RELIGION DEPARTMENT CHAIRMAN NAMED

Dr. William (Bill) Reed of Lexington, Ky., a member of the TCU faculty in 1946-56 and internationally known as co-director of the Qumran Caves excavations when the Dead Sea Scrolls were discovered, has been named professor of religion and chairman of the religion department. His appointment will be effective Sept. 1.

Dr. Reed is currently a professor of Old Testament at Lexington Theological Seminary. While at TCU he was named Distinguished Professor of Old Testament. He earned his bachelor's degree at Hiram College in Ohio and his B.D. and Ph.D. degrees from Yale where he was winner of the Tew Prize and Two Brothers Fellowship for study in Palestine. Dr. Reed received world-wide recognition in archaeological circles for his work in 1951 as director of the American Schools of Oriental Research, where he earlier had earned a certificate in archaeology. Currently the treasurer for the school, he served for ten years as assistant to the president and now is on the school's board of trustees.

As director of the second campaign in excavations at Dhiban, Jordan, in 1951, he authored a report entitled "The Excavations at Dibon in Moab," published in 1964 by the American Schools. He has done extensive archaeological work at Jericho, King Solomon's Seaport and Khirbet-et-Tannur. His report of findings at ancient Gibeon, near Arab Jerusalem, is contained in a 493-page volume entitled Archaeology and Old Testament Study. The book relates the findings of 25 specific sites to the Old Testament in areas of history, geography, chronology, religion, literature, language, law, industry and the arts. Edited by D. W. Thomas and published last year by the Oxford University Press, its contributors include scholars from Europe, America and Israel.

A past president of the Southwest Section of the National Assn. of Biblical Instructors, Dr. Reed served as senior adviser in 1964 in Amman, Jordan, to a group of architects and archaeologists engaged in the development and restoration of a number of biblical sites.

Dr. and Mrs. Reed and their son, Russell, will move to Fort Worth in late summer.

POETRY TO BE THEME OF HUMAN RELATIONS SEMINAR

Three leading poets of the American scene will be presented in a consideration of "Poetry Today: A Reflection of Our Society?" during the annual Human Relations Seminar on March 7-9. The three-day series of public programs was inaugurated at TCU in 1961 for the purpose of studying and taking action on problems that college students face in the area of human relations. Sponsor for the event is the Forums Committee, and Vicki Zima of Houston is serving as 1968 chairman.

First program of the series, planned for 7:30 p.m. March 7, will feature Arkansas-born Miller Williams, member of the English faculty at Loyola University, winner of many poetry awards and contributor to numerous national journals. Robert Duncan, native Californian who has held a Guggenheim Fellowship and a National Foundation on the Arts grant, will give the March 8 program, also at 7:30 p.m. Widely acclaimed for his writings and author of numerous books, he will participate in next month's "Language and World Order" conference at Central Washington State College.

To begin at 10 a.m. on March 9, the third program will be a presentation by Dr. William Stafford, teacher of English and humanities at Lewis and Clark College since 1948. Contributor of prose and poetry to many publications and holder of Guggenheim and Danforth awards, he has authored more than a dozen books and anthologies, including The New Pocket Anthology of American Poets.

A Saturday (March 9) luncheon, with tickets priced at $2, will be held in the south end of the main cafeteria in the Student Center. Ducats for the fete may be reserved by calling Ext. 341 before noon on March 8.

During the three-day series, with all sessions planned for Rooms 205-6 of the Student Center, the guests will read from their works and will describe their underlying philosophies.

SPRING IS HERE !!!

Even though the winds, the rains and the snow might give cause to doubt, the colorful invitations to the "Rain or Shine" spring picnic for faculty on March 10 leaves little doubt of the season. With sport shirts for men and cotton dresses and flats for the ladies the dress order of the day, the event promises to be a delightfully informal evening, beginning at 6 p.m. in the Student Center ballroom.

Reservations MUST be made...deadline will be March 7. Call Ext. 262 to be sure that you're included on the list for one of the two "complimentary" social events of the year for faculty.

BENEFIT TALENT SHOW TO BE GIVEN MARCH 14

"Operation Troop Group," the traveling talent show that features teenage and college-age students from North Texas, will be presented on campus March 14. Jointly sponsored by the TCU company of the Association of the U. S. Army and the Army ROTC's Corps-Dettes, the 90-minute program is designed to express support of the Americans of all ages for this nation's military men in and returned from Vietnam.

The show, which will be taken to military hospitals and installations where requested, had its military premiere at Darnall Army Hospital and Fort Hood on Feb. 25. Funds for taking "Operation Troop Group" to these places will be raised by performances on college and university campuses. The first show was given March 2 at UTA, where most of the cast are students.

Organized through the efforts of Mrs. Beverly Lasher of Arlington, whose son was killed in Vietnam last summer, the show is a massive effort to express appreciation for sacrifices and hardships endured by fighting men. Mrs. Lasher was the recent recipient of the female 1967 Newsmaker of the Year award in Fort Worth.

Admission for the 11-act show will be $2 for adults and $1 for students.

The Cedar Rapids, Iowa, native was sent to Europe in 1955 by the American Symphony League for additional study. Music director of the Dallas Symphony since 1962, he has led in the expansion of the organization's schedule of local concerts. MINNEAPOLIS PAPERS ESTABLISH SCHOLARSHIP ✓

A $400 scholarship, to be awarded to an outstanding journalism student for his senior year's study, has been established by the Minneapolis Star and Tribune. The grant will be made by either the Star or the Tribune to TCU for the next three years, and the award will be known as the Minneapolis Star Scholarship in accord with the wishes of the papers' directors. The Minnesota newspapers offer such awards to each existing accredited school or department of journalism. Now with 55 such institutions--and last year TCU became the 55th to win national accreditation--this becomes a $22,000 program each year.

Announcement of the first recipient of TCU's scholarship will be made at the annual journalism department banquet, scheduled for May 9, Chairman Bob Carrell said. In selecting the winner, special attention will be paid to scholastic achievement and future promise.

NEW POLICIES FOR GRANTING EDUCATIONAL DELAYS TO ROTC GRADS

LTC Donald Thompson, TCU professor of military science, has just completed a very thorough report of a modified U. S. Army policy on graduate school deferments for ROTC graduates. While the new policy conforms to the recent National Security Council ruling to discontinue student deferments in fields of graduate study other than the medical, dental and allied medical specialties, it will enable ROTC graduates to obtain an educational delay in additional disciplines for which the Army has specified requirements.

"For the past several years the Army has had a liberal policy permitting officers appointed in the Army Reserve from the ROTC program to apply for delay in any major subject discipline," said LTC Thompson. "The new policies will result in some reduction in the number of these disciplines. Officers desiring to continue professional education in medical osteopathy, dental and veterinary medicine fields and those desiring to pursue religious training in preparation for entry into the ministry will continue to be delayed under current policies and without regard to restrictions," he said.

An announcement of the new policies and procedures will be distributed during April. A Department of the Army circular will be available in May listing the fields in which cadets graduating during May 1969 through April 1970 may take post-graduate work. Selection of officers to receive an educational delay will be made on a competitive basis. The new policies will apply only to those persons who are scheduled to graduate during and after May 1969. A new list of fields in which the Army needs additional specialists will be announced each year.

Also of interest is the Army's 2-Year ROTC Program which enables qualified students who have never taken ROTC to enroll in the program and obtain a commission. If a student has two years remaining in college after his sophomore year, either as an undergraduate or graduate student, he may attend the Basic Summer Camp and be enrolled in the advanced course any time before the beginning of the last two years of his academic program.

Complete information about the programs may be obtained from LTC Thompson in the Army ROTC office.

NOTE ON RESERVING STUDENT CENTER ROOMS

Last week's Faculty Bulletin may have been misleading in saying Student Center rooms, other than the Guest Dining Room, could be reserved by calling either the Student Center director or Student Activities office. In order to provide coordination in reserving the Center's facilities for the many daily programs and meetings, all requests for rooms must be made through the office of the Student Activities Director, Mrs. Elizabeth Proffer. Again, remember that the Guest Dining Room is used almost exclusively by the Chancellor or his representatives and reservations must be cleared through his office.

CONTRACTS AND SALARY LETTERS OUT SOON

Chancellor Moudy has announced that contracts and salary letters for the 1968-69 academic year will be distributed about March 15. Several days are required to prepare the letters following the spring board meeting (March 6).

FLOWER FUND NEEDS $$$$$

However you spell it, m-o-n-e-y or $$$$$, the message should be clear. The modest flower fund administered by Faculty Social Director Ina Rivers Jarman needs replenishing from time to time. The funds come from only one source: concerned faculty and staff members who contribute their dollar(s) so that flowers may be sent to fellow colleagues or members of their immediate family in time of illness or bereavement.

Next time you're in the Faculty Center, on the second floor of Reed Hall (for those who live on the eastern slopes of University Drive), stop by Mrs. Jarman's office and make your contribution to the Flower Fund. Thanks for your thoughtfulness.

MANAGEMENT IN ACTION '68 PROGRAM PLANNED

A unique program of four executive seminars, scheduled from March 19 to June 11, will be presented by the TCU Division of Special Courses in cooperation with the Fort Worth chapters of the American Society for Training and Development and the Personnel Industrial Relations Assn.

The seminars will feature four nationally known leaders in the field of executive management: Dr. James H. Healey, president of Management and Business Services of Columbus, Ohio, who will speak March 19 on "How to Lead;" Dr. Frederick Herzberg, chairman of the psychology department of Western Reserve University, speaking April 23 on "Motivation;" Dr. James L. Hayes, dean of the School of Business of Duquesne University, speaking May 23 on the topic of "Managing Technical People;" William Oncken Jr. of New York City, president of William Oncken and Co., speaking June 11 on "How to Develop Performance Standards for Management Levels."

Each of the one-day "Management in Action '68" sessions will be held on campus from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Advance enrollment, set at $100 for the entire program or $40 for each individual seminar, is being taken through the office of Dr. Leroy Lewis, director of the Special Courses Division. The fee includes materials to be used and luncheons.

"We believe this seminar series will provide priceless opportunity for Texas executives in business and industry to meet and to be inspired by distinguished and recognized creators of management concepts," said Dr. Lewis. "These men are considered to be the finest management 'thinkers' in America."

MANY TCU FACULTY-STAFF MEMBERS HELPING JARVIS

TCU's cooperative program with Jarvis Christian College in Hawkins, Tex., has made considerable progress this year. The effort was enhanced by a $156,525 U.S. Office of Education, Title III, grant which is a portion of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare work with developing institutions. Its purpose is to strengthen eligible colleges like Jarvis by assisting them to improve both academic and administrative quality through cooperative arrangements with other institutions.

Dr. Jeff Horn, professor of education, is associate director of the program and serves as TCU's liaison officer with Jarvis. The project coordinator is T. L. McGill, assistant to Jarvis President J. O. Perpener. TCU faculty members have been making voluntary weekend visits to the Hawkins school since 1965. A five-year working agreement was entered into with the 54-year old Negro college (which is also related to the Christian Churches-Disciples of Christ) in the Spring of 1964 for the purpose of assisting Jarvis upgrade work in several areas.

Under the program initiated at a five-day orientation conference held on the campus of the East Texas school last September, many TCU faculty, staff and administrators have visited the college. A report from Dr. Horn indicates some of the activities in which the University has been engaged:

- Participating in the September orientation workshop were Chancellor Moudy, Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs James Newcomer, Drs. Frank Reuter (history), Bob Frye (English), Keith Turkett (teacher education), C. J. Isoline (art and humanities), Allen Self (business), Dean Herb LaGrone (education).
- R. C. Norris of radio-TV-film has visited Jarvis to discuss television and telelecture and has been to Dallas to consult with the architect for the New Jarvis Science Bldg. regarding TV installation.
- Associate Registrar Joe Enochs has assisted in admissions and registration; C. J. Firkins has worked in the area of counseling and testing.
- Librarian Paul Parham is working with the Jarvis librarian regarding holdings and staff development; in-service workshops are scheduled on both Jarvis and TCU campuses.
- Keith Turkett, assistant to the dean in the School of Education, spent five days on the Jarvis campus helping prepare a new teacher education program. Dr. Newcomer and Dr. Turkett met with the State Board of Examiners for teacher education and with Jarvis personnel on Jan. 13; a two-year approval for a teacher education program was granted.

JARVIS--Contd.

- Jack Cogdill of theatre arts spent two days at Jarvis preparing for a presentation of the play, "A Delicate Balance," by his staff and students.
- English Chairman Jim Corder serves as chairman of the cooperative committee for revision of the English curriculum. Jim and English faculty members Neil Daniel, Bob Frye, and the chairman of the Jarvis English department developed a proposal for the continuing study of the department.
- George Harris and Billie Sue Anderson of the physical education department spent a day at Jarvis making plans for a field day at TCU for 100 Jarvis students. Jarvis will host a field day for TCU students during the spring semester.
- E. Q. Swenson, assistant to the chancellor, has spent two days on the campus becoming familiar with various aspects of the cooperative program.
- Four TCU students who have completed their master's degrees are teaching full-time at Jarvis as National Teaching Fellows and will continue to teach through the spring term: Bud Wellmon, history; Mary Wellmon, education; Jim Bryant and Mrs. Nina Nance, English. David Drennan is teaching math part-time on an NT Fellowship and Lovie Fleischman is teaching ballet to one Jarvis class and two classes of community children on Saturday mornings.
- Teaching positions will be available for the 1968-69 year for others who have completed the master's degree.
- Four TCU professors taught one day per week at Jarvis last semester: Dr. Roger Haigh, history; Dr. Neil Daniel, English; Dr. Bob Frye, English; Dr. Mickey King, history. All but Haigh are teaching this spring and Dr. Cecil Dollar of accounting has joined them.
- Representatives from Jarvis have visited the TCU campus on three occasions for work conferences regarding the project.
- Rev. Kenneth Henry, professor of religion and Chaplain at Jarvis, met with Dr. Horn's education class at his home and spoke at the Christmas banquet and worship service at Brite Divinity School.
- Project Coordinator Jeff Horn, in addition to trips to the Jarvis campus, has also attended conferences at Austin, San Antonio and Washington, D.C. which were directly related to the project. Jeff is also responsible for keeping all records and reports on the program which originate from TCU. Vice Chancellor Newcomer is the administrative official responsible for the project.
- Jarvis received accreditation in November from the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools.

THREE CHEERS FOR THE FROGS!

Those TCU "Fightin' Frogs" have done it again! Congratulations to Basketball Coach Johnny Swaim and his fine team on capturing the South-west Conference championship. TCU last won the basketball crown in 1959 and, as most know, Johnny is the first rookie coach to win the title.

The TCU team now heads for the Midwest Regional games and will play Kansas State in Wichita, Kan., Friday, Mar. 15, at 9 p.m. in the first round of regional competition. They will be preceded by Louisville and Houston. Winners and losers will play each other the following night. The game will be broadcast over WBAP 570 and probably will be telecast over a Fort Worth-Dallas station. Watch the papers for an announcement.

Ironically, TCU won thanks to Arkansas's 74-73 victory over Texas. When he learned of the win, Coach Swaim said he was going to make an honorary letterman of Arkansas Coach Duddy Waller. Can you imagine TCU thanking Arkansas for something?

An all-time record crowd of 8,100 fans crowded the Baylor coliseum. Thanks to local Frog fan Bruce Boswell, who on his own purchased 700 tickets for the game, TCU supporters were able to attend in greater numbers. The tickets were placed on consignment through the TCU Student Spirit Committee headed by Steve Swift. They did a great job promoting the game and some 2,000 TCU-Fort Worthers were present for the action. It was great!
