Mr. Amon G. Carter,
Care Star Telegram,
Fort Worth, Texas.

Dear Mr. Carter:

In order to enhance your appreciation of the buckskin gloves, I beg to advise that I bought them away up in the woods of northern Wisconsin from the man who killed the deer and tanned the hide out of which they were made.

Water will not hurt or harden them, and they may be cleaned with gasoline when soiled. No such quality of gloves can be found in any store.

You need not be surprised that I occasionally remember you with a modest token of appreciation, because I think of you often, and not only appreciate you as a personal friend, but as one of the outstanding useful citizens of Fort Worth and Texas.

Yours truly,

Newton
