SCIENTIFIC ADVISORY COUNCIL MEETS THIS WEEK

The distinguished members of our 1967 Scientific Advisory Council will begin arriving Thursday afternoon and evening for their two-day study of TCU's research program. Only one of the 19 scientists invited will be unable to attend. Dr. G. T. Whyburn of the U. of Virginia had to cancel because of a heart attack. The other members are expected to be present for the very important sessions.

As mentioned in last week's Bulletin, the group will be guests of General Dynamics for dinner and a tour on Thursday evening. Friday they'll have breakfast with TCU and civic officials, be oriented on our research program, visit science facilities and meet for discussion sessions.

The TCU Research Foundation Awards Dinner will be held Friday evening at Shady Oaks Country Club. Sam Woodson, vice chairman of the Foundation, will preside and Jack Butler, member of the board of directors and editor of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, will be the master of ceremonies. Granville Walker will give the invocation and Vice-Chancellor Earl Waldrop will give the benediction at the occasion. Presentation of the 1967 Investors Awards will be made by E. Leigh Secrest, president of the Foundation, and Chancellor Moudy will make some remarks and introduce the speaker--Dr. Leslie Chambers. Chambers, who was honored as TCU's Distinguished Alumnus in 1957, earned his B.S. and M.S. degrees at TCU (his Ph. D. from Princeton) and was assistant professor of biology at TCU in 1930-32. Now professor of biology and director of the Allan Hancock Foundation at the U. of Southern California, Dr. Chambers will speak on "Urban Metabolism and Its Consequences."

Saturday afternoon the scientists will conclude their visit after meeting in an executive session with the Research Foundation Board to review and evaluate our program.

For a capsule description of each of those serving on the Council, look on page 7 of the enclosed issue of The Search at TCU. As Chancellor Moudy has said, "We are honored that these leaders in science are willing to help us to shape a young and growing program and to place it in its proper national perspective."

INTERSCHOLASTIC LEAGUE MEET A SUCCESS

Despite heavy spring rains that threatened to "wash out" our Region II Meet of the University Interscholastic League last weekend, all went well and even the weather cooperated. Seventy-eight AAA and AAAA high schools sent some 1,000 winners from the district competitions to our campus for the regional meet which we have hosted for several years.

As with all such events, much time and planning was involved and a sacrificial effort was given by many of our faculty and staff in directing the various contests. A special word of thanks to Abe Martin for coordinating the athletic events; Guy Thompson, for directing the track and field contests; Ken Crawford, tennis; Tom Prouse, golf; Henry Hammack, one-act play; Dave Matheny and George Tade, debate; Richard Douthit, informative speaking; Jim Caton, persuasive speaking; Betsy Colquitt, poetry interpretation; John Smith, prose reading; B. J. Frye, ready writing; D. P. Shore, number sense; Helen Hickey, typewriting; Marjorie Keaton, shorthand; H. M. Moseley, slide rule; C. E. Murphy and Leo Hendricks, science; Lew Fay, journalism. Jim Lehman was chairman and Meet director. And thanks, also, to Betty Knox and Becky Gardner of the news bureau for giving up a Saturday to prepare news releases on the winners.

CONGRATULATIONS TO FRANK REUTER, HONORS WEEK COMMITTEE

Though everyone must surely know, we'd like to record a word of congratulation in the Bulletin to Dr. Frank T. Reuter, associate professor of history, who was named recipient of the 1967 Honors Faculty Recognition Award at last Thursday's Honors Day Convocation. It is a coveted award given only after the most careful selection by Honors students. It's been an eventful month for Frank--his second book, Catholic Influence on American Colonial Policies, 1893-1904 (which has received excellent reviews), was just published by the U. of Texas Press.

Words of praise must also go to Paul Wassenich, director of the Honors Program, and the many faculty and students who assisted in planning this most significant event in the academic life of our University. Due to last week's persistent rain, our academic procession had more circumstance than pomp, but, nevertheless, it lent a special dignity to the occasion. Jim Dyal, last year's Faculty Recognition Award winner, delivered a probing address on "The Nature of Man." One of the best parts of all was to find that the lower floor of Ed Landreth Auditorium was so full students had to go to the balcony.

"ACCOUNTANTS' DAY" PROGRAM SET FOR FRIDAY

A University of Kansas professor will be guest lecturer at TCU's Accountants' Day program, planned for Friday under the sponsorship of the M. J. Neeley School of Business. Coordinated by Dr. Henry Key, the day's free events will begin with registration in Dan Rogers auditorium at 12:45 p.m.

Professor Howard F. Stettler, past-president of both the Association of CPA Examiners and of the American Accounting Association, will discuss "Trends and Developments in Auditing" during the afternoon session. At the 7:30 p.m. meeting he will discuss "The Challenge Facing Tomorrow's CPA's." The U of K School of Business professor is the author of Systems Based Independent Audits, to be published by Prentice-Hall in May, and of several textbooks.

An integral part of the academic program in accounting, the special "day" is designed to bring together accounting students and faculty to hear an outstanding authority. Local accountants, as well as college and university students and faculty from a 100-mile radius have been invited to participate.

"HOMECOMING" COMING EARLY!

"Spring Homecoming," scheduled for May 5, will be a delayed celebration of the University's Charter Day. TCU received its first charter from the State of Texas on April 11, 1874, and the 1967 commemorative event will be for students, faculty, staff, alumni and parents of Fort Worth-area students.

Planned and coordinated by Mrs. Betty Jean Stocker, assistant director of alumni affairs, the event will center around the intra-squad football game to begin at 7:30 p.m. in Amon Carter Stadium. Pre-game activities will include the TCU cheerleaders, Addie the Frog and the Horned Frog band. During half-time, an honorary alumnus award will be presented to Ben Hogan, internationally-known golfer. The first presentation of the Royal Purple award will be made to Bayard H. Friedman, senior vice president of The Fort Worth National Bank in recognition of his extraordinary service and enthusiastic support of TCU.

Announcements of the winners of such student body contests as "Mr. and Miss TCU" and class favorites will be made at half-time.

SIX FORUMS PROGRAMS ON CALENDAR

Programs covering a wide variety of interests have been planned by the Forums Committee for the next week. The committee describes them as "stimulating, interesting and informative."

April 26 at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Center Ballroom, Poet-in-residence Jack Gilbert of San Francisco State College will speak on "Modern Poetry in America".

April 27 at 3 p.m. in Dan Rogers Hall: Four young executives, each the president of his own company before he was 40, will present a panel discussion. Members of Young Presidents' Organization, they will be Donald L. Rogers, president of Gulf Company Corporation and board chairman of Comet Rice Mills, Inc.; Dan M. Krausse, president Champlin Petroleum Co. of Fort Worth; Dr. K. A. Lifson of the consulting firm of Lifson, Wilson, Ferguson and Winick of Fort Worth; and J. M. Haggar, Jr. of Dallas, president of McKinney Pant Manufacturing Co. and executive vice president of the Haggar Co. A question-answer period will follow the panel presentation, and complimentary copies of the booklet, "How to Get a Job With A Future", will be available.

April 27 at 7:30 p.m. in Room 204 Student Center, Dr. George D. Flemmings of Fort Worth will speak on "The Modern Negro: A Quest for Equality". The speaker is a member of the national board of directors of the NAACP and has been a practicing dentist for 43 years.

May 1 at 3 p.m. Dr. Lester A. Kirkendall of Oregon State College will present an informal discussion of "Sex in Modern America" in the Student Center ballroom. At 7:30 p.m. the psychologist-consultant-author will speak on "The New Morality."

May 3 at 7:30 p.m. in the ballroom Diplomat-in-Residence John E. Horner of Tulane University will speak on "Pluralism in the Communist Society." The lecturer is a U.S. State Department Senior Fellow.

ASSN. OF UNIVERSITY PROFESSORS MEETS TODAY

The TCU Chapter of the American Assn. of University Professors will meet in Room 205 of the Student Center this afternoon at 3 p.m. Reports will be heard on the economic status of professors, faculty participation on University government, and academic freedom. President Floyd Durham urges all faculty to attend.

26th FESTIVAL IN FULL SWING

The Fine Arts Festival, a series of artistic presentations that has now become a tradition on campus, offers four events for the coming week and even more fine entertainment through May 14. Dr. Michael Winesanker, music department chairman, has coordinated the programs.

Aldo Mancinelli, the first American-born pianist to win the coveted International Piano Contest "Ferruccio Busoni" in Bolzano, Italy, will give a concert May 1 at 8:15 p.m. in Ed Landreth Auditorium. The artist has been a recitalist and soloist with major symphony orchestras throughout the world since 1954.

The TCU Symphony, under the baton of Conductor Fritz Berens, will present a concert of the works of Rossini, Piston, Lowrey and Borodine on May 2. The program, which was originally scheduled for April 30, will begin at 8:15 p.m. in Ed Landreth.

Ralph Guenther will be featured in a faculty flute recital on May 3. To be accompanied by Pianist Fritz Berens, the music professor will play compositions by Marcello, Bach, Gaubert, Giannini and Dutilleux.

Scheduled for May 5, also at 8:15 p.m. in the auditorium, is a faculty voice recital by Professor Desire Ligeti. The graduate of the Royal Hungarian Academy of Music will include works of Mozart, Brahms, Mahler, Wagner and Kodaly in his recital.

Festival events scheduled later will include a chamber music concert, drama by theatre arts department and program by Festival chorus and orchestra.

Throughout the annual presentation of cultural programs, student art works will be on display in the foyer of Ed Landreth Hall. Proceeds from sales will go to the scholarship fund of the TCU Fine Arts Foundation Guild.

Admission to all the concerts is free.

PETROLEUM GEOLOGIST WILL SPEAK TOMORROW

Michael T. Halbouty of Houston, an independent producer and oil operator and current president of the American Assn. of Petroleum Geologists, will speak on campus Thurs. at 8 p.m. in Room 112 Winton-Scott Hall. Halbouty is internationally known for his scientific ability to find oil and gas. He has discovered more than 40 oil and gas fields and extensions since 1945. His talk on "The Heritage of Petroleum Explorers," is open to the public.

"THE SEARCH" LOOKS AT OUR ENVIRONMENT

Vol. 2, Number 2 of The Search at TCU is included with this issue of the Bulletin. Its subject, written and edited by Science-Research Editor John Ohendalski, is "Understanding Our Environment". As John points out in The Overview, "When a scientist asks himself a question about man's environment, he's likely to think first of finding the answer in the environment which immediately surrounds him. Couple this with the fact that universities have service to the community as one of their reasons for existence. The result is that cities which include a university with a good research program often become the best-studied cities that there are."

Several examples of TCU research of the Fort Worth area are mentioned, but the issue is devoted principally to the work of biologist-limnologist Clifford Murphy who uses Benbrook Lake as his laboratory, and geologist Leo Hendricks, who is compiling a detailed geologic map of Tarrant County. It is a most interesting issue.

MINISTERS' WIVES SCHOLARSHIP ESTABLISHED ✓

Dr. Austin L. Porterfield, who distinguished himself as a sociologist during 29 years at TCU prior to his retirement last year, has established the Porterfield Scholarship for Ministers' Wives in Honor of the memory of Rose Ella Porterfield. The fund provided by the former sociology department chairman will make available annually a $600 award for work toward a baccalaureate degree in liberal arts for the wife of a Christian Church minister. The initial award will be made for the 1967-68 academic year.

A minister for a number of years before entering the academic field, Dr. Porterfield views the wife of a minister as a "key person in any congregation." His wife, in whose memory the fund has been established, died last October.

Dr. Porterfield, author of many books that have been on best-seller lists and others used as textbooks, is currently teaching one course at Texas Wesleyan College. In September he will begin a year-long teaching assignment at the University of the Americas in Mexico City, where he will be associated again with his long-time friends, Dr. and Mrs. D. Ray Lindley and Dr. and Mrs. Otto Nielsen.

In announcing the Porterfield Scholarship, Dr. J. M. Moudy said, "Dr. Porterfield has already given so much to TCU through his life that this generous gift and fine memorial is like going the second mile."

FACULTY HEAR FROM DEANS AT MEETING

Last Wednesday's faculty meeting in Rogers Auditorium provided several of our deans an opportunity to talk about the work in their schools and colleges. It also gave those present an opportunity to meet Virginia Jarratt, new dean of Harris College of Nursing as of June. Frank Hughes described the organization and program of the School of Fine Arts, noting in particular that TCU may have been the first university in the world to offer a degree in ballet. An interesting innovation is the planned cooperative program in repertoire theatre with TCU, SMU and the Scott Theatre.

Elmer Henson spoke of the faculty and work of Brite Divinity School, mentioning that ours is one of five fully accredited Disciple seminaries in the country. It was interesting to learn that our seminary students represent 11 denominations and serve 100 churches each week.

Speaking of the Graduate School, Leigh Secrest stated that we now require the Graduate Record Examination of all entering graduate students. Our relationship with The Association for Graduate Education and Research (TAGER) was described, noting our planned closed-circuit TV hookup next fall with several area schools and industries. Summing up, Leigh said we are seeking to provide "graduate training of high quality to a moderate number of well-qualified students."

Saul Sells, director of our Institute of Behavioral Research, outlined four objectives of the Institute: (1) to carry out research in the behavioral sciences and train people in these fields; (2) to prepare scholarly and scientific publications, such as a recent comprehensive bibliography in the field of narcotic addition and the Journal of Multivariate Behavioral Research; (3) to conduct scientific and educational conferences--three national symposiums have been held, plus the annual management seminar with the School of Business; (4) to consult with organizations in the area where it can be of help. Saul pointed out that IBR does no research for an organization unless it can be published in scientific journals and all research is planned to involve participation by graduate and some undergraduate students, thus no demonstrations or classified research is undertaken.

ART SALE FOR SCHOLARSHIPS

Art Chairman Karl Richards advises that representatives of the Fine Arts Foundation Guild will be on hand during the evening concerts of the Fine Arts Festival to sell art work by students. All proceeds will go to scholarship funds. The student art will be on display in Ed Landreth Lobby during the Festival and sales will be handled during regular office hours. Karl says the prices are very modest. Come see.

TCU PARTICIPATES IN PSYCHOLOGICAL ASSN. CONVENTION

Eight TCU faculty members, 12 graduate students and five former graduate students were involved last weekend in the presentation of 25 research reports at the 14th annual convention of the Southwestern Psychological Assn. in Houston. Malcolm Arnoult, psychology dept. chairman, is current president of the association and Jim Dyal and Saul Sells are members of the association Council. Two of the five winning reports in the Graduate Student Competition came from TCU. Other faculty members taking part were Selby Evans, Wayne Ludvigson, S. H. Cox, Robert Demaree and W. G. Matheny.

CHEF TO GIVE "TASTY" LECTURES

Pierre Flori, executive chef of the Slater school and college food service, will discuss and demonstrate the art of French cookery during three programs planned for tomorrow and Friday. The French-born culinary artist will provide "tastes" of the omelettes, sauces and crepe suzettes he will prepare.

The first session, set for 3 p.m. Thursday in the Faculty Center, will be open to home economics students. The evening program, to begin in the Faculty Center at 7:30 p.m. has been planned for faculty, staff and their wives and/or husbands. A third lecture, open to the general public and interested students, will be in the Worth Hills cafeteria Friday at 10 a.m.

Born in Algeria, Flori attended school in North Africa and Switzerland, where he studied restaurant administration. He gained experience in hotels in London, Algeria, Belgium, Switzerland, Spain, Italy and Tangiers. He owned his own restaurant in Tangiers, before moving to Puerto Rico to become chef manager of "Le Carrousel," an outpost of the great tradition of French cuisine. A member of the ARA-Slater food services since 1963, he is currently in charge of supervision of special events design and procedures in all dining programs administered by the service, which includes more than 250 educational institutions.

ANNUAL CHECK OF LIBRARY MATERIALS

Librarian Paul Parham asks the help of everyone on the annual check of materials charged to faculty and staff. Letters will be sent out shortly asking that everything be returned and renewed. Faculty need not bring books to the library for renewal this year, but may extend the loan period by sending a letter to the library.

Our library staff is particularly anxious to bring their records up-to-date and it would help considerably if everybody would check RIGHT NOW, returning those items they no longer need and renewing the others. Do this week.

NOTES ON MOST NOTABLE FOLKS

LAWRENCE HANLEY of Music Education is presiding over a meeting of the research committee of the Texas Music Education Assn., Sat., at the U. of Texas in Austin.

SAUL SELLS, director of the Institute of Behavioral Research, will be in Dallas for the 13th annual meeting of the American Astronautical Society May 1-3. The meeting will consider "Commercial Utilization of Space" and Saul is co-chairman of a session on "Social Implications of the Commercial Utilization of Space."

Six persons from TCU will attend the annual meeting of the American Society for Microbiology in New York City April 30-May 4,, to report on two major TCU research projects. SANDERS T. LYLES, with research associate Marjorie Sue Sharp and a graduate student, will report on their work on staphylococcus and "staph infection" and EARL GARDNER with research associate Buford Brian and a graduate student, will report on work progress in the TCU cholera laboratory.

GUS FERRE, philosophy chairman, was elected president of the newly-formed North Texas Philosophical Assn., April 11. The group, made up of philosophy teachers and other qualified persons in the North Texas area, will meet twice each year to read and discuss philosophical papers.

The vicious blades of a power mower have claimed another. NEVIN NEAL received a serious hand injury last Sat. while working with his mower. Nevin was in surgery for several hours at St. Joseph's Hospital and is now recovering at home. The mowers can be rather unpredictable at times and everyone is urged to take every precaution when using them.

Busy Chancellor JIM MOUDY addressed the 77th annual dinner of the YMCA Tues. night at Hotel Texas. He was also named recently to the Board of Directors of Pioneer American Life Ins. Co.

MORE NOTES ON FOLKS OF NOTE

Our Board of Trustees Chairman, LORIN BOSWELL, who is due to receive an honorary Doctor of Laws degree this spring, was an invited guest of the Home Ec meal management class recently. They prepared a sumptuous meal and Lorin had a grand time. JANE GREENWELL is the instructor.

Members of the Foreign Language Dept. have been busy with extra-curricular activities lately. EDWARD BELL presided as president of the Lone Star Chapter of the Amer. Assn. of Teachers of Spanish and Portugese meeting at NTSU, April 15. Prof. LUIS GARGIULO also attended, presenting a paper on "The Educational System of Argentina as Compared to that of the United States." At the same meeting, ELVIRA HARRIS was elected vice-president of the chapter. Others attending were ANTHONY RIVARES, EGYDIO ROMANENGI and MALCOLM McLEAN.

Still more on Foreign Languages: BITA MAY HALL attended the Phi Sigma Iota (Natl. Romance Languages Honorary Fraternity) convention at the U. of Michigan in early April. JOHN HAMMOND was off to the Conference on Mexican-American Education in San Antonio recently (with KEITH TURKETT of educa. who represented the Southwestern Educa. Lab).

History Chairman DON WORCESTER has been notified he will be included in the 4th ed. of the Dictionary of International Biography.

PORTER CROW of educa. was speaker recently at the Student Activities Award banquet at U. of Texas at Arlington. Porter spoke on "The Final Third of the 20th Century."

CLIFFORD MURPHY of biology, who is also a retired Lt. Cmdr. from the Navy, gave a series of lectures to naval officers of "Life in the Sea". He also participated in the Reservoir Fishery Resources Symposium, April 5-7, at U. of Georgia. Leading fresh water and fishery biologists from this hemisphere attended.

Friends of ROY J. CATES, director of men's work and the annual assembly for Texas Assn. of Christian Churches, may wish to know of the death of Roy's mother. She died Tues. morning in Temple.
