TCU GIVING EXCEEDS UNITED FUND GOAL

For the sixth consecutive year the faculty and staff of TCU have reached their United Fund goal. With few exceptions, all UF cards have been turned in and the pledges totaled. And the result is very gratifying. TCU's goal was $19,233 and when our first report was made to the United Fund office last week, we had pledged $19,587.44--$354.44 above our goal. The amount represents gifts from 580 persons with an average per capita of more than $33. About 92% of our full-time employees participated. Our deep thanks to everyone for assisting in this important campaign.

A special thanks to the students in Kitty Wingo's folk dancing class. The youngsters presented a program last week for the Fort Worth Etta Newby Woman's Club and received a check in appreciation for their efforts. Deducting a small amount for expenses, the students gave the rest of the money--$20--as a donation to the United Fund. It was most gracious and appreciated.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION FACILITIES OPEN TO FACULTY

Faculty families who would like to take an out-of-season swim or catch up on their physical fitness program may use the TCU pool and gymnasium, according to George Harris of the physical education dept. The facilities are available each week from 2-4 p.m., Monday through Friday; 9 a.m.-5 p.m., Saturday; and 1-10 p.m., Sunday. Young children who plan to use the pool must be accompanied by an adult. The facilities are also open to TCU students at these times.

Departments are invited to plan a swimming party for their faculty members or to check out game equipment for departmental gatherings. Call George Harris at ext. 300 if you'd like to plan a special party.

STUDENT LEADERS WELCOME TCJC'ERS

As a part of their official "welcome to Fort Worth" to students of Tarrant County Junior College, TCU's student body leaders hosted an orientation session yesterday in which the basics of student government were discussed. Headed by Drew Sawyer, president of the Cabinet, and co-planned by Activities Council Director Court Crow, the meeting served to focus attention on areas in which TCU students could offer assistance to their new collegiate neighbors. Other meetings will be scheduled as the two groups work together.

CHANCELLOR GIVES DEDICATION ADDRESS

As principal speaker at the Oct. 8 dedication of the new Kansas School of Religion on the University of Kansas campus in Lawrence, Chancellor J.M. Moudy spoke on "Religion and Higher Education." The formal service was held in the ballroom of the Kansas Union, following an open house at the new structure. The U of K Chancellor, Dr. W. Clarke Wescoe, presided.

An outgrowth of the Disciples of Christ-sponsored Bible Chair program started in 1901 at the Kansas university, the School of Religion became an inter-denominationally supported and controlled school for teaching religion at KU in 1921. Eleven religious groups compose the corporation of the religion school. The Christian Churches have provided physical facilities since its beginning and assumed the major responsibility for the expansion project. The dedication events will extend over a number of weeks in a lecture series conducted by Dr. Nathan A. Scott Jr. of the University of Chicago, Father Ernan McMullin of Notre Dame and Dr. Gardner Murphy of the Menninger Foundation.

In addition to participating in the formal occasion, Chancellor Moudy preached at Lawrence's First Christian Church Sunday. He took part in the Oct. 6 inauguration of Dr. Elmer Jagow, president of Hiram, Ohio, College and spoke at the following day's TCU alumni program in Kansas City, Mo.

ART LENDING LIBRARY WILL "LEND" THURSDAY

If you would like to try your hand at interior decorating, TCU's Art Lending Library, a project of the Student Activities Council's Exhibits Committee, will rent paintings for TCU offices, Thurs. (Oct. 12) from 3-5 p.m. in the Student Center, second floor lobby. The paintings rent for $3 per semester.

AIR FORCE BAND, SINGING SERGEANTS TO APPEAR HERE

An Oct. 18 appearance in TCU's Daniel-Meyer Coliseum is on the itinerary of the U.S. Air Force Band's 1967 fall tour that will take the 65-member band and 24 "Singing Sergeants" to 26 cities for 38 concerts. All concerts, under the baton of commander-conductor, Lt. Col. Arnald D. Gabriel, will be presented free as a public service by the USAF. Co-sponsors of the event, slated to begin at 8 p. m., are TCU, the Air Force Association, Air Force ROTC and AF Recruiting Service.

Scheduled to represent the United States on a goodwill concert tour of the Latin American nations next spring, the band's most recent tour in April and May was enthusiastically received by their audiences that numbered more than 117,000 persons in seven states. The next U.S. tour will be in the Fall of 1968. Free tickets are available from the AF ROTC office in Sadler Hall, Room 16, and from the ticket office in the coliseum. "We hope to fill the coliseum for this outstanding musical event," said Maj. Kenneth Thompson, professor of aerospace studies.

METROPOLITAN CONFERENCE BEGINS

The second seminar series of the University's Metropolitan Urban Policy Conference, coordinated by the Division of Civic Affairs, headed by Director John Hall, and presented in conjunction with the Brookings Institution of Washington, D. C., began last week with the initial session held Oct. 5 at Hotel Texas. Attended by approximately 70 members of the community's leadership, the meeting set the tone for the 1967-68 focus on detailed concerns vital to the effective functioning of a metropolitan area.

The broad perspectives investigated in last year's $48,000 policy program led planners to designate specific areas for concentrated study during the new series, Hall explained. Chief concerns for the next 11 meetings will be such areas as fiscal policy, manpower, role and structure of local government, civic responsibility and educational policy.

Partially funded by a federal grant under Title I of the Higher Education Act, TCU's urban policy conference is one of two such programs currently being conducted in the Southwest, both in cooperation with Brookings. The other is in progress in Phoenix, Ariz.

REMINDER ABOUT SPECIAL ART COURSE

Associate Professor of Art Chuck Isoline reminds all faculty and staff (or spouses) that he will offer a special course in drawing and painting, beginning in October. If you're interested, call Chuck at AX2-1639.

AIR FORCE ART EXHIBIT DUE OCT. 18

An art exhibit of original works illustrating the Air Force from World War I to the present aerospace age, will be on display throughout the day on Wed., Oct. 18. The display is scheduled in conjunction with the appearance of the AF band that night and will be on exhibit in the concourse of the coliseum.

A number of prominent artists, most of them members of the Societies of Illustrators in Los Angeles, New York and San Francisco, have donated their time and talents to portraying the Air Force story. The paintings to be on display here are a portion of the USAF Art Collection, which exceeds 2,500 in number.

FOREIGN SERVICE OFFICER TO VISIT CAMPUS

Mr. Charles E. Rushing, an experienced Foreign Service Officer now on a tour of duty in the United States, will be on campus Tues., Oct 17, at 2 p.m., in Room 202 of the Student Center. Rushing will talk with upper classmen and graduate students about career opportunities in the US Foreign Service. He'll talk with faculty members about the educational preparation needed for service in this field.

Students and others interested in taking the 1967 Foreign Service Recruitment Examination, scheduled for Dec. 2, must mail in their application not later than Oct. 21. Applications are available from Dr. August Spain, government chairman, Reed Hall 111.

ATLANTA LAWYER TO SPEAK OCT. 18

"Conflict and Conscience: Struggle in Georgia" will be the topic of Charles Longstreet Weltner, 39-year-old Atlanta lawyer, when he presents the second Forums Committee program of the year. To speak at 8 p.m. on Oct. 18 in the Student Center ballroom, the son of the former chancellor of Oglethorpe University came into public view last year when he withdrew from the Democratic Congressional race in Georgia because he could not hold to the party's loyalty oath and support the gubernatorial nominee, Lester Maddox. In his recent book, Southerner, he makes a compassionate argument for equality and ends the volume with the statement, "Let right be done." A graduate of Oglethorpe and Columbia University, he is the great grandson of T.R.R. Cobb, a confederate general who drafted the Confederate Constitution and who later died at Fredericksburg. Another of his ancestors was Georgia's first chief justice.

MALCOLM McLEAN EDITS HISTORICAL DIARY

A book entitled Diario y Derrotero (1777-1781) by Fran Juan Agustin de Morfi and edited by Professor Eugenio del Hoyo and Dr. Malcolm McLean (currently on research leave) contains the personal diaries kept by Father Morfi detailing his journey from Mexico City to Texas and then back across the northern frontier of Mexico to Sinaloa, returning to Mexico City some four years later. The book contains more than 1,000 footnotes, 6 indexes and 14 detailed maps showing the route followed by the expedition and "constitutes a veritable encyclopedia for the period covered; the best single source covering the entire Spanish borderlands from Texas to California," according to Dr. McLean.

Dr. McLean notes that the dates covered by the diaries correspond to the time when the citizens of the United States along the eastern seaboard were just finishing their Declaration of Independence and drafting their Constitution. The Spaniards along the southern border had already explored and colonized the area and were engaged in writing the history of the region.

Most of the work on the Spanish edition of the book was done by Professor del Hoyo. Dr. McLean has agreed to do the English translation.

OPERA-SYMPHONY LECTURES SCHEDULED

Planned through the Division of Special Courses, a series of lecture-discussions will be offered under the direction of Dr. John Woldt, music professor, to help people increase their understanding of this season's opera and symphony programs. Dates for the series will be Oct. 24, Nov. 21, Jan. 9 for the fall semester and Feb. 13, March 5 and April 2 for the spring semester. All classes will begin at 7:30 p. m. and will be held in Ed Landreth Hall, Room 103.

Fee for the series will be $10 per person or $6 per person for the first three meetings. Speaking about the series, Dr. Woldt said, "People who know about opera seem to enjoy it more. And through the use of recordings, live demonstrations and lectures by guests from Fort Worth's opera and symphony organizations, we hope to catch the interest of townspeople while giving them a background for greater enjoyment." Further information may be obtained from the Special Courses office in Sadler Hall, ext. 388, or from Dr. Woldt at ext. 247.

REMINDER TO NOMINATE STUDENTS FOR "WHO'S WHO"

Faculty members and recognized student groups are reminded that nominations for "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities" must be given to the Student Life Office today (Oct. 11). Special forms are available from the Dean of Students, academic deans, department chairmen and organization presidents. Thirty-five students from junior and senior level will be selected.

WHAT'S NEWS IN HIGHER EDUCATION

Total Federal support to colleges and universities in 1966 reached $3 billion, up from $2.3 billion in 1965. The data, released by the National Science Foundation, supports a four year trend among academic science activities supported by the government toward increased emphasis on science education. Nearly one-half of the increase in total Federal obligations to universities and colleges was for nonscience programs, primarily for undergraduate facilities and equipment and for fellowships and training in fields other than the natural sciences and engineering. Nonscience support grew from $85 million in 1963 to $847 million in 1966, a nine-fold increase. (Higher Education and National Affairs, Sept. 29)

From Education Abstracts, a monthly education news digest published by the American College Public Relations Assn. . . . Most recent figures show 31 of every 1,000 U.S. citizens in college as compared with 10 of every 1,000 Frenchmen and five of every 1,000 West Germans. While only 15 Negro Americans are in college per 1,000 population, this statistic indicates that the Negroes are attending college at twice the rate of West Europeans (seven per 1,000 population). (U.S. News & World Report, July 31). . . . Collegiate "involvement" by students will continue to grow, predicts The National Observer, Aug. 14. While student influence is greater today than it has ever been--and will grow--there's no indication of college's giving up any real power or the students' wanting to run their schools. While administrators have been 'catching it' from students and faculty alike up to now, forecast is that the future struggle will be between faculty and students.

President Johnson, speaking to an International Conference on the World Crisis in Education in Williamsburg, Va. last Sunday, challenged the world's educators to try to make use of modern communications to extend learning and to get world leaders "to convert man's tragic will to destroy into a determination to build." The president placed three challenges before the conference: (1) How to use educational television to accelerate basic education for our children, make best teachers available to a maximum number of students; (2) How to make best scholars and teachers in the world available to all universities--wherever they may be--through satellite communication; (3) How we can use the latest methods of microfilming and communication to provide those doing scholarship and research everywhere the best library facilities that there are anywhere.

COLORFUL TCU MAGAZINE OFF THE PRESS

The Fall 1967 issue of This is TCU, the magazine of Texas Christian University, is off the press and is one of the most colorful issues ever produced. Another top job by Editor Betty Knox, who also directs the TCU News Bureau, the issue begins the 10th year of publication for the magazine. The front cover is a full-color aerial photo of the campus, a scene which has been printed on several University publications, and the back cover is a beautiful sunset over the TCU stadium. Articles include a fine feature by John Ohendalski on "A New Era in Higher Education," which describes TCU's association with TAGER (The Assn. for Graduate Education and Research), IUC (The Inter-University Council of the Dallas-Fort Worth Area), GURC (Gulf Universities Research Corp.), and ORAU (Oak Ridge Associated Universities); "Poetry that influenced a president," by Dr. Maurice Boyd of history; the Baccalaureate address, "Conscience and Community," given by Dr. W.B. Blakemore last May; a look at TCU's first Ph. D.'s; and a look back at some of TCU's all-time great football players.

It's an excellent issue, well designed by Chuck Isoline of the art dept., and well worth the reading.

NOTES ON MOST NOTABLE FOLKS

ALVIN NELSON of philosophy has been informed that a revised version of his paper, "On Life and Mind in Dewey's System," will be published in the Oct., 1967 issue of Darshana International (Moradabad, India). The paper was presented at the initial meeting of the North Texas Philosophical Assn. at UTA last Feb.

Geology Chairman ART EHLMANN has written an entry on the mineral glauconite for the new Encyclopedia of Geochemistry and Mineralogy to be published by Reinhold and Co. The volumes are edited by Rhodes W. Fairbridge of Columbia Univ.

SAM LEIFESTE, professor of marketing, has completed a 200-page research report for the Texas Mobile Home Assn. The report analyzed the economic outlook for the mobile home industry in Texas.

ALLEN SELF, professor of the history of business enterprise, attended meetings of the Urban and Regional Information Systems Assn. in New York early in Sept. The conference dealt with the establishment and operation of metropolitan data centers, a research project with which Allen is involved. Sept. 30, Allen spoke to a workshop for board members of the new Wesley Community Center in Fort Worth on, "The Meaning of Board Membership: Organization and Structure in Voluntary Agencies."

Busy Chancellor J.M. MOUDY, will preside at a luncheon of the Board of Higher Education of the Disciples of Christ next week. Dr. Moudy is chairman of the Board which will be meeting during the 1967 International Convention of Christian Churches in St. Louis. TCU is one of 34 institutions in the U.S., New Zealand and Australia that are affiliated with the Board. The organization functions as a channel of communication at the national level between churches and institutions. TCU's voting delegates to the convention will be Dr. Moudy, JOHN KNOWLES, director of church relations, and ELMER HENSON, dean of Brite Divinity School.
