BRAZILIAN MUSIC FEST IS MONDAY

Visiting lecturers and performers from throughout the Western Hemisphere will help TCU inaugurate a series of Music Colloquia Monday with a day-long Brazilian Music Fest. A musical distinction is made between Brazil, settled by the Portuguese, and the rest of Latin America that was conquered and colonized by the Spanish.

The colloquium will begin at 2 p.m. in Ed Landreth Auditorium with "Introduction to Brazilian Music," presented by Dr. Peter J. Schoenbach, chairman of the music department at Wayne State University. A 3 p.m. lecture on "Brazilian Piano Music" will be given by Dr. David P. Appleby, professor of music at Eastern Illinois University and author of "The Music of Brazil," newly published by University of Texas Press. Dr. Gerard Behague, music department chairman at UT-Austin, will speak at 4 p.m. on "Aspects of Brazilian Music." Panel for a 7 p.m. symposium on Brazilian music will include Drs. Schoenbach, Appleby, Behague and Caio Pagano, visiting professor of piano at TCU, and John Boudler, timpanist with the State Symphony Orchestra of Brazil and founder of the percussion program and professor of percussion at the Institute of the Arts, State University of Sao Paulo.

The colloquium will close with a Brazilian concert at 8 p.m. by Caio and Dr. Boudler, who will be teaching master classes at TCU during the week. Caio, twice voted as "Best Pianist of Brazil," is visiting professor at TCU this year while Tamas Ungar is on leave in England.

'THE DRESSER' BEGINS NOV. 13

"The Dresser," Ronald Harwood's drama about the last of the great breed of English theatrical actor/managers, will have its first Fort Worth production Nov. 13-18 in TCU's University Theatre. Directed by Henry Hammack, "The Dresser" will be performed at 8 p.m. Nov. 13-17 and at 2 p.m. Nov. 18. Admission is free with TCU ID, but reservations may be made by calling Ext. 7626.

Harwood, who was dresser to Sir Donald Wolfit for almost five years, writes movingly yet humorously of Sir, a dying actor-manager in an English provincial theater during Luftwaffe bombing in World War II. Sir, to be played here by graduate student Douglas Hoppock of Temple, is in a bad way on the night of a performance. As his dresser (Barry Rowell of Fort Worth) tries to prepare him to go on stage as King Lear, Sir can hardly remember his own identity, let alone Lear's lines.

Thanks to Norman, Sir finally makes it through the performance, his final one. The worn-out old troupier dies, leaving his company--especially his dresser--by themselves with their great loneliness. Her Ladyship, Sir's mistress, is played by Mary Bugg of Okmulgee, OK, and Madge, the stage manager once in love with Sir, by Katherine Wilson of Arlington. "King Lear" performers in the play within the play include Daniel Tamez of Garland, Michael Petty of Fort Worth, Randy Berger of Edina, MN, and Tim Burt of Childress.

Harwood's play first opened on March 6, 1980, at the Royal Exchange Theatre in Manchester, England, and had its New York premiere at the Brooks Atkinson Theatre the next year. Tom Courtenay starred as Norman, the dresser, in all of those performances as well as in last year's successful motion picture.

Of "The Dresser," Harwood has written: "I have come to understand that from the early 18th Century until the late 1930s the actor-manager was the British theatre. He played from one end of the country to the other, taking his repertoire to the people. . . many of them were extraordinary and talented men; their gifts enhanced the art of acting; they nursed and kept alive a classical repertoire which is the envy of the world, and created a magnificent tradition which is the foundation of our present-day theatrical inheritance."

SECOND CITY TO PERFORM HERE THURSDAY

"Cows on Ice," the first original show by Second City National Touring Company, will be performed at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Student Center ballroom. Admission is $3 with TCU ID, and the price includes a dessert buffet. Second City, the improvisation-rooted comedy troupe that had its birth at the University of Chicago 30 years ago, is sponsored here by the Performing Arts Committee of TCU Programming Council.

Mike Nichols was one of the original comics in the 1951 version of Second City, which took its name from the title of the late A.J. Leibling's derisive profile of Chicago in the New Yorker. Other alumni of the troupe include Shelley Berman, Jerry Stiller, Anne Meara, Alan Arkin, Dan Akroyd, Jim and John Belushi, Linda Lavin, Valerie Harper, Elaine May, Gilda Radner and Joan Rivers.

Second City touring company has in the past reproduced material from mainstage Second City revues in Chicago. Scenes in the new original show include "War Games," a military satire taking place between two beat-up GI Joes, and "Toxic Waste," in which two characters live happily atop a chemical waste dump, adapting to the fact that their tomatoes have teeth and their petunias have eyes and they themselves have untold numbers of spasms and twitches.

TRUSTEE TURBEVILLE DIES OCT. 30

Trustee Glen Turbeville, board chairman of Morrison Supply Co., died Oct. 30 in a Fort Worth nursing home. Funeral services were conducted Nov. 2 at University Christian Church.

The lifelong Fort Worth resident earned the B.B.A. degree in 1925 at TCU, where he lettered in tennis in 1923-24. He later studied business at Harvard University. In 1917 he began work with Morrison Supply and rose through the ranks to become its chief executive officer.

Turbeville, member of TCU's board since 1961, was chairman of its finance and investment committees for more than 20 years and also had headed the building and grounds committee for a number of years.

A member of the Newcomen Society and director emeritus of Fort Worth National Bank and Texas American Bancshares, he formerly was president of the Wholesale Distributors and the American Institute of Supply associations. He was a member of Shady Oaks and Colonial country clubs, the Fort Worth Club and Century II Club.

Survivors include his wife, Elizabeth Brogdon Turbeville; a son, Jack R. Turbeville; a daughter, Elizabeth Creswell; and a sister, Vera Edelbrock, all of Fort Worth, and a brother, Robert Turbeville of Austin.

The family requested that expressions of sympathy be directed to TCU.

TCU TO HOST MENTAL HEALTH DIRECTOR THIS WEEK

Dr. Larry Silver, acting director of the National Institute for Mental Health and an authority on the problems of learning-disabled children, will be on campus Thursday to talk about these children, their behavioral and learning problems, their treatment and their parents.

His schedule calls for morning visits to Fort Worth Academy and Starpoint School classrooms. After lunch with TCU special education and education faculty and Fort Worth Academy board members, Dr. Silver will lecture from 2 to 3:30 p.m. in Moudy Building Lecture Hall 141. His talk there is open to all TCU faculty and students as well as to public and private school administrators.

Dr. Silver will have dinner with Fort Worth physicians, then will deliver a public lecture from 7:30 to 9 p.m. in Sid Richardson Lecture Hall 1. Special guests for that talk will be parents of children enrolled in special schools for the learning-disabled as well as parents of children in other private schools.

FACULTY WOMAN'S CLUB MEETS NOV. 14

TCU Faculty Woman's Club's next meeting will be at 3 p.m. Nov. 14 in the Faculty Center, not Nov. 11 as was erroneously stated on postcards mailed to members. Speaker will be Judy Alter of TCU Press discussing "Christmas Ideas with Books."

The session also will include a business meeting at which rewritten by-laws will be voted on and suggested changes in the club will be discussed.

'WALK ACROSS AMERICA' AUTHOR TO SPEAK

Peter Jenkins, author-adventurer who just returned from a trip to China where he climbed part way up Mt. Everest on an untried route through "forbidden" Tibet, will speak tomorrow evening at University Christian Church. His program, which will follow a congregational dinner, will include a sound/slide show composed of photos taken during his much-heralded walk across America that provided material for his best-selling books. The two--"Walk Across America" and "The Walk West" co-authored with his wife Barbara, were ranked No. 1 and 4, respectively, on the Top Ten Paperbacks of American booksellers.

Though the deadline is past for reservations for the 6:15 p.m. dinner, interested persons are welcome for his presentation, which will begin about 7 p.m. Additional information is available from Charles Dowell, UCC, 926-6631.

Jenkins, who holds the BFA degree from Alfred University, became the first American since the 1949 Communist takeover to live unsupervised with an Inner Mongolian family in its mud hut on the open grasslands. During last summer's trip to China, his adventures received nationwide media attention even though a number are too "secret" for publication. His earlier experiences have been chronicled via television appearances on leading network shows, in major radio and newspaper interviews as well as in articles in such magazines as National Geographic, including a 1979 cover story, People, Campus Life, Time and U.S. News and World Report.

PUBLIC RELATIONS SEMINAR TO BE HELD HERE

A two-day seminar on public relations practices will be held from 8:30 a.m to 5 p.m. Thursday and Friday in Brown-Lupton Student Center. The seminar is open to anyone interested in public relations as well as to those practicing the profession.

Contents of the program will cover all elements of the accreditation exam of the Public Relations Society of America (PRSA). To be eligible to take the exam, participants must have practiced public relations for no less than five consecutive years. Additional information about the exam, which will be given from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday at UTA, is available from Steve Lee, (817) 572-2114.

Co-sponsored by the North Texas Chapter of PRSA, the Public Relations Foundation of Texas, the Texas Public Relations Association, TCU's department of journalism and continuing education, the seminar will be led by TCU faculty and public relations professionals in the Metroplex. TCU faculty include Douglas Newsom (journalism), Gerald Grotta (journalism), Larry Lauer (University Relations), and Jack Raskopf (journalism).

Registration information is available by contacting continuing education at Ext. 7130. Fee is $100.

AUTHORITY ON INDIAN RIGHTS WILL BE GUEST

A distinguished historian who has gained national recognition for his legal expertise in situations involving land claims and water rights of Indian tribes in the West will be a Visiting Green Professor next week. Dr. Donald J. Berthrong, chairman of Purdue University's history department, will be hosted by the history department Nov. 12-16. He is one of nine persons chosen to hold the position endowed by a gift of Drs. Cecil H. and Ida Green of Dallas during the 1984-85 academic year.

A highlight of Dr. Berthrong's visit will be a free, public lecture on Nov. 14. "The Historian: An Advocate" will be his topic for the event, which begins at 7:30 p.m. in the Woodson Room of the Student Center.

Dr. Berthrong, who earned three degrees at the University of Wisconsin at Madison, is a consultant to the U.S. Department of Justice and to Cheyenne and Arapaho tribes in Oklahoma. Formerly a Fulbright Fellow in Hong Kong, he headed the University of Oklahoma's history department for four years before assuming his position at Purdue in 1970. Earlier he was a member of the University of Missouri faculty.

Active in Indian claims cases, he has been influential in bringing equity to Indian tribes over losses of lands as well as tribal water rights. He has been a leader in establishing historians as friends of the Indians through their search of documents to find proof of early day territorial ownership.

Dr. Berthrong, active in numerous professional organizations, is the author of numerous articles and two books. The books are "The Southern Cheyennes," which was presented a special achievement award from the American Society of State and Local History, and "The Cheyenne and Arapaho Ordeal."

'NO-NONSENSE' GENERAL TO LECTURE ON LEADERSHIP

Lt. Gen. Walter F. Ulmer, currently commander of Fort Hood and Commandant of cadets at West Point during the 1977 cheating scandal, will lecture on leadership Friday at 2 p.m. in Room 141N of the Moudy Building. All faculty, staff and students are invited.

Ulmer was characterized as a 'no-nonsense' general in a Newsweek cover article on military leadership last July; the magazine featured Ulmer on its cover. As commander of Fort Hood, Ulmer oversees the largest military post in the free world, said Capt. Greg Ellison of Army ROTC. Ulmer also commands the Third U.S. Corps, part of the defense forces for Western Europe. Earlier in his career, Ulmer gained notoriety for his hard-line stand against cadets found guilty of cheating at the U.S. Military Academy at West Point.

During his 32 years in the military, Ulmer has been awarded the Silver Star and the Bronze Star twice for heroism in combat. He will draw from his experiences in the Army for his lecture on the characteristics necessary to lead others, both in civilian and military life. Ulmer's visit is sponsored by Army ROTC.

TCU COSPONSORS HUNGER CONFERENCE WITH UNICEF

Two faculty members and one board of trustees member will participate Saturday in a health and hunger conference cosponsored by the U.S. Committee for UNICEF. Anantha Babbili of journalism will chair the conference, entitled "Hunger and Health: New Hope for Saving the World's Children," and trustee Alann Bedford will serve as honorary chair. Ms. Bedford is also a Goodwill Ambassador of the U.S. Committee for UNICEF.

The one-day conference runs from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. and includes discussion of the global health situation for children as well as presenting local concerns. Andy Fort of religion will lead workshops on the politics of food and hunger and on hunger in Tarrant County. Other topics will include pre-natal care, adolescent pregnancy and nutrition in America.

The conference will be held at the Hereford Student Center at UTA, whose Graduate School of Social Work is also a cosponsor of the event. Other cosponsors are SMU Campus Ministries and the University of Texas Health Science Center. Special guests include Congressman Tom Vandergriff and Dr. James Sheffield, president of the U.S. Committee for UNICEF.

Attendance is free and open to anyone interested in attending. To register, call the political science department at Ext. 7935.

COLLEGE BOWL COMPETITION BEGINS MONDAY

TCU's first go-round in College Bowl competition will be held Nov. 12-15 from 4 to 6 p.m. in the Student Center. Anne Trask of Student Activities says tomorrow (Wednesday) is sign-up deadline for student teams, which must pay a $20 registration fee.

The double-elimination tournament is open to any full-time TCU student. Each member of the four-member winning team will receive a $100 scholarship. In addition, four All-Stars selected at the end of the week as the best overall participants will each receive a Trivial Pursuit game.

Additional competition will be held between the winning team and the All-Stars, with the decision on which four players will represent TCU in the regional competition next February left up to the team coach, hall director Rich Murrell.

FALL BLOOD DRIVE TO BE HELD THIS WEEK

Carter Blood Center is making its annual fall semester visit to TCU today (Tuesday) and Wednesday. Workers will be in the Student Center ballroom from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. each day to take donations. The goal for this semester's drive, organized by the Office of Residential Living, is 600 pints.

NOTES ON FOLKS

Historian BEN PROCTOR attended the Western Historical Association meeting in St. Paul on March 10-13. Besides being a member of the membership committee, he attended a Phi Alpha Theta Council luncheon and breakfast. He also put together a Saturday morning session for the program.

SHARON FAIRCHILD (modern languages) has presented papers at two conferences during the last few weeks. At the Mountain Interstate Foreign Language Conference at East Tennessee State University in Johnson City, TN, she delivered a paper entitled "George Sand's Theory of Friendship." At the annual George Sand Conference held at Western Missouri State College in Saint Joseph, MO, Sharon presented "Musical Motifs in George Sand's Correspondence."

PENG FAN (mathematics) was recently invited by the University of Toronto, Canada, to present a two-hour seminar on his research. The title of the talk was "Hypnormal Operators."

Dr. ANN ASHWORTH (English) has learned that CRITIQUE has accepted her article on "Durrell's Senex and Puer in 'The Alexandria Quartet'."

HUNTER BECKEIHYMER represented Brite and TCU at the Oct. 23 inauguration of Clark Gilpin as dean of the Disciples Divinity House at the Divinity School of the University of Chicago. The Divinity School had named Hunter Alumnus of the Year in 1974.

RALPH BEHNKE (speech communication) and Chris Sawyer, TCJC-Northwest, presented a paper at the Texas Speech Communication Association annual convention in Austin. Entitled "Technology and Communication Careers: Analysis and Conclusions from Case Studies," the paper was part of a program outlining communication career opportunities for graduates of Texas colleges and universities.

TED RHODES, internal auditor, met the requirements for certification this summer by the Institute of Internal Auditors Inc. and has been awarded the professional designation of Certified Internal Auditor.

JAKE SCHRUM (Ranch Management) gave the keynote address at the annual meeting of the Texas Professional Agricultural Workers recently at the Americana Hotel. "The Future of the Beef Industry" was the title of the address. Jake also recently attended the annual convention of the Texas Cattle Feeder Association in Amarillo, at which noted news commentator Howard K. Smith and Secretary of Agriculture John Block were featured speakers.

At the Interface '84 Humanities and Technology Conference, held Oct. 25-26 in Marietta, GA, FRED ERISMAN (English) presented a paper on "Two Versions of Technology: Howard Garis's Science-Adventure Series Books." The paper examines the differing treatments of science in the "Great Marvel" books, which Garis wrote as Roy Rockwood, and the "Tom Swift" books, which he wrote as Victor Appleton.

BOB FRYE (English) spoke to the Adult Bible Class of the First United Methodist Church in Arlington Oct. 28. Bob's topic was "The Fables of James Thurber and Ruth and Jonah: Some Thoughts about Literature and Freedom in a Presidential Election Year."

MORE NOTES ON FOLKS

LISA LARSEN, TCU senior who is interning with the Reagan-Bush '84 office in Washington, DC, through the Washington Center this semester, got a presidential kiss last Wednesday. President Reagan was visiting the Washington campaign headquarters that day when Lisa asked him, "May I give you a kiss for good luck?" "That's what I'm here for," he replied.

Dr. JOHNNY RENARDO ANDERSON, who earned his master's degree from TCU while teaching at TCJC Northeast Campus ten years ago, has been announced as the recipient of the first Teacher of the Year Award from NTSU. Anderson, a Fort Worth native and graduate of I.M. Terrell High School, is a senior level coordinator and English teacher at Ross S. Sterling High School in Houston. He earned the bachelor's degree from the University of Houston and the Ed.D. at NTSU.

CYNTHIA FOLIO and JUDITH SOLOMON (music) were in Philadelphia Oct. 25-27 attending the joint Society for Music Theory/American Musicological Society Convention.

AIR FORCE OFFICIAL TO ATTEND DINING-OUT

Assistant Secretary of the Air Force Tidal W. McCoy will be the special guest Saturday at the annual Dining-Out for Air Force ROTC.

Dinner, dancing, awards and speeches will highlight the affair, which begins at 6 p.m. at the Americana Hotel downtown. Awards and presentations will be made to accomplished and outstanding cadets in the Reserve Officer Training Corps. Parents and civic and academic leaders have been invited to the formal affair along with the cadets and cadre.

TCU IN THE NEWS

Among persons quoted in Doug Nogami's Sept. 14 Dallas Morning News story on hazing policies was Dean LIBBY PROFFER, who noted that a fraternity was put off campus about 18 months ago because of a hazing incident.

The decor of students' rooms and the research of psychologist BARBARA BROWN that points to the predictability of how happy a student will be on the basis of pictures and memorabilia displayed was the subject of a news clip on KXAS-TV on Sept. 16.

"Huckleberry Finn," "Alice's Adventures in Wonderland" and other well-known books have spots on a banned book list over the years...and that censorship was the idea discussed in the Star-Telegram's EXTRA section on Sept. 12-13. Quoted in the story was JOANN KARGES (librarian) who arranged the library's banned book display.

Small investors have some advantages over the larger ones according to research, according to a Sept. 23 Star-Telegram business story quoting STAN BLOCK (finance). "Small companies with below market-level price/earnings ratios--the price of the stock divided by the earnings per share--are the highest performing stocks," Stan noted.

The Thistle Hill autograph party staged by TCU PRESS on Sept. 19 was the subject of a KTVT-TV story that aired twice on Sept. 20.

"Dorm Room Doom" was the title for the short article on psychologist BARBARA BROWN's research on dorm room decorations that appeared in the August-September issue of Campus Voice, the national college magazine distributed on campuses across the nation.

The subject of the full-page Profile article in the October issue of The Disciple is church relations director GILBERT DAVIS. Now in his 13th year in this position, he says he has preached more sermons in this capacity than as a minister for congregations in Louisiana, North Carolina, Arkansas and Texas.

Complementing a story on today's seminary life, a photo in the same issue of The Disciple was GLENN ROUTT (Brite) talking with some of his students.

Organist EMMET SMITH, recipient of the second Chancellor's Award for Distinguished Teaching, was the subject of feature stories in the Star-Telegram and Fort Worth News-Tribune on Sept. 21 as well as the Monday News Tribune on Sept. 24.

"'Forgive our debts' stirring spirited debate" headed the Sept. 16 Star-Telegram feature dealing with clergymen's views on the Bible's advice about finances. Dean JACK SUGGS expressed the opinion that he couldn't "imagine that bankruptcy is specifically banned"...but, from his point of view, the message of the Scriptures is that bankruptcy would be immoral if a person used it to rid himself of debts he had no intention of paying.

ANANTHA BABBILI (journalism) was a much sought-after spokesman for the Indian viewpoint in the wake of the assassination of Indira Gandhi. On Oct. 31, he was contacted by Ted Koppel for a possible Nightline appearance. Anantha also was interviewed by Associated Press radio news and by Channel 8 and was asked to write articles for the Star-Telegram, the Dallas Morning News and the Skiff.

MORE TCU IN THE NEWS

"Decor Betrays Future Dropouts" was the headline on the story about psychologist BARBARA BROWN's research that appeared in the October issue of Newsweek on Campus.

Alumnus MIKE RENFRO, new to the Dallas Cowboys this season, was the subject of a feature spread with color photos that appeared in the Cowboys Extra section of the Dallas Morning News on Oct. 10. Chosen to play in the Senior Bowl game in 1977, Mike was an all-Southwest Conference selection for the 1976 and 1977 seasons as a Horned Frog.

ARTIE STEVENS, retired Sept. 14 after 29 years in the physical plant, was the subject of a feature story in the Oct. 10 issue of the Star-Telegram EXTRA.

Channel 11 KTVT was on hand Oct. 17 to speak to religion department guest Dr. Raphael Israeli about the Arab-Israeli conflict and the revival of Islam. A former intelligence officer for the Israeli army, he currently is guest lecturer at Harvard University. While on campus he was hosted by NADIA LAHUTSKY (religion studies).

The advent of political fervor in small towns was the subject of a KXAS-TV interview with historian PAUL BOLLER that aired on Channel 5 on Oct. 14. The story by Bob Siegel was filmed in Granbury.

Junior LAURA HARTMAN, daughter of Vice Chancellor PAUL and Becky HARTMAN, was pictured in the Fort Worth News-Tribune on Oct. 12 and in the Monday News-Tribune on Oct. 15 as recipient of one of ten $1,000 scholarships for cheerleading achievements. A former high school cheerleader, she has coached the Horned Frogs' junior varsity team.

"TCU No. 1 in Nation (This Week)" was the purple-ink headline on the front page of the News-Tribune on Sept. 21. The following week the banner read "We're Still No. 1--TCU Leads Nation in Team, Individual Categories." According to N-T editor/publisher Mack Williams, who writes the column entitled "In Old Fort Worth," the papers will be placed in TCU's archives. Quoted in the story were Coach JIM WACKER and Vice Chancellor PAUL HARTMAN, who asked for extra copies of both issues.

The U.S. Senate debate between Lloyd Doggett and Phil Gramm on Oct. 18 was scored by BILL JURMA (speech communications) and political scientists from SMU and Stephen F. Austin University for the following day's Dallas Morning News. The interesting story was written by alumnus ED TIMMS.

New theories of DAN SOUTHARD (kinesiological studies) regarding learning skills was the subject of a one-third page feature in the Dallas Morning News PEOPLE section on Oct. 21.

"At TCU, Wacker's Frogs Horn In on Big Time" was the banner headline across the top of the front page of The Washington Post's sports section on Oct. 18. Taking a look at this year's successes, the writer recently was in Texas for the shoot-out between Texas and Oklahoma and came over for a look at what he'd heard about the Frogs. His visit included some time with Chancellor BILL TUCKER as well as sports information folks GLEN STONE and LISA GRIDER. The article was sent to the News Service by alumna NANCY O'NEALL, Fort Worth native now associate director of the State of Texas Office in Washington.

MORE TCU IN THE NEWS

Coach JIM WACKER donned another hat recently to be a guest columnist for the Dallas Morning News. His look ahead at the TCU-SMU game..and more particularly the progress of the Frogs this year...was the subject of the Sept. 27 article.

BILL JURMA (speech communication) was the judge on Sept. 28 for KXAS-TV's video-taped commentary on the debate between Lloyd Doggett and Phil Gramm.

"Tracking Acid Rain" was the title of the lead feature, complemented by a color illustration, in the Dallas Morning News Discoveries section on Oct. 1. The article, written by alumnus TOM SIEGFRIED, called attention to the acid rain problem and remote sensing as science's latest weapon against pollution. The Oct. 8-11 conference sponsored by TCU and the University of Bayreuth in West Germany was in the spotlight along with remote sensing director KEN MORGAN.

The Daily Skiff and cartoonist SHARON JONES in particular received attention in the Sept. 26 issue of the Chronicle of Higher Education. The story carried winners in the Society of Professional Journalists, Sigma Delta Chi, competition for collegiate journalists, which drew more than 2,500 entries. Sharon was chosen for best editorial cartooning, and the issue carried a three-column display of her work that had appeared in the TCU paper.

JUDY ALTER (TCU Press) was on Channel 41 Oct. 3 to talk about her book, "Luke and the Van Zandt County Wars." Two other TCU Press volumes, Ruby Schmidt's historical guide and Jerry Flemmons' "Cowboys, Plowboys and Slanted Pigs," were the subjects of Alex Burton interviews on KRLD, Ms. Schmidt on Oct. 3 and Flemmons on Oct. 4.

Right there on the front page of the Oct. 7 Star-Telegram were DOLORES OELFKE (financial aid) and other TCU fans giving a hearty welcome to the TCU team when it arrived at Meacham Field following the 32-31 win over the Arkansas Razorbacks.

"Hey, you're probably crazier if you don't" was the headline in Oct. 6 for Jon McConal's column on dealing with aging. Beginning with references to those who talk to themselves the feature quoted MILDRED HOGSTEL (nursing), a specialist on aging.

Economist/rancher FLOYD DURHAM was quoted recently in a story circulated by the Associated Press that dealt with the hay shortage driving the price of beef up as much as 10 percent by spring. Floyd was speaking on behalf of the cattle producers.

The new Horned Frog statue provided a background for the Associated Press photo of running back TONY JEFFERY when he was named the AP's Southwest Conference player of the week after the Utah game.

The physical fitness, or unfitness, of today's youth was the topic of a Channel 11 news interview with DOUG HASTAD (kinesiological studies) that broadcast Sept. 19. Sammons of Fort Worth aired a talk show with Doug on the same subject Oct. 4, and Education Daily has contacted him for a news article on his research of school-children and fitness programs. Doug was interviewed by Channel 11-TV (September 19), Channel 41-TV (October 2) and Educational Daily-Washington, DC (October 3). Topic of these interviews was "Current Status and Development of Physical Fitness in Children."
