Dear Mr. Monnig:

I received your letter of last June 11, 1965, and have been expecting to hear from you again with some explanation as to what happened to the rock you got from me.

It was my understanding that I would get the rock back when I let you take it, and I am still expecting it to be returned. I felt that it was a very old and interesting rock and wanted to keep it regardless of its meteorite value. If the rock was of no value, why would anyone have taken it and kept it? I feel sure you have located the rock by now, but have been busy and just neglected writing to me.

I'm sure the disappearance of the rock put you in an awkward situation, but I feel that I am entitled to some explanation or reimbursement.

Some time when I am in Fort Worth, I would be glad to come by the store and pick the rock up, if you will let me know.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Don Chester
