'84-85 THEATRE SEASON OPENS OCT. 2

A season of productions rarely seen in the Fort Worth area opens at TCU Oct. 2 with "When You Comin' Back, Red Ryder?" The suspenseful melodrama plays at Scott Theatre, 3505 W. Lancaster, through Oct. 7 with performances at 8 p.m. nightly Oct. 2-6 and at 2 p.m. Oct. 7. Admission is free with TCU ID, but reservations should be made by calling Ext. 7626.

Next in the TCU theatre line-up for the year will be "The Dresser," Ronald Harwood's drama about a dying actor and his dresser touring England during the World War II blitz, set for Nov. 13-18 at University Theatre. A spring repertory season will be staged March 6-16 with alternate performances of Ben Jonson's "Volpone" and "The Rimers of Eldritch" by Lanford Wilson.

"Red Ryder," written by Mark Medoff and directed by Gaylan Collier, is set in an all-night diner in a sleepy Southwestern town. Early on a Sunday morning, the night attendant, Stephen (Red) Ryder (played by TCU senior Michael Wehrli of Alexandria, VA), is about to turn over his duties to Angel, the daytime waitress (Keri E. Healey, sophomore from Arlington). Lyle, a "good-natured cripple" who runs the motel-filling station across the road (Thomas Kelso, Baltimore senior) stops in for breakfast, followed by an affluent young couple en route to New Orleans (Jim Rowe of San Jose, CA, and Kimberly Anne Rideout of Chester, VA).

The calm vanishes with the arrival of Teddy (graduate student Douglas Hoppock of Temple) and his girl Cheryl, played by Catherine Porter of Joplin, MO. As they wait for their van to be repaired, Teddy becomes more and more intimidating. He begins to taunt and finally bully the others in the diner. With black, sardonic humor, he gets at each in turn, stripping away their pretensions and exposing their innermost secrets and fears. They are too frightened to resist as he binds and robs them before heading off down the highway alone. For Teddy, it is a game to make people crawl. After freeing themselves, the others realize they have come through an ordeal without physical harm. But from each, Teddy has taken some measure of self-respect. They know they have been changed more than they would admit.

Stage manager for the production is Beth Bohlcke, junior theatre major from Richardson, assisted by Heidi Cobb, Weatherford junior.

SMITH RECEIVES CHANCELLOR'S AWARD FOR TEACHING

Emmet Smith, holder of the endowed position of Herndon Professor of Music since June, is the recipient of the Chancellor's Award for Distinguished Teaching. Formal presentation of the award was made by Chancellor Bill Tucker during fall convocation Sept. 20.

Endowed by a TCU alumni couple who wish to remain anonymous, the two-part honor includes a $5,000 cash award in recognition of outstanding accomplishment as a teacher in addition to a $5,000 check intended to cover the variety of expenses which the awardee feels will most enhance his contributions as a teacher and scholar. Given this year for teaching, the honor is bestowed for research and creative activity in alternate years. The first teaching award was made in 1982 to English professor Betsy Colquitt, and the initial research award was presented last year to chemistry chairman Bill Watson.

"Professor Smith is a master teacher and has brought distinction to Texas Christian University throughout his 33 years as a member of this faculty," said Chancellor Tucker. "It is altogether fitting that the University honor him as the 1984 recipient of the Chancellor's Award for Distinguished Teaching."

Emmet was selected by Dr. Tucker for the honor from among nine faculty members recommended by nominating committees of their colleagues. The distinguished nominees included Glenn Routt of Brite Divinity School; Peggy Mayfield, Harris College of Nursing; Luther Clegg, School of Education; Geraldine Dominiak, M.J. Neeley School of Business; Joe Helmick, School of Fine Arts; and Robert Doran, Bill Reese and Bob Frye, all of AddRan College of Arts and Sciences.

Known internationally as one of this country's foremost teachers of organ performance, organ literature and church music, Emmet joined TCU's fine arts faculty in 1951 after graduating with honors from Kansas' Southwestern College. He completed the Master of Music degree here in 1954 and studied the following year at the National Conservatory of Music in Paris, France, as a Fulbright Scholar. His private studies in performance practices and styles have been with Europe's leading musicians.

Emmet, a consultant to churches in Texas as well as the Park Avenue Christian Church in New York on purchases and installation of new pipe organs, has inaugurated a number of music-related projects at TCU. The first music department teacher to organize and conduct a weekly class of students in organ, he organized tours beginning in 1964 for organ students to have master classes and studio lessons with world-famous teachers in Europe. In 1956 he coordinated the annual exchanged student recital program between TCU and the University of Texas at Austin.

To date, 11 of Emmet's students have won Fulbright awards for overseas study, a record thought to be unequalled by any other single teacher in this country. Two others have received Rotary International Fellowships, and two have received either German government or private foundation awards for study in Switzerland and Germany. Most recently a student won a place for study abroad at the Royal Academy of Music in London.

The former music department chairman was named TCU Honors Professor in 1973 and the following year was chosen as a Piper Professor in Texas. Earlier this year he was the University's nominee for the Abbott award for outstanding teaching, and in 1982 TCU nominated him for the outstanding teaching award given by the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education.

TCU SETS $61,100 GOAL FOR 1984 UNITED WAY

TCU's goal for the 1984 United Way campaign, which began Sept. 24, will be $61,000. This is the one annual effort in which participation is sought by all University faculty and staff members as they join hands and hearts with neighbors throughout Tarrant County for the benefit of 55 agencies and their 213 service centers.

In calling attention to the striking manner in which the TCU community has taken part, Chancellor Bill Tucker noted that last year's level of participation was 96 percent.

The 1983 campus goal was $53,425, and the final tally showed that 940 persons contributed $57,950. Of every dollar given to the United Way campaign, 92.7 cents go directly into "people care" and only 7.3 cents are used for the campaign and to administer the program.

This fall's effort, which will continue through Oct. 5, is being coordinated by Vice Chancellor Howard Wible. Packets with a letter from the chancellor and pledge cards with United Way information have been distributed to all units. As in the past, contributions can be made by payroll deduction, cash/check or a pledge with request that the donor be billed by United Way. Contributions can be designated for specific United Way agencies.

Members of the campus steering committee are Bill Woodley, athletics; Kathryn Denkowski, counseling center; Al Mladenka, international students; Ron Randall, career planning and placement; Carol Adcock, dean of students office; Claire Courtney, office of residential living; Tom McGaha, campus police; Troy Moore, student activities; Theresa Hurst, health center; Linda Patton, Charles Whisenant, Johnny Johnson and Jerry Young, physical plant; Shari Barnes, personnel; Susan Early and Ann Gee, development; Kirk Alland, alumni and special programs; Beverly Blount, university relations; Edd Bivin, business services; Larry Calloway, controller; Dave Edmondson and Bill Senter, computer center; Ann Sewell, institutional research and planning.

Others are Joan Karges, library; Marla Buckles and Marilyn Collins, Harris College of Nursing; Tom Badgett and Jane Boone, School of Business; Dan O'Hair and Emmet Smith, School of Fine Arts; Henry Patterson and George Harris, School of Education; Al Young, admissions; Mary Kincannon, registrar's office; Donna Kirkpatrick, financial aid; Pat Miller, CORES; Walter Naff, Brite Divinity School; Betsy Colquitt and Ron Flowers, AddRan College humanities division; Don Coerver and Gene Alpert, AddRan social sciences division; Art Ehlmann and Margaret McWhorter, AddRan College natural sciences division; and Carla Witte, continuing education.

TCU has reached or exceeded its goal for 10 consecutive years of contributing more than 50 percent of its giving potential based on the number of employees and the average fair share giving for the educational category.

ORCHESTRA CONCERT IS MONDAY

The University Orchestra, under the direction of George Del Gobbo, opens its 1984-85 season at 8 p.m. Oct. 1 in Ed Landreth Auditorium. The TCU Concert Series performance also will be broadcast live over KTCU-FM, 88.7.

The program will open with the Unanswered Question by Charles Ives, innovative American composer of the early 20th Century who anticipated many techniques that flowed into the mainstream of modern composition. Birgit Rohowsky, TCU senior piano performance major from Toronto, Canada, will be soloist with the orchestra on Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 3 in C minor. The group also will perform Mozart's Symphony No. 36 in C major, K. 425, "The Linz."

SCHOLARSHIP DEADLINES ARE UPCOMING

Deadlines are just around the corner for applications for four major academic grants--Rhodes Scholarships, Marshall Scholarships, Fulbright Awards and the Truman Scholarship Program.

Applications for Rhodes, Marshall and Fulbright awards are due Oct. 5, and application forms are available from Neil Daniel in Reed Hall 314.

Faculty and staff are encouraged to nominate students for the Truman Scholarship, and candidates must be sophomores who intend to pursue careers in public service. Don Jackson (Sadler Hall 205) must have the Truman applications by Oct. 15. A short essay on a public policy issue chosen by the student is due by Nov. 1.

PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT SERIES DUE IN OCTOBER

A series of professional seminars entitled "Topics in Business" will be offered during October. Co-sponsored by the Neeley School and continuing education, the one-day programs represent a variety of educational opportunities for employees at many levels of business, industry, government, health care and non-profit organizations. Scheduled from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., each program will be held in the Student Center on campus. Upcoming seminars include:

- Oct. 3--"How to Hire the Right Person," led by Dr. Sam H. Lane, president of Lane, Buhl, Fenker and Associates Inc., an independent training consulting firm in Fort Worth; $100.
- Oct. 11--"Sales Management to Sales Managers," led by J.R. Deegan, professor of marketing at Texas Wesleyan College; $165.
- Oct. 18--"Family-Owned and Owner-Managed Businesses: How to Make Them Work," led by Dr. Lane; $100.
- Oct. 24--"Quality Circles--Employees Helping to Achieve Excellence," led by Phillip S. Paul, industrial relations specialist and Division of Quality Control Administrator at General Dynamics, and Judy Cureton, TCU; $100.

Information is available from Bob Watkins in continuing education, Ext. 7134. Advance registration is required and will be accepted on a first-come, first-serve basis.

OCTOBER BRINGS COMMERCIAL AND VIDEO ART

The best and newest in commercial and video art will be on display through much of October in the Moudy Building exhibition space and Brown-Lupton Gallery. From Oct. 2 through Nov. 2, gold, silver and bronze medalists from the Dallas Show 1984, sponsored by the Dallas Society of Visual Communications, will be shown in the Moudy Building, while "Surveillance," a video installation by Laurie McDonald of Houston, will take place in Brown-Lupton Gallery Oct. 10-26. Both are open from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays and from 1 to 4 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays.

More than 60 winners of the Dallas design show--posters, menus, ads, brochures, invitations, announcements and stationery letterhead--will make up the Moudy Building show, the first university showing in this area for this exhibit. The winners were selected from 2,200 entries from eight states by jurors who are top commercial artists throughout the United States, including Seymour Schwast, Tim Girvin, Dean Hanson, Harry Murphy, Houman Pirdavari and Michael Schwab.

A reception will be held from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. Oct. 9.

Ms. McDonald's video installation is based on the idea of surveillance with TV cameras, bringing to mind George Orwell's book "1984" and the fear that everyone is connected to Big Brother by means of a television system. The effect of the "Surveillance" installation, however, is to illustrate that in spite of the use of surveillance technology and despite trends toward institutionalization, humans can still retain human qualities and stave off the tendency to become automatons, says Ms. McDonald, a Fort Worth native who owns and manages a video production and post-production company, Electronic Editing Services Inc. She is a former student at Brown University and a graduate of Rhode Island School of Design, where she has been a faculty member. Ms. McDonald received a National Endowment for the Arts Visual Artist Fellowship of $15,000 for 1983-84 and received a Texas Commission on the Arts grant for video sculpture of the 4th Texas Sculpture Symposium in Austin last year.

On Oct. 9, Ms. McDonald will lecture on her installation and will show tapes of some of her other work at 10 a.m. in Moudy Building Room 132 North and also will be honored at an opening reception in the Gallery from 4:30 to 6 p.m.

Susan Grant, one of the exhibitors in the "Images" photography show currently on view in the Moudy Building exhibition space, will give a slide/lecture on her work at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in Moudy Building 132 North. She also will be available to meet with students and faculty members in the Moudy Building from 1:30 to 4 p.m. that day.

Ms. Grant is a photography instructor at TWU in Denton and formerly taught at Wayne State University in Detroit. Her photographic works and hand-made books have been shown at exhibitions throughout the country, including 500X in Dallas, University of Arkansas and State College of New York at Buffalo.

AREA ANNUAL FUND CAMPAIGNS READY TO BEGIN

Campaigns in five areas of the state, planned to complement the annual TCU/Tarrant County fund drive, are scheduled to begin this week and in early October. Each with its own leadership, the campaigns will contribute toward TCU's overall budget-supporting total goal of $2.75 million. Gift requests will be made for instructional and scholarship assistance, research and graduate education, athletics and general University support. Volunteers in each area will direct their efforts to alumni, businessmen, foundations, parents of TCU students and other friends of the University.

Beginning Sept. 28, the Houston-area campaign will be under the joint chairmanship of Houston residents Robert Hunsucker, member of TCU's board of trustees who is president and chief executive officer of Panhandle Eastern Corporation, and alumnus Alan Snodgrass, executive vice president of InterFirst Bank who was active in TCU/TC campaigns while a Fort Worth resident. To continue through Oct. 24, the Gulf Coast drive has a $150,000 goal.

A three-week drive will begin Oct. 2 in Austin with Jay Smith, who heads Jay F. Smith Investments, as its general chairman. The well-known civic and business leader, who captained TCU's basketball team before receiving his degree in 1939, will lead volunteers in working toward a goal of $40,000.

Oct. 3 is the starting date for a three-week effort in the San Antonio area. A $23,000 goal will be the amount sought by volunteers led by Guy Bob Buschman, Class of '73 member who is president of Rio Grande Drilling Company. He and his wife, also a graduate, are active in the TCU San Antonio Association.

Owner of his own insurance firm in Midland since 1962, alumnus Jay Disney has accepted general chairmanship for the effort in the Permian Basin area. With a goal of $82,000, the drive is planned for Oct. 4-Nov. 1.

Trustee Mary Louise Rowand will direct the Dallas-area drive as she and volunteers work toward a goal of $115,000. Dates for the campaign are Oct. 8-26.

The annual Tarrant County campaign, headed by trustee Alann Bedford, will begin in late October. This fall's goal is $1,246,760.

TCU TO HOST PRE-LAW FAIR

TCU will host a Pre-Law Fair Oct. 2 with admissions representatives from some 50 law schools across the nation. Don Jackson, TCU pre-law advisor who is also vice president of the Southwest Association of Pre-Law Advisors, says prospective law school students from all area universities are invited to meet the representatives. The fair, sponsored by the Southwest Association of Pre-Law Advisors along with the Law School Admissions Council, will be held from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in TCU's Brown-Lupton Student Center Ballroom. Additional information may be obtained by calling Don at 921-7468.

DALLAS EVENT WILL KICK OFF PRE-GAME SERIES

This fall's series of pre-game events will begin Saturday when alumni and their guests gather in Dallas for a "Proud and Promising" party before the 7 p.m. TCU-SMU game at Texas Stadium. Sponsored by the TCU Dallas Association, the event will begin at 4 p.m. in the Ben E. Keith Hospitality Room, 1805 Record Crossing (one block north of Inwood Road off Harry Hines Blvd.)

Refreshments will be free, provided by the Ben E. Keith Company, and the informal program will include appearances by Super Frog and the cheerleaders.

Additional information is available from the alumni office, Ext. 7803.

SUCCESS MARKS HULEN MALL'S 'SALUTE TO TCU'

By anyone's standards, the first Hulen Mall tribute to TCU was an overwhelming success. The Sept. 15 focus on the University at the mall was planned to honor students and programs as well as to provide a link between TCU and the Fort Worth shopping public, according to mall public relations director Rhonda Pike. The public's reaction to the "Salute to TCU" has led to tentative plans for other upcoming programs at the mall.

The attractively staged event drew shoppers' attention throughout the day for such activities as dance demonstrations, music by members of the Horned Frog band and demonstrations by potters. Cheerleaders provided added excitement for the occasion, and representatives of continuing education, ROTC and the Programming Council had information for the viewers.

JAZZ ENSEMBLES OFF TO A FAST START

TCU's two Jazz Ensembles, headed by Curt Wilson, will stay busy in October. The Monday-Wednesday-Friday band will be performing for a Bailey Mazda and Pontiac reception in the showroom Oct. 16 and will present a Brown Bag Series program at noon Oct. 22 in the Student Center lounge. The Tuesday-Thursday band will perform for Parents' Weekend at noon Oct. 12 in the Student Center lounge and on Oct. 18 will be featured at the March of Dimes Haunted House VIP Night at Seminary South.

The jazz program boasts its first graduate assistant this fall. She's Patricia Rocky, a recent graduate of West Virginia Wesleyan who is working on her master's degree in music education at TCU. A trombonist, she came with Grade A long-distance recommendation. Her major professor at West Virginia, hearing that Curt had an opening, telexed TCU during a tour of the USSR to let Curt know about her.

STUDENT DISPLAY, GAME HIGHLIGHT DEAF AWARENESS WEEK

National Deaf Awareness Week is being observed this week on campus with several activities sponsored by the National Student Speech, Hearing and Language Association. A display of hearing aids from the past and present can be viewed in front of the Student Center cafeteria each day this week from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Free fingerspelling and sign language sheets are available along with demonstrations of signing, and buttons with the "I love you" hand sign are on sale.

Also at the student booth each day, a poster is displaying a sign language symbol and its translation as part of a "secret message." By following the symbols each day, people will be able to decipher what the message says. During certain lunch hours, NSSHLA students will perform a sign-a-song in the lounge of the student center. To recorded music, the students will translate lyrics into sign language, a graceful and visually delightful way to "see" music. Information on dates and times is available at the booth.

Approximately 15 million Americans have hearing impairments, and Deaf Awareness Week intends to promulgate information about their needs and accomplishments, said Ann Lieberth of the Miller Speech and Hearing Clinic. NSSHLA is an organization of students majoring in speech and language pathology and habilitation of the deaf.
