SOVIET DEFECTOR TO SPEAK HERE

Arkady Shevchenko, the Soviet defector who recently revealed he worked for the CIA for 2½ years before his defection, will speak at 8 p.m. Feb. 28 in Ed Landreth Auditorium under the sponsorship of TCU Forums. Admission is $1 with TCU ID.

"A View from the Kremlin" will be the topic of Shevchenko, former Soviet ambassador and under secretary general to the United Nations in charge of the Security Council and political affairs from 1973 to 1978. His new book titled "Breaking with Moscow," being published this month by Knopf, reveals he first approached Americans about defecting in 1975 and was told he should first provide information to prove his sincerity. The information he did bring was invaluable, Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan opined on CBS News' "60 Minutes" show Feb. 3, because "for the first time we got an understanding of how Soviet foreign policy is made and how it is operating."

The highest ranking Soviet official to defect to the West since World War II, Shevchenko was an intimate of Khrushchev, Brezhnev and Foreign Minister Gromyko and was actively engaged in Soviet decision-making on such sensitive issues as Soviet-American relations, disarmament, the United Nations, China, Vietnam, Cuba, the Middle East and Africa.

His career was meteoric. He was the top political advisor to Gromyko, a man for whom he maintains a great deal of respect, and held the highest diplomatic rank of the Soviet Union. He was the highest paid Soviet abroad, possibly the wealthiest man in Russia. A recognized scholar, Shevchenko holds a Ph.D. degree in international law from Moscow's elite Diplomatic Institute.

Shevchenko's wife died after his defection--a victim of suicide, said Russian officials--and he is now married to an American who helped him write his book. A resident of Washington, DC, he earns his living off lecture fees.

Shevchenko has told interviewers there are 800 Soviet personnel in New York attached to various offices, and at least half are either KGB or GRU (military intelligence). And he has insisted the Soviets have no timetable for taking over the world. "The Soviet foreign ministry doesn't know what it will do next month," he told the National Review.

LIBRARY RECEIVES SELLS' NEW BOOK

Saul Sells, emeritus professor of psychology, has donated a copy of "Selection of Air Traffic Controllers" to Mary Coats Burnett Library. Saul is one of the contributors to the new book and editor along with Evan Pickrel and John Dailey of the Federal Aviation Administration, which published the work. Though Saul is retired, he stays busy with research, consulting and writing. He is managing editor of the journal Multivariate Behavioral Research and also is consulting editor for several other journals, including Journal of Clinical Psychology and Journal of Applied Psychology. He maintains an office in Winton-Scott Room 330.

SPRING ENROLLMENT SHOWS 1.5 PERCENT INCREASE

The 101 more students enrolled currently than in the 1984 spring semester represents a 1.5 percent increase, according to the enrollment analysis released Feb. 7 by acting registrar Marvin Keith. The largest increases over last year are 4.9 percent in AddRan College, 12.3 percent in Continuing Education non-degree students and 5.2 percent in graduate students. The Neeley School of Business recorded a 2 percent increase over 1984.

The 1985 spring total of 6,503 includes an undergraduate count of 1,485 freshmen, which is an 8.3 percent increase; 1,219 sophomores, up 7.4 percent; 1,167 juniors, down 12.7 percent; and 1,336 seniors, up 9.3 percent. The 198 Master of Liberal Arts and special non-degree students represent a 20 percent increase over this time last year.

All 50 states and the District of Columbia along with two U.S. possessions are represented as are 154 Texas counties. Tarrant County residents total 2,677, and 63 foreign countries are represented by non-U.S. citizens. Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, California and Florida, in that order, have the largest out-of-state representations.

LENT TO INCLUDE MORNING MASSES, BROWN BAG LUNCHES

Each Monday and Friday morning during Lent, excepting Good Friday, Mass will be offered at 7:30 in Robert Carr Chapel, said Charlie Calabrese of University Ministries. The morning Mass is in addition to a 10 p.m. Mass said each Tuesday through Thursday during the school year. The morning Mass is for the benefit of students, staff and faculty who find the early hour more convenient to their schedules.

Also on Fridays during Lent, a brown bag lunch/discussion series will be held at noon in Room 222 of the Student Center. Each week will feature a brief talk by different campus personalities, and John Butler and Father Charlie will then lead discussion. The lunch is open to all staff and faculty. Toni Craven will be the presenter on Friday, and subsequent presenters will be Nadia Lahutsky, March 1; Don Jackson, March 8; John Wortham, March 15; Frank Reuter, March 29; and Rudy Brun, April 12.

NEW YORK COMIC TO PERFORM HERE THURSDAY

Marc Weiner, New York comic who has appeared on Saturday Night Live, Late Night with David Letterman and other TV shows, will bring his brash comedy act to campus Thursday. Sponsored by the performing arts committee of Programming Council, he will perform at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Center ballroom. Admission is $3 with TCU ID ($5 for all others), which includes dessert and coffee.

Weiner, who dropped out of college after two years, first managed a coffee house, then worked on a Hudson River boat as first mate and cook. That's when he began to dabble in magic and juggling to entertain the crowd. Next he took a clown course and became a street performer in New York, working on Fifth Avenue and in Central Park by day and on corners in Greenwich Village at night.

He became a weekend institution on the steps of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, and that's where Robin Williams found him and stopped to improvise with Weiner. Williams was so impressed he brought his manager to see Weiner perform, and the two helped Weiner get a role in the movie "House of God." Weiner has worked New York's top comedy clubs--The Improvisation, Catch a Rising Star, The Comic Strip and others--and has been nominated two years in a row for the National Association for Campus Activities Campus Entertainment Awards. He has performed with Williams and with Andy Kaufman, Joe Piscapo, the Pointer Sisters, The Police and the Fire Department.

SECOND KIMBELL PROGRAM IS SUNDAY

Italian Baroque chamber music will be the theme of the second TCU at the Kimbell concert series program at 3 p.m. Feb. 24 in the museum auditorium. The program, presented in conjunction with the museum's exhibition Bernardo Cavallino of Naples, is free on a first-come, first-served basis. The auditorium will open at 2:30 p.m. for this program and for the series finale on March 3.

Selections will be by Girolamo Frescobaldi, who was organist at St. Peter's in the Vatican; Maurizio Cazzati; Francesco Mancini; Benedetto Marcello; and Arcangelo Corelli, whose position in the history of music is assured both by considerable output of distinguished compositions and by his contributions to the development of violin technique.

BULLETIN MAILING PROCEDURE WILL CHANGE

Effective March 12, mailing procedures for the Weekly Bulletin will change. The current practice of bulletins having name labels for each individual will be discontinued in the interest of economy of both time and money.

The new procedure will be for packets of bulletins--sufficient in number for a copy for each employee and/or faculty and staff member in that department or division--to be distributed to the Post Office boxes.

Offices are asked to call the News Service, Ext. 7810, with the number needed. Deadline for notification of total number needed is March 1.

3 OF HARRIS COLLEGE FACULTY RECEIVE CERTIFICATIONS

Three Harris College of Nursing faculty members recently received American Nurses' Association certification in different specialty areas. Certification is granted upon documentation of specific evidence which meets the special criteria for each specialty area and successful completion of a national examination. Marla Buckles received certification as a family nurse practitioner, Ann Kirkham as a clinical specialist in adult psychiatric and mental health nursing and Mildred Hogstel as a gerontological nurse.

SMITH, ADKINS WIN ADDY AWARDS

Judy Oelfke Smith of publications and Margie Adkins of the art department won silver and gold Addy awards, respectively, in the recent competition sponsored by the Fort Worth Ad Club. Announcement of the awards, both in the category of direct mail/traffic-building mail campaign, was made at the club's Feb. 8 dinner.

Designed by Judy, the promotion packet for the half-hour documentary on Mme. Lili Kraus took second-place honors. The materials were provided media across the nation to announce the Jan. 2 airing of "Lili" on PBS. Margie's first place was for the calendar of events she designed for the Amon Carter Museum of Western Art.

REPORT SHOWS 2,736 RESIDENTS ON CAMPUS

The occupancy report for the current semester shows a total of 2,736 campus residents, which is an increase of 15 persons over the 1984 spring term. The record for spring occupancy was 2,806 for the 1983 spring semester, according to the Feb. 12 report by housing director Don Mills.

The campus housing report included these highlights:

- Male students increased by 40 over a year ago (general housing +29, fraternity housing +11)
- Female students decreased by 25 over the 1983 spring total (general housing -20; sorority housing -5)
- Increases in the freshman (6.3 percent) and sophomore (3.8 percent) classes
- Decreases in the junior (9.8 percent) and senior (12.5 percent) classes
- Approximately 70 percent of the campus residents are freshmen and sophomores compared to 65 last spring
- Decrease in campus housing from the 1984 fall term to 1985 spring term is 6.3 percent compared to the 7.3 percent decrease from 1983 fall to 1984 spring semester.

The residential living and housing division continues to study reasons students move off campus, Don noted. At the present, it appears that a desire for privacy is the major criteria, and quieter surroundings is also an often-given reason.

ORCHESTRA TO PERFORM MONDAY

The TCU Music Department Concert Series performance at 8 p.m. Monday in Ed Landreth Auditorium will be a University Orchestra concert under the direction of George Del Gobbo.

The program will include Handel's Water Music in D, Overture and Hornpipe, and Mahler's Kindertotenlieder, featuring mezzo-soprano soloist Loretta Crosthwait, TCU senior from Fort Worth. The orchestra also will perform "The Comedians" by Russian composer Dmitri Kabalevsky. The suite for small orchestra, written in 1940, is one of Kabalevsky's most popular light works.

WOMEN LEADERS COURSE OFFERED IN WASHINGTON

Thanks to TCU's affiliation with the Washington Center, women students have an opportunity to take part in a symposium May 19-June 1 on "Women as Leaders: Preparing Early for Jobs at the Top." Program fee and housing for the two weeks in Washington is $375.

Gene Alpert of political science says TCU will grant one hour of credit on a pass/no credit basis for the course. TCU students should see Gene to register, and women in any academic discipline are eligible. Registration is due by April 8, but applications for scholarship aid must be submitted by March 4.

Keynote speakers will include astronaut Sally Ride, U.S. Civil Rights Commissioner Mary Berry, Federal Communication Commissioner Mimi Dawson, U.S. Rep. Pat Schroder (Dem.-CO), USAF Brig. Gen. Wilma Vaught and Martha Seger, Federal Reserve Systems board member.

Information will be provided on career options and entry job skills; tools and strategies for professional advancement and avoiding common pitfalls for women; balancing personal and professional life goals; and social, economic and legal issues affecting employment opportunities for women.

REVIEWS SET FOR EDUCATION TESTS

TCU students seeking teacher certification should be apprised of three sessions of Pre-Professional Skills Test Review to be held in Bailey Building Room 107. Orientation and general information will be provided at the Thursday session, with a math follow-up scheduled on Feb. 26 and a reading and writing follow-up on Feb. 28.

All sessions will be from 3 to 4 p.m., said Mike Wolfe. Next PPST date for which applications still are being taken is June 29.

'MATH COUNTS' EVENT HELD ON CAMPUS

The local "Math Counts" competition for seventh and eighth grade students from Fort Worth area schools was held Feb. 16 in the Sid W. Richardson Building. Members of the Fort Worth chapter of the National Society of Professional Engineers administered and scored the tests. Local winners of the nationwide competition will compete in Austin and perhaps in Washington, DC.

CAREER PLANNING OFFICE RECEIVES COMPUTER UPDATE

Information on 13 new career options--from information scientist to foreign service officer--has been added to the computerized System of Interactive Guidance and Information, said director Ron Randall of Career Planning and Placement Center.

The system, developed by Educational Testing Service and known as SIGI, provides detailed information on more than 300 occupations including careers in business, science, medicine and the arts. Other careers added this year are anesthesiologist, music therapist and nurse-midwife.

The system also teaches a career decision-making method to help students select fields of greatest interest. ETS updates the system annually to provide the most accurate information available on income, employment outlook, security and necessary education.

Students interested in using SIGI to help in selecting career interests and determining the appropriate curriculum should contact the Career Planning and Placement Center for an appointment.

MORTAR BOARD APPLICATIONS NOW AVAILABLE

Applications for membership consideration in the senior honor society of Mortar Board are available now in the Student Life office, Sadler Hall 101. Junior-level students with grade-point averages of at least 3.1 are encouraged to apply. Deadline for returning applications is Feb. 28.

NOTES ON FOLKS

"A Response to Best on Art and Sport" is a commentary by SPENCER WERTZ (philosophy) appearing in the latest issue of the Journal of Aesthetic Education (University of Illinois).

BOB HAUBOLD (physical plant) has had an article published in the February issue of The APPA Newsletter, the official publication of the Association of Physical Plant Administrators. The article, "Central Plant/Loop Energy Management System: Capital Replacement and Payback Analysis," describes the success of the 1979 chilled water loop installation after five years of operation.

Articles by two TCU faculty members are included in the winter issue of Encounter magazine. KEN LAWRENCE (religion-studies) wrote "Iconographic Problems in the Interpretation of Paintings of Giovanni Bellini," and JIM DUKE (Brite) is the author of "The Christian and the Ethical in Schleiermacher's Christian Ethics."

LINDA MOORE (Social Work) recently taped a program on adolescent suicide for the cable TV program Probe, produced by Tarrant County Junior college.

An article, "'This is the place:' A Regional Approach to Western Literature," by FRED ERISMAN (English) has been published in the current issue of Cross Timbers Review. The article proposes a theoretical framework for studying western writings by considering the ways in which they incorporate setting, action and culture.

JANET GEORGE (admissions) conducted a session on "Selecting a College" at the National Beta Club Convention at the Tarrant County Convention Center on Jan. 19. Prospective student and national secretary Lori Stinson invited TCU participation in the convention following the impressive "Monday at TCU" visit.

A biographical sketch on John H. Reagan, written by historian BEN PROCTER, is to be included in the personal sketches of 25 most outstanding Texans in the state's history that is being published by The Texas Almanac for 1985.

Funeral services were conducted Feb. 9 for PAULINE JONES, long-time PBX operator prior to her retirement in the early 1970s. Active in the PBX Club of Fort Worth and the Numismatic Society, she died Feb. 7 in a local hospital.

AMANDA TULL (residential living) presented a workshop on "The Larger System in the Treatment of Families" at the Texas Association of Marriage and Family Therapy in San Antonio. The workshop focused on the complexity of family therapy, assessing the larger system's impact on family functioning and working with multiple systems when families are referred to therapy by community agencies.

SYDNEY PAYNE WILSON (music) presented a harp recital at Dallas Public Library Sunday under the auspices of the Dallas Harp Society.

Physicist C. A. QUARLES has received word that an article entitled "Double Atomic-Field Bremsstrahlung" has been accepted for publication in the Rapid Communications section of the journal Physical Review. The paper, co-authored with Welch post-doc Dr. Joseph Altman, reports the first observation of a rare radiation process which can occur when an electron scatters from an atom. The observation of this process will provide a new experimental test of the theory of quantum electrodynamics which describes radiation by an electron.

MORE NOTES ON FOLKS

BRUCE MILLER (physics) participated in the Seventh International Conference on Positron Annihilation held in New Delhi, India, Jan. 6-11. He presented two papers, "Quantum-Kinetic Theory of Light Particle Localization in Simple Fluids" and "Transition to Mean Field Behavior of a Quantum Particle in a Classical Gas," and co-authored a third, "Stability Limit for Self-Trapped States of Light Particles in Fluids." Bruce was pleased that his article "Macroscopic Theory of Localization" appeared in the December issue of the Physical Review (part A) and that his proposal "Nonlinear Dynamics" was approved by the INTEL Corporation.

Six biology department graduate students--JULIE HEVALONE, KAT FLIES, HELENE PRALL, DEB OSTROSKY, PERRIANNE BROWBACK and TERRY DAVIS--assisted at the Texas branch meeting of the American Society for Microbiology held Feb. 7-9 in Fort Worth. During the session Perrienne presented a paper on her master's degree research entitled "Nonspecific Stimulation of the Immune System by Listeria monocytogenes Petidoglycan," and Deb spoke on her M.S. research, "Nonspecific Enhancement by Purified Cell Walls from Corynebacterium xerosis, Listeria denitrificans, Listeria grayi, and Listeria murrayi."

JOHN LOUD (modern languages) has published this month a literary translation of the memoirs by Milovan Djilas entitled "Rise and Fall." Djilas is the well-known Yugoslav novelist and critic of communism. Harcourt Brace Jovanovich is the English language publisher.

SANDERS LYLES (emeritus, biology) was honored at the Feb. 7-9 microbiology society meeting as emeritus member of the Texas branch.

Journalism chairman DOUG NEWSOM is one of four newly elected members of the board of trustees for the Foundation for Public Relations Research and Education. These persons will serve three-year terms.

DARYL SCHMIDT (religion-studies) has an article, "The Study of Hellenistic Greek Grammar in the Light of Contemporary Linguistics," in the current issue of Perspectives in Religious Studies (Winter, 1984).

The winter issue of the Sigma Alpha Iota Quarterly, PAN PIPES, included a write-up of RALPH GUENTHER (emeritus, music). This issue of the magazine is traditionally devoted to the American composer and the various activities in the field of serious composition. Ralph's work as composer has been noted in this annual publication each year since 1955. The work of two graduate students in music, GLENN SPRING and ANDY PATTERSON, also was noted.
