EDUCATION, ADMISSIONS HOST TWO GROUPS

Some 200 high school students and their sponsors as well as students from Fort Worth's High School for Engineering Professions and High School for Finance were visitors on campus Nov. 10. Both groups were guests of the School of Education and the Office of Admissions and later attended the TCU-Texas Tech football game.

The larger group was attending the District 11 Future Teachers of America convention, for which the TCU Student Education Association members were hosts and judges of the Miss and Mr. FTA speech contests. The session opened with a presentation by Dale Young of education, and admissions counselor Charleen McGilvray conducted two workshops on college admissions.

The Fort Worth high schools' students and sponsors were welcomed by Dean Ed Johnson of business along with admissions Dean Ned Boehm. Presentations about academic opportunities were made by business and computer science faculty members.

INFORMATION AVAILABLE ON CONFERENCE

Detailed information on the 1984 Winter Simulation Conference, planned for Nov. 28-30 in Dallas, is available from Jim Comer in the computer science department. Open to interested persons, the two-day session will include exhibits of both software and hardware systems as well as several tracks of technical sessions oriented toward simulation applications for specific industries.

This year's program will feature Dr. Robert E. Shannon, Texas A&M industrial engineering professor, as keynote speaker. He is the author of two books, "Systems Simulation: The Art and Science" and "Engineering Management." His address will be on "Artificial Intelligence and Simulation."

HYMN WORKSHOP TO BE SATURDAY

A workshop on congregational hymn singing will be conducted Saturday at Ed Landreth for ministers, musicians and worship leaders. Hosted by Peter Hodgson, the day-long workshop is sponsored by the TCU Department of Music and the Hymn Society of America Inc., headquartered in Ed Landreth.

Workshop leaders will be Austin C. Lovelace, nationally recognized composer and church music authority who currently serves as national president of the hymn society, and W. Thomas Smith, executive director of the society and a clinician on hymnody. After 9 a.m. registration, the workshop will include a two-hour morning session on "How to Improve Congregational Hymn Singing," conducted by Lovelace. Afternoon workshops will be "Variety in the Use of Congregational Hymns" by Lovelace and "Hymns in Christian Education" by Smith, both presented at 1 and 2 p.m.

Final event will be a hymn festival conducted by Lovelace and Smith from 3 to 4 p.m. Registration cost $2 for full-time students and hymn society members, $5 for all others. Registration should be sent to the Hymn Society of America Inc., Box 30854, TCU, Fort Worth, TX 76133. Additional information may be obtained from Smith at Ext. 7608.

JAZZ BAND TO PREMIERE 'SOUTHERN EXPOSURE'

Premiere of a major work by Hank Levy, former arranger for Stan Kenton, will highlight the TCU Jazz Ensembles winter concert at 8 p.m. Friday in Ed Landreth Auditorium. The Levy number, "Southern Exposure," is basically a saxophone concerto, says Curt Wilson. Rene Ozuna, TCU junior from Fort Worth, will be soloist.

The concert also will include two other Levy arrangements, "When Sunny Gets Blue" and "Oleo." Levy, who was guest artist for TCU's first jazz festival in 1978, also is the first composer to be commissioned to write a work for the TCU Jazz Ensembles.

Also on the program will be "Royal Blues," written for Stan Kenton's first tour of England in 1956, and a tribute to Duke Ellington that includes such Ellington favorites as "Mood Indigo" and "It Don't Mean a Thing if It Ain't Got That Swing." The first Dixieland band to be formed by TCU jazz band players will be led by David Levy, a professional musician who is a TCU graduate student in business. A pair of jazz combos will be directed by trumpeter William Pena, Fort Worth junior, and saxophonist Adam Lara, Fort Worth sophomore.

GUESTS WELCOME AT RETIREES' LUNCHEON

Visitors are welcome to the TCU Retirees Association program to be held at noon Thursday at Colonial Cafeteria on Rogers Avenue. Following lunch in one of the private dining rooms, Professor Emeritus Gentry Shelton will give a slide and talk presentation entitled "A Visit to the Land of the Bible--Israel."

'UGLY MAN' CONTEST TO BE NOV. 26-30

An "Ugly Man on Campus" contest, slated for Nov. 26-30, will benefit various service projects of Alpha Phi Omega, the national co-ed service fraternity, as well as the organization's national meeting next month in Washington, DC.

Candidates for the "honor" in TCU's Alpha Phi Omega chapter-sponsored competition include Chancellor Bill Tucker, football coach Jim Wacker, basketball coach Jim Killingsworth, chemistry professor Manny Reinecke, band major Steve Linton, Army ROTC Capt. Greg Ellison and cheerleader Brent Chesney. Students, faculty and staff members can cast votes for their favorite nominee by donating money during lunch and dinner hours in front of the Student Center cafeteria. Donors of 50 cents or more will have their names entered for the daily drawings for prizes donated by local merchants.

Coordinating the effort are Jill Hicks, Holly McLeod and John Murzyn, from whom additional information is available.

BROWN BAG TO FEATURE SENIOR DANCE PROJECTS

Three ballet students and one modern dance student will present their senior projects at Monday's Brown Bag in the Student Center ballroom at noon. The senior ballet students are Shara Martin, Desiree Shephard and Mary Gurnas. The senior modern dance major is Susan Branun. Audience members are welcome to bring a sack lunch, and drinks are provided.

MUSIC NOVA WILL PERFORM MONDAY

Trilogy for Bassoon and Sixteen Strings by Dr. Joseph M. Cohen will have its premiere performance at the TCU Music Nova concert at 8 p.m. Monday in Ed Landreth Auditorium. George Del Gobbo will conduct.

Dr. Cohen holds bachelor and master's degrees from TCU and the Ph. D. in theory and composition from Eastman School of Music. He is retired as distinguished professor emeritus after 17 years at St. Norbert College in DePere, WI. Dr. Cohen's Concertino for Violin and Orchestra was commissioned by TCU for its centennial concert in 1973, when the TCU Symphony was conducted by John Giordano with Kenneth Schanewerk as soloist.

The new work will feature Jeffrey Perkins, a TCU junior from Cypress, as bassoon soloist. Also to be performed at the Dec. 3 concert will be Illuminatus Nocturna by Robert Moran and "Thirteen Ways of Looking at a Blackbird" by Joseph Pakkales, featuring Kathleen Attebury of Fort Worth.
