

hg = hand glass

① Pure white specks - 10x hg snow white 4x16 mm Irreg.

② Irreg yellowish agglomerat glassy grains 10x hg
1 group roughly ellip shattered sub-crystalline slightly yellowish grains  tend to look brassy-opaque 4x16 mm. One glassy piece with side broken under strain? // show strain. Prod olivine - or feldspar - troctite? Bubble seen in & I showed strain / tiny idor area - prismatic.

③ Gray chondri mostly circular break with mass 10x hg. 1 ring & metallic grains? 4x16 mm. These & give silvery look esp under art light, simulat deliquescent particles.
Partly metallic?

④ Gray chondri, polyhedral ③ often not break with matrix 10x hg. Shattered grouping of gray & black fragments result in ball-shaped unit 4x16 mm. Rather rough, some matted appearance & interiors (?) - prob rough rather than strictly polyhedral.

⑤ Small reddish-amber sub-crystalline grain.
4x16 mm

⑥ Groundmass richer in metallic grain sprinkles than T speed, these often represent of I at 1st took
#3 above? 4x16 mm

⑦ Crust thin - mostly raised ridges show flow tendency, with many lighter grains & whitish material show thru, esp in antiven area lot melted ridges.
Crust very pockety + craterlet-form. 4x16 mm. On another piece crust thicker & less shows thru, adhesion grains possibly impurities from <sup>earth</sup> ground; ridges swollen & bead-like - hollow or part?

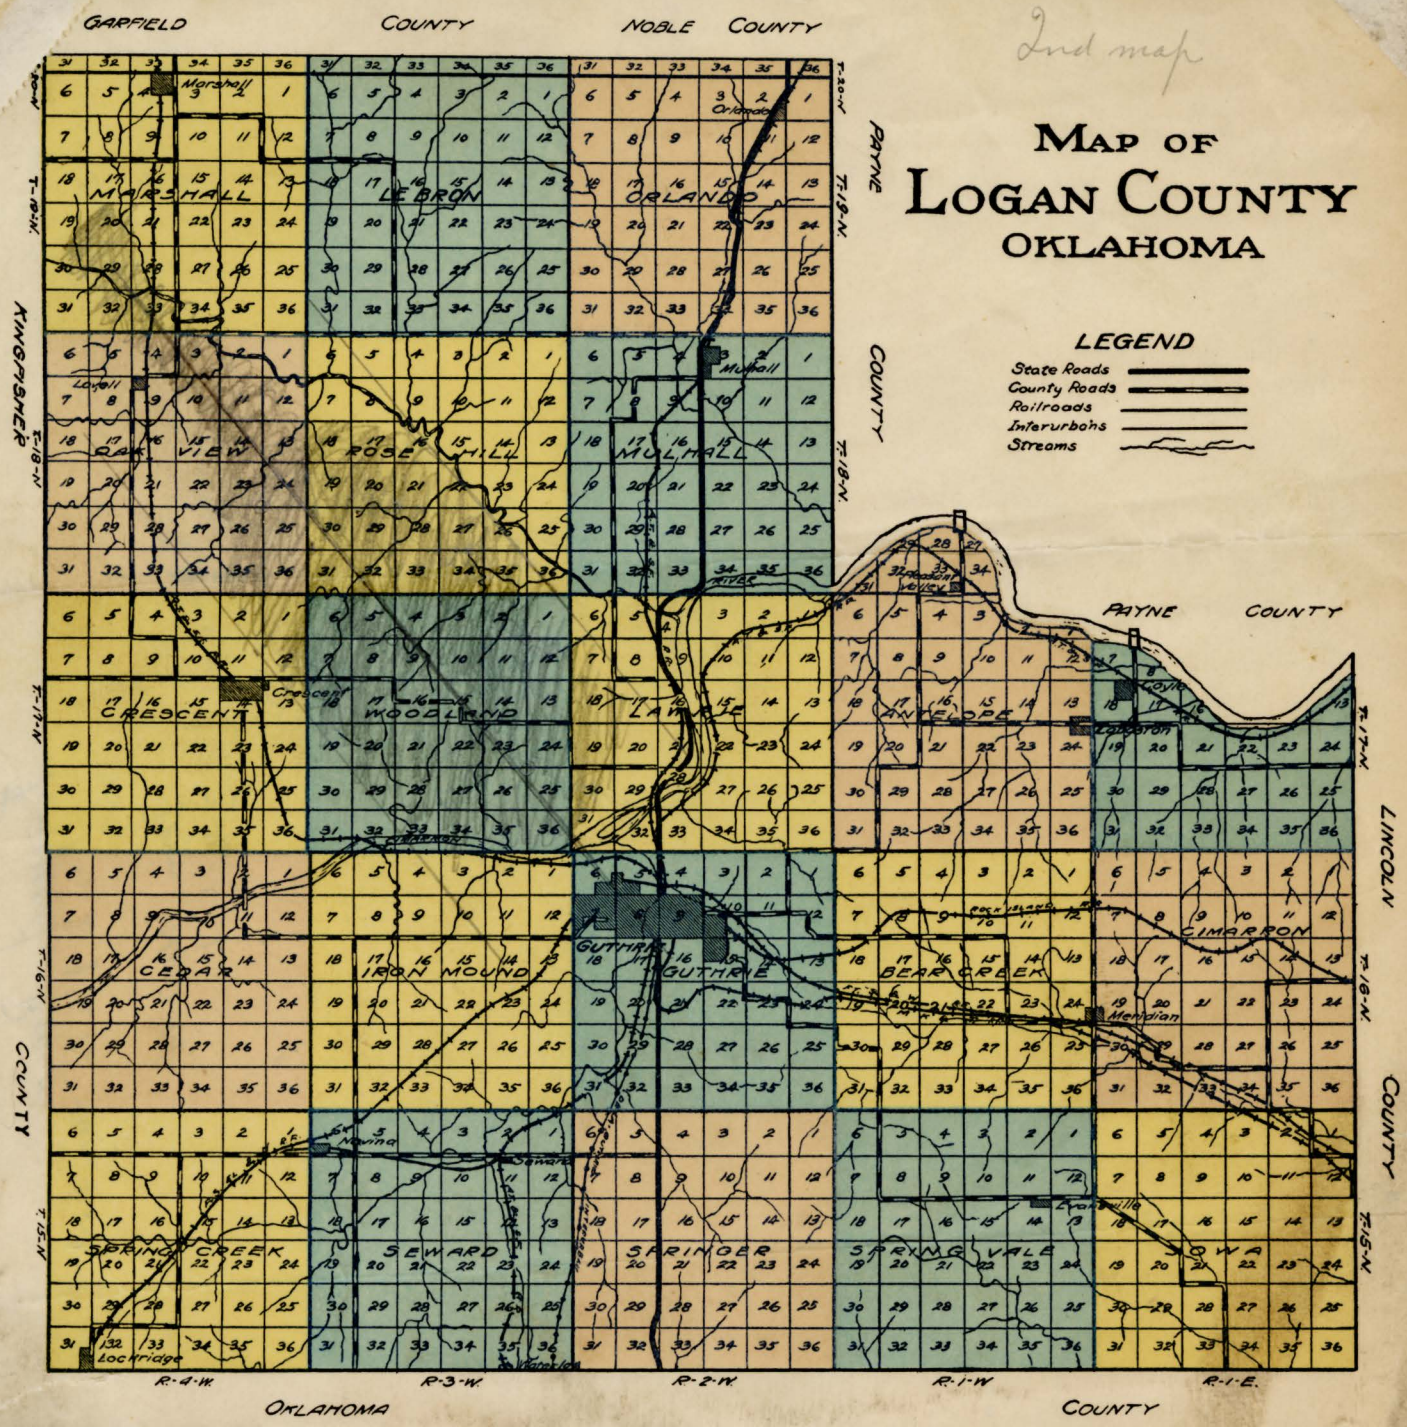

⑧ Red sands. Object struck readily distinguishable.
Partly fused to crust? 4x16 mm
