TRUSTEE ROWAND WILL SPEAK TO CLARK SOCIETY

Trustee Mary Louise Rowand of Dallas, well known for her leadership in both civic and religious organizations, will be the speaker Thursday for the eighth annual meeting of TCU's Addison and Randolph Clark Society. The black-tie event in the Gulf-Atlantic Room of the Americana Hotel will begin with a 7 p.m. reception.

Presiding at the 7:45 p.m. dinner will be society chairman Jean Roach. A report to the membership will be given by Chancellor Bill Tucker, who also will introduce the speaker.

The society, honoring TCU's co-founding brothers Addison and Randolph Clark, was inaugurated in 1978 with a number of Clark family descendents taking part. Membership recognizes both annual and cumulative donations and includes Chancellor's Associates, Chancellor's Fellows, life members, life associates and life fellows.

Dr. Rowand, an ordained minister of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) is past president of the International Christian Women's Fellowship. As former national president of Church Women United, she headed a quarter of a million women in the national ecumenical movement uniting Protestant, Catholic and Orthodox women in fellowship and action through some 2,000 units throughout the United States and in 170 other countries. She has a long record of service on the Dallas Area Board of Christian Churches and formerly was vice president of the Dallas Council of Churches.

Awarded an honorary Doctor of Divinity degree by TCU in 1979, she was named for more than a decade by the Dallas Times-Herald as one of the top ten women news shapers in the Dallas area. In 1974 and again in 1977 Dallas mayors proclaimed a "Mary Louise Rowand Day."

Dr. Rowand and her husband, minister emeritus of Dallas' Central Christian Church, have led travel seminars abroad since 1958. In addition to visiting the People's Republic of China in 1978 and 1979, she has conducted a speaking tour through Poland, Yugoslavia and East Germany. A guest teacher in Southern Methodist University's School of Continuing Education, she served 10 years on the Women's Council of Dallas.

SPORTSWRITING SCHOLARSHIP HONORS NOTED ALUMNUS

A scholarship for collegiate journalists interested in sportswriting is being established in honor of a TCU alumnus who has achieved national acclaim as a sportswriter and novelist. The Dan Jenkins Sportswriting Scholarship in the journalism department is the result of a $50,000 gift from the well-known Fort Worth native and his family.

The first $1,500 scholarship will be awarded for the 1985-86 academic year. The initial recipient will be eligible for a renewal the following year, when an additional junior-level student will hold a Jenkins award.

Chancellor Bill Tucker praised Dan for investing in the profession which launched his career. "At least two students each year for generations to come will have a chance to develop their craft as sportswriters because of Dan's thoughtful generosity," he said.

Dan noted that his wife, alumna June Burrage Jenkins, their daughter Sally and two sons Marty and Danny joined him "in making this gift to the university that has meant so much to me personally."

Dan added: "In a way, I like to think this is also a gift to Fort Worth, a place I dearly love. TCU flows through the veins of my old hometown. I've been aware of it since I was a kid on the South Side. I'm equally aware that TCU has always represented much of what is best about Fort Worth."

A three-year letterman and former captain of the TCU golf team, Dan is a 1953 TCU graduate who gained national attention as a writer for Sports Illustrated magazine. From 1962 through 1984, he wrote a record number of articles--more than 500--for the Time, Inc. publication. His stories have been included in more than 25 anthologies of sports and humor.

Earlier this year, Dan was lured away from Sports Illustrated to begin a monthly sports column for Playboy magazine and to become a contributing editor who will cover the major golf championships for Golf Digest magazine, a subsidiary of the New York Times. A resident of New York City for the last 23 years, Dan is the author of eight books and has a novel in progress. His first three books were non-fiction works: "The Best 18 Golf Holes in America" (Delacorte), "The Dogged Victims of Inexorable Fate" (Little, Brown), and "Saturday's America" (Little, Brown).

The first of his five best-selling novels, "Semi-Tough" (Atheneum), was published in 1972. It became a popular motion picture starring Burt Reynolds, Kris Kristofferson and Jill Clayburgh. "Dead Solid Perfect" (Atheneum) was published in 1974. Two more novels for Atheneum followed: "Limo" in 1976, co-authored with TCU alumnus Bud Shrake, and "Baja Oklahoma" in 1981. Last fall from Simon and Schuster came "Life Its Ownself," a sequel to "Semi-Tough." "Life Its Ownself," with more than 150,000 copies in print, has been Jenkins' most successful book to date, and like all of the others it has been sold to Hollywood.

Jenkins began his journalistic career at the Fort Worth Press while a TCU student. He became sports editor of the Press in 1957. In 1961-62, before moving to New York to join Sports Illustrated, Jenkins was sports director and columnist for the Dallas Times-Herald.

Recognized as TCU's Homecoming Honoree in 1982, Jenkins was the recipient of the alumni association's Frog O' Fame award in 1971.

In all of his books and many of his articles, Jenkins has invariably called upon his days in Fort Worth--and at TCU--for background, humor, inspiration and flavor. One of his most popular articles, "When the Frogs Were Princes," a story which detailed TCU's glory days in football, appeared in the Aug. 31, 1981 issue of Sports Illustrated.

EDUCATION, CHILD DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY TO SPEAK

Dr. Urie Bronfenbrenner of Cornell University, recognized as one of the world's leading authorities on education and child development, will present a public lecture April 1 on campus. "The Family and Education: Friends or Enemies" will be the topic for the free program, starting at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Center ballroom.

The School of Education is sponsoring the visit by Dr. Bronfenbrenner, who is a strong advocate for more attention to the relationship between adults and children outside the school building. "Dr. Bronfenbrenner contends that the education reform movement to date has placed too much of the responsibility for the problems in educational reform at the door of school officials and not enough on other community institutions that affect families and child development," said education dean John Mangieri.

The speaker, an alumnus of Cornell and Harvard universities and holder of the Ph.D. degree from the University of Michigan, is a Jacob Gould Schurman Professor of Human Development and Family Studies as well as professor of psychology at Cornell. One of the founders of the Head Start program, he has participated in federal and international commissions on children. These have included the Committee on Child Development Research and Public Policy of the National Research Council/National Academy of Sciences, the scientific advisory board of the Max Planck Institute of Education Research in Berlin and the blue ribbon panel of experts on Head Start appointed by the Secretary of Health and Human Services.

Dr. Bronfenbrenner is the author of numerous cross-cultural research studies that appear in scholarly papers as well as in the highly respected "Two Worlds of Childhood: US and USSR," issued in 1970, and "The Ecology of Human Development," 1979. Currently in press is his book entitled "On Making Human Beings Human."

Honors bestowed on the educator-scholar include honorary doctoral degrees from Brigham Young University, the University of Munster, West Germany, and the University of Gothenburg, Sweden. He recently received the New York State Board of Regents' Medal of Excellence and the outstanding achievement award from the University of Michigan.

PRINTMAKING EXHIBITION OPENS APRIL 4

Printmaker Jill Hoffman will show narrative works in a Master of Fine Arts thesis exhibition opening April 4 in Moudy Building exhibition space. The free showing will continue through April 10, open from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays and from 1 to 4 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays.

The lithographs, woodcuts and monoprints deal with an assortment of common objects. Also on view will be large drawings by Ms. Hoffman, whose home is in Salado. Her undergraduate degree is from Stephen F. Austin State University.

TRACKSTERS KEEP FROGS IN SPOTLIGHT

Frog tracksters Donna Thomas, Roscoe Tatum and Raymond Stewart posted times that kept TCU in the spotlight during the early March NCAA Indoor Track and Field Championships. A Fort Worth freshman, Donna finished second with a 21-5¼ in the long jump behind Olympian Carol Lewis and placed third in the triple jump with a 42-4.

Roscoe, the Carthage freshman who is running back for the football Frogs, finished third with a 6.21 in the 55-meter dash. Freshman Raymond Stewart from Kingston, Jamaica, took fourth place behind Roscoe with a 6.22.

In team standings, the Purple sprinters were tied in 15th place in the men's events and 14th in women's competition.

FIRE DEPARTMENT WILL INSPECT BUILDINGS

As called for in a new city ordinance, the fire department will conduct an annual inspection of all campus buildings for fire safety. Such an inspection, now in progress, will continue for several weeks.

"You can assist us by making sure that empty boxes and other unused items are removed from stairwells and storage areas," said Vice Chancellor Howard Wible in announcing the program. "You also can be helpful by cooperating with the inspectors and physical plant representatives when they are inspecting your building."

Cooperation and prompt attention are requested if the inspector indicates that items must be removed or stored in a more orderly manner. "It is for the life and safety of us all," Howard added.

BLOUNT RECEIVES GRANT TO CONTINUE NASA WORK

Physicist Charles Blount, recipient of a NASA Faculty Fellowship for 1985, has accepted an invitation to return to the Space System Division of the NASA Langley Research Center to continue research he initiated there last summer.

A visiting professor and lecturer at Ireland's Trinity College in 1980, Charles is one of 100 engineering and science faculty members from across the nation awarded fellowships for summer research in areas of interest to both them and the NASA center. His on-going project at the Hampton, VA, center, involves solar-powered lasers which will be used to energize this nation's space station.

Charles, who holds the M.S. and Ph.D. degrees in physics from Texas A&M University, spent 1970-71 as visiting professor at the University Chemical Laboratories in Cambridge, England. His research findings have been published in leading professional journals.

THIS IS GREEK WEEK

Greek Week, based on the theme "Olympian Ideals: Our United Pursuit for Excellence," will continue through Friday with daily activities planned by Order of Omega, Interfraternity Council and Panhellenic Council. Kathy Sperry, senior from Mission Hills, KS, is student chairperson.

A special Greek Week chapel service will be conducted at 12:30 p.m. today (Tuesday) in Robert Carr Chapel. Wednesday's event will be an invitation-only faculty mixer at the home of Chancellor and Mrs. Bill Tucker.

Republican state party chairman and former Texas secretary of state George Strake will be the speaker for the Greek Leadership Awards Banquet at 5 p.m. Thursday in Student Center ballroom. Strake's daughter, Melanie, is a sophomore journalism major at TCU. Reservations for the banquet must be made by noon tomorrow in Student Activities office and may be charged to meal cards.

Activities Friday will include Greek Olympics, beginning at 3 p.m. at the Worth Hills courtyard, and an all-campus party from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. at Mule Barn E in the Will Rogers Memorial Complex. King Cobra will play, and admission will be $5, with all proceeds going to the Epilepsy Foundation. More information is available from Troy Moore or Anne Trask in Student Activities, Ext. 7926.

TCU HOSTS CHILDREN'S FESTIVAL SATURDAY

Any kid who'd like to play basketball with Dennis Nutt or learn yells from TCU cheerleaders will get that chance Saturday. Nutt and other basketball and football players, Super Frog and the cheerleaders will be among the stars of the TCU Children's Festival, a gigantic school carnival to be staged from 12:30 to 4 p.m. that day.

The event is planned for youngsters ages 4 to 12, and activities will be spread out along the west side of University Drive. Admission is $2.50 for kids, free for parents.

TCU kinesiological studies majors will supervise fitness activities like weightlifting, strength-testing and tightrope-walking. But non-athletes will find lots to do, too. Would-be dancers may take lessons from ballet and modern dance majors. There will be mirror writing and string art lessons, clown faces and T-shirt painting, puppet shows and food booths.

Kids may have their photos made by computer in the Bailey Building, courtesy of the Computer Science Club at the High School of Financial Professions at Polytechnic High and TCU student teachers. They might even take time for a little practical learning in a fun atmosphere, as TCU Harris College of Nursing Students teach "Patching Your Body" and "Poisons--No" and nutrition majors pass along instruction for yummy but health snacks.

Entrance to the festival will be on Bellaire Drive North just west of University Drive. Rain date will be April 13. The festival is sponsored by the TCU School of Education, Kappa Delta Pi, Phi Delta Kappa and Texas Student Education Association along with Fort Worth's Association of Educators of Young Children.

NTSU OFFERS FACULTY DEVELOPMENT STUDY/TRAVEL

A five-week study/travel program designed for faculty development, offered through North Texas State University's higher and adult education division, is open to faculty members from other institutions. Headed by Dr. Barry Lumsden, the study of "International Perspectives on College and University Teaching" will include on-site visits to major centers of learning throughout Wales, Scotland and England. The six hours' credit may be applied toward Ed.D. or Ph.D. degrees.

The July 13-Aug. 16 program is limited to 30 college or university faculty members. Information on the reservations still open is available from Lumsden at NTSU, Box 13857, Denton 76203 or 276-3731, Ext. 4074 (toll free).

AA OFFICER STRESSES HIRING HANDICAPPED

TCU's commitment to equal employment opportunities for all qualified applicants for University positions is the subject of a reminder from Affirmative Action officer Howard Wible. He urges units with vacancies to get in touch with the Personnel Office to see if there are qualified applicants among the physically impaired who should be included among those being interviewed.

A report shared recently in the Affirmative Action Committee indicated that during the last 18 months 93 impaired persons have sought jobs with the University, and none were hired.

DEPARTMENT HOSTS PHYSICAL FITNESS MEET

One hundred and twenty-three elementary and secondary physical educators from the Metroplex along with TCU faculty members and students took part in The Physical Fitness of Youth conference on campus March 9. Hosting the gathering were the physical education department and the Tarrant County Medical Society.

ART SHOW AND SALE IS TOMORROW

An exhibition and sale of original 19th and 20th Century graphic works from Japan, Europe and America will be held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. tomorrow (Wednesday) in the Student Center lobby. Prices begin at under $10.

The Frank Lyons Collection of Baltimore, MD, includes 19th Century etching and photography; contemporary as well as antique Japanese woodcuts; modern works in lithography, silkscreen and intaglio; 100 years of photography; and a variety of contemporary poster art. A representative will be available to answer questions about the works.

FRIENDS OF LIBRARIES TO HEAR AARON

Dr. Daniel Aaron of Harvard, editor of The Library of America series, will be speaker March 29 for the 13th annual dinner of Friends of TCU Libraries. Preceded by a 6:15 p.m. reception, the Colonial Country Club dinner will begin at 7 p.m. Guests are welcome, and reservations at $16 per person may be made by sending checks to P.O. Box 32904.

Dr. Aaron is Victor S. Thomas Professor of English and American Literature at Harvard, where he also directs the History of American Civilization Program. Since 1979 he has been president and editor of The Library of America, a non-profit publishing program supported by the National Endowment for the Humanities and the Ford Foundation.

The library began publishing the collected works of America's foremost authors in uniform hardcover editions in 1983. Beginning with Herman Melville, Nathaniel Hawthorne, Walt Whitman and Harriet Beecher Stowe, it has put out 23 volumes of the projected 60-volume set. In January, The Library of America won a National Book Circle Award for "distinguished contributions to the enhancement of American literary and critical standards."

Dr. Aaron, a graduate of the University of Michigan, holds the Ph.D. from Harvard and was professor of English and director of American Studies at Smith College before joining the Harvard faculty in 1971. He was president of the American Studies Association in 1971-73.

He has been a visiting professor at Bennington College, the University of Helsinki, University of Warsaw, MIT, University of Sussex, USC, Brandeis and the University of Texas. He also has been a member of the Social Sciences/Humanities Delegation to the People's Republic of China and directed the Salzburg Seminar in American Studies.

EIF ALUMNI AWARD SCHOLARSHIP

Wayne Boyle, a Master of Business Administration student in the Neeley School, is recipient of the first Educational Investment Fund Alumni Scholarship. The award was made during a special presentation March 4.

The Educational Investment Fund, the largest student-managed fund in the United States, began in 1973 with a gift of 16,000 shares of Alcon Laboratories Inc. stock from Dr. William C. Conner, co-founder of Alcon and TCU board member.

The fund's alumni association was formed last year by former members in order to promote the fund and to assist current members through a scholarship program. The $500 alumni award will be given each semester, including the summer term, to a student currently enrolled in the program.

Boyle, who became a member of the fund in the fall of 1984, was chairman of its computer implementation committee and is currently portfolio manager. He will graduate in May and will remain in the Fort Worth/Dallas area in the field of financial analysis or investment banking. The Canadian came to TCU because of his interest in the Educational Investment Fund. A graduate of the University of New Brunswick in Fredericton, he received a B.S. degree in computer science in 1983.

JAZZ FESTIVAL IS BIGGEST IN STATE

The TCU Jazz Festival, still the largest in Texas despite cutbacks due to state school reforms, will draw 21 high school bands to the campus Friday and Saturday.

The Saturday night Jazz Festival concert will feature Chicago saxophonist Roger Pemberton performing with TCU's Jazz Ensembles. The concert starts at 8 p.m. in Ed Landreth Auditorium, and admission will be $3 with TCU ID, $5 for all others.

A former studio musician and arranger for the Westinghouse and CBS networks, Pemberton has recorded albums with Woody Herman, Maynard Ferguson and Les Hooper and has cut an album called Roger Pemberton "Chicago Jazz" with his own 17-piece jazz band.

An accomplished clinician in the areas of woodwinds, improvisation, arranging and jazz ensemble, Pemberton will be joined as a clinician for the festival by trumpeter Don Jacoby; Dr. Don Verne Joseph, former band director at Drury College; and Rick Stitzel of TCJC-South.

The competition, starting at 4 p.m. Friday and continuing throughout the day Saturday in Ed Landreth, will draw 3A groups from Wylie High School, Rosebud-Lott High School in Rosebud, Northwest high in Justin, Midlothian high, DeSoto second band and Comanche High School. Competing in 4A classification will be Weatherford, Lockhart and Liberty high bands, first band from DeSoto, Westlake high of Austin, Marcus high of Lewisville and Martin high second band from Arlington. Coming from 5A schools will be Newman Smith high of Carrollton, Arlington Martin first band, Lakeview Centennial high of Garland, Lewisville high, Roosevelt high of Des Moines, IA, and two Dallas bands, Kimball and R.L. Turner.

Curt Wilson says visitors are welcome to attend the competition sessions at no charge.

MBA STUDENTS WIN CONFERENCE COMPETITION

The Neeley School of Business took Southwest Conference honors for the second consecutive year, winning first place in the seventh annual MBA Case Competition. Master of business administration students Brad Lowry, Phyllis Paulsel and Wayne Boyle represented TCU in the Feb. 8-9 competition at Texas A&M. Competitors included Rice, Baylor, University of Houston, SMU and A&M.

Each team was asked to analyze a business case concerning an actual operating enterprise. Students were required to identify problems facing the company's management, develop alternative solutions to problems, recommend a solution and defend that selection in an oral presentation before a panel of six industrial executives. The TCU team won by unanimous choice.

All teams analyzed strategic and marketing problems of the Merloni Group, an international manufacturer of household appliances. Part of the problem was to develop a new organizational structure for the Italian-based group. Members of TCU's team, chosen by their peers in the Neeley School, are students enrolled in Allen Self's class, which teaches students to develop case studies for problem-solving in actual corporate situations.

'LANDSCAPE' OPENS TOMORROW

Photographs by rising young artists from throughout the United States will make up "Landscape," to be shown tomorrow (Wednesday) through April 20 in Brown-Lupton Gallery. Luther Smith of the art department is curator of the invitational exhibition, which opens with a public reception from 4:30 to 6 p.m. today in the Gallery.

One of the photographers, Skeet McAuley, who teaches at NTSU, will present a Brown Bag slide/lecture at noon April 10 in the Gallery. McAuley, who holds the M.F.A. degree from Ohio University, photographs manmade structures in the landscape.

Photographs of Midwestern landscapes that are under cultivation will be shown by Rondal McKinney, who holds the M.F.A. from the University of Illinois and teaches photography at Illinois State. Lawrence McFarland of Tucson, AZ, will be represented by traditional landscape photographs of the Southwest. He has an M.F.A. from the University of Nebraska.

Kathryn Paul, who teaches at Southern Illinois University, photographs densely forested areas, and Earl Iverson, who teaches at the University of Kansas at Lawrence, uses both rural and urban environments in Kansas for his settings. His graduate degree is from the Rhode Island School of Design. Jim Baker, who teaches at the University of Texas at Dallas, photographs idealized landscapes, untouched or little touched areas.

Hours for the showing are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays, 1 to 4 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays.

DONNA EDWARDS TO PERFORM MONDAY

Donna Edwards will present the TCU Music Department Concert Series piano recital at 8 p.m. Monday in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

Donna, who was assistant to Mme. Lili Kraus, will perform Aaron Copland's Passacaglia, Sonata K. 332 in F Major by Mozart, Chopin's Ballade Op. 25 in G Minor and Etudes Symphoniques by Schumann.

NOTES ON FOLKS

Historian BEN PROCTER attended the Texas State Historical Association meeting in Fort Worth Feb. 28-March 2. He was the program chairman for the three-day meeting which had 27 sessions. He also introduced Dr. Melvin Kranzberg of Georgia Tech, the foremost authority on the history of technology, at the TSHA Saturday luncheon.

Graveside services were conducted March 7 at White Rose Cemetery in Wills Point for CARMEN HUBBARD, former secretary in the public relations division. Survivors include a sister, Dora Hubbard Glenn, and several nieces and nephews.

MIKE WOLFE (education) received two plaques March 6 from the Fort Worth Independent School District calling attention to the TCU School of Education as a Volunteer-of-the-Year for its participation in FWISD's Adopt-a-School Program. During the current school year, TCU students have volunteered many hours to provide tutorial assistance in several Fort Worth schools.

Philippe Lefebvre, organist of Chartres Cathedral, was a recent house guest of EMMET (music) and JUDY SMITH (publications) and taught two keyboard improvisation classes for TCU students during his visit. After playing a recital in Dallas, Lefebvre presented Emmet with a composition in honor of Emmet's organ on which he practiced during his Fort Worth stay.

Three of four Fort Worth teachers who have recently received top honors have connections with TCU's School of Education. SEPTIMA GREEN (M.Ed. '81), a fourth grade teacher at Bruce Shulkey Elementary School, was runner-up to Teacher of the Year in Texas for 1984. JOHN HAMILTON, who holds a couple of TCU degrees and is math chairman at Paschal, was one of two state winners in competition for the Presidential Awards for Excellence in Mathematics Teaching. REBECCA SALDIVAR, currently enrolled in TCU's special graduate program for North Side teachers, was named Outstanding Young Educator by the Fort Worth Junior Chamber of Commerce.

HARRY OPPERMAN (English) read from his fiction for the Texas Association of Creative Writing Teachers Feb. 21-23 in San Antonio. At the Conference of College Teachers of English in San Antonio early this month, Harry was elected secretary of the Creative Writing Section.

RALPH BEHNKE (speech communication) has been certified as a first-class engineer by the National Association of Radio and Telecommunication Engineers with special endorsements in Video Production Technology and Broadcast FM. A former electronics instructor for the Air Force, Ralph is also licensed by the Federal Communications Commission. He has published 10 articles in the past two years on the use of computers and video technology in communication instruction.

Two annual awards have been made for the best paper on pedagogy delivered for the Conference of College Teachers of English, and both have been presented to TCU folks. The 1985 award, made during the CCTE meeting March 7-9 in San Antonio, went to DAVID CHAPMAN, doctoral student, for his paper on "Audience Dynamics: Motivation and Threat." The first award was won in 1984 by DAVID VANDERWERKEN.

MORE NOTES ON FOLKS

DAVID CONN (art) started off this year with four exhibitions in four cities. His work was exhibited at Dutch Philips' Fort Worth Gallery, in Dallas at Adams Middleton Gallery, a One-Man Exhibition of Works on Paper at the Caroline Lee Gallery, San Antonio. In December David's prints were included in the 10th International Independent Exhibition of Prints, Kanagawa '84, in Yokohama, Japan.

The first annual meeting of the Philological Association of Louisiana, held March 8-9 at the University of Southwestern Louisiana in Lafayette, was directed by a TCU Ph.D., CARMEN CRAMER. Among the papers were "The Structure of Willa Cather's Death Comes to the Archbishop" by faculty member CHRISTINA MURPHY; "The Contracted Musical Word: Ralph Waldo Emerson's Use of Apogem," NANCY PRICE, TCU doctoral student; "What Is in a Name: Toni Morrison's Song of Ourselves," PAMELA R. HOWELL, TCU Ph.D. now teaching at Midland College. STEVE WILSON, graduate student in English, read from his poetry.

TCU physics department faculty and graduate students delivered research papers at the March 8-9 meeting of the Texas section, American Physical Society, at Rice. RICHARD LYSIAK and doctoral candidates CHING-YU HSUEH and TING-JI WANG presented two papers on their work on wavefront reconstruction by laser-stimulated backscattering. Results of research on inter-stellar molecules and fossil fuel characterization studies were presented in three papers by BILL GRAHAM and Ph.D. students ROBERT SHEPHERD, SANWAR ALI and RICHARD SHEPHERD. C. A. QUARLES, current chairman of the Texas section, presided at the concurrent spring meeting of the American Association of Physics Teachers and chaired a session on pedagogy and general physics.

JOHN MANGIERI and JOHN ARNN (education) were speakers for the 1985 Texas Association of Black Personnel in Higher Education conference in Fort Worth March 8. Their presentation was titled "The Merits and Mechanics of Research and Writing in Higher Education."

PENG FAN (mathematics) has just had a paper appear in Mathematische Zeitschrift. The paper is entitled "Cartesian and Polar Decompositions of Hyponormal Operations."

On March 14 BEN PROCTER (history) spoke to the Sons of the Republic of Texas, Dallas chapter, on "The Battle of the Alamo." He has also received notification that a monograph entitled "The Battle of the Alamo" will be published by the Texas State Historical Association.

A series of offering on fluid, electrolyte and acid-base balance for continuing education for nurses, authored by MARY TAYLOR MARTOF (Harris College), has been approved by the Department of Continuing Education for the Vanderbilt University School of Nursing. The series is being issued in the first three 1985 volumes in the Journal of Nephrology Nursing.

Coach JIM WACKER is one of the chairmen for Saturday's Second Annual Celebrity Invitational Cookoff, to be held in the Cowtown Coliseum from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. The Tarrant County Chili Society, sponsor of the event, is a part of the Texas Enterprise Foundation and will use proceeds for the foundation's scholarships to minority and disadvantaged students. Jim is reported to have agreed to cook "unbelievable" chili for the news media.

MORE NOTES ON FOLKS

All-America running back KENNETH DAVIS was presented the 35th annual Southwest Conference Sportsmanship Award by the Kiwanis Club of Fort Worth during March 14 luncheon ceremonies.

ART BERLINER (social work) presented a paper, "Judeo-Christian Orthodoxy's Threat to a Sustainable Society," at the southwestern meeting of the Society for the Scientific Study of Religion in Dallas March 15. The paper also has been printed in the society's Proceedings.

BABBILI RECEIVES NATIONAL TEACHING AWARD

Journalist Anantha Babbili is one of 13 winners of a 1985 National Teaching Award. The competition, which attracted more than 50 candidates this year, is supported by The Poynter Institute for Media Studies and sponsored by the education committees of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, Associated Press Managing Editors and the National Conference of Editorial Writers.

Awardees will attend a five-day seminar at The Poynter Institute in St. Petersburg, FL, in June to work with journalists, English teachers, writing coaches and student representatives in sharing ideas and developing innovative teaching techniques. In addition to TCU, institutions represented by award recipients include Syracuse, San Francisco State, University of South Carolina, New York University, University of Miami and Ohio State.

BUSINESS CONTINUES INTERNATIONAL OFFERINGS

From Tokyo to Cologne, students in Neeley School are getting on the job training in international business. Since 1978, Bob Boatler (finance) has directed the 16-year-old summer program in Germany. Its success prompted Bob and Ed Johnson to investigate the possibility of foreign study in the far east.

The focus on Asian business practices began with an on-campus course entitled Japan Seminar during spring 1984. Last summer Bob initiated the Asian Business Seminars, a travel-study program in Tokyo, Hong Kong and China. The second trip this summer will be July 18 through Aug. 10.

In Tokyo, students will visit J. Walter Thompson advertising firm, Mitsubishi, Price Waterhouse, International Business Machines Corporation, Tandy Corporation, Nissan-Sony and the Japanese brokerage company of Yamaichi Securities. The stay in Tokyo will be followed by trips to Hong Kong and People's Republic of China.

Other students have chosen to extend their foreign study experience by taking internships in overseas companies. This summer four students will work with the Tandy Corporation and Alcon Laboratories in Belgium. A fifth Tandy intern will spend the summer in England, while Lubbe Verlag printing and publishing company in Germany will be the site for another student's internship.
