Dear Glenn:

I am interested in a piece of the Landes, West Virginia, iron.

My first choice would be H 91.15.

If you don't have it I would consider H 91.28 but would like to see it first--i. e., on approval.

If neither is available, 91.23 and 91.35 would be the next choices, in order.

I might need a month or two's time to come up with the money.

Virgil Barnes wrote me was at Logan, New Mexico at dusk Oct. 20 when he saw a minor fireball "coming straight down" with a bluish cast and ending in a spray of fragments. Have anything else on it? I don't.

I tried my hand on one of those minor fireballs recently (a ground lighter and very brilliant for those pretty much under it at the end, but not too impressive in general. The results are enclosed and are not promising.

Sincerely,
