CONGRESSMAN WRIGHT WILL BE CONVOCATION SPEAKER

Congressman Jim Wright of Fort Worth, currently in his fifth term as majority leader of the U. S. House of Representatives, will be the speaker Sept. 17 for the annual fall convocation. Traditionally signaling the "official" opening of the academic year, the public event will begin at 11 a.m. in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

A highlight of the formal assembly will be the announcement of the second recipient of the Chancellor's Award for Outstanding Research. Endowed by a TCU alumni couple who wish to remain anonymous, the honor includes a $5,000 cash award in recognition of outstanding ability and accomplishment in addition to a $5,000 check intended to cover the variety of expenses the awardee feels will most enhance his/her contributions as a scholar.

The first research award was made to Bill Watson, chemistry department chairman, in 1983. Bestowed in alternate years for distinguished teaching, the initial Chancellor's Award was made in 1982 to English professor Betsy Colquitt.

For the occasion, classes will be dismissed from 10:35 a.m. to 12:15 p.m., announced Vice Chancellor Bill Koehler. The faculty procession will form at 10:45 a.m.

Welcoming remarks will be made by Dr. Koehler. Music will be provided by the Concert Chorale, directed by Ron Shirey. Both the processional and organ post-lude will be presented by Emmet Smith. The invocation will be given by trustee A. M. Pennybacker, minister of University Christian Church, and University minister John Butler will give the benediction. Also taking part will be associate professor Arden Hopkin.

Majority Leader Wright, who will be introduced by Chancellor Bill Tucker, is widely recognized as author of major legislation in the fields of foreign affairs, economic development, water conservation, energy and education. Elected to Congress at the age of 31 and now in his 16th consecutive term, the Fort Worth native has been a leading force for the creation of a major synthetic fuels capability and the re-establishment of American energy independence.

"One of the greatest Congressmen in the United States" was former President

Lyndon Johnson's description of Wright, who was chosen to the majority leadership post in 1976 and since has been re-elected unanimously four times. As evidence of the esteem of the 12th District of Texas voters, he had no opponent in either primary or general elections for 10 years beginning in 1964. When challenged in the 1974 general election, he received 79 percent of the votes, carrying each of his district's 123 precincts by a wide margin.

Wright's political career began with his election to the Texas Legislature at 23, after Air Corps service as an officer flying combat missions in the South Pacific. Three years later, he became Texas' youngest mayor when his Weatherford neighbors picked him to head their city government.

Honored by Congressional colleagues as the "most respected" member of the House, Wright also was named by his peers as the most respected member and the most persuasive debater in a confidential survey conducted by U. S. News & World Report magazine in 1980. A prolific writer, he is author of four widely acclaimed books and collaborated with other representatives on "Congress and Conscience." He has written for major newspapers as well as Harper's, Saturday Evening Post and This Week.

The convocation address will be broadcast live on KTCU-FM, 88.7.

NEW FACULTY, STAFF APPOINTMENTS

Joining the nutrition and dietetics department as assistant professor, LINDA CRAWFORD HOOVER served a dietetic internship at Vanderbilt University after completing the B.S. degree at Texas Tech. The food service systems management specialist, who holds the M.D. degree from Texas Woman's University, formerly was director of material management for Methodist Hospitals of Dallas.

A 1983 TCU honor graduate, LARRY PARSONS assumed his position as admissions counselor in July. He is active in the Texas Association of College Admissions Counselors and serves as an assistant scoutmaster for the Boy Scouts. As an undergraduate he was named to membership in the pre-med honor society of Alpha Epsilon Delta and Alpha Lambda Delta.

WANDA OLSON, named coordinator of residential living in the summer, holds both the B.S. and M.S. degrees from Kansas State University. A member of Southwest Association of College and University Housing Officers, she served as assistant area coordinator at Texas A&M in 1982-84 after a year as a housing staff assistant.

Among those named to temporary appointments for 1985-86 are CAROL BOWMAN, assistant professor of nutrition and dietetics, and NITA LITTLE, assistant professor of modern dance.

Several new faces are evident this fall in the housing division. The new residence hall directors and their assignments are LYNN BELL ARMOUR, who holds the B.B.A. from the University of Georgia, in Jarvis Hall; ELIZABETH MOORE, B.A. Louisiana Tech, Colby Hall; DEBORAH PARKER, B.A. Carlton College, Sherley Hall; JUDY PHARISS, B.S. Southwestern Oklahoma State and M.Div. Southwestern Baptist Seminary, Wiggins Hall; and MICHAEL TARVIN, B.S. Bowling Green State and M.A. Boston College, Pete Wright Hall.

UTA PROF GIVES ART TO TCU

Six original lithographs on Japanese rice paper and another on hard-fired porcelain have been given to TCU by University of Texas at Arlington political science professor Allan Saxe, who acquired the works from a Fort Worth collector.

The lithographs by Florida artist Edna Hibel are called the "David Suite," depicting the life of King David from his boyhood through the birth of his son and heir, Solomon. The lithograph on porcelain is of David the King. The others are David as a boy, David the shepherd, Jonathan and David, David and the ark of the Lord, Nathan and David, and David and Solomon. The works will be on permanent display in the Bradford Room of the Beasley Building.

Edna Hibel is a painter and lithographer whose works may be found in such collections as the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, Harvard, Boston University, Detroit Art Institute, Milwaukee Museum of Art, Phoenix Art Museum and the Lowe Collection at the University of Miami. The Hibel Museum of Art, established in 1977 in Palm Beach, FL, is the only museum in the U.S. dedicated to the work of a living woman artist.

FORMER OLYMPIC GYMNAST WILL HIGHLIGHT 'BODY WORKS'

Former Olympic gymnast Cathy Rigby McCoy, who won 12 medals representing the United States in international competition, will be featured at the Sept. 14 health fair to be held in the Rickel Building. One of two major events planned for this year's second annual observance of Women's Health Month, "Body Works" will be a day-long schedule of health and fitness events, educational sessions and trade show. Its purpose is to highlight the importance of good health for women and the need for women to take active roles in creating and maintaining their own good health.

Encompassing all of Tarrant County this year, Women's Health Month is sponsored by the Mary Gibbs Jones Hospital for Women at Harris Hospital, KXAS-TV, Fort Worth Star-Telegram and the Tarrant County Medical Society. Participating organizations are TCU's Harris College of Nursing, Planned Parenthood of North Texas, Parenting Guidance Center, Public Health Department, Texas College of Osteopathic Medicine and the Women's Center of Tarrant County. Serving on the planning committee are Harris College's Ann Kirkham and Rhonda Payne.

"Balancing Wellness," the topic for McCoy's noon speech, will center around her exciting yet stressful competitive career and her battle with bulimia and anorexia nervosa as well as her success in gaining control of her life and maintaining a healthy lifestyle. Frequently seen as a commentator for ABC Sports, her career since retiring from competition has included marriage and four children along with her entry into the entertainment world via leading roles in such musicals as "Wizard of Oz" and "They're Playing Our Song." She also has appeared in such network TV programs as "Police Woman" and the "Six Million Dollar Man."

Exhibits and booth for "Body Works" will open at 10 a.m. Health screenings such as weight, height, blood pressure, diet and lifestyle assessments, fitness evaluations and cardiovascular checkups will be conducted at no charge throughout the day. Demonstrations of exercise and fitness classes will include the Jacki Sorenson Aerobic Workout, the YWCA's Body Shop Class, "Aerobics Light: Exercises for the Handicapped" by TCOM's Institute of Human Fitness and "Special Shapes: Exercises for Pregnant Women" by Harris Hospital.

For a 1:15 p.m. style and sporting goods show, KXAS-TV co-anchor Alyce Caron will commentate. Exercise and sports clothing and equipment will be modeled by TCU students and Tarrant County Medical Society Auxiliary members.

"Mind Works," a series of educational programs on women's health and lifestyle issues that forms the second major portion of this year's observance, will be presented during the day. The 10:30-11:30 a.m. session will include discussions of eating disorders, stress prevention and exercise/fitness for persons of all ages. Nutrition and substance abuse specifically related to women will be highlighted in the 2-3 p.m. discussion. Sexual assault and the fitness exercise program will be features of the 3 p.m. session.

Admission for the 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. schedule of events will be $2 for the public and $1 for students and senior citizens.

NOTES ON FOLKS

CAROLYN SPENCE CAGLE (nursing) returned Aug. 20 from Kansas City where she was participating with other nursing chairpersons in a workshop on leadership and management styles. All chairpersons present at the meeting were elected to head different specialty groups within the American Nurses' Association. Carolyn will serve as the chair of the Council on Maternal-Child Nursing for the 1985-87 term of office. She also discussed "Childbirth Options and Changes" on "Lifeline," a nationally televised program by the American Christian Television System. The program was aired live on Aug. 22.

Funeral services were conducted Aug. 19 for CATHARINE DAVIS, secretary in the admissions office in 1963-76. She died Aug. 16 at the home of her sister in Colorado.

There's a 'Walper Lineament' on new geologic maps of the Sierra Madre mountain in northeast Mexico today, named after former TCU geology professor JACK WALPE He learned about it in August through an article in a professional journal written by Dr. Jose Longoria of UT-Dallas, a geoscientist who put Jack's name on the geological formation. Jack, who retired in 1981, had trekked through that area often in the early 1970s and speculated that it was a fault zone, a speculation which Longoria confirmed.

A chapter by DAVID VANDERWERKEN (English) entitled "The Joy of Sports Books: A Tout Sheet," is included in the new book American Sport Culture: The Humanistic Dimensions, edited by Wiley Lee Umphlett and published by Bucknell University Press. David's chapter was reprinted from the Georgia Review.

The geology department has received word that three manuscripts by geology graduate students DEBRA MALEK and MICHAEL ROSS and former graduate student DAVID DAHL have been accepted for publication by the Bureau of Economic Geolog at the University of Texas at Austin. All three papers will appear in a volum on the igneous rocks of the Trans-Pecos magmatic province of West Texas to be published in November 1986. Each of the contributions was coauthored with DAVID LAMBERT (geology). Debra's paper is entitled "Hypabyssal Alkalic Intrusions, Payne's Waterhold Area, Terlingua, Texas"; Michael's entitled "Sawmill Mountain and Adjacent Intrusions, Brewster County, Texas"; and David' "Petrology of the Black Hills, Brewster County, Texas".

MILDRED HOGSTEL (nursing) spoke Aug. 23 at a Nurse Aide Management Workshop at the Fort Worth Public Library. The purpose of the workshop was to discuss plans for a unique program which will identify and train women currently on welfare and place them as nurse aides in local nursing homes, thus meeting two major needs in the community. The program will be co-sponsored by the Department of Gerontology at Texas College of Osteopathic Medicine, Family Service Inc. and the Texas Department of Human Resources.

RUTH WHITLOCK (music) presided at two sessions entitled "The Essential Materia at the Texas Choral Directors Association Convention in San Antonio Aug. 1-3. She demonstrated sight singing materials and coordinated presentations of materials for teaching vocal techniques, choral techniques and music history and style.

MORE NOTES ON FOLKS

MARK THISTLETHWAITE (art history) has an article--"Picturing the Past: Junius Brutus Stearns' Paintings of George Washington"--appearing in the current issue of Arts in Virginia, the journal of the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts.

GAIL DAVIS (nursing) has received notification that her manuscript 'Mixing Fantasy with Realism: An Approach to Learning About Nursing Management' has been accepted for publication in Nursing Outlook.

Among those receiving Ph.D. degrees Aug. 17 at North Texas State University's summer commencement was PAUL KING (speech communication). He holds the bachelor from Hardin-Simmons and the master's from TCU.

LISA FUSILLO (ballet) was in New York City during the summer working on her project "The Italian Tradition in Ballet: A Perspective on Margaret Craske," for which she received a TCU Research Grant. Lisa also taught a summer dance workshop at the University of Montana in Missoula June 9-July 5.

DEAN PAT SCEARSE (Harris College) has been invited to deliver one of three major papers at a national invitational conference sponsored jointly by the National Institute for Occupational Health and Safety and the National Occupational Health Institute.

Pat has been very active in drafting and wording of federal legislation involving nursing education in her role with the American Association of Colleges of Nursing (AACN). The $54 million Nurse Education Act, just signed by President Reagan, provides support for graduate programs and graduate student traineeship for nurses; new language improving the federal Nurse Student Loan (NSL) program; and the establishment of a National Center for Nursing Research or an Institute of Nursing within the NIH. These are three of the major foci of Pat's activitie

KEITH ODOM and FRED ERISMAN (English) read papers at the 1985 North American Science Fiction Convention held in Austin over the Labor Day weekend. Keith's paper examined "The Classic Quest and Modern Fantasy," while Fred's dealt with "Zenna Henderson's 'People' and the Quest for Self-Identity." The papers were part of a session, one of three sponsored by the Science Fiction Research Association, on "The Uses of Quest in Science Fiction and Fantasy." Keith, who organized the panel, served as moderator; also presenting papers as part of the session were faculty members from Oakland University (Michigan) and the University of Waterloo (Canada).

CAIO PAGANO, who is beginning his second appointment as visiting professor of music, has recently returned from Brazil, where he taught at the XVI International Festival of Campos de Jordao, Sao Paulo, under the direction of renowned Brazilian conductor Eleazar de Carvalho, who is conductor emeritus of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra. Caio played a number of recitals during the festival, including one with percussionist John Boudler, who was featured in TCU's symposium of Brazilian music last fall.

While in Brazil, Caio also pressed two new recordings, played two concerts with the Sao Paulo Symphony and recitals in other cities, including Rio de Janeiro. In late June, he had taught piano technique at Illinois State University's summer music camp in Urbana.
