ALUMNI AWARDS TO BE GIVEN SATURDAY

Distinguished professional careers and notable civic leadership as well as service to TCU will be recognized publicly when eight persons are honored Saturday at the 11th annual alumni awards dinner at Shady Oaks Country Club.

Recipients will be Ben J. and Kay Fortson, R. Denny Alexander, all of Fort Worth; Alf Roark and Bess N. Fish of Houston; James I. Cash Jr. of Wellesley, MA; and Norman Bulaich of Hurst. Also to be recognized is Ronald W. Clinkscale of Fort Worth, who heads the TCU Alumni Association.

The black-tie event will begin with a 7 p.m. reception. Master of ceremonies will be Dee J. Kelly, alumnus and trustee who was a 1982 awardee.

Making the presentations will be Chancellor Bill Tucker. DeVonna Tinney, director of alumni and special programs, will present awards to outgoing alumni directors, assisted by Bruce Petty, 1986 awards committee chairman.

Mr. and Mrs. Fortson, whose association with the arts as well as civic leadership are widely known, will receive the Royal Purple Award in recognition of extraordinary service and support of TCU. An independent oil producer, he is a director and member of the executive committee of Texas American Bancshares Inc. Fortson, a 1956 TCU graduate, is vice president of the Kimbell Art Foundation and chairs its finance committee.

An alumna of Finch College and a graduate of the University of Texas at Austin, Mrs. Fortson is president of the Kimbell Art Foundation. Niece of foundation founders Mr. and Mrs. Kay Kimbell, she continues a family tradition of involvement in the arts. The Fortsons' four children have attended TCU.

In recognition of service, loyalty and support of TCU, Alexander will receive the honorary alumnus award. Holder of two degrees from Stanford, he owns the investment management company that bears his name and is managing partner in Alexander Trust Investments and O.P.N.B. Building Joint Venture. He chairs the board of Overton Park National Bank and is a director of Overton Bancshares Inc., First National Bank of Mansfield and Ridglea National Bank. A member of the boards of Stanford School of Business Trust, National Association of Independent Schools, Cook-Fort Worth Children's Medical Center and Juliette Fowler Homes, he is a TCU trustee and heads the fiscal affairs committee.

The valuable alumnus award for outstanding and continuing service to TCU and its alumni association will be presented to Roark, a director and consultant for Cockrell Oil Corporation. President of the student body before completing his degree in 1932, he headed the alumni association's national organization in 1965 and chaired the 1985 Houston-area campaign on behalf of TCU. The former Cockrell Corporation president is a director of InterFirst Bank Baytown and was the organizer and former director for Western National Bank of Houston. A Fellow of the Texas Bar Foundation, he is a member of the American and Houston bar associations and the American Judicature Society.

Mrs. Fish, named to TCU's board of trustees in 1972 and an honorary trustee since 1978, will receive the alumni association's special award in recognition of her interest in the University. The businesswoman-philanthropist, an alumna of the University of Arkansas, owns Village Creek and Green Valley ranches and is a major supporter of University programs. She is well-known as a contributor to animal protection organizations and to aid for the blind, deaf and retarded.

The distinguished alumnus award in recognition of a career that has achieved prominence and brought credit to both the recipient and the University will be presented to Cash. The Fort Worth native graduated from TCU in 1969, joined the Harvard Business School faculty in 1976 and currently is on the faculty of its Graduate School of Business Administration. Holder of the M.S. and Ph.D. degrees from Purdue University, the professor serves on the editorial board of the Harvard Business Review and on the boards of Index Systems Inc., The Park School of Brookline, MA, and Affiliated Publications.

Bulaich, the LaMarque native whose gridiron exploits as a running back in the late 1960s are listed in TCU's athletic history books, will receive the Frog o' Fame honor for accomplishments in sports. Graduated with a major in business management in 1970, he was drafted in the first round by the Baltimore Colts and later played with the Philadelphia Eagles and the Miami Dolphins. Active in the National Football League Alumni Association, which supports various charitable organizations, he is associated with Lesco Trucking Company of Dallas.

Recipient of the president's service award, Clinkscale is managing partner of the Fort Worth office of Coopers & Lybrand. The Fort Worth native earned the bachelor's degree with a major in accounting in 1955.

Seven persons will be given service awards for their roles on the alumni organization's board of directors. They are Carol Wilson Farmer, Jay Luther King, K.L. Miller, Laura Shrode Miller, William E. Steele III and Robert A. Watson, all of Fort Worth, and Jane Bradford Armstrong of Ruidoso, NM.

Reservations for the event, set at $35 per person, are due by tomorrow (Wednesday) to the alumni office, Box 32931 or Ext. 7803.

WIDELY KNOWN SOCIOLOGIST, ALUMNUS, TO BE GUEST

Dr. Jack P. Gibbs of Vanderbilt University, an internationally known sociologist whose areas of specialization include criminology, human ecology and social control, will be a guest on campus April 6-8. To serve as a Visiting Green Professor, the TCU alumnus will be hosted by TCU's sociology department.

"Control: Humanity's Ultimate Concern" will be Dr. Gibbs' topic for a public lecture on April 7. To begin at 7:30 p.m., the free program will be held in the Student Center ballroom.

The Brownwood native earned the bachelor's degree in psychology and the master's degree in sociology here. He completed his doctorate at the University of Oregon after holding a Fulbright grant for study in New Zealand and a Carnegie Fellowship for work at Oregon. Recipient of a Russell Sage Fellowship for the study of law, he formerly headed the sociology department at Washington State University.

Dr. Gibbs, whose appointments as visiting fellow and visiting professor have taken him to the University of Hawaii, the University of Victoria in British Columbia and the Australian National University, joined the Vanderbilt faculty in 1978. He chaired its sociology and anthropology department for three years before being named Centennial Professor of Sociology there in 1982. He also has served on the faculty at the University of Texas in Austin, University of Arizona, Northwestern University and the University of California at Berkeley.

A fellow of the American Society of Criminology, Dr. Gibbs received its Edwin Sutherland Award in 1983. He is a trustee of the Law and Society Association and serves on the editorial board of Deviant Behavior. A consulting editor for the American Journal of Sociology, he has been associate editor of such professional publications as Social Forces, Social Science Quarterly, Criminology, Sociometry and American Sociological Review. Some 150 studies by Dr. Gibbs have been published by leading journals throughout the United States as well as abroad. He has served on several committees for the National Research Council of the National Academy of Sciences.

ENSEMBLES JOIN IN FRIDAY CONCERT

Percussion Ensemble and Mallet Ensemble, both under the leadership of assistant band director Linda McDavitt, will present a concert at 8 p.m. Friday in University Theatre.

The Percussion Ensemble will perform music composed within the last 15 years-- Study in 5/8 by Mitchell Peters, Drawings: Set No. 1 by Sydney Hodkinson, Contrarhythmic Ostenato by Cole Iverson and Bossa Nova Without Instruments by William Schinstine.

Mallet Ensemble presentations will include three from vaudeville days, Log Cabin Blues, Xylophonia and Stop Time, and three others arranged from orchestral works, Comedians Gallop, Kabalevsky/Peters; Rondalla Aragonesa, Granados/Roy; and Adagio from Symphony No. 3, Saint-Saens/Gipson.

TCU PRESS PLANS COWBOY PARTY

"The Texas Cowboy," a major art book, will be celebrated with a TCU Press publication party from 6 to 8 p.m. Friday in the lobby of Stockyards Hotel, 109 E. Exchange. Compiled by members of the Texas Cowboy Artist, the book traces the cowboy's 150-year history in painting, drawing, bronze and pastel. The accompanying text is by Donald Worcester and the introduction by Texas novelist Elmer Kelton. Contributing cowboy artists will be at the party to discuss their work with guests, and representative pieces of art from the book will be for sale.

"The Texas Cowboy" is a Sesquicentennial project for TCA, a 15-member organization dedicated to documenting historically, through art, the heritage and domain of the cowboy. Many TCA members have been working cowboys, and all rely on intensive research to make their work authentic.

Don, professor emeritus of history at TCU, has written several books on the West. Kelton is the author of more than 25 novels, all based on Texas history. Both will be available to sign books at the TCU Press party.

Also celebrated will be the recent publication of a reprint edition of Kelton's 1980 novel, "The Wolf and the Buffalo." It is fifth in the TCU Press Texas Tradition Series designed to publish and preserve significant Texas literature. Tom Pilkington, professor of English at Tarleton State University, is series editor. This edition features a new introduction by Kelton and an afterword by Lawrence Clayton of Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene. The jacket illustration is by Fort Worth artist Burl Washington. Both Clayton and Washington will attend the party.

More information is available from TCU Press, Ext. 7822.

KING FILM TO BE SHOWN FRIDAY

Friday marks the 18th anniversary of the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in Memphis. TCU will observe the anniversary by showing a film documentary, "Martin Luther King: The Man and the March," at 2 p.m. that day in the Student Center lounge.

The film, open to the TCU community, records Dr. King's "Poor People's March." TCU's Minority Affairs office, under the direction of Claude Steele, is sponsoring the program.

POPS CONCERT SLATED TOMORROW

Symphonic Band and Wind Ensemble members will join forces to present a light concert at 5 p.m. tomorrow (Wednesday) in the Sadler Mall area. Faculty and students are invited to take a break or bring dinner while they hear the short pops concert.

FRIDDLE ORGAN CONCERT IS MONDAY

David Friddle, former associate organist/choirmaster at First Presbyterian Church and Texas Boys Choir director in 1982-3, will present a guest organ recital here Monday. The Baylor alumnus did graduate work here with Emmet Smith, and his appearance here is made possible by TCU's Sue Wheeler Smith Endowment Fund. The evening of organ music begins at 8 p.m. in Robert Carr Chapel.

More than half the program will be works by Johann Sebastian Bach because, says Friddle, each piece is "individual, brilliant and illustrates so many facets of Bach's genius. In addition, these works somehow imitate string or wind instrumental writing, are from relatively disparate time periods and geographical regions and represent the pinnacle of their form and genre."

In addition to Bach's Prelude and Fugue in G Major BWV 541, Three preludes on the chorale: "Nun Komm der Heiden Heiland" and Passacaglia in C minor, Friddle also will play Franz Liszt's Phantasie und Fuga uber Bach and De Profundis by Lowell Liebermann. The latter work was commissioned by Friddle and was completed last fall. The title is an indication of the general mood of the piece, a meditation of profoundly sorrowful nature.

Friddle is completing his Doctor of Music Arts degree at Juilliard School.

FRANZWA TO SPEAK AT FACULTY COLLOQUIUM

"Two Models of Human Nature in the Modern Period" will be the topic when Gregg Franzwa of philosophy speaks to the Faculty Colloquium on Values and Public Policy on April 9. The 3:30-5 p.m. program will be held in the Faculty Center.

Advance copies of the presentation are available from Gregg.

WOMAN'S CLUB WILL INSTALL NEW OFFICERS

Audrey Campau will be installed as president of the TCU Woman's Club during a buffet luncheon meeting on April 15. The event is set for 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the Student Center's Woodson Room.

Others to begin their 1986-87 reign as officers are Carolyn Stacy, first vice president; Becky Roach, second vice president; Maureen Munson, third vice president; Shari Barnes, secretary; Mildred Payne, corresponding secretary; and Helen Martin, treasurer.

Reservations can be made by sending checks for $7 each and payable to TCU Woman's Club to Gretchen Latterell, Box 30776. The committee for the spring installation luncheon include chairman Ina Rivers Jarman, Betty Beckelhymer, Pat Erisman, Martha Horn, Lucille Moudy, Ruth Newcomer and Anna Byrd Wallace.

KTCU TO AIR SERIES ON ARTISTS IN THE NUCLEAR AGE

The six-part series entitled "Mushrooms: Nuclear War and the Imagination," a look at modern artists' response to the nuclear age, will begin Thursday on KTCU-FM, 88.7.

Hosted by actress Colleen Dewhurst, the series is meant to be entertaining as well as thought-provoking. Episodes are dedicated to writing, popular culture, theater, comedy and science; participants include Denise Levertov, Kurt Vonnegut, Carl Sagan and Judd Hirsch.

"Mushrooms" is produced by the SANE Education Fund, which also produces "Consider the Alternatives," the radio program KTCU will pre-empt for "Mushrooms."

GIFT INCOME GOES OVER $16.6 MILLION MARK

Gift income to the University for the current fiscal year has reached more than $16,654,000. According to a report issued March 17 by Vice Chancellor Paul Hartman to the trustees' development committee, the funds are designated in the amounts of $2,101,033 to the Annual Fund for TCU, $1,244,983 for restricted uses, $9,523,405 for endowment additions and $3,784,670 for facilities projects.

While total gift income stands $6.8 million ahead of last year at this time, the Annual Fund is ahead by only $27,000. An additional $1 million for this purpose must be raised in the remaining three months of the fiscal year to reach the goal of $3.1 million, the vice chancellor noted.

NOTES ON FOLKS

TCU's English department was an important presence at the Conference on College Composition and Communication March 12-15 in New Orleans. JIM CORDER read a paper on "Rhetoric and the Structure of the Field of English." GARY TATE presented "Our Changing Discipline: Some Personal Reflections of Leaders in the Field." ESTHER HUCKABY's talk was entitled "Writing Is Back in Business." WINIFRED HORNER presided over the meeting of the Council of Writing Program Administrators and was nominated for assistant chair of the CCCC. If elected, she will become chair of the national conference in two years.

Three TCU graduate students, RICK CYPERT, JEANE HARRIS and KAREN KELLER, conducted a pre-convention workshop on "Teacher Training and Retraining: Developing Community in the Writing Workshop." Five other faculty members and graduate students served as session chairs, respondents and recorders, and some 15 recent graduates also took part in the program.

MORE NOTES ON FOLKS

JAN RINTALA (physical education) successfully defended her doctoral dissertation over the spring break. Her thesis is titled "Women's Movement Experience: A Phenomenological Investigation." SPENCER WERTZ (philosophy) served on her committee. While at the University of Iowa, he discussed one of his papers on logic and language with several members of the philosophy department and read a paper on action theory to a seminar in sport philosophy within the Division of Physical Education.

At the recent annual meeting of the Southwest Region of the Society of Biblical Literature and American Academy of Religion, DARYL SCHMIDT (religion-studies) received one of two $500 Junior Scholar Research Awards given by the Southwest Commission on Religious Studies for his research on Greek grammar. Schmidt also has received a grant from the Center for the Study of Religion in the Greco-Roman World, located at SMU, providing research assistance for his grammar project.

JOHN LOUD (modern languages) has been invited to participate in this summer's seminar at Princeton University on "The Prison Symbol in Modern Society and Literature." Sponsored by the National Endowment for the Humanities, the seminar is to be directed by Victor Brambert, Professor of Comparative Literature at Princeton and author of a prize-winning study, "The Romantic Prison."

An article entitled "El Sistema Patriarcal y las Relaciones Hetrosexuales en Balun Canan, de rosario Castellanos" by DON FRISCHMANN has appeared in the Revista Iberoamericana. Don recently returned from a trip to Mexico City and Ocoatepec, Morelos, where he met with and interviewed Mexico's Theatre Director of the Year, Felipe Santander, whose current play Y, el milagro has been designated Play of the Year in Mexico.

BEN PROCTER (history) has been elected an honorary life member of the Texas State Historical Association. At its meeting in Austin March 6-8, Ben chaired the nominating committee to select a new director and also chaired a history session. The nominating committee's selection was RON TYLER (M.A. '66, Ph.D. '68).

On three successive Saturdays in February and March MICHAEL WINESANKER, former music chairman, served as judge for the Texas Federation of Music Clubs' annual Junior Festival held in Moudy Building recital hall and Ed Landreth Auditorium on campus and at C&S Music Company headquarters in Arlington. He heard hundreds of young pianists, from elementary to advanced levels, playing prescribed pieces from memory. Each soloist received a specific ranking in the form of a certificate as well as a written critique listing strengths and weaknesses, with careful counsel on developing and improving future performances.

Flutist CYNTHIA FOLIO and pianist JUDITH SOLOMON (both music) played a recital at the Dallas Public Library on March 16. Their program included sonatas by Telemann, Martinu and Poulenc as well as several shorter works.

LINDA PATTON (physical plant) has been elected second vice president of the Fort Worth chapter of the Purchasing Management Association.

TRUSTEES APPROVE TANDY, MONCRIEF NAMES FOR HALLS

TCU's next two buildings, for which construction is expected to begin soon, will be known as Charles Tandy Hall and Moncrief Hall. The board of trustees named the two facilities during its Friday meeting on campus.

Charles Tandy Hall, which will almost double space for the Neeley School of Business, will honor the alumnus/trustee who before his death built a struggling small enterprise into Tandy Corporation/Radio Shack. The Anne Burnett and Charles D. Tandy Foundation made the cornerstone commitment toward the new building and is providing endowment for the Charles Tandy American Enterprise Center.

Construction will begin when all of the required $8.2 million is in hand. That time came much closer with Friday's announcement that the Brown-Lupton Foundation has committed $2 million toward the project, leaving less than $1 million more to be raised.

Moncrief Hall will be the new residence hall housing 288 athletes and other students. Last fall Dr. and Mrs. W.A. Moncrief gave $2 million and Mr. and Mrs. W.A. "Tex" Moncrief Jr. another $2 million toward building the residence hall. Less than $100,000 more is needed to fund the $5 million building, which will carry the names of both W.A. Moncrief and W.A. Moncrief Jr. Renovating the food preparation area and athletes' dining room in the Student Center is a part of the project.

Budget, Degrees, Members Approved

The board also:

--Approved an operating budget of $70 million for the upcoming year, a total 7 percent higher than the current budget.

--Voted to award honorary degrees to Ernest Boyer, president of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching; Barbara Jordan, who holds the Lyndon B. Johnson Centennial Chair in National Policy at the University of Texas at Austin; and Bob Schieffer, award-winning newsman and chief Washington correspondent for CBS news.

--Elected Schieffer to membership on the TCU board, along with four other new members: Ben J. Fortson, William E. Steele III and Ronald L. Clinkscale, all of Fort Worth, and Winthrop P. Rockefeller of Morrilton, AR.

--Heard a report on progress toward determining TCU priorities and adopted fund-raising goals to finance new programs as decisions on them are made.

Among those reports is one to establish a school of engineering which would offer degrees in electrical and mechanical engineering. The board endorsed the plan with the understanding that new funds for the engineering building and start-up costs will be received or committed before the program begins.

Chancellor Bill Tucker told the board that, despite the impact of the regional economy and psychology due to rapid changes in the oil and gas industry, "TCU is strong and solid as we move with caution into a trying time."

"We expect to complete the current fiscal year in the black and plan to do the same in the year ahead despite the serious erosion in our yield from endowment (due to lower mineral revenue). Matching expenditures with anticipated income will not be easy. But it can be done," he said.

Total gifts this year are at a record level by a wide margin, topping $16 million, he said. The number of students applying to TCU is also at a record high while the goal is to maintain a stable--not a growing--enrollment.

The upcoming budget is based on an expected enrollment similar to this year's and a base tuition of $172 per semester hour, $10 above the current charge. Residence hall rates and food service charges will go up 6 to 7 percent. Funds for merit-based compensation increases averaging 5 percent for all University personnel are included.

Dramatic drops in oil and gas prices are influencing TCU's budget, the board was told, since much of the endowment consists of mineral-producing property. For several years, under the board's direction, only a part of the mineral income has been used for yearly operations, with the rest placed in income-producing investments. This has softened the impact of sharply lowered oil prices. But if prices or production continue to fall, some adjustment in the operating budget could eventually be needed.

Honorary Degree Recipients Known Across Nation

Boyer was chancellor of State University of New York and served as U.S. Commissioner of Education before joining the Carnegie Foundation in 1980. He was named leading educator in the nation in 1983, and U.S. News and World Report has listed him as a top educator for five consecutive years. He was a visiting Green Honors Professor at TCU in 1984.

Ms. Jordan is a professor in the Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs at the University of Texas at Austin. In 1985, for the 11th consecutive year, the World Almanac selected her as "one of the 25 most influential women in America."

Schieffer, honored as TCU's outstanding alumnus in 1981, has anchored every major CBS News program. He has covered conferences or summits in the Soviet Union, China, the Middle East, Africa and Europe and spent nearly three months in Argentina reporting on the Falklands War, winning four Emmys and an Overseas Press Club award for his work.

New Trustees Are Alumni

Like Scheiffer, other newcomers to the governing body are alumni. Class of '57 member Fortson, an independent oil operator, is vice president of Kimbell Art Foundation and a member of the executive committee of Texas American Bankshares Inc.

Steele, alumni association vice president, is a director of Steele Freeman Inc. and Capital National Bank. The 1961 graduate is involved in investment, property management and oil and gas firms. Holder of the M.B.A. degree from the School of Business, he serves on its advisory board.

Managing partner of the Fort Worth office of Coopers & Lybrand, Clinkscale lettered in football while earning the accounting degree. The 1955 alumnus, who played professional football in Canada for four years, is outgoing president of the alumni association.

Rockefeller is chief executive officer of Winrock Farms Inc. in Little Rock and Morrilton, AR. He is a 1974 graduate of the Ranch Management Program and heads its alumni group.

TCU Needs, Opportunities Discussed

The chancellor and vice chancellor discussed needs and opportunities facing TCU during a special session. In addition to the proposal to establish a school of engineering, the discussions also centered on the need for added funds to enhance teaching and research in several ways, including acquisition of instructional and research equipment, automation of the library's card files and development of an academic services center as well as, to assure adequate student financial aid as federal and state programs are threatened and to renovate academic buildings and residence halls. Other needs also were expressed.

The Board adopted long-range fund-raising goals to finance these projects, with more specific decisions to be made when funds are in hand or committed. It was understood that funding for new engineering programs would not be at the expense of other University programs.

Promotions to Six, Tenure to Nine

Promotion in academic rank was approved for six faculty members, and tenure was granted to nine.

Neil Daniel and David Vanderwerken of English and Joseph Babitch of chemistry were promoted to professors. New associate professors are Sharon Fairchild of modern languages, Dan Southard of physical education and Cynthia Folio of music.

Sharon, Cynthia and Dan also were granted tenure, as were John Breyer of geology, David Balch and Toni Craven of Brite, Donald Nichols of accounting, Luther Smith of art and Peter Hodgson of music.

Arlene Sollenberger of music was granted emeritus status effective upon her retirement.
