TCU TO HOST 1,000 CHRISTIAN ASSEMBLY GUESTS

Some 1,000 delegates expected for the Friday through Monday assembly of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) in the Southwest will be on campus Saturday evening for a barbecue in Daniel-Meyer Coliseum. Many also will attend the Horned Frog's afternoon game with NTSU, including 300 Christian Youth Fellowship members from across the region who will be taking part in the annual CYF Day.

Emcee for the barbecue will be Chancellor Bill Tucker, who serves the Christian Church in the United States and Canada as moderator, the highest elected office. Speaker will be John T. Muir, pastor of First Christian Church of Wichita Falls and an alumnus of TCU and Brite.

Between the football game and the barbecue, delegates will attend a groundbreaking ceremony for the new regional office building two blocks south of TCU on University Drive.

Assembly speakers will include Julian Bond, Georgia state senator; Harold E. Hughes, former U.S. senator and former governor of Iowa; and Rhodes Thompson, assistant professor of practical theology and preaching at the Graduate Seminary of Phillips University, who is a 1950 TCU graduate.

Other participants, all Brite graduates, will include Linda Hanna Walling, associate pastor of Bellaire Christian Church of Houston and moderator of the Christian Church in the Southwest; Kenneth L. Teegarden of Indianapolis, general minister and president of the Christian Church; and James C. Suggs, regional minister and president of CCSW. Three Brite professors, Bill Baird, Toni Craven and David Balch, will present Bible studies on the assembly theme, "The Reign of God."

A TCU reception for delegates is an opening night feature of the assembly, most of which will be held at the Hilton Hotel. This is the first weekend assembly held by the region, which includes Texas and New Mexico, and is expected to attract more laypeople than have been able to attend previous assemblies.

TCU SENDS NINE INTERNS TO WASHINGTON

Nine TCU juniors and seniors are in the nation's capital this fall as interns in private and public organizations, some of them directly involved in the political campaigns.

The internship program, with Gene Alpert of political science as faculty supervisor, is made possible by TCU's affiliation with the Washington Center. Each student receives 15 hours of credit for the working assignment plus attending academic seminars, sending Gene a bi-weekly journal and completing a major paper based on the internship.

The 1984 assignments include Jeff Batha, international affairs major from Sunnyvale, CA., with the American Defense Foundation, where he researches and writes articles on defense issues and helps set up educational programs and press conferences. Robin Heidt, radio-TV-film major from Jefferson, NY, with WFAA-TV, is a member of the camera crew and assists in editing and producing news features. She has covered campaign speeches by President Reagan and Walter Mondale as well as interviews with area congressmen Steve Bartlett and Martin Frost.

As an affiliate of the Center for International Private Enterprise, Charles Kolbe, international affairs major from Lincoln, NE, helps to develop and evaluate programs to be funded through the National Endowment for Democracy program, which seeks to promote democratic institutions abroad. Lisa Larsen, political science/speech major from Park Ridge, IL, works for Reagan-Bush '84, where she helps to coordinate the Reagan-Bush voter registration drive by serving as a liaison with business organizations. Brian Lawe, Yorktown Heights, NY, accounting major, tracks gasoline marketing legislation for the Society of Independent Gasoline Marketers of America. He also helps to organize policy conferences to inform members of the society of legal implications of current laws.

Shane McCoy of Pasadena, who is in the liberal studies/pre-law program, is associated with the Chronic Offender's Division of the U.S. Attorney's Office, where he interviews witnesses, conducts investigative work, prepares subpoenas, attends court sessions and performs other duties related to the prosecution of persons accused of major felonies. As an intern with United Students of America Foundation, Megan O'Neill, journalism major from Huntington, NY, writes news articles of interest to the United Students Press Service, which is syndicated to more than 300 student newspapers. She attends White House press briefings and has been present for a bill signing ceremony at the White House.

Two Fort Worth interns, Claire Reinecke and Alison Trinkle, are involved with the Lt. Joseph P. Kennedy Institute and the Bureau of Rehabilitation, respectively. Claire, a liberal studies major, works with an occupational therapist who provides treatment to children with developmental disabilities. Alison, a psychology major, provides staff support for an agency which contracts with the District of Columbia to provide housing and professional counseling to teenage offenders. She helps to prepare progress reports on clients.

'VALIDATION THERAPY' IS LECTURE TOPIC

"Validation Therapy: A Unique Approach to Dealing with the Disoriented Elderly" will be the topic of the Oct. 17 address to be given by Naomi Feil, ACSW executive director of the Validation Training Institute in Cleveland, OH. Hosted by Harris College of Nursing, the 2-3 p.m. program will be held in Room 306 of the Bass Building.

The lecture is open to students as well as faculty and staff members.

DANCERS WILL PERFORM OCT. 19-21

A versatile array of modern, jazz and classical ballet works will make up the TCU fall dance concert Friday through Sunday in Ed Landreth Auditorium. Hours will be 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday. Admission is free with TCU ID, and reservations may be made at Ext. 7626.

"Continuum" is a modern dance work concerned with sequence and order. The three-movement suite will be danced to the accompaniment of prepared tape by Wendy Carlos, who used his knowledge of acoustics and computers to create electronic music. The abstract choreography by Ellen Page Garrison will be highlighted with lighting design by Jeff Flowers, graduate theatre arts major from Fort Worth, and costume design by Kristen Reintsema, ballet major from Saratoga Springs, NY.

Lisa Fusillo has created "Etudes Classique," a study based on the technique and style of classical ballet. The three movements will be danced to the music of Mozart's Oboe Concerto. A full cast of 23 dancers will perform the first and third movements, and five senior soloists in the second movement will be Edmond Cooper of Hot Springs, AR; Gaye Frizzell, Fort Worth; Kara Klopfenstein, Houston; Shara Martin, Atlanta; and Lisa Lee Schaefer, Yuma, AZ.

Choreographed by graduate student Maryanne Klym of Fairview Heights, IL., "Static" is a strong, percussive jazz dance set to Herbie Hancock's Grammy award-winning "Rockit." Its rhythmic style is composed of movements charged with "electricity" to match the electronic currents in the music. Ms. Reintsema also designed the "Static" costumes.

ARAB-ISRAELI CONFLICT TALK SET TOMORROW

A former Israeli Army intelligence officer will speak on "The Revival of Islam and the Arab-Israeli Conflict" at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow (Wednesday) in Room 224 of Reed Hall. The lecture is sponsored by American Professors for Peace in the Middle East.

Raphael Israeli, a native of Morocco, immigrated to Israel in 1950 and served as an intelligence officer in the Israeli Army until 1968, when he was discharged as a major. A graduate of Hebrew University, he came to this country in 1968 as a fellow of the Center for Chinese Studies at the University of California at Berkeley. He earned the M.A. degree there in East Asian history and the Ph. D. in Chinese and Islamic history.

On the faculty of Hebrew University in Jerusalem since 1974, he has been senior lecturer there since 1979. In addition to his regular academic and administrative assignments, he has taught courses for overseas students at Hebrew University on Islam and the Arab-Israel conflict. Dr. Israeli has been a visiting professor at the University of Pittsburgh and at York University in Toronto, Canada, and currently is serving as visiting scholar at Harvard's Centers for the Study of World Religions and Middle Eastern Studies. He has authored a number of books in English, including the three-volume "The Public Diary of President Sadat," "I, Egypt: Aspects of the Political Thought of President Sadat" and the forthcoming "The Man of Defiance: A Political Biography of Anwar Sadat," to be published by Weidenfeld Nicolson in London.

WORKSHOP SERIES AIMED AT OFFICE PERSONNEL

"Seminar for Office Personnel" is a series of workshops being offered this fall through the Community Service Program. Participants may attend one or all of the sessions, which will be held on campus. They include:

- Oct. 24--"The Professional Image" in the Student Center from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Carol Hendrix, assistant vice president of Texas American Bank and manager of its Women's Special Services, will lead the morning session. Keiko Couch, color and wardrobe consultant, will conduct the afternoon session. Cost is $45.
- Nov. 7--"Principles of Accounting," in the Student Center from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Led by Wendell Grandey, CPA, the seminar will refresh participants on bookkeeping, financial statements, balance sheet accounts and income statement accounts, government reports and a review of managerial accounting, budgets, forecasting and cost analysis. Cost is $45.
- Nov. 15--"Managing the Work Flow," Student Center from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. This seminar will study the effects of new technology on the office work flow and ways to control paper work. Topics include keeping executive schedules and calendars, various filing systems, desk organization, time and record management. It will be led by Shirley Chenault. Cost is $45.
- Nov. 1- "Word Processing on Microcomputers," from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Dec. 8 TAGER Building. The one-day seminar will cover formatting, block manipulation, super and subscripts, centering and indenting and other computer operations. Cost is $65.

Additional information is available from continuing education at Ext. 7134.

LIBRARY WILL BEGIN RANDOM ID CHECKS

Beginning Oct. 22 TCU's library will be checking, on a random basis, the ID's for all persons entering the library. During the check periods only those with legitimate ID's for use of the library will be admitted to the building.

Check periods will vary during the day and the year but are most likely to occur during hours of peak use. The checking is being undertaken to provide the best possible access to the services and resources of the library for those who have legitimate TCU ID cards, Paul Parham said.

Faculty and staff members as well as students are asked by the library staff to persevere during the random checks. It is recommended that ID cards be carried at all times to lessen any inconvenience created by the checking process.

JAZZ BAND WILL TOAST BASIE

A tribute to Count Basie and other big band greats will be presented Oct. 22 by the Monday-Wednesday-Friday Jazz Ensemble in a Brown Bag Series concert at noon in Brown-Lupton Student Center Lounge. Audience members are welcome to bring a sack lunch.

Under the direction of Curt Wilson, the jazz band will play such Basie favorites as "One O'Clock Jump" and "April in Paris" along with Duke Ellington's "Take the A Train." The group also will perform several Henry Mancini standards, including "Dreamsville."

NEELEY SCHOOL OFFERS MANAGEMENT SEMINAR

The third annual "Managing Managers" program will be offered Oct. 22-26 by the Neeley School. To be held in the Americana Hotel, the program is designed for division-level line and staff executives or managers who expect to assume these responsibilities in the immediate future. It is particularly well suited for vice presidents or regional and divisional heads with broad management responsibilities.

Strengthening executive skills, building the management team and planning the organization structure will be the major topics of the program. The emphasis will be on practical applications in executive roles with practice in new diagnostic methods to sharpen problem-solving and decision-making talent.

Faculty leaders will be Edmond H. Curucru, emeritus professor of management at the University of Connecticut and president of Management Services Inc.; Kirk Downey (management); William F. Joyce, management professor at the Amos Tuck School at Dartmouth University; Bill Jurma (speech communication); Darrell T. Peirsol, management professor at Southwest Texas State University; John Sheridan (management); and John W. Slocum Jr., distinguished professor of organizational behavior at Southern Methodist University.

Daily sessions are scheduled from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. The $1,200 program fee includes daily luncheons and dinner for two scheduled evening sessions. Additional information is available by contacting John Sheridan at Ext. 7562.

WIBLE REAFFIRMS AA/EEO COMMITMENT

Vice Chancellor Howard Wible, as the school's AA/EEO Officer, reminds all faculty, University and general staff members that TCU is committed to the principle of equal employment opportunity for all persons in all segments of university life.

"It is our objective to administer all policies in a manner which ensures equal treatment regardless of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, veteran or handicap status," Wible said.

Quoting from the current AA/EEO policy statement, Wible stated: "It is the University's goal to eliminate any existing discriminatory practice or condition whether purposeful or inadvertent. It is also the goal of the University to take positive steps to improve the rate of growth of all ethnic groups into the work force that qualify for position vacancies at the University."

Employees are entitled to see the AA/EEO program. Copies are in the office of each vice chancellor and the AA/EEO office. Department chairmen and unit heads are encouraged to review the document, familiarize themselves with its contents and share the information with others in their units.

PENSION FUND REPRESENTATIVE TO VISIT CAMPUS

Art Hanna, representative of the Pension Fund of the Christian Church, will be on campus Oct. 18 to counsel with both individuals and groups. Topics to be covered in the group meeting will include retirement benefits, life insurance, disability coverage and tax-deferred annuities available through the Pension Fund.

The schedule for Oct. 18 will include:

8-9 a.m.--Individual counseling--Student Center, Room 202

10 a.m. to noon--Group meeting--Student Center, Room 205-206

1-4:30 p.m.--Individual counseling--Student Center, Room 202

Faculty and staff members who wish to participate in the group meeting or to schedule an individual session should contact the Personnel Office, Ext. 7792.

VISITORS WELCOME AT RETIRED PERSONNEL PROGRAM

"Six Weeks in Antarctica" will be the subject of the slide and sound program on Oct. 25 sponsored by the TCU Retirees Association. Detailing his recent trip to the Antarctic will be Whelan Klemme, former director of research for Monsanto Chemical near Houston and brother-in-law of emeritus historian Nevin Neal.

The luncheon program will begin at noon in the large private dining room of Colonial Cafeteria on Rogers Road. All faculty and staff members and their friends are invited to attend the program, according to retirees organization president Comer Clay.

SISTER CITY VISITORS GUESTS ON CAMPUS

Representatives from Reggio Emilia, Fort Worth's newly adopted sister city in Italy, were campus guests Oct. 3 for a breakfast with Chancellor Bill Tucker. A discussion of possible exchanges between Reggio and TCU and a tour of the campus were included in their visit.

Taking part in the morning meeting were Lucille Howton (modern languages), Ken Lawrence (religion-studies), Carol Patton (University advising), Sally Bohon (Honors Program) and assistant to the chancellor Clyde Foltz.

For two days before the TCU visit Lucille, who is active in sister city activities, served as interpreter for the Italians as they toured Fort Worth and visited local schools, museums, shopping malls and other points of interest. During a visit to the City Council meeting, each visitor was presented keys to the city, and other gifts were exchanged.

METEORITE COLLECTION IS GEOLOGIST'S RESEARCH FOCUS

Next time you see a falling star, there is a good chance that it came from the asteroid belt between Jupiter and Mars. Geology department chairman Art Ehlmann has spent much of the last year analyzing and identifying one of the largest private meteorite collections in the world. He recently returned from a six-month sabbatical at the Institute of Meteoritics, University of New Mexico in Albuquerque, where he continued to analyze some of the more unique specimens in the collection.

Donated to TCU by Oscar E. Monnig in 1977, the collection contains more than 2,000 meteorites, Art said. Meteorites are little fragments of asteroids which have been hurled into space after colliding with one another. "However, most meteorites burn up in the atmosphere before they ever reach us," according to Art. If they do enter the earth's atmosphere, they are seen as "fireballs" or meteors falling through the sky in a blaze of light. Once on the earth's surface, meteorites are often difficult to distinguish from terrestrial rocks, he said, unless one knows what he or she is looking for.

Monnig, whose family owned Monnig's Department stores in Fort Worth in 1889-1980, has spent the better part of the last half century collecting meteorites.

Art has just completed papers on meteorites in Texas and on a collection of meteorites from the Kendleton fireball which burst on the southwest edge of Houston in 1939. Monnig had collected all of the 50 known specimens from the fireball, and the TCU geologist has been working on that collection.

Art says the collection is so vast and some of the specimens are so rare that he could easily spend the rest of his life analyzing them.

NOTES ON FOLKS

Among 13 Society for Photographic Education members whose works will be exhibited Oct. 18-20 in the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum showing entitled "Contemporary Trends in Photography" is LUTHER SMITH (art).

CURT WILSON (music) will conduct the Texas Interscholastic League all-region jazz ensemble in performance Nov. 15 at Arlington's Martin High School.

MORE NOTES ON FOLKS

BOB FRYE (English) presented a 60-minute paper at the Southwest Regional Conference For Teachers of English in Albuquerque Oct. 6. The title of Bob's paper was "The Way to the Brazos, Charity, and Rainy Mountain: Some Uses of Language to Convey a Sense of Place in Selected Works of John Graves, William Goyen and N. Scott Momaday." Other participants included members of the National Council of Teachers of English and the New Mexico, California, Panhandle and Arizona Councils of Teachers of English.

As a consultant on graduate education for the Coordinating Board of Higher Education, historian FRANK REUTER was a team member for review of a new graduate school of theology in Houston. On Sept. 15 Frank spoke on the U.S. involvement in Central America to the Grayson County Medical Society.

Historian (emeritus) PAUL BOLLER, who spoke on campaigns at the University of Texas at Arlington on Oct. 1, has been nominated as the UTA communications department's "1984 Distinguished Lecturer." Recently Paul was interviewed by an Australian radio station for a live broadcast on the presidential campaigns.

Accounting professor GERRY DOMINIAK has been named outstanding new discussion leader for 1983-84 by the Texas Society of CPA's CPE Foundation. One of two awards conferred, the one given Gerry is designated for an outstanding active society member who has taught one of its sponsored courses for the first time during the course year. Holder of a CPA license, Gerry serves on the TSCPA's ethics committee and is active in the American Woman's Society of CPAs and the American Institute of CPAs.

DONNA EDWARDS (music) recently presented a lecture/concert for the Arlington Music Teachers Association.

At the Western Literature Association meeting recently in Reno, NV, FRED ERISMAN (English) chaired a panel dealing with Anti-Establishment Authors and presented a paper on "This Is the Place: A Regional Approach to Western Literature." The paper, which pointed out parallels between Western literature and other regional literatures of the world, was part of a panel on Toward a Theory of Western American Literature.

BOB NEILSON (chemistry) spent much of the first half of September attending scientific conferences in Monterey, CA, and Kyoto, Japan. As one of 25 invited participants at the 2nd National Workshop on Main Group Chemistry (in Monterey), he presented the lecture "Condensation Routes to Main Group Element Polymers." At the VIIth International Symposium on Organosilicon Chemistry (in Japan), he gave both an oral paper, "Synthese and Reactivity of New (Silylamino) boranes" (coauthored by former postdoc Li Bei-Li), and a poster presentation, "Highly Silylated Phosphines," co-authored by RANDAL FORD, TCU Ph.D., 1984.

In addition, Bob chaired technical sessions at both meetings and was a coauthor of two other papers presented in Japan by Patty Wisian-Neilson, now of SMU. Travel funds were provided by the National Science Foundation, the Army Research Office and The Welch Foundation.

New appointees in the Neilson research group at TCU include postdoctoral research scientists, RAHIM HANI (Ph.D., U. of Houston) and JOHN SHORES (Ph.D., U. of Arkansas).
