Dear Sir:

Sometime within the next few weeks I shall bring the Hawkins meteorite back to Waco.

I have written every reference and all have replied but nothing has been established. We are still quite in the dark as to where, when or by whom this was found.

I have one final suggestion. Could we exhibit this in some special window or showcase in the geology department or in the museum with a sign requesting information? Then maybe we could get your school paper to give it a little publicity and if any one on the faculty or in the student body knew anything we might get a lead.

We could work out a short teaser sign. Perhaps "Mystery Meteorite--When, Where and By Whom Found??" A smaller sign could state that it was in the collection of the late Dr. Hawkins.

Sincerely,
