SPOTLIGHT SHINES ON WACKER, KILLINGSWORTH, FROGS

The spotlight is shining brightly on coaches Jim Wacker and Jim Killingsworth along with the Horned Frog cagers as tri-champions of the 1986 Southwest Conference.

Wacker will be honored at two public events this week. March 14 has been declared "Jim Wacker Day in Fort Worth" by proclamation of Mayor Bob Bolen, and the football coach will be presented the Service to Mankind Award by the Downtown Sertoma Club at a dinner that night. He was selected for the honor on the basis of "his enthusiastic leadership, spirit, dedication, service and moral guidance to students of TCU in particular and to the citizens of Fort Worth and Tarrant County in general."

The Friday evening dinner is open to the public. The $18-per-person tickets may be purchased by calling Jack Dill, Downtown Sertoma Club, 921-1766 or 232-4338, or Everett Young, chairman of the Service to Mankind Award committee, 870-2163. March 13 is the deadline for ticket purchase.

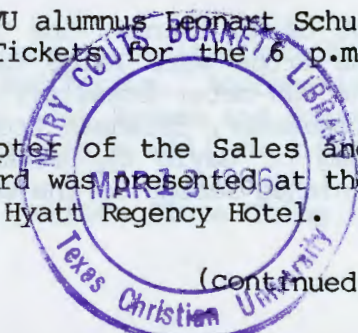

"The Downtown Sertoma Club feels that Coach Wacker's position taken during the 1985 season has earned the respect and admiration of all, and mankind is better for it," according to club president Lloyd Muhlinghouse. Noted, too, in the announcement of the award was Jim's dramatic season of 1984.

On March 15 Jim's alma mater, Valparaiso University, will honor him at a Fort Worth Club dinner and present him its alumni association's achievement award. Paying tribute to him during the ceremony will be Chancellor Bill Tucker; the honoree's son, former UT-Austin basketball star Mike Wacker; Ronald Harms, Valparaiso alumnus who is head football coach at Texas A&I University; Dale Hansen, Channel 8 sports director; and Tom Mueller, TCU defensive coordinator.

Paul Brand, member of the VU board of directors, and VU alumnus Leonard Schur are honorary chairman and chairman, respectively. Tickets for the 6 p.m. reception and 7 p.m. dinner are $25.

On Feb. 28 Jim was honored by the Fort Worth chapter of the Sales and Marketing Executives as Salesman of the Year. The award was presented at the 57th annual Distinguished Salesman Banquet, held at the Hyatt Regency Hotel.

Killingsworth currently "wears the crown" as Southwest Conference Coach of the Year, having been named to the honor by Associated Press after a poll of league coaches. Now in his seventh season with the Frog cagers with a record of 104 wins and 97 losses, he holds a 15-year major college career record of 235 wins and 182 losses for 62 percent. His 37-year career has been marked by accomplishment, including coaching a state championship team, playing giant killer in the NCAA tournament, beating the odds in the NIT and receiving numerous "coach of the year" accolades. When the 1986 regular season ended, "Killer" had led cagers through 1,005 official games.

The Frogs ended the regular season in a three-way tie for the SWC title with Texas and Texas A&M. Ironically, these three teams wound up the 1951 season sharing the honors after having 8-4 seasons. The Frogs became the first SWC private institution to win or share the title since SMU and Texas were co-winners in 1972, the year after TCU claimed the title all for itself. Of five conference titles won or shared by private schools since 1968, three have belonged to the Purple and White.

By having taken two games from fourth-place finisher SMU, TCU received the No. 1 seed for the SWC Post Season Classic XI that began Friday in Dallas' Reunion Arena. The Frogs were matched with Rice for that afternoon game.

Individual Frog cagers are in the spotlight, too. Junior Carl Lott, who averaged nearly 20 points per game in the last five outings, was named to the AP's All-Conference team as well as to its newcomer squad. With statistics of 46 points, 16 rebounds, seven assists, two blocked shots and a steal in losses to Houston and Texas Tech, he was also selected for the Dallas Morning News' All-SWC team at point guard and as "Newcomer of the Year."

Carven Holcombe has 1,143 career points to his credit, making him the fifth highest scoring player in TCU history. He was named to the AP's second team. Larry Richard was chosen for the AP's all-newcomer squad. A Dallas News columnist echoed the thoughts of most fans in choosing Jamie Dixon for the "best finish" honor after his 30-foot shot to beat Texas 55-54.

WOMEN SWIMMERS HAVE BEST FINISH EVER

TCU women finished fourth in the recent Southwest Conference Women's Swimming Conference, an all-time high for TCU in that sport, and Coach Richard Sybesma believes they have a chance to finish in the top 20 at the NCAA meet March 20-22 in Fayetteville. Texas won the meet, followed by SMU and Houston.

Out of 18 events, the TCU women set 10 school records. NCAA qualifiers for the Frogs were Paige Eaton, freshman from Carrollton, who finished third in the 200-meter breaststroke and currently is ranked ninth in the nation; Maria Kronasater, freshman from Sweden, a diver; and the 2000-meter free-style relay team of Gayle Christianson, Cathy Boyd, Jill Tharp and Nancy Stucker, who finished second in the conference and currently are ranked tenth in the U.S.

BARTOK PROGRAMS ARE TOMORROW

A mini-festival of works by Bela Bartok will be performed tomorrow (Wednesday) in Ed Landreth auditorium. Pianists Caio Pagano and Paulo Alvares, percussionist Linda McDavitt and vocalist Sheila Allen, all of TCU, with Mike Varner of UT-Arlington and Fort Worth violinist Kenneth Schanewerk, a former TCU faculty member, will present a Bartok concert at 7 p.m.

At 3 p.m. they will perform a lecture/recital, also at Ed Landreth, explaining the percussion instruments and their uses with examples from Bartok's monumental Sonata for Two Pianos and Percussion. The Sonata will be performed at the evening concert, along with Bartok's First Sonata for Violin and Piano by Schanewerk and Alvares and Bartok's Songs, Op. 15, presented by Sheila and accompanied by Alvares. The concert will be repeated April 20 in Arlington.

Caio, a Brazilian who has won his homeland's National Piano Prize along with an International Beethoven Award, is serving as Visiting Professor at TCU for the second year. Alvares has come to study with him as a graduate student specializing in 20th Century music, Bartok in particular.

FOLIO TO PRESENT 20TH CENTURY RECITAL

With help from her friends, Cynthia Folio will perform a recital of 20th Century flute music at 8 p.m. March 24 in Ed Landreth Auditorium. Accompanied by Judith Solomon, Cynthia will play Night Soliloquy by Kent Kennan and Sonata for Flute and Piano by Bohuslav Martinu. David Yeomans will be piano accompanist for Electric Songbird by Gregory Yasinitsky. A flute solo will be Flying Lessons by Robert Dick, and Cynthia also will perform Flute Thing by Larry Nelson for flute and tape.

TCU HOSTS PREMED SOCIETY'S REGIONAL MEET

More than 200 participants from 50 or more colleges and universities from Louisiana to California were on campus March 6-8 for the 26th Convention for Regions IV and V of Alpha Epsilon Delta, the premedical honor society. "Opportunities, Limitations and Horizons" was the theme for the gathering held in Brown-Lupton Student Center.

After a welcome by Chancellor Bill Tucker, keynote speaker for Thursday afternoon's general session was Dr. Paul R. Elliott, past national president of AED. A session that afternoon featured admissions officers from Baylor College of Dentistry, Texas College of Osteopathic Medicine and Southwestern Medical School.

Manfred Reinecke, faculty advisor for TCU's host chapter and Region IV director, presided at the Friday morning general session that included a panel discussion of "The Perspective of the Practicing Physician." After a number of Saturday morning workshops, the convention ended with an awards luncheon in the Student Center.

RETIREMENT REPRESENTATIVES TO VISIT

Representatives of TCU's two retirement plans--the Pension Fund of the Christian Church (PFCC) and Teacher Insurance and Annuity Association/College Retirement Equities Fund (TIAA/CREF)--will be on campus later this month and in April. Faculty and staff members interested in appointments and/or attending group meetings should make reservations by calling the Personnel Office, Ext. 7792.

Art Hanna, Pension Fund representative, is scheduled for March 24. He will be available for individual appointments from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. in Room 202 of the Student Center. A group meeting is planned for 3-4 p.m. in that room. Topics to be covered will include PFCC retirement, disability, death benefits and tax-sheltered annuities.

On April 3 Peter Huber of TIAA/CREF will conduct a group meeting from 2 to 3 p.m. in Room 207 of the Student Center. Tax-sheltered annuities and retirement benefits will be discussed.

SISTER CITY INFORMATION AVAILABLE FOR TRAVELERS

Fort Worth and Italy's Reggio Emilio have "adopted" each other as sister cities. Persons planning to visit Italy in the coming months can request information on the village and its attractions by contacting Mary Palko at 926-2799.

MARCH 9-15 SET AS FINANCIAL AID WEEK

March 9-15 will be observed across Texas as Financial Aid Awareness Week. As proclaimed by Gov. Mark White, the week is designed to call attention to the network of student financial assistance programs of grants, scholarships, loans and jobs available at the state's educational institutions.

Being unaware of resources available for education and training causes many persons to limit their education to high school, said Herb Brubaker, TCU associate director of scholarships and financial aid and president of the Texas Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators (TASFAA). "Others are unable to obtain career advancement or do not consider a career change because they lack proper training or education. Without awareness that financial aid programs are available to assist them, their career goals may never be attained," Herb said.

As a special activity of the week, TCU, Texas Wesleyan College and Tarrant County Junior College will have their financial aid offices open until 9 p.m. on March 13 as a service to the public.

SCOLAS TO MEET HERE

TCU will host the annual meeting Thursday through Saturday of the Southwestern Council of Latin American Studies, this nation's largest regional group of its kind. Some 150 scholars representing history, political science, languages, sociology and anthropology departments will attend the sessions in Brown-Lupton Student Center, said Don Coerver, chairman of history and president of the Southwestern council.

Opening special lecture will be by Dr. David Weber, history department chairman at SMU, on "Romanticizing the Texas Revolution: Reflections on the Texas Sesquicentennial." His talk, open to the public as are other sessions, will be at 7 p.m. March 13 in the Student Center Woodson Room. Other sessions will deal with 20th Century Latin American politics, modern Latin American political economy, economic development and social repercussions, literature and theatre and modern culture and ideology. Hubert Smith of the Yucatec Maya Film Project will show films and chair a session on the Latin American Community and Modern Cinema at 10:30 a.m. March 14 in Room 204 of the Student Center.

LIEBERTH RECEIVES BRACHMAN TEACHING AWARD

Communication pathologist Ann Lieberth is the recipient of the Brachman Teaching Award for Excellence. Each spring members of the Brachman Living-Learning Program make the award to a faculty member who has extended teaching beyond the classroom and developed an active role in student life. The recipient is awarded a plaque and a $250 stipend.

"It's refreshing to find someone who takes time out for students and is really involved in their lives," said senior Jonathan Carter, Brachman academic committee chairman. He served on the committee of four students and four faculty members that chose Ann from several candidates nominated by the student body.

Now in her second year at TCU, Ann serves as a family mentor to Brachman Hall and is faculty advisor for Lending Our Voices and Ears, a group that performs songs in sign language.

GRAPHIC SHOW STARTS MARCH 25

Rudolph de Harak, whose 40-year career in the field of graphic design has been a continuing quest for communications clarity and visual order, will have a retrospective of his work on view March 25-April 12 in Moudy Building Exhibition Space. The show will include book covers, posters, stationery, trademarks and record covers. Hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays and 1 to 4 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays.

One of the earliest American designers to be aware of the potential of Swiss design, De Harak is a self-taught graphic designer from California who began his career in Los Angeles 40 years ago. Moving to New York in the 1950s, he formed his own company in 1952 and soon began to apply aspects of Swiss design to his work, using grid structures and asymmetrical balance.

A series of album covers De Harak created for Westminster Records evoked a conceptual mental image of the structure of the sounds of the music. For a 1961 cover for Bach Concertos, he used a complex optical illusion with four quadrants to call to mind the mathematical perfection of Bach's music. Early in the 1960s he initiated a series of more than 350 book jackets for McGraw-Hill in which he articulated the subject of each book by visual configurations ranging from elemental pictographs to abstract geometric sculptures. "This series altered the course of book-jacket design in the United States," wrote Philip B. Meggs in "A History of Graphic Design."

Now president of Rudolph de Harak and Associates Inc., which specializes in graphics, environmental and exhibition design, the artist also is Frank Stanton Professor of Design at Cooper Union School of Art and Architecture, holder of the first permanently endowed design chair in the United States.

GIFTS TO UNIVERSITY CONTINUE TO INCREASE

Total gifts to TCU for January amounted to $1,055,070 and the June 1-May 31 fiscal year to date to $15,666,286, which is the largest amount ever. The information is included in a gift report prepared by Vice Chancellor Paul Hartman for the board of trustees' development committee.

The report also noted:

- Gifts to the Annual Fund are running slightly behind last year.
- Gifts for endowment amount to $8,338,907 plus $545,205 deferred by income interests retained by donors.
- Gifts for physical plant purposes, now beginning to reflect initial gifts for the Neeley School facilities project, total $3,778,675.

As of Jan. 31, total commitments for the Neeley School facilities project totaled $7,350,000 toward the $8.2 million goal.

COMMUNITY SERVICE PROGRAMS BEGIN NEW CLASSES

Non-credit classes in the Community Service Program will begin the week of March 24. A variety of new classes will be offered in the art/culture, business/professional, personal development and physical education categories. New Texas Sesquicentennial programs include "Stenciling" and "Writing to Discover Your Texas Heritage."

Half tuition for faculty and staff is available for many of the classes. New brochures listing the courses may be obtained by calling Ext. 7134 or by picking them up in Sadler Hall, Room 212.

RALPH NADER WILL SPEAK HERE

Ralph Nader, probably American's most famous social critic, will speak at 7:30 p.m. March 26 in Ed Landreth Auditorium. Sponsored by TCU Forums and the Environmental Conservation Organization, the program will cost $1 with TCU ID, $3 for the public. Nader's topic will be "Nuclear Issues."

The crusading attorney first made headlines in 1965 with his book "Unsafe at Any Speed," a scathing indictment lambasting the automobile industry for producing cars he deemed to be unsafe. Since then, he has been responsible for at least six major federal consumer protection laws, for the recall of millions of defective cars and for advances in other areas of safety, sanitation, pollution control, advertising credibility and politico/economic power.

The New York Times has written of Nader, "What sets Nader apart is that he has moved beyond social criticism to effective political action."

He has built an effective national network of citizen action groups that have a major impact in areas ranging from tax reform to nuclear energy. Ultimate goal of this movement is to give all citizens more rights and remedies for resolving their grievances and achieving a better society.

RASKOPF, ERISMAN ACCEPT CHAIRMANSHIPS

Jack Raskopf will assume leadership of the journalism department, and Fred Erisman will begin a second three-year term as head of the English department when the 1986 fall semester opens.

Holder of the B.S. degree from Villanova and the M.A. from the University of Iowa, Jack earned both M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Dallas, where he was assistant to the president for university relations from 1969 until coming to TCU in 1973. Jack, a captain in the U.S. Naval Reserve, serves as commanding officer of the Naval Reserve Office of Information in Houston. Named outstanding advertising educator in the Southwest by the American Advertising Federation in 1984, he heads a marketing communications company that provides creative services for ad agencies and corporations. Well-known for his volunteer activities in the community, Jack received the first-place award, Best of Texas, last year in the Texas Public Relations Association competition for an audio-visual presentation.

Fred, graduate of Rice, Duke and the University of Minnesota, was named a year ago as the first Sherley Professor of Literature, a named professorship endowed by the estate of the late Lorraine Sherley. Formerly the only U.S. representative to the governing board of the International Research Society for Children's Literature, he is the author of works widely published in the fields of Western and children's literature along with detective and suspense fiction. Fred, a faculty member here since 1965, is associate editor of the Social Science Journal and has been a member of the executive council of the Western Literature Association.

MEMORIAL HELD FOR EMERITUS PROFESSOR JARMAN

A memorial service for Emeritus Professor Cecil Jarman, who died March 5 in a local hospital, was held Saturday morning in Robert Carr Chapel. Taking part were Chancellor Bill Tucker and Chancellor Emeritus J.M. Moudy.

A member of the religion faculty from 1959 until his retirement in 1973, Dr. Jarman had a broad academic background as well as service to the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ). During a 12-year association with Atlantic Christian College, he served as dean of men and instructor, professor of education and religion and then as academic dean. He was minister of First Christian Church in Wilson, NC, for 10 years and during that time served as acting president of ACC in 1949-50. He was minister of First Christian Church in Birmingham, AL, for four years before coming to TCU. Since retiring, he had been interim minister for several Fort Worth and area churches.

Dr. Jarman earned the B.A. degree in 1982 at Atlantic Christian, where he was presented the honorary Doctor of Divinity degree in 1950. Holder of the master's degree from Emory and the B.D. from Yale, he completed the Ph.D. degree in 1946 at the University of North Carolina. Active in civic as well as religious and academic projects, he had served as chaplain of the Civitan Club and was a two-term president of the North Carolina Council of Churches.

Listed in Who's Who Among Scholars in the South and Southwest and the Dictionary of American Scholars, Dr. Jarman was a member of the Academy of Religion, Association of Professors and Researchers in Religious Education, Phi Delta Kappa and Alpha Chi. He was faculty adviser for TCU's Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity chapter and in 1966 was chosen "Professor of the Year" by the Student Activity Council.

Dr. Jarman and his wife, former faculty social director Ina Rivers Jarman, were avid travelers. In addition to celebrating their 50th anniversary with a trip to England last summer, they formerly led a study tour to Europe and had made other trips to the Middle East, Scandinavia, British Isles, Greek islands and Scotland. Often attired in purple, the loyal Horned Frog fans were familiar sights at athletic activities.

In addition to Mrs. Jarman, survivors include a son, Navy Capt. Cecil Jarman Jr. of Fairfax, VA; a daughter, Mary Katherine Rymell of Fort Worth; and four grandchildren.

PARHAM PLANS SPEEDY RETURN

Librarian Paul Parham says he is convalescing well at home after recent surgery and especially wants to thank his TCU colleagues and friends for their calls, greetings, visits and gifts. He plans to be back on the job in the library in the very early spring.

SHERIDAN DEVELOPS PROGRAMS FOR NASA, STATE EXECUTIVES

Executives in state government and NASA officials are learning management skills through classes designed by John Sheridan (management). He was in San Antonio Feb. 23-25 as co-organizer and faculty leader for the second class of the Governor's Executive Program. John presented a one-day seminar on "Building an Effective Management Team."

Earlier in the month the charter class, which included members of the governor's staff, commissioners of state agencies and presidents of state universities, recommended to the State Appropriations Committee that the program be offered to all senior executives in state government. Plans have been implemented to conduct the three-week program three times each year. Class size is limited to 30 state executives with nominations for participants made through the Governor's office.

Texas is the first state to develop an integrated executive development program for senior state executives. The Governor's Executive Program, patterned after the IBM Executive Leadership Program at Armonk, NY, and the Neeley School's Managing Managers Program, is expected to provide a blueprint for other state government executive programs throughout the nation.

NASA also has asked John to organize a series of seminars on "Team Building" and "Organization Cultures," which will be conducted at the Marshall Space Flight Center starting in June. The seminars are intended to help refocus the center's efforts on the Space Shuttle Program following the investigation of the Challenger tragedy. For the last seven years, John has been academic director of the Management Development Program at NASA's Marshall Center in Huntsville, AL.

ALUMNI, NEWS SERVICE SEEKING YEARBOOKS

In order to make their files of Horned Frog yearbooks more complete, the alumni office and the News Service are interested in locating some specific issues. Both offices would like copies of the 1936 Horned Frog. Others of interest to the News Service include those from 1933, 1935 and 1955.

Persons with yearbooks of these dates should contact the alumni office, Ext. 7803, or the News Service, Ext. 7810.

NEW SCHOLARSHIP FUND HONORS '31 GRADUATE

A scholarship fund in memory of the late Vera Stephenson Pilcher of Tyler, a member of TCU's Class of 1931, has been established by her husband, Mason J. Pilcher, and her daughter, Linda Pilcher Wassenich of Dallas. Brief presentation ceremonies were held last week in the office of Vice Chancellor Paul Hartman.

To be known as the Vera Stephenson Pilcher Scholarships, the awards will be made to students of junior or senior rank enrolled in AddRan College. Financial need will be considered in the selection of the recipients, with preference given to those majoring in the fields of social work, psychology, sociology or religion.

Mrs. Pilcher received her bachelor's degree from TCU with a major in psychology. Initially from Houston, she was active in campus activities and served as president of the YWCA. She was one of five seniors chosen for listing as "Royal Frogs" in the 1931 edition of the TCU yearbook.

Mr. and Mrs. Pilcher were members of First Christian Church in Tyler, where he remains active.

Mrs. Wassenich earned the Bachelor of Arts degree with honors at TCU in 1965. She and her husband Mark, also a TCU alumnus, and their sons, Paul and David, are active in Midway Christian Church in Dallas.

GOOBER PYLE'S KID STARS HERE

While George F. Lindsey is reviving his role as Goober Pyle for "Return to Mayberry," a TCU special starring the cast of the original "Andy Griffith Show," his son is bringing Humphrey Bogart back to life at TCU.

George A. Lindsey, a senior, portrays Bogie in Theatre TCU's production of Woody Allen's "Play It Again Sam," which will have its final performances tonight (Tuesday) and Thursday in University Theatre. He also plays Dennis Fontaine, one of the Burger Place Boys, in "Grease," to play tomorrow and Friday. All performances are at 8 p.m.

The senior Lindsey always encouraged his son to pursue a theatrical career, but George didn't really make up his mind to do that until he worked a summer at Casa Manana before enrolling in TCU. The previous year he had been a house construction major at College of the Redwoods in Eureka, CA.

Now he hopes eventually to go into film acting but also would enjoy working as a stand-up comic.
