SEE "MERCHANT" EARLY

Walther Volbach suggests that all faculty folks who plan to see the season's third Little Theatre offering, "The Merchant of Yonkers," attend early sessions if possible. A number of visitors may make the last few performances very crowded indeed.

The play, a four-act farce by Thornton Wilder, opens Friday night, Feb. 17. It runs Feb. 18 and Feb. 21-25. Reports are it's a hilarious show now playing in a new version on Broadway as "The Matchmaker." So if you plan to see it, pick an early showing and get those tickets in advance.

Incidentally, don't forget those other events of the Fine Arts Festival: Feb. 21, Feb. 24, Feb. 27, Feb. 29 and March 6. And take time to visit the exhibition of student work in the Art Gallery. Well worth the time.

CONGRATS ON R.E. WEEK

The committee that staged our Religious Emphasis Week can stand right up to take a bow. The whole program was the best ever and from reports, much good was accomplished.

A "well done" indeed to Comer Clay, Ambrose Edens, Arthur Wenger, and the very fine students who made up the committee. Lawrence Bash gave a top performance as main speaker. He knows youngsters and their problems.

MRS. McCORKLE NAMED TO STAFF

Lilita McCorkle, widow of the late beloved dean of Fine Arts, was named assistant professor of music by Dr. Sadler this week. The appointment is effective next September.

It's mighty good to have "Mrs. Mac" on the fulltime staff.

THE STADIUM ADDITION

After approval by the Trustees last Saturday, work of adding 10,000 or so new seats to the Stadium will begin about March 1.

In answer to some questions, it should be reported that the new work will NOT effect the present seating arrangement nor move any faculty seats, so far as is known now. The additional seats go in the place of the present press box and on the new upper deck over the West Stand.

Incidentally, only funds from athletic income will be used in this work over the years. None of the other building programs will be affected.

DAVID LUO MARRIED IN BANGKOK

Remember David (Wen-tsong) Luo, the Chinese lad who worked in Brite, was ordained on campus and sent to Thailand as the Disciples' first native missionary to that area?

Last week comes an announcement from Dr. and Mrs. Chiasiw Ang of the marriage of their daughter, Mary, to David on Jan. 11. The place was the Chinese Christian Church, 586 Rama IV Road, Bangkok, Thailand. Old friends might want to send congrats.

NOTES ON NOTABLES

AUGUST SPAIN will address the Tri-State Conference of the Council of Jewish Women in Dallas, March 4. He'll also serve on a panel with Judge Sarah T. Hughes and Dr. Nicola to discuss "These Are Our Children" aimed at developing the several points of view on education, the courts and religion.

IRENE HUBER will be tele-interviewed on WBAP-TV at 11:30 a. m., Feb. 22. Sponsored by the D. A. R., the interview will be called "I Have Become An American Citizen."

ESTUS POLK and LES EVANS served as consultants to the Johnson County Teachers Workshop in Burleson, Feb. 13.

DEAN RICHARDSON reports good results from his visit to several "college day" programs in the Valley recently. A number of students down that way are heading for TCU.

If you wanta hear a real moan, ask Miss ELIZABETH SHELBURNE about her room reservations for next fall. Her reaction is most expressive. From the way requests are flooding in, Miss E. is gonna be more like the lady and the shoe than anybody since said lady. Where we gonna put all them gals?

Whatdaya know? Mr. L. R. (DUTCH) MEYER has returned to work--as coach of the baseball team this week. He's kinda inexperienced but may get the job done.

The Bulletin apologizes to one and all for the lack of news re one NOEL KEITH these past few weeks. The Strong Man of U. G. R. is keeping mighty quiet these days. Even quieter than most married men.

MICHAEL WINESANKER reports that Jean Langlais, the blind French organist who appeared here recently, liked the quiet of his Religion Center quarters so much he completed a large choral composition for a society in Boston. His appearance was largely through the efforts of ADRIENNE REISNER, organ instructor.

ART WENGER reports that TCU busses no longer move West on Texas Street since it became a one-way thoroughfare. How does he know? From an hour or so of corner-standing while all busses and cars went East. He finally suspected something.

MASTER OF MUSIC DEGREE APPROVED

The National Association of Schools of Music has notified Dr. Winesanker that our Graduate degree "Master of Music in Applied Music" has been officially approved.

All graduate degrees now offered in the Department of Music are now approved by the National Association.

EXCUSED ABSENCES

The following student was absent from classes from 8 a. m. to noon on Feb. 10, and the Air Force ROTC unit has requested that his absence be excused, as he was absent in order to meet requirements within the curriculum:

James L. Ables

The following students were doing substitute teaching in Fort Worth Schools on the dates listed:

Wayne Scantland - Feb. 8, 9, 10.

James Mahoney - Feb. 9, 10.

Bob Sibley - Feb. 9, 10.

Pat Baughman Martin - Feb. 8, 9, 10.

Dr. Winesanker asks that their absences from classes be excused.

MORE ABOUT FOLKS

Mr. S. P. ZIEGLER will give an after-dinner illustrated talk to the Torch Club, Friday evening, on "Christian Art Through the Centuries."

IKE HARRISON addressed the National Machine Accountants Association, Fort Worth Chapter, on the evening of Feb. 9.

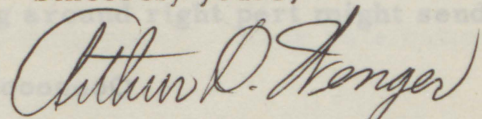

CHAPEL ANNOUNCEMENT

We are most fortunate in having as our chapel speaker for the annual spring meeting of the TCU trustees will be held on campus Friday, Tuesday morning University-wide chapel service Dr. Hyman Judah Schachtel, Chief Rabbi of Temple Beth Israel, Houston, Texas. Dr. Schachtel is a highly versatile scholar having made notable contributions not only as a religious leader, but also as an author, journalist and composer. He is author of the best seller "The Real Enjoyment of Living" published by E. P. Dutton & Co. in 1954. The book has been transcribed into Braille. The theme of Dr. Schachtel's sermon will be "The Greatness of Man".

The chapel choir under the direction of Dr. Gentry Shelton will sing "Jubilate Deo" by Nevin. Dean Elmer Henson will preside.

Response to the chapel series this year has been most encouraging. The support which members of our faculty are giving this phase of our program at TCU is extremely helpful in setting a high tone in our entire University community.

Sincerely yours,

Arthur D. Wenger, Director
Religious Activities
