FALL DANCE CONCERT IS OCT. 25-27

"Konservatoriet," a lighthearted ballet that is part of the highly valued August Bournonville repertoire for the Royal Danish Ballet, has been re-staged for TCU dancers to perform during the fall dance concert Oct. 25-27. Dr. Janice LaPointe-Crump, who has studied with the Royal Danish Ballet, has re-staged the ballet as a TCU Research Fund lecturer in dance. She will talk about the history of "Konservatoriet" at a public lecture Oct. 24.

Bournonville, son of a French dancer, was born in Copenhagen but was internationally trained and seemed destined for worldwide fame with the Paris Opera in the 1820s when he decided to return to Denmark and raise the status of Danish ballet. A close friend of Hans Christian Andersen and of sculptor Bertel Thorvaldsen, Bournonville created works that reflected the flourishing of romanticism at that time. "Konservatoriet," dated 1849, is set in the Paris dance school of the Conservatory and mixes personal reminiscence with humorous intrigue.

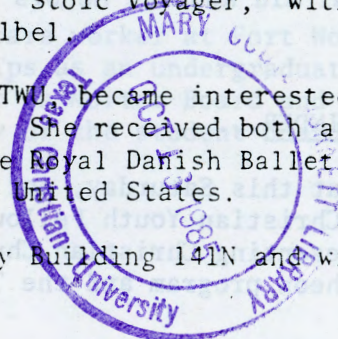

Dance concert performances in Ed Landreth Auditorium will begin at 8 p.m. Oct. 25 and 26 and at 2 p.m. Oct. 27. Admission is free with TCU ID, but reservations may be made by calling the box office at Ext. 7626 from 1 to 5 p.m. weekdays. A variety of other works on the program have been created by TCU dance faculty members Ellen Page Garrison, Nita Little and Richard Walker.

Ellen's "Take Me . . . but I'm Still Mine" will be made up of a duet, a solo and two group dances to original music by Fort Worth composer Richard Wolcott Smith, vocalist and guitarist who also builds acoustic instruments. The music will be performed by Smith and Terry Wiloman.

"Scene Through a Keyhole" was choreographed by Nita to tell a series of character stories of people caught in public and private moments. The short piece is set to an electronic voice composition by Luciano Berio, performed by his wife, Cathy Berberian. Richard's two dances are "Stoic Voyager," with music by Jean Michal Jarre, and "Canon" to music by Pachelbel.

Dr. LaPointe-Crump, currently on the faculty at TWU, became interested in Bournonville because of her own Danish heritage. She received both a Fulbright Fellowship and a Marshall Grant to study with the Royal Danish Ballet and has taught the Bournonville Technique throughout the United States.

Her Oct. 24 lecture will begin at 4 p.m. in Moudy Building 141N and will be followed by a reception.

SEMINARS TO ADDRESS SKILLS FOR OFFICE PERSONNEL

Continuing education will offer a fall series of "Seminars for Office Personnel" beginning next week. "Business Correspondence Mechanics" will be the topic for the first session on Oct. 25. Conducted by Shirley Chenault of Weatherford College, the program will review punctuation, capitalization and number usage rules.

On Nov. 1 a session will be held on "Coping with Difficult People: Stop Trying to Change Them--Learn How to Deal with Them." Cathy Geddie of Performance Development Group, Inc. and Ben Strickland of education will lead the session.

"Getting Things Done" will be the subject of the Nov. 19 seminar, with housing director Don Mills covering such topics as meeting daily tasks, setting priorities, completing projects and handling interruptions.

All programs will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Student Center. Registration is $55 for each session. Additional information is available by calling Ext. 7134.

HALF-PRICE BALLET TICKETS TO GO ON SALE

The performing arts committee of TCU Programming Council will begin Monday selling tickets to the season premiere of Fort Worth Ballet Oct. 25 at Tarrant County Convention Center Theatre. Tickets will be available at Student Center information desk for $6.25, a 50 percent saving on the original box office price of $12.50. A limited number of tickets is available, said Stephanie Hunter, chairperson of the committee, so early purchase is advised.

'MONDAY AT TCU' SERIES BEGINS OCT. 21

"Monday at TCU," the Admissions Office-sponsored series of visits to campus for prospective students, will begin Oct. 21. Other dates for this fall are Nov. 4, Nov. 18 and Dec. 9. Spring visits are planned for Jan. 27, Feb. 17, March 10 and April 7.

The day-long sessions, which begin with complimentary 9 a.m. breakfast in the cafeteria, include a campus tour, welcome by a vice chancellor, residence hall tour, complimentary lunch at Worth Hills cafeteria, departmental visits and a wrap-up reception in the Faculty Center. Optional sessions are available with the financial aid and the Honors Program offices.

BALTIMORE ORGANIST TO PERFORM HERE

Organist Donald Sutherland of Baltimore, a frequent performer for both National Public Radio and the British Broadcasting Company in London, will present his first Fort Worth area recital at 8 p.m. Monday in Robert Carr Chapel. He also will conduct a free master class for organists from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday at the chapel. Pre-registration is not necessary.

Sutherland is a member of the organ faculty at Peabody Conservatory of Music and is music director at Bradley Hills Presbyterian Church in Bethesda, where he has developed a program of such excellence and reputation that his choir was invited to take part in both the 1974 Mozart Festival and the 1975 Haydn Festival at John F. Kennedy Center. He has appeared both as conductor and as organ soloist at several Kennedy Center Festivals.

A former member of the faculty at Syracuse, Sutherland is a member of the Washington Theater Chamber Players, the Kennedy Center's resident chamber ensemble. He appears frequently as organist and pianist in joint recitals with his wife, soprano Phyllis Bryn-Julson. Sutherland's appearance is made possible by grants from TCU Research Foundation and from Dr. and Mrs. William R. Gardner.

SEE TCU THROUGH KIDS' EYES

A kids'-eye view of TCU will be offered in a special art show continuing through Saturday in Student Center Gallery. In addition to regular Gallery hours of 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays and 1 to 4 p.m. Saturday, the Gallery also will be open from 5 to 9 p.m. Thursday.

"What TCU Means to Me" was the assignment in art classes at J.T. Stevens Elementary School. The resulting paintings and drawings by kindergartners through fifth-graders make up the exhibit.

ALUMNA JONES ASSUMES ALUMNI POSITION

Alumna Deborah Jones, who earned the B.B.A. degree with honors in 1975, has joined the staff as assistant director of alumni and special programs. Prior to assuming the position last month, she was associated with the Southern Baptist Radio and Television Commission for eight years. Since 1982 she had been administrative assistant to the executive vice president.

The New Orleans native, a professional child care worker at Fort Worth's Lena Pope Home in 1975-77, held academic scholarships as an undergraduate. Named to several honor societies, she was an officer in Mortar Board and Beta Gamma Sigma in addition to serving as 1973 secretary of the student board of University Christian Church.

OCTOBER IS TIME FOR AREA CAMPAIGNS

Campaigns on behalf of TCU are in full swing in several locations across the state, while others are beginning this week. In each, as in the TCU/Tarrant County campaign, gift requests are being made for instructional and scholarship assistance, research and graduate education, athletics and general University support. With the collective goals becoming part of TCU's overall budget-supporting total of $3.1 million, volunteers are directing their efforts to alumni, businessmen, foundations, parents of current students and friends of the University.

Currently in progress are:

- Houston campaign, Sept. 25-Nov. 7, headed by Alf Roark, former alumni association president who is retired president of Cockrell Oil of Houston. Group managers working with him include Jim Lindsey '58; Randall Howard '65; and Roy Tomlinson '46, minister of First Christian Church of Pasadena. Goal is $158,000.
- Austin, Oct. 2-30, chaired by Steve and Merri Siddons, who own The Siddons Company and formerly Merri Siddons Inc., respectively. Group managers are Martha Hackley Salmon '66; Jerry '55 and Betty Ray; and William McDonald, minister of Hyde Park Christian Church. Goal is $44,000.
- Dallas, Oct. 4-25, chaired by trustee Mary Louise Rowand. Goal is $125,000. Cabinet members are David Detweiler '56; Jack Horton '53; James Rutledge '59; Nancy Savage Doherty '65; Deedie Potter Rose '62; Jack Bailey '63; R. E. Dodson '61; J. T. Vaughan '50; Camille Keith '67; Dr. Syd Carnes '62, minister of Oak Cliff Christian Church.
- Plano, Oct. 14-26, chaired by Connie Harrington Eikenburg, president of Harrington Homeplace Inc. Goal is $15,000. Steering committee composed of Jana Haggard Bryan '73; Bill Harrell '69; Michael Hall '70; Jon and Marsha Beck Sparks '72; Eddy Wolf '66; Alan and Vicki Milling Tanner '71.
- Permian Basin, Oct. 8-17, led by Brent Watson, petroleum geologist and partner in the firm of Watson and Cos Oil and Gas of Midland. With a goal of $95,000, the effort's major divisions are being led by Bob Lynch '50; Mike Bradford '69; and Brian Rosson '82.

Beginning tomorrow (Wednesday) the San Antonio campaign with a goal of $20,500 is chaired by Guy Bob Buschman, Class of '73 member who is president/director of Rio Grande Drilling Co. Division leaders will be Chris and Carol Brunson Shelfer, both 1971 graduates, and Steve and Cathy Greeson Taylor, also of the Class of '71.

A one-day TCU "Blitz" is set for Oct. 23 in McKinney, and Charles B. McKissick II, owner of McKissick Real Estate and 1967 Horned Frog letterman, will be general chairman. Serving on the cabinet will be Dr. Charles McKissick '38, Syd Rose Sherley '69 and Terry Turrentine '82. The McKinney and Plano groups will co-host the TCU "Sweet Talk" session of conversation and dessert for Collin County alumni, parents and friends tonight (Tuesday) in McKinney.

MASTER CLASS SET FRIDAY

Celebrated German oratorio and lied contralto Kammersangerin Lore Fischer will present a master class in the German lied here Friday.

The class will take place from 1 to 4 p.m. in Ed Landreth Auditorium. The master class is open to the public for a pre-registration fee of $8 for auditors and $4 for non-TCU student auditors. Admission at the door will be $10 and $5, respectively. Registration information is available from the Department of Music, Ext. 7602.

Ms. Fischer has performed throughout the world. An outstanding interpreter of Bach, she has sung the St. Matthew Passion more than 450 times and the B Minor Mass more than 350 times.

In addition to Hermann Reutter, who was her accompanist for 30 years, she has performed lieder recitals with Alfred Cortot, Edwin Fischer, Hans Pfitzner, Othmar Schoeck and Rudolf Nel. Some 50 compositions have been written for her and the Fischer-Nel-Reutter Trio, and German radio recently presented a series of gala broadcasts in honor of her 70th birthday.

In 1963, she was named professor of voice at the Hochschule fur Musik, Stuttgart, and holds a similar position at the Summer Academy of the Salzburg Mozartem. She has presented numerous master classes in Europe, Japan and the United States, including Eastman School of Music, Oberlin Conservatory, New England Conservatory, Ohio State, Syracuse and the 1984 New Mexico Bach Festival.

Ms. Fischer has judged international Bach and Schumann competitions several times as well as the Tchaikowsky International Competition in Moscow in 1978 and 1982.

NEELEY SCHOOL PLANS MANAGEMENT SEMINAR

Pulling together an effective management team can be the key to success for almost any business, according to Dean Ed Johnson of the Neeley School of Business, whose upcoming seminar is designed to equip executives with those tools needed to fit together a management team in their organizations.

Planned for Oct. 21-25, "Managing Managers" will provide opportunity for executives to see how management teams are built and to help them apply state-of-the-art techniques to analyzing complex management problems.

Two special features of the seminar will be the diagnosis and evaluation of the executive's communications skills by the TCU Corporate Communications Lab and opportunities to share management experiences with peers.

Program leaders include Dr. Edmund Curcuru, president of Management Services, Inc. and emeritus professor of management at the University of Connecticut; chairman Kirk Downey of TCU's management department; and Dr. John W. Slocum Jr., distinguished professor of organizational behavior of Southern Methodist University.

Other session leaders will be Bill Jurma of speech communication; Dr. Darrell T. Piersoi, associate dean and professor of management at Southwest Texas State University; and John Sheridan, research professor of management and organizational behavior.

NOTES ON FOLKS

BARBARA BROWN (psychology) has just published an article, "Social cohesiveness, territoriality, and holiday decorations: The influence of cul-de-sacs," in the journal Environment and Behavior. The article was co-authored by Carol Werner.

Sympathy is extended to the following Harris nursing faculty members, MARILYN COLLINS in the loss of her father, KATY NICHOLS in the loss of her father-in-law, and BILL NEFF in the loss of his aunt.

JIM WOODSON (art) is one of three Fort Worth artists invited to exhibit their works during October at UTA. The invitational painting exhibit, on view through Oct. 31, also includes Ed and Linda Blackburn. UTA Gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays and 5 to 9 p.m. Tuesdays.

Also on view in the Metroplex beginning in late October will be works by JOE GUY, who earned the M.F.A. in painting from TCU in 1979. He will have a one-person show at the Dallas Museum of Art from Oct. 27 through Jan. 5, 1986. The show is a part of the museum's continuing series focusing on the art of living artists and will be installed in the museum's contemporary exhibition area.

RON FLOWERS (religion-studies) is author of an article entitled "What is the Supreme Court Doing to the Establishment Clause?" published in the July 1985 issue of the Lexington Theological Quarterly. The article is a survey of recent decisions, with the observation that the Court seems to be uncertain what it thinks about the interpretation of the Establishment Clause of the First Amendment right now.

Several individuals from across campus attended the Philosophic Society for the Study of Sport meeting held in early October on Penn State campus. JAN RINTALA (physical education) presented a paper entitled "Women's Sport Experience: A Feminist Perspective." RICHARD GALVIN (philosophy) served as a commentator on a paper on "Action Theory and Sport Action" and served as a discussant of Robert Simon's recent book entitled "Sports and Social Values." A recent graduate in philosophy and dance, KERRY KREIMAN (B.A. and B.F.A. 1985), was commentator on a paper on the phenomenology of dance. Kerry was asked by the representative of the 1988 Olympic Organizing Committee of the Scientific Congress to present a paper on dance in Seoul, Korea, before the games. SPENCER WERTZ (philosophy) participated in the closing ceremonies of the meeting as program chairman and incoming president.

SPENCER TUCKER (history) has received word that his article entitled "The First Rifled Guns in the U.S. Navy" has been accepted for publication in the U.S. Naval Institute PROCEEDINGS.

JUDITH SOLOMON (music) represented TCU at the 30th biennial convention of Pi Kappa Lambda, national music honor society, Oct. 4-5 at Northwestern University, where the society was founded in 1918. Judith is president of the TCU chapter, which was installed in 1970.

TCU SHARES IN UPS FOUNDATION FUND GIFT

TCU is among 29 colleges and universities in this state sharing in a $49,300 gift from The UPS Foundation Endowment Fund to the Texas Independent College Fund, one of the state associations of the Independent College Funds of America (ICFA). Of the total, TCU's share is $2,865.93.

The total amount, a 35 percent increase over last year's distribution, demonstrates "the continuing commitment of the private sector to the support of higher education," noted Dr. Donald R. McAdams, Texas Independent College Fund president in announcing the gift.

The local distribution is part of $1,014,900 generated by The UPS Foundation endowment this year which will go to 597 ICFA member colleges across the nation. This is the first time more than $1 million has been distributed by the fund. The UPS Foundation, supported by grants from United Parcel Service, is the single largest contributor to the ICFA national program. More than $3.8 million has been distributed to independent colleges and universities since The UPS Foundation Endowment Fund at ICFA was established by UPS in 1974.

GREEKS TO WORK IN COMO

TCU Greeks will work in shifts Sunday to paint the homes of five elderly residents of Fort Worth's Como area. Using paint and supplies provided by the City of Fort Worth Department of Housing and Human Services, sorority and fraternity members will work from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Rain date is Oct. 27.

TCU IN THE NEWS

"TCU seeks host families for foreign students" was the headline for the story on the international student program that appeared in the Star-Telegram EXTRA section Oct. 2-3. Featured in the story was MONICA DEWAR (nursing) who first came to Fort Worth as a TCU student from Germany. She and her family currently are hosting a student from Mexico and one from Thailand.

Included in the listing of 12 women chosen by Gov. Mark White for induction into the Texas Women's Hall of Fame, as announced in papers across the state Oct. 2, is Dr. JENNY LIND PORTER, Austin author and professor of English at Huston-Tillotson College. Chosen for literary arts, she earned the B.A. degree here in 1948 and is the only woman to receive the Distinguished Diploma of Honor from Pepperdine University. She was poet laureate of Texas in 1964.

Alumnus NORMAN RICHMOND, who came to Fort Worth four years ago to study with Madame Lili Kraus, was the subject of a feature that appeared in the Dallas Morning News on Sept. 22.

May graduate PHIL SAWYER, who teaches English to prep school students at the Collegio Americano in Puebla, Mexico, was the subject of a feature in the Sept. 30 Star-Telegram. The Fort Worth native and others from his school have recently taken their fifth and largest load of supplies to Mexico City for earthquake victims.

"Good food, friends highlight sidelines" was the theme of Jo Ann Vachule's feature on tailgate picnics that appeared in the Sept. 25 Star-Telegram. Pictured in color with the story were former all-American basketball letterman DICK O'NEAL and his wife GAYLE along with DON and JAN LEAMAN, all alumni.

Alumni ROSALYN and JIM WOODFIN were the subjects of a feature in the Sept. 25-26 issues of the Star-Telegram's EXTRA entitled "Couple's school spirit strong years after graduation." Rosie currently is president of the TCU Women Exes' Thursday group, and Jim is a Frog letterman in both football and track.

The dwindling supply of horned toads was the subject of Orville Hancock's feature in the Oct. 4 Star-Telegram. Noted was the background for TCU's mascot being the Horned Frog along with information about biologist GARY FERGUSON's care of the frog formerly housed in Chancellor BILL TUCKER's office. TCU's athletes first were named Horned Frogs in 1897 when the institution known as AddRan College was in Waco.

"A childhood dream of ministry comes true" was the headline in the October issue of The Disciple for the feature, written by EUGENIA TRINKLE, on LUANN HOWARD, recent winner of Brite Divinity School's preaching competition among seniors.

Also in that Disciple issue was an article entitled "Where Friends Gather" by BELVA BROWN JORDAN, third-year Brite student.

MORE TCU IN THE NEWS

Wrestling matches provide fans the chance to "fantasize about confronting an evil force and defeating it," according to comments of SPENCER WERTZ (sociology) included in a Sept. 5 story in the Dallas Morning News about the renewed popularity of the old sport.

A very favorable review of the doctoral dissertation of RUTH WHITLOCK (music) appears in the Fall 1985 Bulletin of the Council for Research in Music Education. The critique was written by Charles Hoffer, coordinator of music education at the University of Florida in Gainesville.

Swim coach RICHARD SYBESMA was the subject of a story and a photograph in the Gulf Daily News on Aug. 22-23 as he explained training techniques to a group of coaches in Bahrain. The Frogs' coach was in that country as a delegate of the U.S. Sports Academy to improve the overall standard in Bahrain.

"Colleges seek ways to cut dropouts" was the headline Sept. 9 in the Dallas News story taking a look at the prospect of declining enrollments in the coming years. Strategies explored included those of North Texas, UT-Arlington, SMU and TCU. The latter's current comprehensive study of student retention was described by Vice Chancellor BILL KOEHLER.

"How I Spent My Summer Vacation," a two-page feature in the Sept. 15 Star-Telegram, included a description by KEN LAWRENCE (religion-studies) of his and DARYL SCHMIDTS (religion-studies) leadership of a 43-member TCU tour in the Greek islands. One of the things that impressed Ken was "the connection between us and the ancients."

The new technology of teaching design by computer, which is the focus of a class taught by assistant professor FRED OBERKIRCHER (home economics), was the subject of a lengthy feature in the home/living section of the Sept. 14 Star-Telegram. Two color photos complemented the story by alumna Carol Nuckols.

Financial aid director LEO MUNSON was among those quoted Sept. 18 in the Star-Telegram's story about the Tuition Equalization Grants. Some 17,000 Texas students, including 1,651 from Tarrant County, get state money to assist in paying fees at private institutions.

The blend of academics with athletics on campus was the point made by KXAS-TV reporter Ed Martelle in his Sept. 18 interview with Vice Chancellor PAUL HARTMAN regarding what attracts students to an institution. The interview also aired Sept. 19 on Channel 5.

"You can be assertive with a little no-how" was the headline for the Sept. 22 feature in the Star-Telegram on learning to say "no." Quoted in the story was psychologist BARBARA MOORE, who also listed six suggestions to consider when "the automatic yes is treading on your no's."

MORE TCU IN THE NEWS

"From TCU, a Western Without Gunfights" was the headline for Leonard Sanders' column in the Aug. 16 issue of the Fort Worth News-Tribune. The column featured the new TCU PRESS volume entitled "The Trail to Ogallala" by Benjamin Capps.

"Orientation tests freshmen's wings" was the headline for the Andrea Plaza-written feature that appeared in the Star-Telegram EXTRA on Aug. 28-29. Describing TCU's personalized approach to students and their parents, the story quoted orientation coordinator DOTTIE PHILLIPS.

Investing in junk stocks, the high-yield bonds issued by companies not necessarily having the best credit rating, can be profitable, according to an explanation by STAN BLOCK (finance) that appeared in a business feature in the Sept. 1 Star-Telegram.

According to Counseling Center director JACK SCOTT, attending that class reunion offers participants an opportunity for "stepping back into time, in essence, yet at the same time keeping themselves in the present time." His comments complemented a feature in the Sept. 1 Star-Telegram on class reunions.

The recent discovery of the Titanic wasn't without a TCU tie, as reported in the Sept. 3 Star-Telegram. Abilene oilman Jack Grimm, who announced four years ago that his crew had photographed the ship's propellers, noted in the story that he had sent his film to TCU, where it was studied by a member of his crew along with KEN MORGAN and DAVID KOGER in the Remote Sensing Center. That study verified that the propellers were the type used on the Titanic, which sank in 1912.

Financial aid associate director HERB BRUBAKER was quoted in the Aug. 30 issue of the Star-Telegram in a story dealing with parents purchasing insurance as a guarantee for a federal college loan. The story made the point that university financial aid offices--not the insurance companies--determine what students meet income and need criteria for interest-free federal loans.

Texans can't be stereotyped, according to comments by sociologist BILL REESE quoted in the Sept. 5 Star-Telegram column by Jon McConal. Bill was interviewed by the columnist prior to his presentation at the Honors retreat entitled "Good Ole Boys, Southern Belles, MADD Mothers, Damn Drunks and Other Texas Fauna."

Alumna ANNA CARPENTER LEE, Class of '73, was among those featured in the story about the first professional Dallas Cowboy cheerleaders that appeared in Dallas Life Magazine on Sept. 8. Employed at Neiman Marcus while attending graduate school, she spent five years as director of the Apache Belles at Kilgore Junior College. She and her husband, a video production company owner, and small son live in Tyler.

A four-way exercise system to ease the fear of flying was offered by JACK SCOTT (Counseling Center) in a Dallas Morning News story concerning heightened concern about the safety of air travel. His advice is to "smile, sag (shoulders), slack (jaws) and smooth (forehead muscles)."
