SURVEY SHOWS JOB PLACEMENT 'ALMOST PHENOMENAL'

Recent business forecasts have projected an improved job market facing 1985 college graduates. If that holds true for TCU'S May graduates, their rate of job placement should prove to be almost phenomenal, since 81 percent of the 1984 graduates responding to a University survey reported that within three months of graduation last year they were "settled." While 13 percent were in graduate school, 68.5 percent were in their initial post-college jobs. Additionally, they indicated a high level of job satisfaction.

Director Ron Randall of the Career Planning and Placement Center described the study—including all bachelor's, master's and doctoral graduates from December 1983, May 1984 and August 1984—as a comprehensive compilation of information regarding the status, location, salaries, employers and job titles of graduates.

Three contacts were made with each class: at graduation, eight weeks later and finally 12 weeks after graduation. Of a total 1,040 bachelor's, 294 master's and 32 Ph.D. degrees, responses were received from 782 bachelor's, 182 master's and 17 doctor's for an overall response rate of about 70 percent.

Eighty-seven percent of the respondents indicated they are satisfied with their positions, which paid from $5,000 to $60,000 annually. Average salaries of those reporting were $17,630 for bachelor's, $23,289 for master's and $28,417 for Ph.D. degree holders.

A total of 360 of the bachelor's degree recipients were employed in the Metroplex, for an average of 71 percent, while another 14 percent were employed in Texas outside the Metroplex.

When the Class of 1984 entered TCU in the fall of 1980, 52 percent of them were from Texas and 46 percent from out of state. Data from the current survey shows that 33 percent of the non-Texans chose to remain in Texas following graduation.

The same percentages applied to those who earned master's degrees. Sixty percent of those who held doctorates stayed in the Metroplex and another 20 percent in other areas of Texas.

Major employers of the graduates were TCU itself, which hired 20 of the 1984 class members; General Dynamics, 14; U.S. Air Force, 14; Fort Worth Independent School District, 13; Campus Crusade for Christ, 6; Arlington Independent School District 6; Tandy Corporation, 6; and Xerox, 5.

SERVICES FOR ORANGE HELD JUNE 19

Funeral services for John A. Orange Jr., assistant professor of modern languages who died June 16 at his home after a lengthy illness, were conducted June 19 at the San Mateo Hall Catholic Church in Fort Worth. Burial was in Lone Cedar Cemetery in Mansfield, OK.

A native of Ardmore, OK, John joined the faculty as an instructor in 1977 and was named an assistant professor in 1982. The Drake University alumnus completed the M.A. degree at Wichita State University in 1968 and received the Ph.D. in 1980 at the University of Texas at Austin. Formerly a teacher in the public schools of Goddard, KS, he had been a translator and assistant instructor at UT-Austin. John, who served in the Army during the Korean War, was a member of the honor societies of Phi Sigma Iota and Sigma Delta Pi.

Survivors include his wife, Suzanne Dutton Orange; two sons, Gregg and Jeffrey; and three stepdaughters, all of Fort Worth. The family suggests memorial donations to the American Cancer Society.

SURVEY SHOWS ATTRACTIVENESS OF AREA SCHOOLS

TCU, the University of Texas at Arlington and UT-Austin are the destinations of a significant number of Fort Worth-area school graduates. A total of 425 college-bound seniors from 10 west and southwest Tarrant County high schools indicated they planned to attend one of these institutions. The numbers were 139 to TCU, 179 to UTA and 107 to UT-Austin.

An almost equal number—413—gave Tarrant County Junior College as their answer in a survey conducted by high school counselors. The study showed that of 2,412 seniors at Castleberry, Arlington Heights, Burleson, Crowley, Fort Worth Country Day, Trinity Valley, Southwest, Paschal, Western Hills and Brewer high schools at least 58 percent or 1,410 are planning on enrolling in college this fall, according to a feature in the June 19 issue of the Star-Telegram's EXTRA.

Other institutions and those indicating plans to attend there were SMU, 10; North Texas, 57; Baylor, 49; Texas Tech, 42; A&M, 60; Austin College, 21; Tarleton State, 29; and TWC, 29. "Other" was the response of 275 seniors.

THEATRE OFFERING HALF-PRICE TICKETS

For the last show of its current season, Circle Theatre is offering tickets at half price for TCU faculty and staff members as well as students. Discount cards, available at the Student Center information desk, can be taken to the theatre's box office to exchange for the discounted tickets. Located on Bluebonnet Circle, the box office is open from 3 to 6 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays.

The final show, scheduled to open Friday and run through Aug. 3 is "Bleacher Bums." The play is described as a "nine-inning comedy about Chicago Cub fans."

BANK EXECUTIVE TO HEAD TCU/TARRANT COUNTY CAMPAIGN

Martin C. Bowen, president and chief executive officer of First City National Bank of Fort Worth, will head the TCU/Tarrant County campaign for 1985. His leadership for the eighth annual fund drive was announced by Dee J. Kelly, chairman of the board of trustees' development committee.

The campaign will open in October with a task force of some 500 volunteers. Gift requests in the county-wide effort will be made for instructional and scholarship assistance, research and graduate education, athletics and general University support.

"Volunteers working on behalf of the Annual Fund for TCU have a responsibility as significant as any they have ever held as they convey the tremendous impact that the University has on our community," said Bowen, who headed the business and industry group for the 1984 campaign. "For 75 years TCU has been meeting the educational and cultural needs of Tarrant County—attracting the best and the brightest while providing continuing education programs, conducting research for businesses and industry and pouring millions each year into our economy.

"The future of the University, to an important degree, rests in the hands of the Annual Fund volunteers," Bowen added, "as they help to shape today's dreams into tomorrow's realities by building a more vibrant university and community."

A graduate of Texas A&M University and holder of the Juris Doctor degree from Baylor University, Bowen is well known for his civic leadership. He is a vice chairman of both the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce and the Downtown Fort Worth Inc. He currently is president of the Fort Worth Symphony Orchestra Association.

Bowen is a director and serves on the executive committees of the North Central Texas chapter of the March of Dimes, Fort Worth Clearing House Association and Arts Council of Fort Worth and Tarrant County. A group manager of the United Way of Metropolitan Tarrant County, he also serves as a director of Big Brothers and Sisters of Tarrant County and the Tarrant County chapter of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Group managers for the 1985 TCU/TCC will be named later.

JUST A REMINDER...

...of the upcoming reception hosted by Vice Chancellor Bill Koehler for parents of new students taking part in summer orientation sessions. The event is set for July 8 from 2:15 to 3:15 p.m. in the Faculty Center.

...of Independence Day holiday on July 4.

NEW FACULTY/STAFF APPOINTMENTS

A lecturer in the geological sciences department at UT-Austin for the last three years, ARTHUR BUSBEY will join the geology department in the fall. Holder of two degrees from UT and the Ph.D. from the University of Chicago, he is a specialist in vertebrate and invertebrate paleontology. Two of his studies are soon to be published in the Journal of Vertebrate Paleontology.

Superintendent of Reed-Custer Schools since 1978, KIP SULLIVAN will move here from Custer Park, IL, in August to become assistant professor in education. He holds two degrees from Bradley University in addition to Ed. S. and Ed. D. degrees from Western Illinois University and Loyola University of Chicago, respectively. Active in a number of professional organizations, he is author of "Mayor Cermak and the Chicago Public Schools," to be published by Vitae Scholasticae.

COLETTE FRAYNE, joining the faculty in August as assistant professor of management, has been a research and teaching associate in the University of Washington's Graduate School of Business since 1982. She also has been administrative management consultant for the Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center in Seattle. The alumna of the universities of Delaware and San Diego holds the Ph.D. from Washington. Last year she was a featured speaker at the Toronto meet of the American Institute for Decision Sciences.

A part-time instructor since 1980, PAUL KING will become a full-time member of the speech communications department in the fall. The alumnus of Hardin-Simmons University and TCU will receive the Ph.D. degree at North Texas State in August.

LEE DANIEL, joining the modern languages department this fall, has been a faculty member at Southwestern Oklahoma State University since 1980. Earlier the former high school teacher was a lecturer in Spanish at the University of Arkansas and an instructor at Texas Tech. An alumnus of Tarleton State and North Texas, he earned the Ph.D. degree at Texas Tech. His studies have appeared in Hispania, Letras Femeninas, La Chispa and Latin American Theatre Review.

A visiting assistant professor last year, TOMMY THOMASON has accepted a full-time appointment to the journalism department. The alumnus of Ouachita Baptist and East Texas State universities was director of public relations for Dallas Baptist University in 1982-84. Author of a number of articles on early childhood reading, he also has been on the faculty at East Texas State and Liberty University.

Completing the Ph.D. in psychology and education at the University of Michigan this month, DAVID CROSS will join the psychology department in the fall. The alumnus of California State University at Fresno, who holds two M.A. degrees from the University of Michigan, is particularly interested in children's learning and instructional psychology. He has been a presenter at conferences of the International Reading Association, American Education Research Association and the Society for Research in Child Development.

TCU AMONG MAJOR MCFADDEN TRUST BENEFICIARIES

TCU will receive $3.7 million as one of the major beneficiaries of the approximate $73.5 million in assets of the Ella C. McFadden Charitable Trust of Fort Worth. The distribution of funds was announced June 21.

"The magnificent distribution from the Ella C. McFadden Charitable Trust is heartening indeed to all of us at Texas Christian University," said Chancellor Bill Tucker. "Designated for endowment, the gift will be of enormous help to the University for generations to come. We are deeply grateful for the extraordinary generosity of the late Mrs. McFadden and for the confidence placed in TCU by the trustees of her charitable trust."

Planned by the late W. H. McFadden and his wife, Ella C. McFadden, both of Fort Worth, the trust began operations Jan. 12, 1965, for a 20-year term. Some $32.9 million had been distributed to local institutions and those across the state before its termination Jan. 12, 1985. Assets of the trust are composed of cash and stock in Southland Royalty Co., the Permian Basin and San Juan Basin Royalty Trusts, all based in Fort Worth.

Twenty-five entities shared in the trust's final distribution. The largest single gift was $14.7 million in cash and securities to Texas Wesleyan College. The $11.1 million designated for the Community Trust of Metropolitan Tarrant County will be split on a designated basis to 13 recipients, including the Child Study Center, Meals-on-Wheels, Food Bank of Greater Tarrant County, Leah Pope Home, Salvation Army and Union Gospel Mission.

All Saints Episcopal Hospital received $7.4 million; W.I. Cook Memorial Trust, $3.1 million; Fort Worth Museum of Science and Industry, $2.2; and Saint Joseph Hospital, $2.2.

DANIEL'S MUSICAL TO BE JULY 4 ATTRACTION

Associate professor Neil Daniel's "The Lady," a one-act musical that finds area residents bringing the Statue of Liberty to their historic neighborhood, will be the highlight of the annual July 4 celebration in the Ryan Place area. The curtain will go up at 7:30 p.m. at Daggett School Park, 1000 Elizabeth Boulevard.

Sponsored by the Ryan Place Improvement Association and open to the public, the day's activities will begin at 8 a.m. with a 5K Ryan Run, which usually draws some 500 runners. The 15th annual parade beginning at 5:30 p.m. will feature the Bottom of the Barrel Band, and a picnic will follow at 6:30 p.m.

In case of rain, St. John's Episcopal Church at Elizabeth Blvd. and College Avenue will be the setting for the entertainment.

FINAL SUMMER TERM BEGINS JULY 15

Registration for the second five-week summer term will be held July 15 from 8 a.m. to noon in the Brown-Lupton Student Center. Late registration will be held on July 15 from 1 to 4 p.m. and July 16 from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m.

Undergraduate students who will be registering late should report to the registrar's office, Room 17. Graduate students should late-register in the school or college of their major.

Classes for the second term begin July 16 and end Aug. 16. Additional information is available from continuing education, Ext. 7130.

APPLICATIONS CONTINUE TO SHOW INCREASE

The increase in both freshman and transfer applications for the coming fall semester continues to show an increase over the 1984 figures. According to an admissions activity report issued June 24 by Dean Ned Boehm, freshman applications are up 30.9 percent and transfer applications up 13.2 percent as of June 15 over totals on that date last year.

A record number of freshman housing applications were received during that period, Ned noted.

As of June 15, the total number of applicants stood at 4,076 as compared with the 1984 total of 3,255. The freshman total for this year was 3,246, while the 1984 tally was 2,480. The transfer total has increased from 592 in 1984 to 388 this year.

NOTES ON FOLKS

CAROLYN CAGLE (Harris College) recently returned from the Fifth National Meeting of the Nurses' Association of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, where she delivered a paper on older parents' needs and expectations on parenthood after age 30. The paper was derived from both experimental and phenomenological research studies she completed last year.

Carolyn and GAIL DAVIS (Harris College) were two of the 18 delegates from Texas at the Annual House of Delegates meeting in Kansas City June 20-25. Both were elected on a state-wide ballot to serve as official representatives for Texas nurses in the official voting body of the American Nurses' Association.

LUTHER SMITH (art) is exhibiting his new work entitled "High School Rodeo" from July 1 to August 3 in Gallery I, 4935 Byers. Gallery hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday and 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., Saturday.

MORE NOTES ON FOLKS

An article by KEITH ODOM (English) has been published in the 1985 spring issue of the 4077th N*E*W*S-letter, Clemson University. The article, "M*A*S*H and Wartime Reading: From Alamein to Quijongbu," surveys reading by the military--real and fictional--from World War II to the Korean conflict.

BILL POHL, (modern languages) and TED KLEIN, (philosophy) recently returned from a two-week trip to Belgium, France and Germany. By invitation, Bill spoke at the Husserl Archives in Belgium on the "Problems Involved in Translating Husserl to English," and Ted spoke on the "Idea of Hemanutical Ethics" at the University of Freiburg in Germany. While in Paris, the two began negotiations with the Husserl Archives for a new translation of Husserl's work into English.

Student Center director DOTTIE PHILLIPS has been reappointed lectures committee chairman for program services of the National Association for Campus Activities. Earlier this year she was named to the NACA board of directors and was a member of the organization's 1985 national convention committee in Chicago.

Physics Ph.D. student RAJ RAMBROSE has received an award of $250 from the national competition for the Society of Sigma Xi Grants-in-aid of Research to assist in the purchase of some equipment associated with his dissertation research in atomic-field bremsstrahlung at forward scattering angles. It is a significant honor for Raj, whose research is directed by chairman C.A. Quarles, to be honored by the scientific society.

TCU IN THE NEWS

TCU was represented in the Dallas Morning News' listing of The Best and Worst of Texas Sports on May 26 when JIM WACKER was selected as "best leader of men." The citation noted that the coach "took over a decaying, dying program and in two years has made it one of the most-talked-about programs in the country. All the credit goes to Slim Jim, who laughs and cries with his players."

"Cadets are all they can be and more" was the headline for Andrea Plaza's feature on women cadets in the ARMY ROTC program. Quoted in the lengthy article that appeared in the Star-Telegram's Extra on June 5-6 were MELODY SLAGLE and ALICE GILBERT, both commissioned as second lieutenants on May 18.

Brite Divinity student LUANN HOWARD, who won this year's preaching competition, was the subject of a feature that appeared in the May 31 issue of the National Christian Reporter.

"He's thankful to wizard behind 'Oz'" was the headline June 6 for the Star-Telegram Living section's lead feature on FRED ERLSMAN (English). The story included information on his collection of children's books, some of them 50- to 90-year-old editions.

MORE TCU IN THE NEWS

Biologist GARY FERGUSON was quoted in the Star-Telegram's May 29 story about some wildlife groups working together to settle a federally recognized endangered species of toads, known as Bufo Houstonensis, in new homes near Caldwell. The relocation plan was drafted by the Houston Toad Recovery Team along with representatives of the federal Fish and Wildlife Service, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department and the Houston Zoo and some Texas universities.

The June 7 issue of Texas Catholic carried a Eugenia Trinkle-byline story along with a half-page photo concerning the pilot class in history and government taught by TCU students for Laotians who are eager to become American citizens. The program is headed by political scientist DON JACKSON, and the photo showed students ANTHONY GULLEY and RICHARD TAYLOR in the classroom.

One of the three persons interviewed for the Executive Forum section of the June issue of FORT WORTH Magazine was Dean ED JOHNSON (business). The trio--including vice president Paris Couturiaux of Texas American Bank and Dean Walter Mullendore of UTA's College of Business Administration--were responding to the question, "Are there too many MBAs in today's job market?"

In the Star-Telegram's Living section spotlight June 10 was Shakespeare in the Park. In addition to background on the popular summer theater were features on key persons involved in the project. Included was SHARON BENGE (adjunct theater), who is producing director.

In his column in the June 7 Fort Worth News-Tribune, Leonard Sanders called attention to the TCU PRESS and its aggressive efforts to restore "valuable books to print and in the discovery and publication of new material." Six of this spring's issues by the Press were noted in the lengthy article.

"TCU in Waco--unbelievable" was the banner headline on June 9 for the Waco Tribune-Herald's Brazos Living section. The three-quarter-page story recounted that "Add-Ran college started the spirit of horned frogs." Complementing the copy were photos of the 1899 football team that adopted the horned frog as mascot and of the Old Main building and a map showing the college's location in North Waco.

Journalist ANANTHA BABBILI, one of eight permanent members on the United Nations advisory council on communication, was interviewed by Sammons Cable on the 40th anniversary of the charter of the United Nations, which was June 26.

The recent Chisholm Trail Writers Workshop cosponsored by the TCU PRESS and CONTINUING EDUCATION was the background for Kent Biffle's Texana column in the June 16 issue of the Dallas Morning News. He wrote particularly about C.L. Sonnichsen, a speaker at the workshop and editor of one of this spring's Press volumes.

The fine points of being a good journalist were described by journalist ANANTHA BABBILI in a feature on him that appeared in the Living section of the June 17 Star-Telegram.

MORE TCU IN THE NEWS

The lead article for the Informer pages in Dallas Life magazine, a part of the Dallas Morning News' Dallas Life magazine on June 16 was about the TWIGS project inaugurated by NELL ROBINSON (home economics) and Arlington pediatrician Frances Lankford. The program is designed for 6- to 12-year-old children who have overweight problems.

Chancellor BILL TUCKER was among college/university presidents quoted by the Dallas Morning News on June 18 in its three-part series on problems plaguing college athletics and possible solutions. "Without questions, the involvement and leadership of the CEOs can have some impact...I see athletics as the window through which the public views the university," he noted.

"Of surprisingly high quality" was the assessment of Janet Kutner, art critic of the Dallas Morning News, of the ART IN THE METROPLEX exhibit mounted by TCU. Her review, complemented by two color photos, appeared in the June 17 issue of the paper.

"Fitness way of life" was the sub-heading on the June 17 Star-Telegram feature on BETTY BENISON (physical education) and her son BRIAN, a May graduate. The story described her exercise work with senior citizens and Brian's music for an aerobics exercise album specially for senior citizens that she has developed.

RUTH MCADAMS, who recently received the Ph.D. in English and did a 212-page dissertation on the Shakers in American fiction, and her husband were the subject of Star-Telegram columnist Jon McConal's June 13 story. Entitled "Couple hammer out education in body shop," it tells of Ruth's work as secretary in her husband's White Settlement body shop and the encouragement she received from him.

"Teacher tries to boot stress from classes," the Anita Baker-authored feature in the June 17 Star-Telegram, described psychologist ROGER THOMAS' techniques of getting students to relax in class and to learn to lower their stress levels. Two photos accompanied the story.

"Designer makes Juliet a jewel" read the headline June 23 for the lead feature in the Dallas Morning News PEOPLE section that detailed the work of LALONNIE LEHMAN (theatre), who designed the costumes for Shakespeare in the Park. Two photos, one in color, complemented the story.

Quoted in D Magazine's July issue's story on the Legion of Doom from Paschal high was sociologist BILL REESE. He was quoted as saying the nine boys explanation of their activities "smells of rationalization to soothe their conscience."

The July issue of D Magazine also includes a profile on alumnus/author DAN JENKINS.

RALPH CARTER (political science) and ANANTHA BABBILI (journalism) were interviewed by WFAA-TV, Channel 8 on June 21 concerning the hostage crisis.

MORE TCU IN THE NEWS

NED BOEHM (admissions) and the admission's office were featured in a news report by KRLD-TV, Channel 33, on May 24.

Tips for those seeking jobs was the subject RON RANDALL (Career Center) explored June 30 for Radio KSCS's 15-minute program entitled "North Texas Perspective."

The ACTS channel has started a new program called "Lifeline," hosted by Kay Leitch and Mike Frazier. The program airs live from 2 to 3 p.m. each weekday. TCU guests scheduled to appear are SARA SWEAT (home economics) June 27; CARLA WITTE (continuing education) July 10; JACK SCOTT (counseling center) July 29; LUTHER CLEGG (education) July 30; LARRY LAUER (University relations) July 31; and CAROLYN CAGLE (nursing) Aug. 21. NED BOEHM (admissions) and the admission's office were featured in a news report by KRLD-TV, Channel 33, on May 24.

The "old-old" are the least understood, according to the Dallas Morning News story on MILDRED HOGSTEL (nursing) and her studies of persons over 85 that appeared on June 20. This fastest growing age group makes up 1 percent of the nation's population, she noted.

"TCU to champion 'clean-up campaign' was the headline June 20 for the Star-Telegram story detailing the NCAA presidents' commission meeting in New Orleans. The story gave special attention to Chancellor BILL TUCKER's strong advocacy of "the move to clean up college athletics." The chancellor said: "We're trying to be a role model, no question about it...From the day Jim Wacker set foot on campus, TCU has intended to say to the world that we think it is possible to win (in major college football) with integrity."
