coaches, Jim ranks second behind Buster Brannon, whose 1948-67 record was 206-258. Third is Johnny Swaim, 1967-77, with 102-151; Francis Schmidt, 1929-34, with 72-24; and Matty Bell, 1923-29, with 70-42.

"On a scale of one to 10, I'd rate Jim an 11," Chancellor Bill Tucker said at the March 17 news conference. "He is an absolutely tremendous coach and a delightful person. I hope people realize how far Jim Killingsworth brought TCU basketball."

NOTES ON FOLKS

GYDE MARTIN (English) read a paper, "Margaret Drabble's 'A Summer Bird Cage': A Dialogue with the Great Tradition," at the meeting of the Missouri Philological Association in Emporia, KS, March 14. HARRY OPPERMAN (English) read two stories, "Summer Work" and "Overhead."

CONSTANTINO BERNARDEZ (KTCU, radio-TV-film) spoke on "A Philippines Update: Can Corazon Aquino Survive?" before the Great Decisions Discussion Group of the Dan Danciger Jewish Community Center Feb. 22 and before the TCU Retirees monthly luncheon meeting at Colonial Cafeteria Feb. 26.

MARK THISTLETHWAITE (art history) was guest speaker for the recent induction ceremony of the National Art Honor Society at L.D. Bell High School. Mark discussed the place of the visual arts in education.

Assistant admissions director ROSEMARY DROLLINGER was honored recently at the Phi Theta Kappa state convention in Fort Worth. She is the TCU sponsor for the alumni chapter of the national junior college honor students organization. TCU was host institution for the convention and the site of the Feb. 28 awards banquet. Named Outstanding Alumni Chapter Sponsor, Rosemary received a special award of appreciation.

Computer information systems manager DAVE EDMONDSON is among 10 former students of Lee College in Baytown who have been named outstanding former students in recognition of their achievements. The honorees and their families will be guests at an April 2 reception.

"Durkheim's Macrofoundations of Time: An Assessment and Critique," by sociologist MICHAEL KATOVICH, has been accepted for publication in The Sociological Quarterly, Vol. 28, No. 2. With undergraduate sociology major CEDRIC WILLIAMS, he presented a paper entitled "From Deviancy to Legitimacy: An Analysis of the Small Partisan Group" at the Western Social Science Association meeting in El Paso.

"Computer Aided Instruction: Teaching 'Learning from Mistakes' and Home Economics Content" by CARLA DUMESNIL (design and fashion) and John Brownlee of the University of Utah appeared in proceedings of the International Conference on Thinking and Problem Solving in Home Economics, held at Ohio State University in 1986.

RUTH WHITLOCK (music) was originator and research editor for a new book released last week entitled "The Conscience of a Profession: Howard Swan, Choral Director and Teacher." Release of the volume was especially timely as it occurred at the beginning of the national meeting of the American Choral Directors Association, dedicated to Dr. Swan.

The Summer of 1987 issue, Vol. 26, No. 2, of the Journal of Religion and Health contains an article by ART BERLINER (social work). The article is entitled, "Sex, Sin, and the Church: The Dilemma of Homosexuality."

MORE NOTES ON FOLKS

LEE DANIEL (modern languages) was in Mexico March 6-15 videotaping points of interest in Guadalajara, Chapala, Mexico City, Cuernavaca, Tepoztlan, Puebla and Acapulco. The material will be used in a new summer course, "Spanish Culture and Language," that will be taught at TCU and in Mexico.

"Lamentations for--and Hopes Against--Authority in Education," a paper by JIM BAUMLIN and JIM CORDER (English), has been accepted for publication by Educational Theory.

The third edition of "Toward Benevolent Neutrality: Church, State and Supreme Court," a book co-authored/edited by RON FLOWERS (religion-studies), has been published by Baylor University Press. The work contains the texts of 69 church-state decisions of the U.S. Supreme Court along with extensive historical and interpretive essays.

The previous two editions have been used in universities, theological seminaries and law schools. Ron's co-author/editor is Robert T. Miller, professor of constitutional law at Baylor.

Dean PAT SCEARSE (nursing) has been notified that she has been chosen as an assistant editor for the Journal of Professional Nursing. Selection for the competitive position was based on submitted original articles. Pat will be responsible for writing or for having others write an article each issue for the next two years of the journal.

Two English doctoral students read papers for the arts, literature and religion section of the American Academy of Religion Southwest regional meeting at Irving in mid-March. They were CHUCK ETHERIDGE, whose paper was entitled "A Re-examination of 'The Christian Question' in Beowulf," and VICKI WEIR, who read "Rhetorical Criticism of Biblical Texts: Contextuality of the Ancient and Modern Ethos."

TCU IN THE NEWS

"Sports Medicine Helps Non-Athletes Rebound" was the title of the AURA magazine article that included athletic trainer ROSS BAILEY and TCU-trained persons at the Fort Worth Sports Rehabilitation Center.

"TCU gets tough on degree" headlined a featured story in the Star-Telegram's business section March 5. A color illustration detailing curriculum changes, M.B.A. starting salaries and expected enrollment changes complemented the story that quoted graduate business director TOM BADGETT. On that same date a KXAS-TV story called attention to the degree program's changes.

In the Star-Telegram's March 7 story about women in the ministry, Brite field education director WALTER NAFF noted that seminary women students have no difficulty in finding internships, but, when they look for places to start practicing their ministry, "they often find that all the doors are closed to them." SHERI IVERSON, Brite assistant director of admissions, who has been ordained for 11 years, said most of the graduates will be the first woman minister a congregation has.

MORE TCU IN THE NEWS

"Almost the finale" was the headline Feb. 1 on the Star-Telegram's feature on pianist STEVEN DE GROOTE, who survived a near-fatal airplane accident to return to the concert stage as well as to accept the teaching position in the School of Fine Arts. Shown during his Feb. 3 performance on campus as well as in a body cast following his plane accident, Steven also was the subject of a feature that aired Feb. 3 on WFAA-TV.

The start of the 1987 alumni phonathon was the subject of a WFAA-TV feature on Feb. 1. Development coordinator MIKE McKEE was featured explaining the calling process to participating Student Foundation members, and student chairman KEITH KIRKMAN talked about the "plusses" of taking part.

TCU's bilingual speech pathology program, the first in the nation, was singled out in the November issue of Texas Business as an example of a private college finding a niche and specializing in it, which, the article noted, is not the opportunity of a larger state school. Another story in that issue quoted from Fiske's "The Best of the Best" in saying, "Combining the best of the large and small makes TCU an exceptional value."

"Killingsworth, TCU's basketball team make winter more fun!" was the headline for the Feb. 4 editorial in the Star-Telegram. After a review of this season's results, the editorial noted: "We're not sure what it all means, but the KILLER FROGS' success has made it a little more fun to be in Fort Worth this winter. Riff-ram-bah-zoo, guys. Or whatever today's Frogs say to express joy."

"Da Killer Frogs" was the title of the cartoon in the sports section of the Feb. 8 Dallas Morning News. It depicted Coach JIM KILLINGSWORTH at the wheel of a TCU limo in "killer style" attire with the masked boys of his gang behind him en route to the Southwest Conference title.

Criticism of television is nothing new, according to DAVID BARKER (radio-TV-film), who was quoted in a Feb. 5 story in the Star-Telegram. He did note that the same criticisms were aimed in earlier periods at motion pictures and before that at pulp fiction.

The variety of uses of computers in the home was the subject of a Feb. 7 feature in the Star-Telegram. Quoted extensively on their use as well as photographed at home were Virginia and MARCUS BRYANT (Brite).

HAP KLINEFELTER (Counseling Center) was the guest of Alan Holmes on KMEZ's (100.3 FM) Sunday morning "Dialogue" program Feb. 8. The topic discussed was "Adult Children of Alcoholics."

TCU's honor as the university with the most active hunger program was the subject of a Channel 8 feature Feb. 12 as well as a story in the Feb. 12 issue of the Star-Telegram. Quoted in the story was ANDY FORT (religion-studies), whose creative ideas have made the campus crusade outstandingly successful.

MORE TCU IN THE NEWS

"Marriage and athletics a tough assignment" was the Star-Telegram's headline for the Feb. 15 feature that included alumnus BRENT BUNNELL and his wife JILL. Formerly a long-distance TCU swimmer, Brent currently is a student at Texas College of Osteopathic Medicine. Jill, a junior physical education major, is prepping for the SWC swim meet later this month and hopes to pick up the two seconds that kept her from qualifying for NCAA the last two years.

A profile of TCU was included in a recent issue of the Fort Worth Audit News, the publication of the Fort Worth chapter of the Institute of Internal Auditors. Internal auditor TED RHODES and LARRY DRIVER (resource management) are active in the organization.

ED McNERINEY (economics) was interviewed live Feb. 9 by KRLD Radio on the topic of minimum wage.

BILL HEAD (criminal justice) was interviewed on FBI investigations into peace organizations for a news report airing Feb. 20 on KERA-TV.

"Looking Beyond Eyes Of Texas" was the headline for the New York Times' Feb. 23 feature on Coach JIM KILLINGSWORTH and the Frog cagers. Three photos complementing the copy included Jim and action shots of CARVEN HOLCOMBE and LARRY RICHARD.

"Why do it? Only a runner knows" was the Star Telegram's headline for the Feb. 25 Living section feature by JIM KUNDE (MLA program). A marathon runner for three years, he serves as program director for the Kettering Foundation in Dayton, Ohio, and is scholar-in-residence with the Western Governors' Association in Denver.

"What do Frogs watch on TV?" was the headline for Art Chapman's television column in the Feb. 24 Star-Telegram. In it he detailed the findings of a survey by BILL DAVIE (radio-TV-film) on viewing habits of 112 students ranging in age from 18 to 39 and from 13 states and seven foreign countries.

Alcohol/drug education advisor LORI WEISS was featured Feb. 27 in a Channel 5 special dealing with the use of alcohol. The segment by Shelly Kofler showed Lori making a presentation to a sorority chapter.

On Feb. 27 NEIL DANIEL (English) was interviewed on the telephone by Brendon Payne, news director for Granbury Radio Station KPAR. Part of a week-long series on educational reform in Texas, the interview aired twice March 3. In it Neil discussed the difficulty of achieving educational reform through the political process, which requires demonstrable results within four years. He gave high marks to Texas for good intentions but argued that significant change in education must emerge from within the system, not be imposed by external pressure.

Trustee ALANN BEDFORD was the subject of a feature entitled "Genteel Activist" in the March/April issue of AURA magazine.
