TCU WILL HONOR CARNEGIE FOUNDATION PRESIDENT

Dr. Ernest L. Boyer, president of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, will be awarded the honorary Doctor of Laws degree during summer graduation Friday. The combined baccalaureate-commencement will begin at 7:30 p.m. in Daniel-Meyer Coliseum. With Chancellor Bill Tucker presiding, some 275 earned degrees will be awarded to summer Class of 1986 members.

Dr. Boyer, also a Senior Fellow of the Woodrow Wilson School of Princeton University, will be the evening's speaker. "Remembering a Teacher" will be his topic.

Music for commencement will be provided by Emmet Smith, Herndon Professor of Organ and Church Music, and associate professor Ruth Whitlock will lead the Alma Mater Hymn. Acting chief marshal Art Berliner will be assisted by associate marshals Jim Henley and Joe Helmick. Deans of schools and colleges will participate in the conferring of degrees. Also taking part in the ceremonies will be Vice Chancellor Bill Koehler, Faculty Senate chairman Neil Daniel and John Butler, minister to the University.

Selected by his peers in 1983 as this nation's leading educator, Dr. Boyer served as United States Commissioner of Education for three years before joining the Carnegie Foundation in 1980. In that position he administered a $12 billion federal budget.

Dr. Boyer, who earned the Ph.D. degree in the fields of language disorders and psychology at the University of Southern California, was chancellor of the State University of New York in 1970-77. As head of the largest university in the United States, he directed a system of 68 institutions with more than 350,000 students. His accomplishments there included initiating a five-year review of college presidents, developing an experimental three-year A.B. degree program and launching a new non-campus institution called Empire State College. He also negotiated the first undergraduate exchange program with the Soviet Union.

Known for this emphasis on excellence in education and the centrality of language, Dr. Boyer has been named by three U.S. presidents to positions on the National Commission on the Financing of Postsecondary Education, President's Advisory Council on Women's Educational Programs and the President's Commission on Foreign Language and International Education.

Dr. Boyer, who traveled in India in 1984 as a Distinguished Fulbright Professor, formerly directed the Center for Coordinated Education at the University of California-Santa Barbara. A fellow of the Aspen Institute, he was president of the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges in 1974-75. He is a trustee of the Educational Testing Service and several colleges, including Pennsylvania's Haverford College.

His most recent publication is the widely acclaimed book entitled "High School." The 363-page Carnegie Foundation study of secondary education, the result of four years' investigation, called for major restructuring of the nation's schools.

Keynote speaker for the 1984 observance of TCU/Fort Worth Week, Dr. Boyer has been a member of the Saratoga Performing Arts Center and the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts. He currently is a member of the Council on Foreign Relations for the State Department's National Council for American Overseas Schools.

TCU GRADS SCORE HIGH ON EXCET TESTS

In the state's first EXCET tests for graduates planning to become teachers, TCU education majors exceeded state averages in all professional development categories.

Dean John Mangieri announced that the 11 TCU students who took the all level professional development test passed, as compared to a 92 percent statewide passing level, and all 30 TCU students passed the elementary comprehensive test, compared to an 87 percent statewide passing rate.

Of 29 TCU students taking the elementary professional development test, 28 passed for a 97 percent rate, compared to 89 percent statewide. On the secondary professional development test, 21 of 23 TCU students (91 percent) earned passing scores, as compared to 88 percent statewide.

The passing rate was 100 percent for all TCU students taking art, music, English, chemistry, composite social studies and home economics tests. Other TCU results included six of seven students passing the kindergarten test, three of four passing secondary physical education, five of six passing mathematics, one of two in composite science, one of two in biology, two of three in history and one of two in health.

FROG SCREENS ARE HARRIS FUND-RAISERS

A TCU version of the decorated windshield screen, whose rapidly growing popularity is noticeable on parking lots, are to be available this week through Harris College of Nursing. Planned as a fund-raising effort for the HCN Student Nursing Association, the screen has a large Frog and football helmet on one side with the message, "This car protected by a TCU Fighting Frog."

Studies have shown that the popular accordion-like cardboard variety of windshield screens, most of which have decorations on one side and an emergency help sign on the other, can reduce the car's interior temperature by 20 percent. With protection of interiors by blocking direct sunlight and the temperature reduction as selling points, some 10 million screens are expected to be sold nationwide this summer.

Priced at $5 each, the TCU screens can be obtained in Room 233 of the Annie Richardson Bass Building.

NEW ORLEANS WEEKEND PLANNED

Because Frog followers already have bought out the alumni jaunt to New Orleans for the Sept. 13 game with Tulane, plans have been made for a faculty/staff bus trip. Departing early Friday, Sept. 12, the air-conditioned Trailways bus, equipped with rest rooms, should arrive early that evening at the New Orleans Holiday Inn on Royal St. just off Canal. Return will be on Sunday morning, Sept. 14, to arrive back in Fort Worth by 11 p.m.

Cost of the trip--including transportation, game ticket and two nights in a double room at the Holiday Inn--is $150 per person, and 43 double occupancy adult slots are available. The chartered bus also will provide transportation to and from the Superdome for the Saturday game. Reservations must be made with Dolores Oelfke in financial aid. MEMORIAL SERVICE HELD FOR EDWIN ELLIOTT

A memorial service was held Sunday at University Christian Church for Dr. Edwin Elliott, former economics chairman who died last week in Connecticut. Funeral services were held in Connecticut.

First associated with TCU in 1901 when he entered AddRan Christian University's primary department in Waco, Dr. Elliott was an ordained minister when he entered TCU in Fort Worth as a freshman in 1915. During the week of graduation in 1923 the senior class under his presidency presented the University with its gift: a memorial arch in memory of those from TCU who had died in World War I. With only the pillars standing now, the arch stood in front of the old Administration Building, later remodeled into the current Reed Hall.

Dr. Elliott, whose advanced degrees were earned at the University of California at Berkeley and at the University of Texas, was economics chairman from 1930 until he accepted an invitation to Washington in 1933 as assistant deputy of the National Recovery Administration's "Blue Eagle" program. After several months, he returned to Texas as the NRA's labor compliance officer and then was named regional director of the new National Labor Relations Board, a position he held until retiring in 1961.

Active in civic affairs, Dr. Elliott was president of the TCU Alumni Association and headed the Fort Worth Area Council of Churches, the Disciples of Christ Commission on Church and Economic Life, Fort Worth Open Forum and the Fort Worth Urban League. He served on University Christian Church's board for more than 50 years and was honored as Civil Servant of 1961 by the Fort Worth Federal Business Association. In 1969 TCU conferred upon him the honorary Doctor of Laws degree as "one who has made his career a faithful stewardship of his educational environment and his Christian commitment."

The Edwin A. Elliott Lectures, inaugurated in the economics department in 1975, were designed to bring alumni now teaching in other institutions across the nation back to campus to discuss their areas of expertise in the field of economics.

Dr. Elliott is survived by his wife, two daughters who are TCU alumni and several grandchildren.

WEDNESDAY EVENT TO HONOR WILEY

Nancy Wiley, assistant director of scholarships and student financial aid, will be honored Wednesday at a 3:30 to 5 p.m. reception in the Student Center's Woodson Room. A member of the University's staff for eight years, Nancy is moving to San Francisco, where she will attend the Presbyterian seminary in preparation for missionary work.

LIBRARY GIVEN RARE KORAN

A rare, antique, illuminated copy of the Koran has been presented to Mary Coutts Burnett Library by Fort Worth book collectors Milton and Joni Moseley. Mr. and Mrs. Moseley donated the hand-tooled leather volume in honor of their friend Paul Parham in appreciation of his guidance and consultation in regard to their own rare book collection.

Mrs. Moseley, an interior designer, purchased the 17th Century Koran in England 58 years ago from an Assyrian book collector. She and her husband, a retired architect, made the presentation for the library's Special Collections Department to Jack Wilson, president of Friends of the TCU Libraries, of which they are longtime members.

The Moseleys, who are library devotees as well as book collectors, worked two years on the restoration of the library in Fredericksburg, where they also own a home.
