LEIBROCK, FEEMSTER NAMED TO BRITE BOARD

Two new members--Midland oil man Robert M. Leibrock and Dr. Ben H. Feemster, district superintendent of the Fort Worth West District of the United Methodist Church--have been named to the board of Brite Divinity School.

Leibrock moved to Midland from Fort Worth in 1952, when he was employed by Stanolind Oil and Gas Company. Three years later he formed the consulting engineering firm of Leibrock, Landreth, Campbell and Callaway and from 1964 to 1983 was involved primarily in oil and gas exploration and production.

He and his wife, award-winning watercolorist Prudie Leibrock, donated Brite's first fully endowed professorship in 1978. Initial holder of the position was Harold Glen Brown, organizing minister of the Leibrocks' church, Memorial Christian of Midland. At the time of his retirement in 1983 the position was renamed the Harold Glen Brown Associate Professorship of Pastoral Ministry and currently is held by David Polk. The Leibrocks joined Memorial Christian in December 1954, soon after its founding, and he has served as chairman of its board as well as heading finance and building committees.

Leibrock, a former trustee and board of trustees president at Midland College, also has served as chairman of the Permian Basin Section of the Society of Petroleum Engineers and has been president of Permian Basin Petroleum Association.

Dr. Feemster is a Fort Worth native who earned his undergraduate degree at Texas Wesleyan College. His seminary was Candler School of Theology at Emory University, and he also has done graduate study at Brite. He was awarded a D.D. degree by TWC.

Formerly pastor of congregations in the Methodist Church's Central Texas Conference, he transferred to the North Texas Conference in 1974 and has served churches in Graham, Smithfield, Arlington, Brownwood, Hurst, Fort Worth, Dallas and Plano. Dr. Feemster also was area director of professional ministries and administrative assistant to the bishop.

Brite educates more ministers of the Christian Church than any other seminary. However, more than 40 percent of its faculty and student body are affiliated with other denominations. Almost one-fourth of Brite students are preparing for United Methodist ministry.

MARCH GIFTS EXCEED 1986 TOTAL

Amounting to $1,612,435, gifts to the University during March exceeded the 1986 March total by nearly $200,000. Last month's gifts, as reported to the trustee development committee by Vice Chancellor Paul Hartman, were designated as follows:

- Annual Fund, $175,193
- Current restricted projects, $154,909
- Endowment, $66,832
- Plant fund, $1,215,499

The cumulative total of almost 10,000 gifts since the fiscal year began June 1 is $11,958,220, comprised of nearly 10,000 gifts, the report shows.

Scores of volunteers are working to achieve the $3.2 million goal of the Annual Fund for TCU. During this month, one-day personal solicitation campaigns were scheduled in Longview and Tyler, and a special phonathon directed toward Fort Worth alumni was conducted. Chaired by Trustee Pat Woodson, the Annual Fund Council met Friday to review strategies for the last 30 days of the fiscal year and to set goals for 1987-88.

'BLITZ' AND SOCIAL SET FOR TYLER

A day-long fund-raising effort and a Clark Society event are planned Thursday in Tyler.

Fifteen volunteers will join TCU staff members to make personal calls on 127 alumni as well as parents of current students and friends of the University. The one-day "blitz" is part of the Annual Fund campaign with gift requests being made for instructional and scholarship assistance, research and graduate education, athletics and general University support.

Co-chairmen are Tim Brookshire, Class of '74 member who is vice president of personnel for the Brookshire's Grocery Company, and Britt Brookshire, Class of '77 member who is vice president and division manager of stores.

That evening Trustee Lee Lawrence and his wife Ann will host a champagne and dessert reception in their home for Clark Society members and special guests. The evening's entertainment will be provided by artist-in-residence Steven De Groot.

LIBRARY CHANGES HOURS FOR FINALS WEEK

To better serve students during finals week, Mary Couts Burnett Library will extend its hours for most of the week. Opening at its regular time May 3-6, the library will remain open until 2 a.m. On May 7, library hours will be 7:45 a.m.-midnight; May 8, the library will be open 7:45 a.m.-5 p.m. The building will be closed May 9-10.

TCU TO HOST OLYMPIC FESTIVAL TRIALS

The U. S. Olympic Festival '87 women's South Region Trials will be held May 1-3 in Daniel-Meyer Coliseum. Sanctioned by the Amateur Basketball Association of the USA (ABAUSA), South Region is one of four regional trials held to select four 15-member teams to take part July 17-26 in the U.S. Olympic Festival in Chapel Hill, NC.

Some 140 high school and college athletes from 12 states from Texas to North Carolina and from Florida to Arkansas will participate in the three-day schedule on campus. Each athlete has the choice of representing her home state or the state where she attends college.

Drills and team play will be included in the trials' three-day schedule. A selection committee will choose the 15 to represent the region in the festival, where they will compete in gold medal play against teams from other regional sites. Head women's coach Jorja Hoehn of Indiana University and head coach Alice Khol of Cleveland State will coach the South Region squad.

"This is the first time Texas has hosted the trials, and we're excited about the opportunity," said TCU women's coach and site coordinator Fran Garmon. "We are very fortunate; Fort Worth and the surrounding communities offer a great atmosphere for our visitors, and they will be able to experience friendliness of this University."

Garmon also emphasized the talent which will be displayed on the TCU basketball court. "If you look at the recent NCAA Final Four participants, there were three teams--Tennessee, Texas and Louisiana Tech--which will have players coming to the trials," she said. "Plus there are many other talented girls, both in college and high school, who will be coming. The South Region has some of the best talent in the nation, and it is the defending Olympic Festival gold medal champion. It's going to be exciting to just sit back and watch them play."

Open to the public at no charge, the events will include a 6:30-9 p.m. session Friday. On May 2 the second session is set for 9-11:30 a.m. and will be followed by sessions at 1:30 p.m. and 6 p.m. Following a fifth session starting at 9 a.m. May 3, players selected for the South Region team will be announced.

BADGETT WILL BE DALLAS SPEAKER

Neeley School assistant dean Dr. Tom Badgett will speak May 5 for the TCU Dallas Breakfast Series. Planned for Dallas-area alumni and friends of TCU by the TCU Dallas Association, the 7:30 a.m. event will be held at Park City Club at 5956 Sherry Ln., announced chairman William W. Harrell.

Tom, holder of two degrees from TCU and the Doctor of Business Administration degree from Indiana University, currently directs the Master of Business Administration program.

Planning committee members for the breakfast series include Lynn D. Ball, Richard A. Berry, William L. Hill, John D. Jackson, Camille Keith, Ted Rickenbacker Jr., Neil Newsom, Allan Tanner, Robert R. Taylor, David W. Tice, Harry Winters and Fischer.

OLD NEWSPAPERS PROVIDE AID FOR HUNGRY

Before throwing out yesterday's newspaper, remember it could help aid world hunger and the conservation of resources.

For the last 10 years TCU students have collected newspapers and tin cans to raise money for hunger and conservation projects. Since the founding of TCU's Environmental Conservation Organization in 1977, the group has collected more than 2,000 tons of newspapers, providing more than $30,000 for these causes.

"The group's central focus is to reduce waste, protect the environment and provide funds for worthwhile causes like the hunger problem," explained ECO faculty advisor John Wortham. "Last year alone the group donated over $2,000."

ECO would be unable to accomplish its goals without help from local citizens and TCU employees who sack their newspapers and bring them to the recycling shed, noted John. "Not only do their efforts provide resources for those in dire need, but it helps preserve our forests," said John. "It would require some 3,400 trees to produce the 200 tons of newsprint we collect each year."

About every three weeks, TCU students and individuals from University United Methodist Church spend Saturday morning loading the newspapers, which are then picked up by the Western Conservation Organization in Arlington. The paper is recycled and used for such things as insulation, bedding for horse stalls and to hold dirt in place before it's sodded.

Persons interested in aiding ECO's efforts are encouraged to drop their newspapers at the collection building east of the football stadium off Stadium Drive. Magazines and other slick paper should not be included. Individuals also may call Ext. 7230 for more details.

NOTES ON FOLKS

"Excellence in Education," a TCU PRESS title edited by JOHN MANGIERI (education), has been chosen by the United States Information Agency for exhibition at the Moscow Book Fair. The book will then be part of a show touring several cities in the Soviet Union. Titles for exhibition in Moscow were chosen by a panel of experts, including a representative of Publishers Weekly.

The fourth annual Women & Work Conference, convened by the Women and Work Research And Resource Center of the Graduate School of Social Work at UT-Arlington, will be held Thursday and Friday at the Arlington Hilton. This year's theme is "Working Women: Problem Solutions for the Late '80s." Thursday morning DOUG NEWSOM (journalism) will make a presentation entitled "Educational Ethics Involved in Teaching Women Students in Career-Oriented Majors."

MORE NOTES ON FOLKS

Religion-studies participation at the March 13-14 Southwest regional meeting in Irving of the Society of Biblical Literature, American Academy of Religion and Association for the Scientific Study of Religion included papers by RON FLOWERS, "Church-State Update: The 1986-1987 Term of the U. S. Supreme Court" and "Religious Objection to Public School Textbooks: A Status Report." NADIA LAHUTSKY, "Daughters of Tamar, Daughters of Phoebe: Interpretations of Women in the Christian Tradition;" DAVID GRANT, "Gordon Kaufman's Reconstructed Gods;" DARYL SCHMIDT, "Syntax-Based Pedagogy: A Cognitive Approach to Teaching Hellenistic Greek Grammar;" and adjunct JEFFREY PULIS, "Fundamentalist Religious Values in the Public Arena."

JIM FARRAR was a discussant for a session on "Religion and the Mechanisms of Social Control," and masters candidate BABS SCHMIDT presided, as chair-elect, at sessions of the Art, Literature, and Religion section. Also attending were CLAUDIA CAMP, AMBROSE EDENS, RICH FORRER, KEN LAWRENCE and adjunct EDWARD McMAHON.

Four representatives of the HONORS PROGRAM participated in the Great Plains Regional Meeting of the National Collegiate Honors Council at Missouri Southern State College in Joplin March 27-28. As secretary of the region, SALLY BOHON presided at the business meeting. HIRAM JACKSON, senior geology major and 1986 recipient of the TCU Honors Scholar Award, presented a paper describing his senior Honors research on meteorites. The meeting also was attended by TRACY WILSON, 1987 chair of the Honors Cabinet, and director JIM KELLY.

C. A. QUARLES (physics) has been invited to present a paper, "Monte Carlo Simulation and Laboratory Measurement of the Photoelectric Index for Selected Rock Samples," at the annual meeting of the American Nuclear Society in Dallas in June. The paper reports on research in the determination of the lithology of chemically analyzed rock samples using the photoelectric effect. Co-authors are former doctoral candidate JOE ALTMAN, candidate HALIM LEHTIHET and Dr. George Salaita of Chevron Oil Field Research Co.

The philosophy department hosted the April 4 spring meeting of North Texas Philosophical Association in the Faculty Center. GREGG FRANZWA read a response to a paper on Kant's transcendental philosophy, and SPENCER WERTZ was elected president for next year. RICHARD GALVIN, a member of the executive committee, helped in coordinating the program, which attracted about 35 students and faculty members from local colleges and universities.

TCU Press has a real bargain to offer--copies of OLD AMERICAN GLASS; THE MILLS COLLECTION AT TCU by Julia Magee Hartley for only $2.00 each. The book is a complete catalog, with photographs, of the prized and unusual glass collection in the faculty center. Copies of this bit of TCU memorabilia are available in Sadler 209.

FRED ERISMAN (English) was a guest lecturer April 15 at Rice, where he spoke on "Science Fiction as Social Document" for an advanced class in the sociology of literature.

MORE NOTES ON FOLKS

Over several weekends in March and April MICHAEL WINESANKER (emeritus, music) listened to some 200 young musicians, most of them pianists, for the Texas Federation of Music Clubs Festival. As the adjudicator, he rated each performer individually and wrote a critical commentary. The young musicians, performing on the TCU campus and in Arlington, ranged from elementary to very advanced level. Many were from TCU's Preparatory Piano Division.

Included among guests at the recent Honors banquet were four smiling faculty members whose children were recognized as senior scholars. Of the 36 students honored, four are faculty related. They are BRENDA FRYE, daughter of BOB (English) and ALICE (library) FRYE; JENNIFER SMITH, daughter of DURWOOD and DARLA SMITH (biology); JIM LINK, son of JIM LINK of ranch management; and KAREN HOEHN, daughter of DICK HOEHN (Brite).

The Spanish section of modern languages and literatures hosted the annual meeting/luncheon of the Lone Star chapter of the American Association of the Teachers of Spanish and Portuguese April 11 in the Student Center. DONALD FRISCHMANN was local arrangements chairperson.

ARTURO FLORES (modern languages) has been notified his article, "1965-1985: El Teatro Campesino, algunas consideraciones criticas," will be in the spring issue of Confluencias, journal of the Department of Hispanic Studies at University of Northern Colorado.

Sympathy is expressed to PAT CROWLEY (art and art history) on the recent death of her mother.

CHERIE LOHR and CAROL McGRIVEN (education) conducted a two-day training session for central office administrators of the Grapevine-Colleyville School District. The theme was "Developing Effective Administrative Teams Through Understanding Communication Styles."

FIJIs REACH OUT TO ELDERLY

For two hours each Monday and Friday afternoon, some TCU fraternity brothers head for a strikingly different world where time has slowed and amusement comes from bridge or dominoes, storytelling or reviving ageless memories of times long past.

The subdued setting of the Arlington Heights Nursing Center offers a welcome change of pace for Phi Gamma Delta fraternity members. And it brings the residents at Arlington Heights fresh ideas and a whole new outlook on life, says Abigail Durham, the center's activities director.

The fraternity went to the center during the holidays to sing Christmas carols to the men and women there. Durham was so impressed with their enthusiasm that she asked them to do regular volunteer work, and they have been visiting the center weekly since January. They help run Bingo games, then spend about an hour just visiting with the residents.
