U.S. CHAMBER OF COMMERCE SELECTS TCU

TCU has been selected as the site for the Southwestern Division Institute of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce effective in 1968. The decision was announced by Harry R. Hall of Lansing, Mich., the organization's executive committee chairman, and Arnold R. Mathias of Dallas, manager of the Southwestern Division.

The annual institute, conducted by the C of C in consultation with the American Chamber of Commerce Executives and the American Society of Associated Executives, is designed to spur the organization executive toward a more effective use of his aptitudes and talents for management. TCU was chosen as the locale after a nine-man evaluation committee recently conferred with administrative officials here. Heading the site team was Richard L. Baily of Washington, D. C., manager of the C of C institute department. Selected from among seven centrally located colleges and universities in the eight-state division, TCU was chosen as an institution "that would give promise of continued improvement in the quality of the institute and in its value to chamber executives," Hall said. Academic qualification, extensive experience of faculty in local chamber activities and the leadership of Dr. Ike Harrison were cited as factors that led the board of regents to approve the committee's recommendation.

Planned for July 21-27, the 1968 event at TCU will be one of six conducted in the nation. Others will be held at Michigan State, Syracuse and the universities of Georgia, Colorado and Santa Clara. Dean Harrison has been designated as academic coordinator for the Fort Worth seminar.

CHANCELLOR MOUDY PRAISES FACULTY

Each week recently has brought in additional pledges to the Tarrant County United Fund. TCU's contribution in the campaign has now reached $20,046.44 with 612 employees participating. We achieved 104% of our goal ($19,233) and gave an average $32.75 per person.

Chancellor Moudy has asked that the following be expressed to all faculty and staff. "Please accept my personal thanks for the excellent showing you made in our recent United Fund drive. You are to be complimented not only in recognizing an important cause but also on the fact that you always come through when you are asked to do something important. It is a pleasure to work with you." J.M. Moudy.

FIRST CAMPUS DRAMA OPENS OCT. 30

University Theatre's first on-campus production of the 1967-68 season, "Waltz of the Toreadors," will open Oct. 30 for a six-night run with curtain time set at 8:15 p.m. A French masterpiece of wit, the drama is high comedy with facets that are exciting, funny, ironic and cruel from the pen of Jean Anouilh, considered by many to be the greatest of European playwrights. J.D. Sutherland of the theatre arts faculty will be directing the play. Nordan scholarship holder Bud Franks of San Antonio will be set designer, and Perry Langenstein of Lubbock, remembered for his role as the old man in "The Chairs," will be stage manager.

Tickets, provided free to faculty, may be reserved by calling the theatre box office, Ext. 243. For the public, ducats are priced at $2 for adults and $1 for non-TCU students.

ALUMNI HAS ANSWER TO MID-YEAR MELANCHOLIA

TCU's Alumni Association is scheduling a 14-day Hawaiian winter holiday, which should be a sure cure for the after-holidays slump for those with the time and the credit. Scheduled round-trip from Dallas for Jan. 29-Feb. 11, the tour includes jet flight to Honolulu for six days and then a four-day outer island trip aboard the S.S. Lurline, which will be home base for sightseeing at Kauai, Maui and Hawaii.

The tour group, composed of TCU alumni, their families and friends, will depart from Hilo on Feb. 6 for a five-night cruise to San Francisco. While some of the tour group may jet home from "the city by the sea," others will continue aboard ship down the coast to Los Angeles, arriving there early on Feb. 12.

Escorting the TCU tourists will be Miss Hazel Hunnicut, TCU alumna and owner of a local travel agency. Mrs. Betty Jean Stocker is coordinating plans, and additional information is available from the Alumni Affairs office in Sadler Hall.

BRITE TO HOLD CATHOLIC-PROTESTANT DIALOGUE

Mr. Ray Ryland of the Center for Christian Renewal in Oklahoma City will be at Brite Divinity School Friday, Oct. 27, at 1:30 p.m. He will speak to the combined classes of Professors Glen Routt and Harold Lunger about the Center's work and will discuss some Catholic principles of ecumenism as well as ecumenically significant trends in contemporary Catholic theology. The program is open to all TCU faculty and students.

"THE WORLD OF MY AMERICA" COMING OCT. 31

The works of Negro poets and writers during the last 100 years will be the content of the presentation of "The World of My America" by the widely proclaimed Negro actress, Paulene Myers. The second presentation of the 1967-68 Select Series, the Oct. 31 performance in Ed Landreth Auditorium will begin at 8 p.m. Single ticket admission will be $2 for adults at the door. Season tickets for faculty and staff, priced at $5 each to include this and the remaining five program's in this year's schedule, are available in the Student Center and will be on sale the night of the performance.

A veteran of the New York stage, Miss Myers introduces her audience to more than 40 different characters, presenting each as a three-dimensional human being, in her dramatic one-woman show. Always with the undercurrent of a belief in America and its people, she emerges as such people as the old washerwoman, the young naive girl, the mother who has lost her eighth child, the slave in revolt, the angry landlady and the tall, clumsy woman-preacher, Sojourner Truth. You'll want to circle this date on your calendar, too!

PAINTINGS ON DISPLAY IN LIBRARY

Paintings illustrating each chapter in the new book, Battles of Texas of the Texian Press of Waco, are on display currently in the Mary Coats Burnett Library. The work of Artist Donald M. Yena of San Antonio, described by art critics and book reviewers as a "historian with a paint brush," each reproduces the high point of a battle as envisioned by the author-historians. The works are owned by Robert E. Davis, owner-publisher of The Texian Press, and they will be on exhibit here until early November.

Chapters in the recently published volume are written by various historians. TCU faculty members represented include Dr. Ben Proctor, who described the battle of Palo Alto; and Col. Harold B. Simpson, former history instructor now directing the Confederate Research Center and Gun Museum at Hill Junior College, who wrote about Sabine Pass.

MOVIE ABOUT GOLFER TO BE SHOWN

"Follow the Sun," the 20th Century-Fox movie made in 1951 about Hogan's life which was premiered in Fort Worth on Mar. 23 of that year, will be shown tomorrow night (Oct. 26) in the Student Center ballroom. To begin at 7:30 p.m., the film will be free and stars Glenn Ford and Ann Baxter. The only full-length movie ever made about a professional golfer, the motion picture was made while he held the designation of Sportsman of the Decade, 1946-56.

LETTERMEN'S HALL OF FAME HONORS FOUR

Four of the University's all-time football greats were inducted into the TCU Lettermen's Hall of Fame last Friday evening: M. A. (Fuzz) Bladwin, L. C. (Pete) Wright, Davey O'Brien and L. R. (Dutch) Meyer.

The event took place at Shady Oaks Country Club before an audience of 275 admiring fans. Baldwin was a lineman for the Frogs from 1907-08 when the school was in Waco, won baseball letters as infielder from 1907-10, was both manager and captain of the 1910 baseball team. He was presented by Raymond (Bear) Wolf, now director of the TCU Placement Bureau. Pete Wright lettered six straight years at TCU in Waco, from 1904-1909, won six letters as tackle, end and fullback, was team captain in 1907 and athletic director from 1922-31. He was TCU's business manager from 1931-55, was voted Most Valuable Alumnus in 1959 and now serves the University as a member of its board of trustees. He was introduced by Athletic Director Abe Martin.

Davey O'Brien has become a legend at TCU. A great quarterback, he led the 1938 TCU team to become national champions. He won All-American honors and was the only college player to win the Heisman, Maxwell and Camp trophies the same season. He was presented by I. B. Hale, who played with O'Brien as a schoolboy in Dallas, then at TCU. Dutch Meyer, who retired in 1963 as athletic director, was known as the "King of the Upset in the Southwest." As an athlete, he earned 16 letters. He served as coach from 1934-52, winning three titles, including the 1938 national championship. He was introduced by Mattie Bell, one-time TCU coach before guiding the SMU Mustangs.

Mike Brumbelow, former TCU star and later assistant coach under Meyer, presided as Master of Ceremonies. Morgan Williams, president of the TCU Ex-Lettermen's Assn., explained the Hall of Fame. Chancellor Moudy gave the invocation.

WATER POLLUTION SEMINAR PLANNED

An intergovernmental workshop on the topic, "Water: Pure or Polluted!," will be presented by TCU's Division of Civic Affairs in cooperation with the North Central Texas Council of Governments next Wed., Nov. 1. Dr. Clifford Murphey of biology is planning the seminar and John Hall director of civic affairs, is serving as coordinator.

Water pollution experts from Fort Worth, Dallas and Austin will speak on: "Sources and Nature of Water Polluting Materials," "Advanced Wastewater Treatment," "Federal Water Quality Standards," "Upgrading the Sanitary Sewer Collection System," "Recreation and Water Pollution Control," and "Public Health Interest in Water Pollution Control."

HOGAN TO RECEIVE AWARD OCT. 28

Internationally known golfer, Ben Hogan of Fort Worth, will be honored during halftime ceremonies at Saturday afternoon's game with Nebraska. Cited last spring as recipient of an honoraray alumnus award, he was unable to be present at Spring Homecoming activities, and presentation of his award was postponed. Participating in this week's event will be Dr. J.M. Moudy, Alumni Director Clyde Foltz and Charles Floyd of Fort Worth, national president of the TCU Alumni Association.

Hogan, whose life resembles a believe-it-or-not story, began his unparalleled career as a caddy for casual golfers on courses in Cleburne and Fort Worth. After becoming a professional when he was 17, he won 72 tournaments, more titles than sports writers can enumerate and reached the apex of his career two years ago when he was named the "greatest professional golfer of all times" in a nationwide poll of writers and editors.

FINE ARTS GUEST TO SPEAK

Gardner Read, composer-in-residence and professor of composition at Boston University's School of Fine and Applied Arts, will present an illustrated lecture Nov. 1 in Ed Landreth Auditorium. Entitled "Twentieth-Century Music Notation," the public event will begin at 3 p.m. and will be free.

A prolific composer, the Illinois native began concentration on composition at Northwestern University School of Music while still a high school student, and he studied conducting with Valdimir Bakaleinikoff at Interlochen, Mich., National Music Camp. While studying at Eastman school of Music, he worked with Howard Hanson, Bernard Rogers, Paul White and later with Aaron Copland at Tanglewood, Jan Sibelius in Finland and Ildebrand Pizzetti in Italy. His musical awards are numerous, conferred by such as the New York Philharmonic, Juilliard School of Music, and the Paderewski Fund. The author-composer's major orchestral works have been performed with musical groups throughout this country.

TCU CHAPTER OF AUSA WINS NATIONAL AWARDS

TCU's chapter of the Assn. of the United States Army won unanimous second place for the most active company on a college or university campus and a second place award for having conducted the best single meeting during the year. Representatives of the chapter, accompanied by Capt. Ben Killebrew, asst. prof. of military science, recently attended the AUSA annual convention in Washington, D.C. The TCU group was the largest delegation present from one campus.

"TCU STORY" BEING TOLD ACROSS U.S.

In a thoughtfully planned program initiated by the division of Alumni Affairs, TCU administrative officials, faculty members and student leaders are combining their talents to tell the story of "TCU Today" throughout 18 states during the coming months.

Describing the program, which has the full cooperation of the admissions office, Alumni Affairs Director Clyde Foltz said, "We are seeking to tell the story of TCU to a wider number of persons than could be reached by our admissions personnel and to enlist the leadership of alumni in the areas being visited."

The 1967-68 program will be presented in 35 cities to approximately 3,000 high school students and their parents, school counselors, alumni and ministers of the Christian Church. Format of each meeting includes a luncheon or dinner to which the counselors and their students who have indicated interest in TCU, the students' parents and Christian Church clergymen, as well as former students, are invited. Invitations are extended to high schools who have written to the campus for information. Coordinating each city's event, such as those recently held in New Orleans, St. Louis and Atlanta, is an alumnus who serves as local host.

The meetings are informal and include a color slide presentation of campus scenes followed by comments from outstanding student leaders who discuss the University from their point of view and answer questions from the high school students and other visitors. Representatives from the administration and faculty describe the school, its program and its people. To date, spokesmen from TCU have included Chancellor Moudy and Dean of Students Howard Wible. Others will be invited to participate during the year-long program.

Commenting on the administrative speaker's portion of the program, Dr. Wible it had three functions: 1) to give the guests an insight into the important aspects they should look for in any institution; 2) to present the picture of what TCU has to offer; and 3) by doing this, project an image of the personality of TCU.

The programs, planned through the spring semester, will be held in cities from California to New York, Texas to Washington, D.C., and Oklahoma to Massachusetts. An important outgrowth of the meetings will be the development of a core of volunteer alumni leaders whose working knowledge of their alma mater has been expanded, their ties with TCU strengthened and their abilities to assist with student programs enhanced.

RESEARCH FOUNDATION NAMES CAMPAIGN CABINET

John Justin, president of the Justin Boot Co. and former Fort Worth mayor, has been named general chairman of the annual campaign to raise operating funds for the TCU Research Foundation this year. The 1967-68 campaign goal is $450,000 which will be used for the Foundation's program.

Other members of the campaign cabinet are: Co-chairman Jerry Brownlee, executive with Kimbell Milling Co.; Bayard Friedman, senior vice president of Fort Worth National Bank who headed the Foundation campaign last year; Jack Butler, editor of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram; Marion Hicks, division counsel of General Dynamics/Fort Worth and chairman of the Foundation's board of directors. About 150 volunteers, who make up the Foundation's Sponsoring Committee, will help reach the goal. Last year 265 individuals and firms provided more than $386,500 for the Foundation program.

Largest item in the Foundation budget is $170,000 earmarked for student aid which will support the study and research of about 42 students working toward graduate degrees in the sciences at TCU. Another $110,000 is budgeted in grants for research equipment and expense for faculty members, either as "starter grants" to new members of the faculty or as "seed money" to allow faculty scientists to develop their research to the point where it could receive support from sources outside this area.

The budget also includes funds for feasibility studies into several areas in which the Foundation may want to concentrate its efforts. Much of the program is based on suggestions from the distinguished Scientific Advisory Council which met with the Foundation on campus last spring.

TCU SCIENTISTS INVESTIGATE EFFECTS OF HURRICANE BEULAH

Dr. Robert Parker, associate professor of biology, led a group of five TCU scientists on a field trip to Rockport, Texas recently to investigate the effects of Hurricane Beulah and the resulting torrential rains upon marine life, the waters and the sediments of Texas bays. The team collected samples of the bottom of the bays for evidences of life after the bays had been freshened by the storm. They also collected sediment samples, water samples for chemical analysis of trace elements and samples of mud and water for bacterial assay. The field trip received both local and national publicity.

Accompanying Dr. Parker on the trip were Drs. Richard Steinmetz and Frank Slowey of geology and three students.

NOTES ON MOST NOTABLE FOLKS

BOB PARKER of biology has been elected chairman of the committee on underwater instrumentation for the petroleum and mining industry in the marine sciences division of the Instrument Society of America.

MIROSLAV SYNEK of physics spoke on "Applications of the Analytical SCF Method" at last Friday's Physics Graduate Colloquium.

The American Studies Assn. of Texas has asked FRED ERISMAN of the English Dept. to read his paper, "Transcendentalism for American Youth: The Children's Book of Kate Douglas Wiggin," at their annual meeting in December. The paper deals with the ways that Mrs. Wiggin presented transcendental ideas in books such as Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm and Polly Oliver's Problem, and suggests that she was trying to tell American children how they could create an ideal, utopian America once they became adults.

RICHARD LYSIAK of physics spoke last Wednesday to the American Society of Heating and Air Conditioning Engineers on his favorite subject: Lasers. Richard received a note from the organization's executive vice president saying, "It has been some time since I have seen so much interest as your talk generated. Your appearance was a credit to yourself and TCU and another example of your school's interest in local affairs." Richard showed the group an operating Laser.

MORE NOTES ON MOST NOTABLE FOLKS

ROBERT TAYLOR, chairman of the department of geography, spoke Tuesday to the Mu chapter of Phi Eta sorority on "China's Foundation for National Power." Robert has a long and distinguished career in the U.S. Foreign Service where he served for 22 years before he became a college professor.

ROGER HAIGH of history will participate in the Ford Foundation's Evaluation Conference of the Foreign Area Program in Mexico City next week.

JOHN BOHON, also of history, will be attending the Southern Conference on Slavic Studies at Tallahassee, Oct. 27-28, to read a paper on "The Union of the Russian People and Reactionary Politics after 1905."

Off to Detroit this week to participate in the United States Conference on Church and Society is HAROLD LUNGER of Brite Divinity School. Theme of the conference is "Christians in the Social and Technical Revolution: Strategies for Action." Of the 600 participants, at least 60% will be laymen who in their vocational experience deal with the problems of and potentials of rapid social and technological change. Harold's appointment was made following his nomination by the International Convention of Christian Churches meeting in St. Louis recently.

WILLIAM MASSEY, assoc. prof. of anthropology, has been invited to present a series of public lectures during Oct. 21-29 on college campuses in California under the auspices of the College Assn. for Public Events and Services of that state.

Busy Admissions Director ANNA BYRD WALLACE reports that as of Oct. 21 her office had received its 46th invitation to participate in a College Day-Night Program. Last year, the total number they participated in for the entire year was 46.

Our sympathy is expressed to Rev. GAYLAND POOL, campus Episcopal chaplain, on the death of his brother, Larry Pool, and his nephew, Jeffrey, 6. They were killed in an automobile accident near Jacksboro, Sunday.
