BANNED BOOKS AREN'T 'NO-NO'S' HERE

What do Dante, Martin Luther, Michelangelo, Lewis Carroll and Mark Twain have in common? They've all been banned, not necessarily in Boston, but in France, Italy, Germany, Canada, China, the Soviet Union and the United States.

So have hundreds of others, beginning with Socrates in 300 B.C., when he was accused of "denying the gods recognized by the state and introducing new divinities, and, secondly of corrupting the young." Found guilty, he was condemned to death, and so began the Western history of censorship.

This nation calls attention to that history Sept. 8-15 with national Banned Books Week, and Mary Couets Burnett Library will devote a lobby display area to selections of books that have been banned through 24 centuries. From the Bible and the Talmud, both banned in the Soviet Union and at various times in France and Spain and in Italy by specific popes, the display will range through works by Aristophanes and Homer to "Lolita," "Catcher in the Rye" and "Black Like Me" by the late John Howard Griffin of Fort Worth.

The display will continue through September, says Joann Karges, and browsers are sure to find some favorites there. "Alice's Adventures in Wonderland" was banned in China in the early 1930s on the grounds that it was "disastrous to put animals and human beings on the same level."

Both "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer" and "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn" have been on the list of "no-no's" here and in the Soviet Union. In Concord, MA, in 1885, Huck Finn was banned by the public library as "trash and suitable only for the slums." As late as 1957, both of Mark Twain's works were dropped from the list of approved texts for senior and junior high schools in New York.

Almost anything by William Faulkner and Ernest Hemingway can be found on the list. In 1962, a group called Texans for America opposed textbooks which referred students to books by Hemingway.

Even Mickey Mouse has had his problems. In the United States in 1932, a Mickey Mouse cartoon was suppressed because it showed a cow in a pasture reading Elinor Glyn's "Three Weeks." The comic strip was banned five years later in Belgrade, Yugoslavia, for being supposedly anti-monarchical and in 1938 in Rome because it was contrary to "Italian inspiration as to racism, and exaltation of the imperial, Fascist and Mussolinian tone in which we live." And 30 years ago Mickey was banned in East Berlin for being an anti-Red rebel.

BY-INVITATION RETREAT SET SEPT. 7-8

Vice chancellors and deans will make presentations during the TCU Leader's Retreat to be held Friday and Saturday at the American Airlines Training Center near the Dallas/Fort Worth Airport. Planned and coordinated by the Student House of Representatives, the by-invitation event will begin with small group sessions at 5 p.m. Friday. Featured speaker at the dinner will be alumnus Lowell Duncan, vice president--communications for American Airlines. Introductions will be made by House vice president Wayne Watson.

Hearty participants will join Vice Chancellor Paul Hartman for a 6 a.m. run on Saturday, while others will have breakfast before the morning session convenes at 9 a.m. The center of attention in the session will be the presentation of self-study recommendations. Group reports will be presented prior to the 12:45 p.m. luncheon. During the closing event Chancellor Bill Tucker will give a report, and the Alann P. Bedford Outstanding Sophomore Award will be presented.

$5,000 GIFT MADE FOR INSURANCE PROGRAM

A gift of $5,000 made to TCU by the U.S. Insurance Group (U.S.I.G.) has been designated for the newly designed insurance education program in the Neeley School of Business.

Insurance is one of the fields to be included in the $10 million development program in the Neeley School, which was approved by the University's trustees earlier this year. An insurance concentration will be offered within the finance major of the Bachelor of Business Administration program, according to Dean Johnson. "This approach underscores the industry's expansion into the financial services field and stresses the need for sophisticated management tools and techniques," he noted.

A nationally recognized insurance educator with a significant record in teaching and research will be added to the faculty, according to Ed, to develop and to direct the strong professional insurance program.

For an initial fund of $1 million to endow the program, more than half has been committed by a $500,000 challenge grant by C.R. Williams Jr., president of Navajo Life Insurance Company of Houston.

Taking part in the recent on-campus presentation at TCU was Hayes Tucker, Fort Worth insurance agent representing U.S.I.G., a part of the Crum and Forster holding company comprised of property and casualty insurance companies. Joining him for the brief ceremony was Tom Drummond, manager of the Fort Worth U.S.I.G. service office. Other participants included TCU Chancellor Bill Tucker, Vice Chancellor Paul Hartman and development director Dick Bauer.

BETTY FORD TO SPEAK FRIDAY ON 'WOMEN'S HEALTH'

Former First Lady Betty Ford will speak Friday evening on campus for the initial event in Fort Worth's first Women's Health Month. "Women's Health: Changing Perspectives" will be the topic of her presentation beginning at 7:30 p.m. in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

A series of events throughout September, proclaimed as Women's Health Month by Mayor Bob Bolen, is sponsored by the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, Tarrant County Medical Society and the Mary Gibbs Jones Hospital for Women of Harris Hospital-Methodist. Participating organizations include TCU's Harris College of Nursing, the auxiliary to the Tarrant County Medical Society, Planned Parenthood, Public Health Department, Texas College of Osteopathic Medicine, The Women's Center and the YWCA.

In addition to Friday's kickoff, educational programs called "Body Talks" for women employees of local businesses and members of women's organizations will feature area physicians and health professionals. One of these is planned for Sept. 12 at noon at the YWCA, another on Sept. 20 at 11 a.m. at the Academy of Medicine. A nurse practitioner's panel is set for Harris College of Nursing, beginning at 7 p.m. on Sept. 27.

Varying from one to three miles, a fun walk/run is scheduled for Sept. 29, starting at 8:30 a.m. It will begin and end at TCOM's Center for Physical Health and Fitness, where participating organizations will have displays and personnel to answer questions.

Chosen as keynote speaker because of her staunch advocacy of women's health issues, Mrs. Ford sought to help educate women about their health by allowing her personal problems to be made public. An early detected breast cancer resulted in a mastectomy, and her treatment for alcohol and drug dependency was widely publicized. Her experiences with the latter led to her opening the Betty Ford Center in Rancho Mirage, where numerous celebrities have been treated for addictive problems.

"I know one reason so many people come to see me is they've heard so many private sensational things about me--that I had a mastectomy, that I've had cosmetic surgery, that I've been in treatment for alcoholism," Mrs. Ford said in a candid Parade Magazine interview last year. "They come for all these reasons, but they stay to hear me speak...and maybe they learn that there was a blessing in my treatment--I found out no one has to be ashamed. If you have diabetes or cancer or arthritis, it's the same, and your family doesn't have to be hush-hush about it."

Following her address Friday, Mrs. Ford will be honored at a by-invitation reception at the Hyatt Regency Hotel.

Tickets for Mrs. Ford's presentation are $5 each. They are available at the Student Center Information desk and the office of Harris College of Nursing as well as from as from sponsoring and participating organizations.

FACULTY SENATE REPORTS 1983-84 ACTIONS

A number of significant actions were taken by the Faculty Senate during the 1983-84 academic year. While some of the initiatives drew widespread attention, others were given little campus-wide notice.

As a report to the entire campus community, the academic body listed the following:

- Revised both tenure and grievance policies
- Requested and received from the Personnel Office copies of all official University policies to be placed in the library for reference.
- Approved and sent forward to deans and vice chancellors reports for:
  - ..extension of advising period from one to two weeks
  - ..requirement that students receive a syllabus for each course
  - ..statement in undergraduate studies bulletin that courses offered in cyclic patterns be identified with time periods designated
  - ..report of GPAs and cumulative GPAs be included on transcripts
- Requested and received publication of the survey on preferred benefits.
- Requested and received from Vice Chancellor Wible a policy on reserved parking.
- Charged each Faculty Senate committee with receiving the Self Study to determine what concerns in their area of responsibility needed to be addressed.
- Recommended the granting of honorary degrees to Vice President George Bush and Dr. Saul Sells
- Arranged for question and answer session at Faculty Senate meetings so Chancellor Bill Tucker and Vice Chancellor Bill Koehler may respond to faculty concerns.
- Held two faculty assemblies, one in the fall with the Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs and one in the spring with the Chancellor and all Vice Chancellors
- Conducted a survey of faculty to determine how the senators could serve their constituents better
- Recommended appointments of faculty to university committees and suggested chairs and named three advising members
- Sent a representative to an Evaluations Workshop in Austin. Dr. Arthur Berliner reported to the Faculty Senate on faculty administrative evaluations, and copies of evaluation forms and suggested procedures are now in the library for anyone to use.
- Initiated conversation with Admission Dean Ned Boehm to enlarge pool of faculty involved in recruiting trips. Any faculty member who would like to be considered should send a resume to Ned.
- Initiated a resolution honoring Lorraine Sherley.

FOR BULLETIN ADDRESS CHANGES...

...complete information for changes of addresses for the Weekly Bulletin should be sent to Joy Waits, Development Information Services, Box 32920. This should include name, Social Security number, department, Post Office box number and whether a member of the faculty, University staff or general staff.

FACULTY WOMEN OPEN THE NEW YEAR

TCU Faculty Woman's Club will open "A Brand New Year" at 3 p.m. Sept. 11 in the Faculty Center under the direction of co-chairmen Helen Martin and Pat Wight. President Judy Smith says the meeting will offer a chance to meet newcomers, sign up for the interest groups, pay dues, pick up the club directory and hear new by-laws.

Committee members are Jody Boyd, Ovesta Clay, Lavonne Guenther, Darlene Hunter, Dorothy Mladenka, Charlotte Olin and Ruth Verduin.

BROWN BAG TO FOCUS ON TEEN PHOTOS

Photos of teen-agers, often at high school events, will be shared with a TCU Brown Bag Series audience at noon Monday in Brown-Lupton Gallery. Luther Smith, associate professor of art and art history and curator of the Photography Invitational on view in the Moudy Building, will present the slide-lecture.

Smith has been photographing teen-agers in high school situations over the last four years. He came to TCU last year from the University of Illinois, where he had been a faculty member for nine years.

As usual, audience members are welcome to bring a sack lunch to all Brown Bag events, and drinks will be provided.

*** **

PAGANO TO OPEN FACULTY RECITAL SERIES

Caio Pagano, award-winning Brazilian pianist, will present his first Fort Worth recital at 8 p.m. Monday in Ed Landreth Auditorium. The recital will be the opening of the 1984-85 series of Monday night faculty presentations and will be broadcast live over KTCU-FM, 88.7.

Pagano, of whom the New York Times wrote, "Superb Beethoven, absolutely first class," will open his program with Beethoven's Sonata, Op. 53 ("Waldstein"), followed by Prelude, Chorale and Fugue by Franck. After intermission, he will perform Chopin's Scherzo No. 3 in C-sharp minor; Debussy's Images, Vol. I ("Reflections on the Water," "Homage to Rameau" and "Movement"); and Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsody No. 11.

OFFICIAL ENROLLMENT REPORT DUE NEXT WEEK

Obtaining accurate student classification information will take another week, says associate registrar Marvin Keith. Since reliable classification data is necessary for detail statistics to be produced, the official fall enrollment report will be released at that time.

NEW FACULTY, STAFF APPOINTMENTS

Holder of two degrees from Louisiana State and the Ph.D. from Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, SARAH SWEAT has joined the home economics department. The former instructor at the International Academy of Merchandising and Design Ltd. in Chicago is author of several published works. A new book on "Attributions Toward Female Appearance Styles" includes an article by her.

CHARLENE URWIN, who lacks only the dissertation for the Ph.D. in social work at the University of Texas at Austin, has been a faculty member and field coordinator in North Texas State's social work program since 1978. Experienced as a social worker and coordinator with Big Brothers-Big Sisters and Catholic Charities, she received grants from Child Welfare and Center on Aging for her graduate studies. She holds degrees from the University of New Hampshire and San Diego State University.

A Kellogg Fellow in 1977-78 while completing a doctorate at Louisiana Tech University, DAN FRENCH has joined the finance department. He was a faculty member at Texas A&M in 1980-84 and earlier at Corpus Christi State, Jackson State and Lamar universities. Currently writing a textbook for investments, he is the author of studies in leading financial journals.

New in the psychology department, ROGER THOMAS received his Ph.D. in July at the University of New Mexico. He holds two degrees from Emporia State University in his native Kansas. His study of "Emotional Mood States and Memory" was published this year by the Journal of Experimental Psychology: Learning, Memory and Cognition.

MICHAEL PHILLIPS of the speech communications department formerly chaired the speech and drama department at McMurry College for two years. His experience includes being training manager for Joske's of Houston. An alumnus of Lamar and North Texas State universities, he completed his doctorate at Louisiana State in 1977.

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT STAGES WORKSHOP

For two days prior to the beginning of the fall semester, the English department held a Writing Workshop for teachers of English 1200, 1203 and 1213. Jim Corder and Gary Tate made presentations on theoretical aspects of composition.

Sharing assignments and practical advice on the teaching of writing were Christina Murphy, Jim Baumlin, Roberta Pritchard, June Clements and Brenda Shull. Reference librarian Wendy Gottlieb talked about the new self-guided tour the library staff has developed for students.

To fit the workshop nature of the freshman writing course, instructors spent time each day in workshop activities conducted by graduate students Steve Wilson and Anamaria Diaz as well as by faculty members Bonnie Dickinson and Neil Daniel.

ADA APPROVES RE-ACCREDITATION FOR FIVE YEARS

TCU's Coordinated Undergraduate Program in Dietetics has received re-accreditation for five years from the Commission on Accreditation of the American Dietetic Association. This recognition assures the individual member of the dietetic profession as well as employers, educators and recipients of dietetic services that dietetic education programs meet specific standards of quality. Involving faculty, administrators, students and practitioners in an on-going evaluation of programs, the accreditation process stimulates self-improvement among programs and fosters a general raising of standards for dietetic education, according to CUPS director Nell Robinson.

Graduates of an accredited program are eligible for membership in the American Dietetic Association and to take the national examination to become a Registered Dietitian. Registered Dietitians are eligible to become Licensed Dietitians, a new option as of 1984.

Nell along with Mary Wenberg, Carol Davis and Mary Anne Sullivan are faculty for the program. They are all Registered and Licensed Dietitians.

COMPUTER CENTER ANNOUNCES FALL COURSES

To offer additional assistance to users of the more than 300 direct communication lines available for connection to its VAX 11/780 and IBM 4341 computers, the Computer Center will offer 10 short courses this fall. Space is limited, and reservations will be taken on a first-come, first-served basis by Vicki Vick at Ext. 7695.

The sessions, all to be conducted in Sid Richardson Building #143, will include:

- "What Is a Computer?," Sept. 10, 2-3:30 p.m., Craig Elders instructor
- "What's New at the TCU Computer Center?," Sept. 11, 2-3:30 p.m., Frank Forney instructor
- Tour of the Computer Center facilities follows Sept. 11 session.
- "Introduction to IBM MUSIC," Sept. 12, 2-3:30 p.m. for course and 2-4 p.m. lab Sept. 13, Ivan Taylor instructor
- "IBM MUSIC Editors," Part I on Sept. 17, 3-4 p.m., and Part II on Sept. 19, 2-4 p.m., Robin Duke instructor
- "IBM MUSIC Compilers and Subsystems," Sept. 20, 2-4 p.m., Bennett Fletcher instructor
- "Introduction to the D.E.C. VAX 11/780," Sept. 24, 2-4 p.m., Dinyar Mistry instructor
- "On-Line Statistics with MINITAB (VAX and IBM)," Sept. 25, 2-4 p.m., Ranganath Nuggehali instructor.

PARTICIPANTS SOUGHT FOR BOOK EXTRAVAGANZA

The TCU Press and the University Bookstore have set Dec. 7 for the annual pre-Christmas autograph extravaganza. Last year more than 35 authors participated in the public event, planned to bring together as many area authors as possible in offering the community a bonanza of books for Christmas shopping.

Faculty and staff members who have published books within the last two years are encouraged to take part in the extravaganza. They should contact TCU Press editor Judy Alter at Ext. 7822.

REPUBLICAN CLASS IS A SUCCESS

The Republican Convention class set up by the Washington Center at the instigation of TCU and carried out with Gene Alpert as its academic supervisor was not only the first of its kind but also was a success by all standards. The 147 participants--including 61 from TCU--went through two weeks crammed with activities and lectures by major party and Congressional leaders, beginning with Deputy Convention Manager Douglass Blaser, Texas Congressman Steve Bartlett, Platform Committee Co-chair Kay Orr and Betty Rendel, president of the National Federation of Republican Women.

Richard Shelby, Southwestern campaign manager for Reagan/Bush, talked to them on post-convention campaign strategies, and Louis H. Sommer, director of Southwestern Bell's convention service center, discussed telecommunications at the convention. Republican State Chairman George Strake of Texas spoke on convention politics, and convention rules were explained by Clark Reed, national Republican committeeman from Mississippi. The students also heard from David Gergen of the American Enterprise Institute, who formerly directed communications in the Reagan White House. Class members were invited to a pre-convention reception for Vice President Bush.

On the convention's opening day, Ed Fouhy, vice president and Washington Bureau chief for ABC News, discussed the role of the media at conventions, and Rep. Jim Leach of Iowa took part in a panel on the future outlook for moderates in the Republican Party. He was interviewed by Charles Cook, editor and publisher of the National Political Review; Robert Guttman, editor and publisher of Political Profiles Inc., and student Susan Cook of Dallas. On Aug. 21, the students heard from CBS News political analyst Craig Smith, and the next day Linda Chavez, executive director of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission, discussed civil rights and the Republican Party.

Two U.S. senators, Frank Murkowski of Alaska and Robert Kasten of Wisconsin, were speakers on Aug. 23. Kasten was interviewed by Guttman, Chris Collins of Gannett News and USA Today, Ron Grover of Business Week and San Francisco State University student Storm Russell. Kasten's appearance, of major interest because he was instrumental in having the no tax increase plank inserted in the Republican platform, drew media representatives from CBS-TV, CBS Radio, Dallas Times Herald, AP, ABC Radio and Financial News Network.

QUANTITY FOOD LUNCHEON SCHEDULE SET

Rather than the traditional weekly meals served over a 12-week period, this semester's quantity foods laboratory luncheons will be held twice a week for six weeks, beginning Oct. 9. The change was made to better accommodate the needs of the dietetic program, according to coordinator Carol Davis.

Luncheon days will be Tuesdays and Thursdays, Oct. 9-Nov. 15 inclusive. Season tickets are available for the six Tuesdays or the six Thursdays or both. Reservations, set at $20 per person for six or $40 for the 12 events, are limited to 64 persons for any one day and are being taken by Carol Kramer on a first-come, first-served basis.

Additional information and reservation forms are available from Carol in Room 106 of the Bass Building or Box 32869.

KTCU-FM RECEIVES BACH CANTATA RECORDINGS

A complete set of the recordings of Johann Sebastian Bach's 200 sacred cantatas has been given to KTCU-FM. The gift is from Mark Foster Music Company of Champaign, IL, in conjunction with Hannsler-Verlag of Stuttgart, West Germany, according to station manager Constantino Bernardez. It is part of a nationwide program to commemorate the 300th anniversary of Bach's birth, which will be celebrated March 21, 1985.

Each recorded cantata is conducted by Helmuth Rilling, leading Bach interpreter. Featured performers are the world-famous Gachinger Kantorei of Stuttgart, the Indiana University Chamber Singers and soloists of international repute such as Dietrich Fischer-Dieskau, Peter Schreier and Julia Hamari.

Soon to be heard on KTCU-FM, the recordings will be available in record and music stores either in single-disc or boxed album sets. They also may be purchased directly from Foster, Box 4012, Champaign, IL, 61820.

COFFEES WITH COACHES WILL BEGIN SEPT. 12

The fall series of "Coffee with the Coaches" for all faculty, University and general staff members will begin Sept. 12. The weekly opportunities to visit with Coach Jim Wacker and his assistants as well as others in the athletic department are set for 7:30 to 8:15 a.m. in the Varsity Club Room of Daniel-Meyer Coliseum.

Coffee and doughnuts will be served at the sessions, planned for each Wednesday during football season. Those dates are Sept. 12, 19 and 26; October 3, 10, 17, 24 and 31; Nov. 7, 14 and 21.

NOTES ON FOLKS

CATHY COLLINS (education) is the author of an article entitled "Parents of Gifted Children: The Problems You Face" that will appear in the fall edition of the Gifted Children Newsletter.

Attending the Aug. 16-18 annual meeting of the American Accounting Association were ARNOLD BARKMAN, OTTO CHANG, BILLIE CUNNINGHAM, GERE DOMINIAK, FARA ELIKAI, SANOVA HENSLEY, MIKE McCARTY and DON NICHOLS. Billie also presented a paper, "An Historical Analysis of Selected Aspects of Antitrust Legislation as It Pertains to the Accounting Profession", and Gere participated in the affairs of the National Council of Beta Alpha Psi (the honorary accounting fraternity) to which she had recently been named.

GAIL DAVIS (nursing) had an article published in the August issue of Texas Nursing. This was an invited guest commentary entitled "A Perspective on Nursing Education."

Marshall Bryant Robinson was born Aug. 16, 1984. He is the grandson of NELL ROBINSON (home economics), and proud parents are alumni JOHN and CHARLOTTE ROBINSON. John was an accounting major, and Charlotte was an elementary education major.

Trustee-alumnus JOHN ROACH of Tandy Corporation is being honored by Junior Achievement as its 1984 Distinguished Graduate of the Year. As a high school student in the 1950s, he participated in a JA "mini-company" sponsored by General Dynamics Corp. The award was presented during the 41st National Junior Achievers Conference at Indiana University before an audience of 3,000 teen-aged JA delegates and several hundred business and educational leaders on Aug. 9.

Four short pieces authored by RON FLOWERS (religion-studies) have been published in the Dictionary of Southern Religion, issued by Mercer University Press. They are entitled "The Eighteenth Amendment", "The Moral Majority", "Bible Chairs" and "Church and State."

MARLA BUCKLES (Harris College) has been appointed to the Fort Worth Unit board of directors of the American Cancer Society.

JERRY GROTTA (journalism) addressed two industry seminars during July. He discussed research for circulation marketing at the American Press Institute in Reston, VA., July 17 and was a featured speaker July 19 at the International Circulation Managers Association seminar on circulation promotion in Denver.

DONNA EDWARDS (music) was on the faculty of the International Music Workshop at the Royal Conservatory of Music in Brussels, Belgium, during August. She lectured on French piano music, played chamber music and performed as soloist.

NEW HOURS, POLICIES SET FOR RICKEL BUILDING

New hours for some of the Rickel Building facilities along with new policies in three areas are now in effect, according to director Steve Kintigh. The building will be open longer hours than previously. These hours will be from 7:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. Mondays through Fridays, 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Saturdays and 1-10 p.m. on Sundays.

Pool hours will be 7:30 a.m. to 9 a.m., 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 5:30-9 p.m. Mondays through Fridays. On Saturdays and Sundays, the area will be open from 1 to 9 p.m.

The University weightroom will be open from 7:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. Hours in the free weightroom will be:

- Monday-Wednesday from 7:30 a.m. to 9 p.m.
- Tuesday/Thursday/Friday from 2 to 9 p.m.
- Saturday from noon to 9 p.m.
- Sunday from 1 to 9 p.m.

The gymnastic room will be open from 4 to 8 p.m. Mondays through Fridays; noon to 6 p.m. on Saturdays; and 1-9 p.m. on Sundays.

Hours in these areas are subject to change, Steve says, due to class schedules or special University events. He urges a check at Ext. 7947 when in doubt.

Policy changes involve identification, guests and racquetball reservations. In order to provide a safe, secure recreation facility in addition to providing maximum recreational opportunities for TCU students, faculty and staff members, all users of the Rickel Building will be admitted only with proper TCU identification. "It is hoped that this policy will encourage participation by the campus community," Steve said, "while helping limit the amount of unauthorized use."

Rickel Building participants are allowed to bring guests at no charge...provided they have called the reservation desk in order to secure their guests entry to the building.

The building's eight handball/racquetball courts may be reserved on a daily basis by calling Ext. 7947. Two courts will be available on a first-come, first-served basis.
