CHANCELLOR WILL SPEAK AT CONVOCATION THURSDAY

Dr. Bill Tucker, now in his sixth year as TCU chancellor, will be the speaker Sept. 20 for the University's annual fall convocation. The public event, which traditionally signals the "official" opening of the academic year, will begin at 11 a.m. in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

Classes will be dismissed from 10:30 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. to allow faculty and students to attend convocation. An academic procession in full regalia will form at 10:45 a.m. in front of Ed Landreth Hall, according to chief marshal Dave Edmunds.

Marking the start of TCU's 112th year, the formal assembly will be highlighted by the announcement of the second recipient of the Chancellor's Award for Distinguished Teaching. The honor, endowed by a TCU alumni couple who wish to remain anonymous, includes a $5,000 cash award in recognition of outstanding accomplishment as a teacher in addition to a $5,000 check intended to cover the variety of expenses the awardee feels will most enhance the recipient's contributions as a teacher and scholar.

The initial award was presented in 1982 to English professor Betsy Colquitt. Bestowed in alternate years for outstanding research, the 1983 honor was given to chemistry chairman Bill Watson.

Among invited guests are Fort Worth-area members of the University's board of trustees and retired faculty members.

Since Dr. Tucker assumed TCU's chief administrative position in 1979, endowment has more than doubled, freshman admissions have been closed for the first two years in TCU's history and the University's mission statement has been rewritten and clarified. In addition to significant increases in faculty and staff salaries, the library also has been doubled in size and the J. M. Moudy Building for Visual Arts and Communication has been completed. Last fall Chancellor Tucker and trustee chairman Bayard Friedman launched the 1990s Project: A Commission on the Future of TCU, as a major step in charting the institution's future to the end of this century.

Well known as a civic as well as educational leader, Dr. Tucker currently is serving a two-year term as moderator of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) in the highest elected post in the denomination.

The convocation address will be broadcast live on KTCU-FM, 88.7.

HIGH SCHOOL JOURNALISTS TO GATHER SATURDAY

High school journalists from the North Texas area will gather Saturday at the Moud Building for the 18th annual High School Journalist Institute. The morning workshop is sponsored by the Fort Worth Professional Chapter of Women in Communication Inc. and the journalism department along with TCU's student WICI chapter.

Following introductions and a welcome by journalism chairman Doug Newsom, special interest sessions will be held from 9:45 to 10:30 a.m. Professionals leading the discussions will be Star-Telegram staff members Chuck Jackson, news writing; Jon McConal, feature writing; Bud Kennedy, sports writing; and Cecil Johnson, editorial writing/positions and problems. Randy Grothe and Jim Burton of the Dallas Morning News will conduct sessions on photography and yearbook production, respectively. Skiff staff members assisting will be Gary Hicks, Laura Chatham, Ernest Perry, Robert Padgett, Donna Lemons and Tim Rush along with Jack Raskopf. The sessions will be repeated at 10:45 a.m.

Special meetings will be held for sponsors with WICI president Sue Winter along with Rita Wolf and Doug leading the discussions.

SKIFF EDITOR WINS BIBLE WEEK CONTEST

Laura Chatham, senior journalism major from Corpus Christi and editor of the Daily Skiff, has won the 1984 National Bible Week Editorial Contest. Laura will receive $500, a Bible and a free trip to New York City to attend the National Bible Week Luncheon on Nov. 16. Her winning entry is entitled: "The Bible--A Condensation of Life."

Campus Crusade has offered Laura a position on its magazine, Worldwide Challenge, where she worked this last summer. To graduate in December, she plans to work for a year in Fort Worth before accepting the spot. In addition to her studies and work on the Skiff, Laura also edits the newsletter for McKinney Bible Church.

TCU alum and former Skiff editor Chris Kelley won the first Bible Week editorial contest in 1978.

EDUCATIONAL CONSULTANT VISITS STARPOINT

Caryl Frankenberger, educational consultant from Cambridge, MA, was a recent guest of Starpoint School. During her two-day stay, she conducted inservice sessions that also were attended by the staff members of Fort Worth Academy, Trinity Valley and Country Day schools. The range of topics included individualizing instruction and evaluation.

Holder of a B.A. degree from Lesley College in Massachusetts, Frankenberger earned the master's degree in reading and learning disabilities from Harvard University.

ELISABETH FIORENZA TO BE BRITE LECTURER

Professor Elisabeth Schussler Fiorenza, noted New Testament scholar and an authority on feminist theology, will present the Brite Series Lectures Thursday and Friday in Robert Carr Chapel. A professor of New Testament Studies at Notre Dame since 1970, she is presently Talbot Professor of New Testament Studies at Episcopal Divinity School, Cambridge, MA. She served as Harry Emerson Fosdick Visiting Professor at Union Theological Seminary in 1974. At 7 p.m. Thursday, Dr. Fiorenza will talk on "Challenge of Feminist Biblical Hermeneutics," and at 11 a.m. Friday, her topic will be "Slaves and Wives: House Church and Household Code." She also will take part in an open forum at 1 p.m. Friday in the chapel.

She is the author of books on ministries of women in the church and on priesthood in the New Testament, and her most recent work is "In Memory of Her: A Feminist Theological Reconstruction of Christian Origins," based on the story of the woman who anointed Jesus. Dr. Fiorenza is active in organizations dealing with Biblical literature and is associate editor of RSR, Semia, Horizons, Cross Currents and the international journal Concilium. She also has served on task forces for Women in Religion and Society, the Core Commission of the Women's Ordination Conference, the Theological Education of Women for Ministry and Sexism in the Bible. Last year she received a Guggenheim Scholarship to work on a scholarly commentary on the Book of Revelation.

Brite Series Lectures are sponsored annually by the Brite student government, with assistance from University Ministries and the Forums Committee of Programming Council. Purpose of the lectures is to provide a forum for discussion of issues of the church and world to aid in the professional growth of Brite students as well as to provide a dialog in which the community can come to a better understanding of church-world issues.

*RIP-ROARIN' RALLY' SET FOR FRIDAY

The Wacker Backer Round-Up, billed as "a rip-roaring rebel-rousing pep rally," will kick off the 1984 Horned Frog football season for alumni, friends and special guests. Planned for Friday, the Alumni Association-sponsored event will be held at Round-Up Inn in the new Amon Carter Jr. Exhibits Building.

To begin with a 7 p.m. reception, the program will include the TCU Band, cheerleaders and Show Girls. Featured speaker will be head football coach Jim Wacker. An 8:30 p.m. Mexican buffet will be followed by music for dancing by Don Edwards and the Rush Creek Cowboys. Prizes and surprises also are on the evening's schedule.

Reservations, set at $15 each, are due by Wednesday to the alumni office, Box 32921.

Chairman for the annual football season kickoff is George M. Bradford of Hurst. Serving on the committee are Susan Labrose Bulaich of Hurst and Fort Worth residents Billy A. Lloyd, Susan Appleby Nix and Jerry J. Terrell.

NOTES ON FOLKS

GAIL DAVIS (nursing) has been notified by Nursing Outlook that her article "Where's The Nursing?" has been accepted for publication.

REVA BELL (education) found her name nominated with those of Oveta Hobby, Sarah Hughes, Lady Bird Johnson and Barbara Jordan for the first Texas Women's Hall of Fame. Reva was nominated for her work in early childhood programs and her role in the development of a health awareness curriculum for preschool and kindergarten classes.

"The Artistic Design of Societal Commitment: Shakespeare and the Poetry of Henry Timrod," an essay by CHRISTINA MURPHY (English), has been accepted for publication in Shakespeare's Influence on Selected Southern Authors. The volume, edited by Philip C. Kolin, is to be published in 1985 by the University Press of Mississippi.

RALPH GUENTHER (emeritus, music) has received notification of acceptance for publication of one of his transcriptions. The work, to be published by Southern Music Co. in San Antonio, is "Three Romances" by Robert Schumann. Ralph has transcribed and edited for flute and piano. Originally composed for oboe and piano, the pieces have been cast in a higher key to better fit the flute range and timbre.

Alumna DONNA OPPERMAN has joined the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce staff as vice president of area councils. The wife of HARRY OPPERMAN (English), she formerly directed volunteer service and public information for the Fort Worth State School.

DOTTIE PHILLIPS (Student Activities) has been named conference coordinator for the South Central Region and chairwoman of the issues and ideas committee of the National Association for Campus Activities. She previously has served as associate member coordinator in 1983 and as educational session coordinator in 1982. Dottie was named committee member of the month in October 1983.

The first child of Wade and URSULA KINDRED (development) weighed in at 7 pounds 10 ounces on Sept. 8. He's been named Alvin Wade Kindred II.

Congratulations are in order for former TCU librarian GLENN SPARKS, who is among 14 persons selected by their students as recipients of the Teaching Excellence Awards at the University of Texas at Austin. A professor from each of UT's 14 schools and colleges was honored in the spring, receiving $1,000 each from the Ex-Students' Association. Glenn, who holds the rank of professor, was the awardee from the School of Library and Information Science. He headed TCU's library in 1953-65.

CATHY COLLINS (education) is chairperson-elect for the special interest group on gifted and creative readers for International Reading. She also has been appointed to the Texas Commission on Standards for the Teaching Profession contact team for the Texas State Teachers Association.

AAUP CHAPTER TO MEET THURSDAY

TCU's chapter of the American Association of University Professors will meet Thursday at 3 p.m. in Student Center #203. Officers for the coming year will be elected. Interested non-members will be welcome.

NEW MARKERS WILL BE COMPLETED BY FRIDAY

Two new campus markers, one located in front of Sadler Hall on University Drive and the other at the Stadium Drive entrance to campus, will be completed by Friday. Featuring the "TCU brick" in keeping with the facade of other buildings, each will have a limestone insert with the carved legend of "Texas Christian University, Founded 1873."

The markers are being provided by a gift from alumna Marion Joullian of Oklahoma City, who completed her degree in home economics in 1978. "The object of this project we proposed to Miss Joullian," said Chancellor Bill Tucker, "was both to provide identification of the campus to passers-by and to add to its attractiveness." The gift included funds beyond the construction cost to endow maintenance of the landscaping.

The University Drive sign, standing 20 feet long and 4 feet tall, will be complemented by circular landscaping. Spotlights will illuminate it at night. A raised platform at its back will provide a setting for speakers or presentation ceremonies. The somewhat smaller marker on Stadium Drive will not have the shrubbery design.

The donor will be honored at a campus luncheon later this fall.

SKIFF, IMAGE ISSUE INVITATION...

...to all faculty and staff members to drop by the Skiff office on Sept. 21 to meet and visit with editors and staff members. The informal session is planned for 9 to 10:30 a.m. on the second floor of Moudy Building South.

WILLIAMS TO PRESENT MONDAY CONCERT

Baritone David N. Williams, a new member of the music faculty, will present a recital of 19th and 20th Century songs at 8 p.m. Monday in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

Accompanied by his wife, Candace L. Williams, he will sing Mendelssohn's Is Not His Work Like a Fire? and It is Enough from "Elijah," Nocturne and La Procession by Cesar Franck and four songs by Richard Strauss, Allerseelen (All Souls' Day), Zueignung (Devotion), Morgen! (Tomorrow) and Cacilie (Cecily). After intermission, he will perform Dearest Amelia, the husband's aria from "Amelia Goes to the Ball," The Hero and When the Air Sings of Summer, Bob's aria from "The Old Maid and the Thief," all by Gian Carlo Menotti; Heavenly Grass, Lonesome Man, Cabin and Sugar in the Cane, all Blue Mountain Ballads by Paul Bowles; and Nemico della Patria from "Andrea Chenier" by Umberto Giordano.

Williams, who came here from Southern Illinois University, has performed with the Goldovsky and Marjorie Lawrence opera theatres, as soloist with the Bolivian National Symphony Orchestra and as an actor-singer with the Stephen Foster Drama Association in Bardstown, KY, and Central City Opera Company in Colorado.

DOGTROT CABIN TO BE AUTOGRAPH PARTY SITE

The Isaac Parker dogtrot cabin in the Log Cabin Village will form a particularly appropriate setting when the TCU Press hosts an autograph party Sept. 26 from 5 to 7 p.m. for "Luke and the Van Zandt County War" by Judy Alter. Much of the action in this young adult novel takes place in a dogtrot similar to the Parker cabin.

Refreshments of black-eyed peas and cornbread, to complement the setting, will be served.

Post-Civil War tensions in East Texas and a little-known historical incident form the background for this tale of two totally different teen-agers who must come to terms with each other and with their own lives. Theo Burford, whose common sense too often has a sharp tongue, lives in the dogtrot with her physician-father and longs for her childhood in Mississippi. Luke Widman, abandoned by his father, attaches himself to Dr. Burford, bringing with him an involvement in the local fervor for independence and a naivete which irritates the lonely Theo. It takes a lynching, a raid from the dreaded Ku Klux Klan and a hair-raising escape from General Sheridan's soldiers to bring them together.

Judy, TCU Press editor, is a free-lance author whose first young adult novel, "After Pa Was Shot," found many readers and earned much praise. Others of her books include "The Texas ABC Book" and "Texas and Christmas," which she co-edited.

"Luke and The Van Zandt County War" is the second in the line of Sundance Books for young readers published by TCU Press. It is illustrated with drawings by Walle Conoly and sells for $10.95. The public is being invited to bring young readers to meet the author and talk with her about this book.

LETTERMAN'S ASSOCIATION ISSUES INVITATION

Faculty and staff members are being invited to an open house in the newly redecorated Lettermen's Lounge of Daniel-Meyer Coliseum. The event is planned for Wednesday from 4:30 to 6 p.m. The invitation was issued on behalf of the former lettermen's organization by its president, Dr. Tom Rogers.

Refreshments will be served, and the attractive setting will afford an excellent vantage point from which to see the Horned Frogs' Wednesday afternoon practice in Amon Carter Stadium.

OLD INSURANCE COVERAGE MUST BE CANCELED

Persons currently participating in the old benefit plan with Republic National Life Insurance who do not wish to be enrolled in the new medical/dental insurance program with Prudential Insurance Co. must contact the Personnel Office to cancel coverage. Unless this is done, individuals will be automatically transferred to the new Prudential plan at the same deduction level as formerly held. Additional information is available from Cris Briones or Edith Webb at Ext. 7792.

TCU IN THE NEWS

"Survivors of All Seasons" was the title of an article written by Duane Cummins, president of the Division of Higher Education of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), that appeared in the September issue of The Disciple. Of 450 colleges started by the Disciples, the story noted, only a few remain--"but they are confident that they have an important role yet to play." Of course, TCU was highlighted in the story. Eighty institutions were founded in the 1850s, 65 in the 1870s and 61 from 1900-1910. Jarvis Christian College (1913) in East Texas is the only institution founded since the first decade of this century that remains affiliated with the Disciples.

Accomplishments of 1983-84 and a look at new programs for TCU's 112th year were the substance of a story entitled "4 study groups work to shape TCU's future" that appeared in the Aug. 26 Dallas Morning News.

Plans for unveiling the Horned Frog sculpture were the subject of a feature in the Aug. 19 Dallas Morning News, and the event was covered with an Anita Baker story and photo in the Aug. 28 Star-Telegram. Noted in both were Student House president SARA SMITH and Chancellor BILL TUCKER. The Aug. 27 event was covered by Sammons Cable Channel 6 and KTVT-TV as well as KRLD Radio and KRLD-TV.

KRLD-TV, Channel 33, featured the TCU School of Education and an interview with JOHN MANGIERI on the evening of Aug. 31.

LUTHER CLEGG (education) and his wife Mary Jo were pictured in the Blair (NE) Enterprise July 19 with a Blair couple who hosted them during their month-long bicycle trip to Winnipeg. The Cleggs met the Nebraska family at a campground in Sabetha, KS.

Historian MAURY BOYD was in living color in the People section of the Sept. 2 Dallas Morning News. Its front page featured a half-page picture of Maury that was complemented by a lengthy feature entitled "Kiowas preserving tribal lore for posterity." What began as his two-year project to record the tribe's history from its oral legends, songs and ceremonials has taken a decade..with another year to come for the completion of the third volume in the highly acclaimed series.

"The Dallas public library and the two exhibition spaces at TCU have, over the past year, mounted a healthy majority of the most interesting exhibitions in the area," wrote Star-Telegram critic Dave Hickey in his State of the Art story in the Sept. 2 paper. In it he called specific attention to the Ken Little exhibition currently in the Brown-Lupton Gallery.

The TCU PRESS came in for compliments in the Sept. 2 Star-Telegram in Mike Ritchey's review of its publication of "The Time It Never Rained" by Elmer Kelton. Mentioned in particular were DON WORCESTER, KEITH GREGORY and JUDY ALTER.

"Fun facts to know, tell" was the headline description of "Fort Worth & Tarrant County: A Historical Guide" in the Star-Telegram feature about its author, Ruby Schmidt. The feature, by Raymond Teague, was complemented by a Tarrant County test. The new volume was issued by the TCU PRESS.

MORE TCU IN THE NEWS

"He knows the score" was the description of NEIL DANIEL (English) in the story about him and his wife Marcella that appeared in the Star-Telegram on Sept. 3.

Looking for ways to pay next year's college costs was the subject of the Planning for Profit column by Stephen Rassenfoss in the Sept. 2 Star-Telegram business section. Quoted in the story was financial aid director LEO MUNSON.

In the Star-Telegram's special section for Women's Health Month that appeared Sept. 2, attention was called to this fall's course entitled "Women Over 40: Myths and Realities," to be taught by registered nurse LINDA FLETCHER. The section also included a story about basketball coach FRAN GARMON and her thoughts on the importance of fitness.

The library's exhibit of banned books, scheduled in conjunction with National Banned Books Week, attracted attention in the Sept. 6 issue of the Dallas Morning News and the Star-Telegram Skyline Column as well as from Sammons of Fort Worth. Collection management librarian JOANN KARGES, responsible for the display, appeared on the local cable program on Sept. 5.

The Star-Telegram devoted most of the front page of its Lifestyle section on the evening of Sept. 4 to a fashion story on the saris worn by SAROJINI AMBROSE, a teaching assistant working on her Ph.D. in English.

Described as "one of Fort Worth's most active, articulated and successful civic boosters," NED BOEHM and the successful efforts he has led as TCU's admissions dean were the subject of Irv Farman's column in the Sept. 7 issue of the Fort Worth News-Tribune. He said Ned's operation is no less pressurized or intense than that of Coach Wacker...it's just less publicized with no reporters snooping around or national ratings to aspire to. "And yet, Dr. Boehm's responsibilities, and his degree of success in meeting the challenges he faces year-round, not merely in the fall, are several magnitudes greater in importance to the future of TCU than anything that transpires inside Amon G. Carter Stadium," Irv wrote.

"Mudslinging: Today's Presidential Campaigns Pale Compared With Yesteryear's" was the headline for the three-quarter page feature authored by historian PAUL BOLLER for the Aug. 26 issue of the Arizona Republic. With a drawing of candidates hurling barbs at each other, the article was the lead in the paper's Perspective section.

The American Hymn Society, at home on the TCU campus since early this year, was the subject of a lengthy report on National Public Radio on Sept. 10. The plug for the UNIVERSITY was outstanding. KERA's "Morning Edition" carried it on Sept. 11.

Continued good news is anticipated for the Metroplex, according to the report in the Aug. 12 Dallas News from the paper's board of economists. Included in the six-person panel is FLOYD DURHAM (economics), who noted that the area could grow even faster if a public transit system was in place.

MORE TCU IN THE NEWS

"Election Fizzle-Gigery" was the title of an article by PAUL BOLLER (emeritus, history) that appeared in the July 27 issue of the New York Times' op-ed page. Looking ahead to the 1984 campaign, Paul noted that it's anyone's guess how it will proceed. "It may turn out to be a yawner...but maybe what Abraham Lincoln called 'fizzle-gigs and fireworks' will eventually liven it up." The article did identify TCU as in Austin.

"The right time to be defending" was the headline on the review of "Attack and Die: Civil War Military Tactics and Southern Heritage" by historian GRADY MC-WHINEY that appeared in the Star-Telegram on Aug. 5. Written while Grady was distinguished senior fellow of the Center for the Study of Southern History and Culture before his move to Fort Worth last summer, the work is co-authored by historian Perry D. Jamieson with the Air Force's Strategic Air Command at Offutt Air Force Base in Nebraska.

"Cartoonist is winner" was the headline on Cissy Stewart's Aug. 7 Star-Telegram column that told of senior SHARON JONES' winning one of four--and the only one in the cartoon category--awards given in the 1984 College Journalism Awards competition.

Alumnus ROBERT GUERRA of the Class of '77 was featured in the Dallas Morning News on Aug. 12 and in the Star-Telegram's Aug. 13 edition. Both were related to his treatment of the Saudi Arabian soccer player and others of the team in his position as sports medicine trainer at the U.S. Sports Academy in Saudi Arabia. His efforts were credited with enabling the team to compete in the summer Olympics in Los Angeles.

Artist DAVID CONN's gold medal in the international art competition held in conjunction with the Olympics in Los Angeles drew notices in the Dallas Morning News and the Fort Worth News-Tribune as well as a Channel 5 news segment July 25, when he was interviewed by Jack Helsel. He also was the subject of a Star-Telegram feature on Aug. 13.

Alumnus LEVI DAVIS, assistant city manager in Dallas, was the subject of a feature story entitled "Dallas 'Trouble-Shooter' Thrives on Work" that appeared in the Aug. 5 issue of the Hartford, CT, Courant. The Class of '72 member was among five finalists seeking the city manager position there.

"SIDs were unsung heroes in Olympic madhouse" was the title of the Sports PM/Guest column by LISA GRIDER (assistant sports information director) that appeared in the Aug. 14 Star-Telegram. She paid tribute to the behind-the-scenes SIDs who collected the minute details used by sports writers and broadcasters.

TCU got a mention in the Aug. 20 issue of Newsweek in a story about gold medal winner Carl Lewis. His coach, who now negotiates personal appearances, endorsement contracts and book deals for the track star, is JOE DOUGLAS, who ran competitively here during his student days.

GEOLOGIST WILL PRESENT PUBLIC LECTURE

Dr. Rodger Denison, a private consulting geologist who works with the Mobile Research Lab in Dallas, will give a public lecture Sept. 20 at 8 p.m. in Sid Richardson Lecture Hall 3. Sponsored by the geology department, Dr. Denison's address is titled "Basement Rocks in the Interior of the United States."

The geology consultant has been instrumental in mapping the most ancient rocks, basement rocks, in the continental U.S. He received his Ph.D. from the University of Texas at Austin.
