MAY--THE FINAL DAYS

In more ways than one, these are the "final" days of May. In fact, the first of the semester's end exams begin Thurs., May 25--not many days away. Only three short weeks remain of the 1966-67 academic year and, as usual, the calendar is full of activities as we draw the semester to a close. Here, for a quick review and are the main events in these final days of May:

- 8-13 -- Theatre Arts: "She Stoops to Conquer," 8:15 p.m., Scott Theatre
- 10 -- Creative Writing Events: Cecil B. Williams Memorial Lecture, 8 p.m., Faculty Center, Dr. Luther Stearns Mansfield, speaker.
- 11 -- Creative Writing Day Convocation, 11 a.m., Ed Landreth, Mr. James Dickey, speaker.
- Creative Writing Awards Luncheon, 12:30 p.m., Student Center
- Bryson Club Reception, 3:30-4:30 p.m., Student Center Mezzanine
- Counseling for Summer Session and Fall
- 12-13 -- Ballet's Prep division: "The Pied Piper," 8 p.m. (Fri.), 10 a.m. (Sat.), Ed Landreth Auditorium
- 14 -- Fine Arts Festival: Chorus and Orchestra, 3 p.m., Ed Landreth
- 17 -- Faculty Candlelight Dinner, 7 p.m., Ridglea Country Club
- 18-24 -- Dead Week
- 25-31 -- Final Exams
- 28 -- Baccalaureate Service, 7:30 p.m., Daniel-Meyer Coliseum
- 31 -- Commencement, 7:30 p.m., Coliseum

1967 WRITING EVENTS BEGIN TONIGHT!

Tonight's lecture by Dr. Luther Stearns Mansfield of Williams College will be of double significance. It will be the first Cecil B. Williams Memorial Lecture, established in memory of the former English department chairman and supported by contributions to a memorial fund, planned specifically to bring outstanding lecturers in the area of the late Dr. Williams' specialty, American literature, to campus. To begin at 8 p.m. before an invited audience in the Faculty Center, the lecture will be the opening activity of 1967 Creative Writing Events.

Dr. Mansfield, who earned his B.A. and M.A. degrees from TCU, is well-known for his works dealing with Herman Melville, Moby Dick and the romantic period in American literature. Contributor of a chapter in Literary History of the United States, he has authored articles and reviews in many scholarly literary publications. The professor of American history and literature at Williamstown, Mass., college has been a visiting professor at institutions throughout this country, including TCU in 1962, and for the Universidad de Buenos Aires in 1956 under the auspices of the U.S. Department of State. "What Is American About American Literature," will be the theme of his lecture, which is contained in the Spring issue of Descant, which is dedicated to Dr. Williams. Copies will be available after tonight's event.

"Readings with Comments" will be the topic of poet-author-critic James Dickey, poetry consultant to the Library of Congress, when he speaks at tomorrow's (Thurs.) Creative Writing convocation in Ed Landreth Auditorium. He will be introduced by Dr. Mansfield. Considered a strong and lucid spokesman for the literary arts, Dickey is a recent recipient of the Melville Cane Award for his 1965 collection, Buckdancer's Choice. His Drowning with Others was nominated in 1965 for the National Book Award in poetry. A frequent contributor of feature articles to the New York Times Book Review, he has been poet-in-residence at a number of colleges, including the University of Wisconsin. Dickey, author of five books of poetry and a volume of critical essays, gives poetry readings before collegiate audiences throughout the country each year.

During an awards luncheon, to begin at 12:30 p.m. in the Student Center ballroom, the guest speakers, winners in the 13 creative writing categories, donors of awards and judges will be honored. Dr. Jim Corder, English department chairman, will preside. Hosted by the Bryson Club, a 3:30-4:30 p.m. reception will honor the guest speakers and awardees. The fete will be held on the upper foyer of the Student Center.

Publications of the prize-winning entries will be distributed at the close of the morning convocation, which will be open free to the public. Professor Lorraine Sherley is general chairman of the events. Committee members include Ruth Angell, Thelma Cash, Dorothy Anderson, June Anderson, Martha Nicholson, Dr. Marjorie Lewis, Dr. Keith Odum, Dr. B. J. Fry, Wilson Lott and Dr. Troy Crenshaw. Will Davis is Bryson president.

MISS SHELburne HONORED BY YEARBOOK

Senior Corlea Haren, editor of the 1967 Horned Frog, announced at last week's Journalism Awards Banquet that Miss Elizabeth Shelburne was the dedicatee of this year's annual. The well-written, ever-so-true dedication, read with poise and dignity, bears sharing. "In past years, the Horned Frog has been dedicated to outstanding faculty members, administrators, the student body, supporters of TCU and parents of TCU students. This year the Horned Frog is dedicated to a woman who truly represents all these aspects of Texas Christian University--Miss Elizabeth Shelburne. This dedication is but small recognition in comparison for the numerous ways in which she has served our University and its people.

"Miss Shelburne has known and loved TCU as a student, a teacher, a dean of women and now as director of the Health Center. She entered TCU as a freshman in 1916, only five years after the school was moved from Waco to a wind-swept prairie west of Fort Worth. After graduation in 1920, she went to Sherman to teach in Carr-Burdett College, which her father headed as president. Nine years later she returned to TCU as a mathematics instructor and house mother in Jarvis Hall.

"She has never lived away from the TCU campus since then.

"In 1935, Miss Shelburne was appointed assistant dean of women. Two years later she was promoted to dean of women, a position she held until her first "retirement" in 1961. During those 24 years, thousands of TCU coeds came to know her gentle influence and to respect the high standards of personal and social living that she set for herself and "her girls." Though she could be tenacious when debating with architects about the size of closets in proposed dormitories and discussing the quality of mattresses for her girls with male administrators, usually she was a quiet woman of inner calm and strength when dealing with girls and their myriad problems. Her standards were constant, and the application of regulations was a personal matter. Girls with problems came to know that permanent records of a damaging nature were almost non-existent.

"After assuming her duties as administrative assistant for health services in 1961, Miss Shelburne became the friend and confidant of young TCU men as well as women. With living accommodations in the Health Center, she frequently works from early in the morning until late at night. Any ill student--from "finals fatigue" to surgery--receives her attention. The door to her apartment is never closed. Second and third generation students, following the example to their parents, find that she still has a sympathetic ear, a sturdy arm to lean on, a willing shoulder to cry on--and a heart that spans the years with Christian love and understanding.

"But words cannot tell what she means to Texas Christian University. And so, it is with great pride and respect that we dedicate the 1967 Horned Frog to Miss Elizabeth Shelburne."

CANDLELIGHT DINNER ON MAY 17

Our annual Candlelight Dinner, when retiring faculty members are honored, has been set for 7 p.m., Wed., May 17, at Ridglea Country Club. As has become the tradition, citations about each retiree will be read and verbal honors bestowed on those who have given so much of themselves in service to TCU. Retiring this year are Dean Lucy Harris, nursing; Dr. Henry Hardt, chemistry; Dr. Martine Emert, geography; Mrs. Janette Sloman, English; Mrs. Iva Cox, library; Dr. Paul Young, testing and guidance and psychology. Special entertainment that evening will be provided by The Camerata Singers, a student group presenting a program of madrigals. Bev Henson is their director.

As one of the University's most special faculty social events, all faculty are urged to attend and encouraged to come formal. Reservations are $2.04 per person and must be made NO LATER THAN MAY 12. Call Mrs. Ina Rivers Jarman, faculty social director, or her assistant, Mrs. Marvin Keith, at ext. 262 right away.

FESTIVAL'S FINALE TO BE SUNDAY

The final event of the 26th annual Fine Arts Festival will be a concert by the Festival chorus and orchestra with B. R. Henson conducting. In keeping with arrangements of other musical activities of the festival, the program will be free and open to the public, beginning at 3 p.m. in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

Soloists for Mozart's "Requiem" will be Tenor Ira Schantz and Bass Desire Ligeti of the School of Fine Arts faculty; Linda Nash of Tucker, Ga., soprano; and Sharon Gor-man of Longview, contralto. Also to be presented will be Brahms' "Nanie "

NEW BOOK BY AUSTIN PORTERFIELD IS PUBLISHED

The Leo Potishman Foundation has just published its eleventh book issued through the TCU Press. Written by Dr. Austin L. Porterfield, retired professor of sociology and former chairman of the department, the book is titled "Mirror for Adjustment: Therapy in Home, School, and Society Through Seeing Yourself and Others in Books." The book is based on the assumption that literary works, novels and dramas, are full of many vivid pictures, images of ourselves, our families, and of the society around us. It gears nearly 2,000 literary works, mostly novels and dramas, into the major concepts of sociology, psychology, and psychiatry which have a bearing on the problems of personality and the family in society.

The book is divided into three parts with the final section listing the major concepts of the behavioral sciences in alphabetical order.

NOTE ON ACADEMIC REGALIA

Faculty members who do not have academic regalia and wish to participate in the academic processions for Baccalaureate and Commencement may rent regalia through Mrs. Dycus in Cecil White's office. This must be done by Fri., May 12. Call ext. 217.

TWO BALLET PERFORMANCES THIS WEEK

Pupils ranging in age from 5 to 17 in preparatory ballet classes and University ballet-theatre arts students will present two programs this week. The first is set for 8 p.m. Friday in Ed Landreth Auditorium, with the repeat production at 10 a.m. Saturday. Both will be free and open to the public.

The preparatory segment, involving more than 900 children in the beginner and intermediate groups, will present "The Pied Piper." In the title role will be David Castellanos, 15, of Dallas, who is a student at the Edith James School of Dance, where he studied with TCU's Fernando Schaffenburg for more than four years on a Ford Foundation scholarship. Still a student there, he has been given a summer study award at George Balanchine's School of American Ballet in New York. In the role of the mayor will be Bud Franks, TCU graduate student who has been given a Nordan Fine Arts Scholarship for 1967-68. Mrs. Nancy Schaffenburg heads the preparatory ballet, assisted by graduate student Barbara Macklem.

"Ballet Class," featuring TCU ballet and theatre arts students, has been choreographed by Director Schaffenburg, and scenery was planned by Instructor Jerry Sutherland. Zach Ward, also a Nordan award recipient, portrays the ballet master who oversees his students practice of basic ballet movements that have been the foundation of this form of dance throughout its history.

COWBOY COACH TO SPEAK

Coach Tom Landry of the Dallas Cowboys, the team that made roof-top excursions for re-alignment of TV antennas a popular pasttime last fall, will be guest speaker at the May 12 banquet of the TCU Fellowship of Christian Athletes. Set to begin at 6:30 p.m. in the Student Center ballroom, the annual spring event will be open to the public. Reservations at $2 per person may be made by contacting E. A. Gresham at WA 3-7880 or P. D. Shabay at WA 7-5034.

SPECIAL LICENSE PLATES NOTED

A faculty member has blossomed out with his version of the special "personalized" license plate. It reads, "TCU-2." Chancellor Moudy's comment: "Interesting. Pre-mature. Or maybe he is going to try harder."

PLANNING COMMISSION COMMITTEES BEGIN WORK

In its second session since it was created a year ago, TCU's Future Planning Commission examined the University's "constituencies" and, through ten special task force committees, began to take a hard look at major segments of TCU's life--all with an eye toward developing a flexible master plan to guide the institution in the years ahead.

Over 100 faculty and staff members and trustees are participating initially in the work of these committees. After a brief orientation Saturday morning, the members adjourned to pre-assigned rooms in Dan Rogers Hall to determine how they would approach their assignments and to begin laying the groundwork for their study. The committees will meet periodically and will make progress reports and recommendations to the main Planning Commission body.

Discussing TCU's constituency, Chancellor Moudy identified it as the "parts" of the University: (1) those by whom the institution was set up--giving it support; (2) those through whom it was set up--those who operate it; and (3) those for whom it was set up--who come as students. Each has a past, present and potential. It is the "potential" of those who will support, operate and be benefited by TCU that the Commission is most concerned with, for these are within our ability to determine.

BACCALAUREATE SERVICE MOVED TO COLISEUM

Our annual Baccalaureate Service, which is usually held in Ed Landreth Auditorium, has been moved to Daniel-Meyer Coliseum. It is still set for Sun., May 28 at 7:30 p. m. as published in the TCU calendar. The need for moving the service has become increasingly evident through the years as graduating classes have grown and Ed Landreth has been unable to accommodate all persons wishing to attend.

Dr. W. B. Blakemore, dean of Disciples Divinity House at the University of Chicago, will give the Baccalaureate sermon.

THE DILEMMAS OF A DEAN

Dr. Sandy Wall, associate dean of Graduate School, may someday rival Art Linkletter's "Kids Say the Darndest Things"...and his tome will deal with weird requests and notations on applications for admission and scholarship aid. One of the latest to arrive posed this question: Shall I buy more clothes since you will supply us in the University? The same letter asked: Since I am coming to Texas in fall semester of 1967 shall I leave my country a week before the resumption day?

A request a few months ago came from a student at the American institution referred to as "Flunk-Out University" and the recent subject for a national magazine feature story. The student assured Dr. Wall that he had added desire to fulfill his academic potential.

FACULTY MEETING SET FOR MAY 19

A general faculty meeting has been called for Fri., May 19, at 4 p.m. in the Dan Rogers Auditorium. Might jot the date and time on your calendar now, as a reminder. We'll have more information regarding the specific nature of the meeting in next week's Bulletin.

1967-68 UNIVERSITY CALENDAR BEING PREPARED

A copy of the tentative University Calendar for 1967-68 is included with this issue of the Faculty Bulletin. Everyone is urged to take a close look at the events listed to see if any corrections or additions should be made before the final copy goes to the printers. If you know of any program or activity that should be included in the Calendar, please call Libby Proffer, student activities advisor, at ext. 341. We'd like for it to be as accurate and inclusive as possible.

COUNSELORS SHOULD WARN STUDENTS

The University Classification Committee, chaired by J. L. Kerby, is urging faculty to warn students they counsel of problems they may face in taking courses at other colleges this summer:

1. The last 30 semester hours immediately prior to receiving his degree must be taken at TCU.

2. Six semester hours of advanced work in his major and three semester hours of advanced work in his minor must be completed at TCU.

3. Limited credit in correspondence courses is permitted; however, the completion of such transferred credit must not interrupt the last 30 semester hours for the degree. Any correspondence courses taken while a TCU student requires special approval of the student's dean.

4. Courses transferred from a junior college are restricted. A student who has junior standing when attending a junior college cannot transfer more than six semester hours to TCU, and must have special advanced permission from his dean.

5. Students should be sure that courses they wish to take elsewhere are equivalent of courses they need at TCU.

6. A course in which a student has failed to make a passing grade may not be taken by correspondence.

ONLY FOUR MORE PERFORMANCES AT SCOTT

Only four more performances of Goldsmith's comedy, "She Stoops to Conquer," remain on the bill for the theatre arts presentation at the Wm. Edrington Scott Theatre. The last production of TCU students for the 1966-67 year, the drama is the first major play to be planned, designed and tailored exclusively for an off-campus stage.

Those who have seen it have been lavish in their praise of the acting, the comical approaches and the entire evening of entertainment at The Scott. Tickets, free to faculty and staff, may be reserved by calling University Theatre, Ext. 243, or Scott Theatre, PE 8-6509. Don't wait too long to call; lots of other folks have already made their reservations!

NOTES ON MOST NOTABLE FOLKS

Congratulations to NEIL DANIEL of English who recently took his oral examination for Ph.D. degree at the U. of Indiana. The degree will be conferred at the May commencement.

English Chairman JIM CORDER has signed to do a revision of the Scott, Foresman Handbook of English.

JERRY MICHEL of sociology was principal speaker at the Alpha Kappa Delta initiation ceremony at NTSU, May 2. His topic was most interesting: "Upward Skidding." Last week, Jerry addressed a Neighborhood Center Training Institute at Arlington Heights Christian Church on "The Effects of Poverty on the Poor." The institute was sponsored by the Texas Office of Economic Opportunity for neighborhood center supervisors and workers in the North Texas area.

Biologist BOB PARKER is one of three persons authoring an article on "A Phylogenetic Survey of Molluscan Shell Matrix Proteins," published in Breviora, journal of the Museum of Comparative Zoology.

MORE NOTES ON FOLKS OF NOTE

ALVIN NELSON of philosophy was in Chicago, May 4-6, attending the annual meeting of the Western Division of the American Philosophical Assn.

Named to offices last Friday evening at the 14th annual meeting of the Fort Worth Area Council of Churches were: Dr. Noel Keith (Undergrad religion chairman) as chairman of the Div. of Communications, and John Ohendalski (Research ed in PR) as chairman of the Div. of Christian Life and Work.

BILL MASSEY, assoc. prof. of anthropology, MALCOLM McLEAN, AddRan assoc. dean, and ARTHUR WOODWARD, who teaches a class in historical archaeology for TCU at the Amon Carter Museum, accompanied a group of students last month to Waco to meet the Vizconde de Priego, Spanish Cultural Attache. They accompanied him to the site of Spanish missions on the San Gabriel River between Rockdale and Round Rock which flourished between 1746 and 1756. Massey originally located the site of the presidio and the three missions. A masters thesis on the missions by graduate history student Gary Barnes was presented to the Vizconde de Priego, who plans to forward it to Spain for possible publication.

RONALD DILLEHAY of psychology is co-author of a paper titled "Establishing limiting standards for mineral content in domestic water" which was presented at the Western Psychological Assn meetings in San Francisco recently. The paper describes research on a program concerning psychological reactions to drinking water. The project is of special interest to the California Public Health Dept. because of population and water supply problems.

HUNTER BECKLEHYMER, assoc. prof. of homiletics in Brite, has been invited to speak at the 1967 Convocation of Disciples Divinity House at the U. of Chicago on June 5

Government Chairman AUGUST SPAIN was elected president of the Southwestern Council of Latin Amer. Studies at a recent meeting of the second annual conference on Latin Amer. Studies held at the U. of Houston. The new regional assn. of academics, scholars and others concerned with Latin American life, culture and confluence with North America plans to become "international" by recruiting members from Mexico and other points south of the border.

ALLEN SELF of business has a calendar of speaking engagements that would fill a page. Included recently are speeches to the Dallas Management Assn., annual AAUP banquet at Baylor on "Professors on Trial," state meeting of Internatl. Assn. of Personnel in Employment Security in Dallas on "Responsibilities of Higher Education," of Texas at Arlington chapter of AAUP, 20th annual Financial Management Conf. at Texas A&M on "The New Managerial Economics." Allen was elected to a two-year term as vice-chairman of the Assembly of State and Regional Conferences of the AAUP at their annual meeting in Cleveland last month.

MICHAEL WINESANKER, music chairman, attended a convention of the Texas Assn. Music Schools in San Antonio last month and also a meeting of the Music Teachers Assn. in St. Louis where he chaired a session on Musicology and was named to serve as chairman of the standing committee on Musicology for the next four years.

MORE NOTES ON FOLKS OF NOTE

ANNETTE MEYERS PLANICK of music is composer of a song, "Arise My Fair One," which won the top prize in the Texas Federation of Music Club's Composers Contest. The work was performed at the Woman's Club by KATHRYNE DACUS, part-time music faculty, with Annette at the piano.

The campus extends its sympathy to DAVID MATHENY, head of forensics at TCU who is resigning this year, on the death of his father in El Reno, Okla.

KE HARRISON, dean of our newly named M. J. Neeley School of Business, will be guest lecturer at the May 11 session of the second annual Executive Development Seminar at East Carolina College in Greenville, N. C. Over 30 executives from Eastern North Carolina commercial, industrial and financial establishments will gather to hear a number of speakers discuss management concepts from a practical and academic point of view. Dean Harrison will speak on "The Environment of Business."

We are honoring Lucy Harris, Henry Harsh, Martin Emery, Janette Stoman, Tom Cook and Young. In addition, special recognition will be given to Miss Elsie Cathey, teacher office administration at our Evening College. As Evening College Director Palmer points out, we're most proud to honor these folks. They give all they can, it is part-time. Also to be recognized is Major Charles Chamberlain of Army who will be reassigned to an overseas post during the summer. He's been at TCU two years.

Entertainment for this evening will be presented by The Collegiate Singers, a student group directed by Ben Hanson.

AWARDS DAY TOMORROW

At 4 p.m. tomorrow (Friday) the Army and Air Force ROTC will hold their Awards Ceremonies on the extra-mural field. Outstanding members of both ROTC units, Flight and Corps, will be honored for their achievements and contributions to the ROTC program at TCU. Counselor Moody and several of our faculty members will be on hand to make presentations. Representatives from Carroll Air Force Base, American Legion and the Reserve Officers' Assn. will also stand to present awards. During the presentations, the Army and Air Force units will give in review in honor of the awardees. All faculty members are invited to attend. It will be a colorful event, come if you can.

FACULTY MEETING SET FOR FRIDAY

Last general faculty meeting for the semester has been set for Fri. May 19 at 10 a.m. in Dan Rogers Auditorium. According to Vice-Chancellor for Academic Affairs, Newcomb, topics to be discussed at the meeting will include reports on the Phi Kappa application, the TACSB TV facility and its impact on the progress of the Tu-
