

Grand Hotel Des Wagon-Lits Ltd.

Peking

Tel. Address: WAGONLITS.

Code: A.B.C. 5th EDITION.

Manager, H. SCHRAMLI.

February 25 1920.

My Dear Mr Jefferson:-

I thank you for your kind note about my book. The title is taken from no quotation but from the old story of the man who, looking at the Moon, missed the Sixpence at his feet.

This was told me in my youth as a warning, but with advancing years I have accepted it as a lesson; for it seems to me better on the whole to look for the Moon and let the Sixpence go hang.

Yours very faithfully

W. J. Maughan

WILLIAM SOMERSET MAUGHAM, T. L. S., 25 February
1920, to Mr. Jefferson.

[engraved heading, with spaces for date and two year digits]

Grand Hotel Des Wagon-Lits Ltd

Tel Address: WAGONLITS.

Code: ABC 5th EDITION

Peking

Manager: M. SCHRAML.

February 25 1920.

My Dear Mr Jefferson:—

I thank you for your kind note about my book. The title is taken from no quotation but from the old story of the man who, looking at the Moon, missed the Sixpence at his feet.

This was told me in my youth as a warning, but with advancing years I have accepted it as a lesson; for it seems to me better on the whole to look for the Moon and let the Sixpence go hang.

Yours very faithfully

W. S. Maugham

TLS, 1 page. Double sheet, 20.5 x 12.7 cm.

Oriental wove paper. Watermark: [?] STEN'S BOND.

Provenance: Ex libris Reginald Turner. Inserted in The Moon and Sixpence, London, 1919.

Unpublished.

Note: Here published by permission of the author, in a T. L. S., 14 May 1961, from the Hotel Vier Jahreszeiten, Munich: Dear Mr. Kendall, | Thank you for your charming letter. Of course you have my permission to publish the letter you speak of. | I cannot remember who Mr. Jefferson was, but Reginald Turner, from whose library the book came was an old friend of mine, and, as you probably know, a very distinguished man of his time. | Yours sincerely, | W. S. Maugham.