FACULTY CANDLELIGHT DINNER TONIGHT

This evening at 7 p.m. at Ridglea Country Club we'll hold our annual Candlelight Dinner honoring retiring faculty members. It's one of our most special occasions. Again, everyone is encouraged to dress formal. Reservations were due last Friday--so, hope you've made yours.

We'll be honoring Lucy Harris, Henry Hardt, Martine Emert, Janette Sloman, Iva Cox, and Paul Young. In addition, special recognition will be given to Miss Elsie Cathey who teaches office administration in our Evening College. As Evening College Director Tom Palmer points out, we're most proud to honor these folks. They give all they can, even if it is part-time. Also to be recognized is Major Charles Chamberlain of Army ROTC, who will be reassigned to an overseas post during the summer. He's been at TCU two years.

Entertainment for this evening will be presented by The Camerata Singers, a student group directed by Bev Henson.

ROTC AWARDS DAY TOMORROW

At 11 a.m. tomorrow (Thurs.) the Army and Air Force ROTC will hold their Awards Day ceremonies on the intra-mural field. Outstanding members of both ROTC units, Angel Flight and Corps-dettes will be honored for their achievements and contributions to the ROTC program at TCU. Chancellor Moudy and many of our faculty members will be on hand to make presentations. Representatives from Carswell Air Force Base, the American Legion and the Reserve Officers' Assn. will also attend to present awards. Following the presentations, the Army and Air Force units will pass in review in honor of the awardees. All faculty members are invited to attend. It will be a colorful event, so come if you can.

FACULTY MEETING SET FOR FRIDAY

The last general faculty meeting for the semester has been set for Fri. (May 19) at 4 p.m. in Dan Rogers Auditorium. According to Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs James Newcomer, topics to be discussed at the meeting will include reports on the Phi Beta Kappa application, the TAGER TV facility and its initial use, progress of the Future Planning Commission, and planning of a new Health and Physical Education facility.

SPEED READING COURSE PLANNED

An adult course in the improvement of reading rate has been announced by the Division of Special Courses for June 5 to July 12. To meet on Mondays and Wednesdays from 7 to 9 p. m., the class will give particular attention to reading skills necessary for success in business. Facilities of the University's newly equipped reading laboratory will be used. Enrollments at $40 per person are being accepted now by Leroy Lewis, director of the division. Persons may also sign up on June 5 during TCU's summer session registration.

TCU TO BE TEST CENTER

The National Teacher Examination, prepared by Educational Testing Service of Princeton, N. J., will be administered on campus on July 1 to college seniors preparing to teach and to many teachers applying for positions with school systems which either encourage or require applicants to submit their scores. The one-day session will allow candidates to take the Common Exam and one of the 13 teaching-area tests, according to an announcement by Curtis Firkins, TCU testing and guidance director.

Applications for taking the exam at TCU must reach the Princeton office by June 2. Information bulletins and registration forms are available from Testing and Guidance.

TEACHERS TO BECOME "STUDENTS" FOR NSF

Participating in the National Science Foundation-sponsored institute this summer will be 100 secondary teachers of physics, chemistry, earth science, mathematics and biology from Texas and nine other states. To be headed by Miss Ina Mae Bramblett, associate professor of math, the six-week session will open June 5. Twelve Fort Worth teachers will be participants.

TCU faculty members responsible for instruction and devoting full time to the institute will be Dr. Mabel G. Reavis and D. L. Huie of mathematics; Dr. C. E. Murphy, biology; Dr. Dan Jarvis, geology; Dr. Floyd M. Lisle, chemistry; and Dr. R. J. Lysiak, physics.

TCU RESEARCH COMMITTEE TO MEET THURSDAY

The University Research Committee will hold its final meeting of the spring semester at 11 a. m. tomorrow (May 18) in Dan Rogers Hall, room 104. Any faculty member who is interested in securing funds for research during the summer months should contact John Wortham (ext. 282) for information and forms.

RANCH TRAINING PROGRAM FEATURED IN "CATTLEMAN"

TCU's Ranch Training Program received special attention in the May issue of The Cattleman magazine. In a story titled "TCU Ranch Class Tours East Texas and Gulf Coast," the issue describes a busy week for the class as they visited eight ranches through the area. During the nine-month program, the students visit a total of 40 ranches, nine feedlots, eight market and packing facilities, and seven experiment stations. They travel some 9,000 miles, yet 60% of their time is spent in the classroom.

Included in the article are photographs and brief biographical sketches on each of the RT graduates--of special interest to prospective employers. The Cattleman is the official publication of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Assn. with an international circulation of 25,000 ranchmen. Advertisements about the program appeared in the two previous issues and drew response from Nigeria to Viet Nam. John Merrill is director of the program and Raymond Kenny is assistant director.

Certificates will be presented to graduates of the program at a banquet in the Student Center Ballroom, Fri., May 26.

TCU ANTHROPOLOGIST TO MAP CENTURIES-OLD CITY

Dr. William Massey, associate professor of anthropology, will spend part of the summer mapping a city which ceased to exist almost two centuries ago. The lost city of Santa Ana, located near the southern tip of Baja California about 75 miles southwest of La Paz, sent northward the Spanish missionaries who founded what are now San Diego, Los Angeles and San Francisco. According to Dr. Massey, no one has excavated an 18th century Spanish town in America before. He read about Santa Ana while searching through historical documents during two and a half years of work in the area for the National Science Foundation and the North Mexican Center for Anthropology. He'll continue his preliminary digging this summer with three advanced TCU students and hopes to return again next year for more detailed archaeological excavation.

In additions to his plans for this summer, Dr. Massey and about a dozen student volunteers have been digging recently into an Indian mound near Froestburg, in Montague County. Last Sunday they had hoped to get down about 12 feet. This was the last of three such diggings on weekends there.

"PERSPECTIVE" ON SALE

The third issue of Perspective magazine, sponsored by the Forums Committee, is now on sale and may be purchased in the Faculty Center or ordered from Editor Joyce Hegman, Box 29505. In this issue students discuss their professors, the administration, and the role of student protest. Dr. Ronald B. Flowers, professor of religion, responds to the article, "Questioning the University," which appeared in the last Perspective. The publication costs only a quarter.

ACADEMIC PROCESSIONALS FOR BACCALAUREATE AND COMMENCEMENT

All faculty members and administrative staff are asked to attend the Baccalaureate and Commencement programs, May 28 and 31. Academic regalia will be worn. Assembly for the procession will be on the pavement between Daniel-Meyer Coliseum and the Stadium, at 7 p.m. on both nights. In the event of rain, the faculty lines will assemble in the south part of the Coliseum concourse.

This year the faculty will be lined up by assistant marshals, behind the graduating classes, and will follow them into the seating area. Programs will have been placed in your chairs, so do not carry them with you in the processional. Everyone is urged to be prompt. Academic Deans are asked to supply accurate information about participation by Fri., May 26. Administrative people who are not in the platform party should call George Fowler at the Department of Religion (ext. 428) and give him or the office secretary the necessary information.

FACULTY GIVES SUPPORT TO ARTS COUNCIL

Many of our faculty members give support as individuals to the Fort Worth Arts Council. Now, we have the opportunity to support it collectively. The Arts Council will list "The TCU Faculty" as Guarantors if, as a group, we give a total of $1,000 or more to the Council's program--which includes the Fort Worth Opera, Orchestra, Texas Boys' Choir, Van Cliburn Piano Competition, Ballet, Community Theatre, and the Tarrant County Great Books Council. A letter and contribution form has been sent to all full-time day faculty by Dean Frank Hughes of the School of Fine Arts. The forms should be returned as soon as possible to the Dean's office.

NOTES ON MOST NOTABLE FOLKS

IRA SCHANTZ, asst. prof. of voice, was tenor soloist in performances of Schubert's "Mass in G" and Mozart's "Laudate Dominum" at Holy Family Catholic Church, May 6 and 7. The performances were presented with orchestra and in conjunction with a choirmasters and singers workshop sponsored by the Roman Catholic Music Section of the Fort Worth Chapter of the American Guild of Organists. Ira also served recently as a judge for a high school choir and vocal festival at Fort Worth Christian College.

FERNANDO and NANCY SCHAFFENBURG, head of the ballet division and director of the preparatory ballet program respectively, have been invited by the School of American Ballet in New York City to attend Mr. George Balanchine's ballet seminar the second week of June. Representatives of the New York school and the Ford Foundation's program of ballet scholarships visited our preparatory ballet school last March and were most impressed. Several of our school's students are candidates for scholarships. Barbara Macklem, a junior ballet student and holder of a Nordan Fine Arts scholarship in ballet, will accompany the Shaffenburgs to study methods of teaching children. Her trip is being sponsored by the Ford Foundation.

Two research articles, each prepared by BILL WATSON of chemistry and two graduate students, appeared in the May issue of the Journal of Inorganic Chemistry. They are: "Properties of Some Copper (II) and Zinc (II) N-oxide and β -Diketone Complexes" and "Refinement of the Crystal Structure of Di-u-(pyridine oxide)-bis(dichlorocopper (II))."

DESIRE LIGETI, professor of music, is leaving on May 21 for an extensive concert and operatic tour of western and eastern Europe. He will appear on radio and television for AVRO (the Netherland's international network), Katolieke Radio, Hilversum, Schweizerische Rundfunk, Zurich, Concerts of the Gulbenkian Foundation, Lisbon, Portugal and the Hungarian State Radio and Television.

BOB McCREADY, Evening College, completed an April tour as national lecturer for the Assn. for Computing Machinery. He spoke on "Pure Mathematics, Applied Mathematics, Computing--Togetherness or Apartheid?" to the Southern Tier (upstate New York) and Long Island Chapters of the ACM. A second speech, "Vistas of the Theory of Approximation" was given to the Tidewater (Norfolk) Virginia Chapter. The first speech is a plea for inter-disciplinary understanding and communication while the second is a technical, historical review of the highlights of the Theory of Approximation and its impact on computation.

GENTRY SHELTON of Brite has given permission to the Choral Conductors Guild of California to publish his article, "What is a Good Hymn?", in three installments which will appear in the April, May and June issues of The Journal of Choral Conductors Guild.

Mathematics Professor BEN GOLDBECK's daughter, Janne, has been notified that her poem, "Here of a Morning, Time," has been accepted for publication in a forthcoming anthology of college student poetry to be published by the National Poetry Press in Los Angeles.

The Society for the Study of Social Problems has accepted a paper by WILLIAM BATES, LARRY ADAMS and JERRY M. CHEL of sociology for presentation at its annual meeting in San Francisco in August. The paper is concerned with research conducted at the Clinical Research Center (formerly U.S.P.H.S. Hospital) where Dr. Bates is Research Director. He is also an adjunct professor in TCU's Dept. of Sociology and Anthropology. Adams received his M.A. from TCU in 1966 and is presently working toward the Ph.D. at Florida State U.

"Some Approaches to Family Planning-Counseling in Local Health Departments" was the title of an article co-authored by RONALD DILLEHAY of psychology. The research findings, which were the results of studies of some 250 public health nurses and physicians in California, was published in a recent issue of the American Journal of Public Health.

WAYNE LUDVIGSON of psychology attended a meeting of the Midwestern Psychological Assn. in Chicago, May 4-6. He chaired a session on concept formation and presented a paper (with graduate student Don Sytsma) on "The Sweet Smell of Success: Apparent Double Alternation in the Rat."
