Student Council Decides Against Limitation Rule

Will Meet With Social Calendar Committee Tuesday.

To Discuss Change

Club Officers Ask for Revision of Article Curbing Campus Activities.

The Student Council and the faculty social committee will hold a joint session at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday in the dean of women's office to discuss the present social calendar situation and the limitation of campus social activities.

The Council, at its meeting Monday afternoon, voted in favor of a revision of the ruling limiting social activities of campus organizations to Friday and Saturday nights.

The Council's action came as the result of a survey made of the organizations to determine the effect which the ruling had had upon the various campus groups. A large number of letters received from presidents and sponsors of the organizations asked for an adjustment of the rule.

The ruling was passed in March by the Council and the social committee in an effort to lessen the number of social activities and to give students more time for studying.

Boxers, Masked Marvel Prove Tough for Girls in Free-For-All

By WALTER PRIDEMORE Five guys wearing boxing gloves and the "Masked Marvel," alias Sam Baugh, alias Rex Clark, proved too much for seven girls in a mixed basketball game Tuesday night after the intramural games, even though the girls played by their own rules, which, according to announcer Tom Pickett, among other things, prohibited fouling, fighting and hugging in the clinches.

The score was 15 to 18. Winnadel Rowland took advantage of the boys' roughness in the first half and sank five free throws and a field goal to put the girls ahead 7 to 4.

However, in the second half the boys calmed down and began hitting the bucket with regularity. In fact, so regularly did Squire Lawrence hit it that Referee Apple Kline had to handicap him further by tying his hands together. The boys' only free throw came when Kline declared that Gwendolyn McSweeney had roughed Lawrence. He was not seriously injured.

War Stories Signed "Up Close" Gave Upton Close His Pen Name

By GENEVIEVE PAPINEAU "History is painting a new picture in the Pacific Basin," says Upton Close, "and all indications in the development of Japan point to war."

Conditions in Japan and the Japanese attitude toward the West and the conquest of China will be discussed by Upton Close in his lecture at 10:30 o'clock Friday morning, Jan. 24, in the T. C. U. auditorium.

The lecture will be free to students of the University, their parents, faculty members and their families. Outsiders may attend the lecture for 25 cents. Dr. Rebecca Smith, chairman of the lecture committee, has announced.

Traveled on Mule 3000 Miles. Close, an authority on the Far East, has traveled more than 3000 miles through the remote provinces of China by muleback and wheel barrow.

He has always espoused the cause of China against progressive Japan and for that reason has never found great favor with the "Land of the Rising Sun." His last book, "Challenge: Behind the Face of Japan," has been barred from Japan.

Josef Washing Hall received the pseudonym, Upton Close, during the Japanese conquest of the German colonies in China. Unusually accurate and penetrating news stories kept coming out of the conquered area behind the Japanese lines signed "Up Close." The name, signifying the position of the writer "up close" to the lines, soon became known as Upton Close.

Reward Offered for His Life. So annoying were the Japanese in high command were these dispatches that a large reward was offered for the writer, dead or alive. However, he was never caught.

Close is a personal friend of Amos Melton, T. C. U. graduate and editor of the Skiff in 1927-28. Melton toured the Orient with him on a student cruise which began in June 1928.

Of his trip Melton says, "We roughed it all the way, traveling in Japanese freighters over and back, going third class on railways and Chinese coasting vessels."

During the 14 days from Vancouver to Yokohama, Close read to the party the manuscript, "Six Eminent Asians," which was published the following summer.

Meets "Strong Man" of China. On this trip Melton visited Tokyo, Nara, the ancient Japanese capital, Kioto, the industrial center on the island, and attended the funeral of Chang Tso-lin, the last of the great Manchurian war lords. With Upton Close he met and talked with Chan Kai-shek, the current "strong man" of China.

Throughout the trip the familiarity of Close with the Chinese language, history, culture and customs opened many a door to us that is closed to ordinary visitors," says Melton.

Upton Close was educated for and became a minister in his early life, but his eager mentality and temperament, bordering on the popular conception of genius found this humdrum life intolerable. He left for the Orient, where he stayed 15 years before returning to America. He speaks Chinese fluently and aided in the student revolution in 1920-21. As a result of this experience he wrote his first novel, "Moon Lady."

Writes History of China. When he returned to the United States he became associate professor of Oriental history at Washington University, and in collaboration with another authority wrote a comprehensive history of China. "The Land of the Laughing Buddha" appeared shortly after.

He spent several months in a famous little pagoda on Lake Biwa near Tokyo writing "Six Asians." As Amos Melton remembers him, he is still young, between 40 and 50. He has a long, straight nose, tall forehead and bushy hair.

"He is one of the most interesting speakers I have ever met, and his experiences would make a large volume. Some of his opinions are startling, revolutionary, and challenging but always interesting."

Dr. Welty Resigns To Take New Post

Dr. Raymond L. Welty has announced his resignation in order to accept a position on the faculty of the Ft. Hays Kansas State College in Hays, Kansas. He took his B. A. degree from that college in 1918. Dr. Welty regrets having to leave T. C. U., where he has been associated since 1928 as professor of history, but said that he had been offered a better opportunity at Ft. Hays.

He will leave immediately after the examinations in order to start the new semester there. Arrangements for replacing Dr. Welty have not been completed.

Science Broadcast To Answer Questions

Hewatt to Give Replies to Inquiries on Sunday Program over KTAT.

Is it true that an elephant never forgets?

Can a person inherit disease? For the scientific answer to these and other questions about science, listen to the T. C. U. program at 4 p. m. Sunday over KTAT. Dr. Willis G. Hewatt will answer the questions.

"If you want a question answered write to the science department and we will answer it the following Sunday," Dr. Hewatt said.

"Five minutes of the University program will be given to answering questions about science each Sunday from now on," Dr. Hewatt stated.

J. C. Neel, Jr., violinist, will give a short recital on the program Sunday. His mother, Mrs. J. C. Neel, will accompany him at the piano.

"Just Les" to You But a "Big Shot" To the Kiddies

He may be "just Les" to you, but he is a "big shot" to the kids in the neighborhood.

So goes the story. — Prof. Willis Hewatt was in the midst of teaching a class, or rather of taking a bunch of the neighborhood kids (ages 6 to 9 years) on a "museum walk" in the biology laboratory, when one of them pops the question, "Are there any football players around here?"

"Yes, I think there's one in the next room," Hewatt replied.

"Oh, boy!" the youngest exclaimed, and with a bound was out of the room, with the entire class following.

The victim in the next room turned out to be Darrell Lester, and he had to give each kid his autograph before they would let him continue his study in peace.

As for Hewatt's class—he hasn't got the kids together yet.

"Star Dust" Is Frogland's No. 1 Song Hit of Day

"Music Goes Down 'n Round" Rates Second in Student Poll.

5 Tie for 7th Place

Results of Vote to Be Featured on Lucky Strike Hit Parade in Near Future.

The music is going 'round and 'round on almost every radio program these days, so this week journalism students went 'round and 'round to question students and determine the most popular song on the campus.

Despite the music coming out here, there and everywhere, the valve pushers' theme song, "The Music Goes Down and Round," failed to poll enough votes to outrank "Stardust," and has to be content with second place next to Hoagy Carmichael's classic, which, although several years old, is the Number One song of Texas Christian University today.

"Moon Over Miami" is 3rd. Florida came in for some publicity with the selection of "Moon Over Miami" as the third favorite. "Red Sails in the Sunset" and "Boots and Saddles" are tied for fourth position in the rankings by T. C. U. students.

"Alone" is fifth in favor, with "Treasure Island" and "You Are My Lucky Star" tied for sixth.

Seventh place is practically a catalog of popular songs. Tying for this position were: "A Little Bit Independent," "Truckin'," "Cheek to Cheek," "St. Louis Blues" and "Solitude."

"And Then, Some," the nation's favorite for so many weeks this summer, was among the songs tied for eighth place. Others were "Sugar Plum," "I Found a Dream," "If I Should Lose You" and "Bugle Call Rag."

Other Songs Voted On.

Other songs receiving scattered votes were "The Words Are in My Heart," "Indian Love Call," "Waltz You Saved for Me," "Cocktails for Two," "Why Do Stars Come Out at Night," "Isle of Capri," "Why Dream?", "Accent on Youth," "Dinner for One, Please, James," "Broken Record," "Sophisticated Lady," and "Night and Day."

Results of this poll and similar ones on other campuses will be featured on the Lucky Strike Hit Parade over a National Broadcasting Company network in the near future. This program is broadcast at 7 o'clock Saturday nights over WBAP and WFAA.

Two of Five "Faculty Kids" Plan To Follow in Fathers' Footsteps

Only two out of the eight faculty "kids" intend to follow in their fathers' or mothers' footsteps. They are Paul Ridings, whose father is Prof. J. Willard Ridings, head of the department of journalism, who intends to be a newspaper man, and Miss Martha Fallis, whose father is Prof. Lew D. Fallis, head of the department of public speaking, who is majoring in that department.

Paul Ridings is majoring in journalism and hopes some day that he will be able to write syndicated sports copy. He is business manager of the Skiff, belongs to the Dana Press Club and plays in the band. Paul is majoring in government. He is a sophomore.

Miss Fallis, who is a freshman, belongs to the Dramatic Club, the Glee Club, the Chorus and W. A. A. Her sister, Miss Jean Fallis, who is a junior, is majoring in sociology and has English for her minor. She is manager of skating in W. A. A. Her hobby is sending in recipes to Kitchen Talk, a weekly paper, and when they are published she receives passes to the theaters. She often wins.

Miss Mary Frances Hutton is the daughter of S. W. Hutton, registrar of the University. She has as her major public school music and is mi-

Tillie Is Victor In "Grid" Combat For Tiny Toy Dog

Shades of New Orleans and the Sugar Bowl game! Somebody dropped it! Confusion reigned for a few seconds as a horde of mighty gridsters clamored over one another to get possession of that coveted prize for which everyone had yearned for more than an hour.

Suddenly, from the middle of the pile of struggling athletes, Taldon Manton emerged with the prize safely tucked under one arm.

But this time it wasn't the football used in the Sugar Bowl game. It was merely one of Richard Cole's little toy dogs.

At the Blackstone Hotel's dance last Friday night honoring members of the Horned Frog football squad, "Tillie's" girl friend told him she wanted one of the little dogs which were suspended from the ceiling. So, when Maestro Dick Cole, in the middle of the dance, released the dogs and let them drop to the floor, Tillie resolved to get one of them "or else."

Then, with a repetition of the determination and struggle by which he obtained the football used in the Sugar Bowl game, in which his field goal was the margin of T. C. U.'s 3-to-2 victory over L. S. U., Tillie again crashed through the struggling mob with the prize.

Once again he was the hero! Well, at least to the girl friend.

T.C.U. Debaters Enter 3 Teams

F. F. F. to Send Entries to Round Robin Tournament.

One girls' team and two men's teams will represent the University at the round robin debate tournament to be held tomorrow afternoon at Trinity University in Waxahachie.

"Each team will draw to see which side of the debate it will take. The decisions will be by schools and not by teams," Dr. Allen Truitt said.

Members of the Frog Forensic Fraternity who will represent the University are as follows: Meyer Jacobson, Charles Weaver, J. B. Trimble, Truett Kennedy, Mrs. Anseth Travis and Miss Edith Blakeaway.

"Resolved: That Congress should have the power by a two-thirds vote to override the Supreme Court's decision declaring laws passed by Congress as unconstitutional," will be the subject of debate.

Music Exams Start Tomorrow

The applied music examinations for voice, piano, violin and all orchestral instruments are scheduled to begin at 1 p. m. tomorrow, Prof. Claude Sammis has announced.

Resigns

Dick Simpson, vice-president of the student body, having completed his work for a Bachelor of Arts degree, will withdraw from the University at the end of this semester. His successor as vice-president will be selected in a special election Feb. 5.

"Pop" Comments On "Boo" Situation

Some Think Spectators More Thoughtful Than Before.

Remarks gathered at the basketball game Saturday night concerning the action of the crowd in booing the referees were as different as the people who made them. Some seemed to think the action of the spectators better than usual, and others thought they were worse.

Here's what some of the attendants had to say about it. From Pop Boone's column in the Fort Worth Press: "Seems to me as if the fans at the basketball games are getting tougher and tougher, regarded strictly from a sportsmanship angle. Boos are on the increase instead of the decrease. Most of the boos came from guys who don't even know under what rule a penalty has been imposed. If fans would read the rules they'd be easier on the boos."

L. N. Douglas, director of physical education at Baylor University, disagrees with Pop in this respect. "I think a distinct improvement in conduct of the spectators over last year is being shown tonight," Douglas said when questioned at the game. He added that the conduct here was somewhat better than at games in Waco this year.

Jack Cisco, coach at N. T. S. T. C., said, "It doesn't make any difference to me what the spectators do. It cost them four bits to see the game and they have a right to boo if they see fit."

Magazine Honors Miss Helen Moody

A photograph of Miss Helen Moody, Horned Frog Band sweetheart, leader of the group of T. C. U. co-eds who participated in the Texas Centennial ceremonies on New Year's Day at New Orleans, appeared on the front page of this week's issue of the Texas Centennial Review, official publication of the Texas Centennial.

Letters from Walter Woodul, lieutenant-governor of Texas, Roy Miller, chairman of the Centennial's advisory board for advertising, and William P. Elliott, director of publicity for the Centennial, expressing their appreciation for the band's assistance in the New Orleans events, were received this week by President E. M. Waits and Don Gillis, band director.

The letters promised the recognition of the Horned Frog Band in connection with future publicity for the Centennial. The photograph of Miss Moody was one of the first steps in this connection.

To Speak on Music Contest

Mrs. J. O. Sanders will speak to members of the Music Club at 2 p. m. Monday on the Federated Music Club's state contest to be held in April.

Simpson Resigns As Vice-President Of Student Body

Finishes Work — To Return in June for A. B. Degree.

To Elect Successor

Petitions to Be Submitted by Jan 29—Candidates to Be Presented Feb. 5.

Nominations for a new vice-president of the student body will be in order during the next two weeks, Melvin Diggs, student body president, announced this week on receipt of the resignation of Dick Simpson, present vice-president, who will withdraw from school at the end of the semester.

Simpson, a senior, has finished his required work for a Bachelor of Arts degree. He will return in June to be awarded his degree.

The regular routine for the election of student body officers will be followed in selecting a new vice-president, Diggs said. Petitions signed by at least 25 students will be necessary for the nominations of candidates.

The petitions must be submitted to Diggs or to Miss Ruth Campbell, student body secretary, not later than Wednesday, Jan. 29. The nominees will be presented in chapel Wednesday, Feb. 5, at which time campaign speeches will be made, and a student vote will be taken.

Williamson Rates Frogs No. 1 Spot

The Horned Frog football team rated the number one position in the latest release of standings compiled by P. B. Williamson, football rating expert. T. C. U. gained the top place through its 3-to-2 victory over the Louisiana State Tigers in the Sugar Bowl on New Year's Day.

The Tigers occupied first place before their defeat on Jan. 1. T. C. U. came up from fourth place. The first five teams are:

- 1. T. C. U.
2. S. M. U.
3. L. S. U.
4. Minnesota
5. Stanford.

Williamson picked no national champion—giving as his reason the lack of undefeated teams. Every eleven of the first five, with the exception of Minnesota has suffered a loss—L. S. U. lost two games. The Gophers were not picked as champions since their schedule included practically no outstanding inter-sectional games.

The teams are rated on the basis of wins and losses, with the strength of the opponents acting as a big factor. A team undefeated throughout a soft schedule would not rate as high as another playing hard teams week after week with a few defeats.

How Far Will Japan Go For What She Wants?

Upton Close's lecture on "Who Will Rule the Pacific" will be particularly timely since Japan has once more become front page news with her aggressive attitude toward the Chinese provinces. Close is the leading authority on the Far East.

His life has been packed with thrilling experiences. Much of his time has been spent in the Orient, traveling into every corner of Japan, China and Manchuria. He is equally well acquainted with the nearby countries of Russia and India. Reporter, Chinese newspaper editor, faculty member of the University of Washington, staff officer in several Chinese wars, translator of Chinese and Japanese poetry and the author of six books on the Orient are some of his accomplishments. People who have heard Close lecture are enthusiastic about his dynamic stage personality.

A concrete conception is needed of Japan. Who are the Japanese, what is Japan, what is the logic of her growth, how does her national psychology compare to that of Western nations and most important of all, what does Japan want and how far will her people go to get it? These questions will be answered next Friday morning.

Every student who does not hear the lecture by the only man who is in "Who's Who" twice, will be missing one of the finest events of the University Year.

Student Recognition Brings Harmony

Another step toward the recognition of the students' voice in regulating campus activities was made yesterday when the faculty social committee granted the Student Council a joint meeting with them in order to discuss the current problem of limiting social activities on the campus.

It is this sympathetic attitude of the various branches of the University Administration toward student problems which has made T. C. U. one of the most liberal universities in the country. The much-discussed social limitation ruling which will be the topic of Tuesday afternoon's meeting was passed last semester by the social calendar committee and the Council as an experiment. Many students have voiced their objections to the ruling. The faculty's answer to these objections is that "if it isn't working we'll see what can be done about it."

This is an attitude which leads to closer harmony and co-operation between the students and Administration. The faculty is to be commended.

University Church Due Much Praise

Probably no outside institution exerts so much influence on T. C. U. and its students as does the University Christian Church. Many students have their memberships there, even though they are not members of the Christian Church. Of the 132 members added last year, 50 were student members. A large number of faculty members attend the services there regularly and some are officers of the church. Meliorist Club, which boasts a membership of almost one hundred students, meets in the church building. Several students sing in the choir. The church building is used for many social meetings which are closely connected with University life. The pastor, the Rev. Perry E. Gresham, and his wife are ex-students of the University and are vitally concerned with the welfare of T. C. U. students. Many at T. C. U. number the Greshams among their closest friends.

Before the 1933-34 session, the University Christian Church met in the Auditorium for its worship services. Since that time the new building has been completed—the building for which so many students and faculty members dreamed and labored so long. Since the completion of the building the entire amount of indebtedness has been removed, the final payment being met by the donation of $4000 on Christmas Eve by an anonymous friend. During the last year a project to seat the church resulted in pledges and gifts amounting to $2500. Special gifts included a punch set, a grand piano, new hymnals, a pulpit light and the new Hammond organ. In addition the pastor was presented a new car by the congregation.

Surely much praise is due any congregation which can make so much progress in such a short time.

Education Inspected From Two Angles

The life of a college man or woman is divided into two phases, the mental and physical. Or, shall we say, the literary and social. Some students neglect one and some the other. Which do you neglect?

As a rule university students are accused of lacking interest in the literary and educational phases of their college life. This accusation may be correct to a certain extent, but we do not agree with it entirely. Texas Christian University offers its students a fine social program and even finer literary opportunities. Do we as students neglect the literary side of our education? To a certain extent we do. Is it the fault of the faculty, or of the students? We think both are at fault—the faculty for not encouraging the students more, the students for lack of interest.

The 1936 Horned Frog will sponsor a poetry and short story contest this year. If you are interested in writing, enter these contests. There is also the annual Bryson Contest. The winners of these contests will be given recognition in the yearbook in the form of a picture and publication of their work.

Let's think about the literary side of our education more in the future.

Hecklers Send Threats to Staff In Effort to Stifle Columnist

I didn't receive any letters last week, so here goes on another venture with the column. However one or two of my friends received threatening statements from certain individuals whose names appeared in this column last week. Peeps would say phooey to you from me, but you know me. I never say phooey and like to hear you rave—so be at it youse guys. Here's what I saw and heard this week.

On an immense bulletin board are to be found pictures of various teams, including a picture of a championship tennis team for which there is no trophy. Dr. Newton Gaines, head of the department of physics, presented a paper on some of the laboratory devices developed at T. C. Glenn Elliott spent the week-end at his home in Dallas.

28 Trophies, Including Sugar Bowl, Adorn Display Case in Gymnasium

The last football game of the season is drawing to a close and S. M. U. leads by the score of 7-0. The huge crowd goes wild as T. C. U. makes a touchdown. The extra point is made. The game ends 7-7 with the Horned Frogs winning the Southwest Conference Championship. That was back in '29. Coach "Bear" Wolf says that the crowd was much too large and enthusiastic for the old stadium. As a result of that game plans were started for a new one.

The football trophy that was won that year may be seen with 27 other trophies in the case in the Gymnasium. The oldest trophy in the case is one which was won in '09, when the University was located at Waco. A silver baseball rests on top of bats with the words, "Intercollegiate Champions." There is a similar trophy that looks quite ancient, since the date is unreadable. There is a large cup for the baseball conference championship of '33.

Twelve of the trophies, which include the prized Sugar Bowl, were won by grid teams. The first football trophy was won in '12. There is a Washer trophy that was presented to the undefeated football champions of '20. The conference championship was won in '29, and there are awards from Fakes', Sanger's, Monig's and the conference award, which is a silver football with the names of the players on it.

In '32 the grid team was again victorious in its conference games, and several trophies were added to the case. Numerous football plaques are also to be found.

The golf championship was won in '27 and the basketball championship in '33, increasing the number of awards. Four loving cups were won at track and field meets.

The case was the gift of the '33 senior class. If the onlooker only knows about it, there is a switch on the case which turns on a light inside.

In the case with the trophies, which are all sizes and shapes, are several footballs. In nearby cases are 40 footballs, giving ample evidence of past victories. According to Coach Wolf, only the footballs from the most important games were placed in the cases. None from this year's games have,

Members of the Horned Frog team and band, while visiting the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios in Hollywood last month, were shown the set on which the picture was made. Replicas of the old French buildings were laid out as regular streets several blocks in length on the huge studio lot. "A Tale of Two Cities" will run for a full week. The midnight show tomorrow night will be "King of Burlesque," with Warner Baxter, Jack Oakie and Alice Faye. The Majestic tomorrow will bring back Joan Crawford in "I Live My Life," one of the finest performances in the great Crawford's screen career. Brian Aherne, Frank Morgan and Eric Blore help to make the picture one of this week's best offerings on Show Row. "Rendezvous," with William Powell and Rosalind Russell, will be Wednesday's offering.

The film version of "Crime and Punishment," a powerful novel of the nineteenth century, will be shown at the Palace for four days starting tomorrow. Edward Arnold is starred, and Peter Lorre leads the supporting cast. Josef Von Sternberg was the director. "Men of Iron," a story of steel mill strikes and riots, with lots of action, with Barton McLane, will be Wednesday's offering.

Hulbert Smith's Heap Big Hobby Indian Collection

Local play producers, looking for Indians to add color to a production, would not have to look far to find a "real live Injun," or at least one that would look natural. The "Injun" would be none other than Hulbert Smith, T. C. U. sophomore. He could dress in his many multi-colored Indian shirts and vests, add turquoise jewelry, and top it off with a feathered war bonnet. His costume would come from his Indian collection, which also includes papoose carriers, baskets and pottery. These bits of Indian craft have been gathered from Indian reservations in 40 states and Canada.

Though considered primitive, the Indians have learned the art of making souvenir collectors pay for everything they want. Smith said that while in Arizona last summer, an old Indian woman made him pay 25 cents before he could take her picture. Smith's collection was entered in the Fort Worth Hobby Show last year.

ALONG SHOW ROW

By RAYMOND MICHERO
And a flock of brickbats to heads of the Interstate Circuit for not letting us know in advance that the Majestic was going to show shots from the T. C. U.-L. S. U. Sugar Bowl game last week!

As a follow-up for "Magnificent Obsession," the best motion picture seen in Fort Worth in many a moon, the Worth tomorrow will bring in the screen version of Charles Dickens' immortal "Tale of Two Cities." Ronald Colman, Elizabeth Allen and Edna Mae Oliver handle the major portion of the acting in the movie version of the famous story of the French Revolution.

Members of the Horned Frog team and band, while visiting the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios in Hollywood last month, were shown the set on which the picture was made. Replicas of the old French buildings were laid out as regular streets several blocks in length on the huge studio lot. "A Tale of Two Cities" will run for a full week. The midnight show tomorrow night will be "King of Burlesque," with Warner Baxter, Jack Oakie and Alice Faye. The Majestic tomorrow will bring back Joan Crawford in "I Live My Life," one of the finest performances in the great Crawford's screen career. Brian Aherne, Frank Morgan and Eric Blore help to make the picture one of this week's best offerings on Show Row. "Rendezvous," with William Powell and Rosalind Russell, will be Wednesday's offering.

The film version of "Crime and Punishment," a powerful novel of the nineteenth century, will be shown at the Palace for four days starting tomorrow. Edward Arnold is starred, and Peter Lorre leads the supporting cast. Josef Von Sternberg was the director. "Men of Iron," a story of steel mill strikes and riots, with lots of action, with Barton McLane, will be Wednesday's offering.

Gaines Gives Address At Physical Society

Dr. Newton Gaines, head of the department of physics, presented a paper on some of the laboratory devices developed at T. C. U. during the past two years, at the New Year's meeting of the American Physical Society, in St. Louis. Dr. Gaines attended the National Meeting of Scientists while in St. Louis. Glenn Elliott spent the week-end at his home in Dallas.

Dear Editor:
As one among the many of the dissenters on compulsory chapel, I wish to make a brief criticism on the attitude of the student body in connection with the speaker on today's program.
On entering the Auditorium, we had made up our minds that the speaker would be dry and uninteresting. We listened to his opening crack, then closed our minds to the remainder of the address.
Many of us for that very fact did not realize that Dr. Score was a very good speaker and had a message of great value. My criticism is simply this—we do not give our speakers a chance to make good. We have evaluated before we even hear them, and that is one of the greatest reasons that our chapels are no more interesting than they are.

Consulate Career Was Given Up For Acting by T. C. U. Teacher

Would you give up a consulate career to become an actor? Blaisehard McKee, teacher of "Dramatic Production" did.
It was in 1907, having graduated from DePaul University, that McKee sought to follow the career he had worked toward in college. But the Asken Singer Production Company offered him a chance in musical comedy. He took it and opened soon after at the La Salle Theatre in Chicago.

After a while in this company, he took up the study of voice at the Cincinnati College of Music, under the guidance of Senor Mattiola. Having no desire to make his life's work singing, McKee joined a Dramatic Stock Company and played shows in Denver, Springfield, Houston, Chicago and many other theatrical centers.

With the outbreak of war, McKee joined the aviation division and was lost to the theater until the year 1920, when he and Oliver Hensdell, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studio coach, presented the first one-act play ever given over the radio.

McKee became interested in the Little Theater movement in the United States. He worked a number of years in the Dallas Little Theater. Later he became director of the Waco Little Theater. He was director of the Memphis Theater for two years, coming to Fort Worth after that. He held the position of director in the Fort Worth Little Theater for over a year, but dropped this to organize the Fort Worth Community Play House.

At present, McKee is teaching a class in "Dramatic Production" in T. C. U. and is acting as head of the division for dramatic plays and pageants in Tarrant County.

He is directing "Mary, the Third," three-act play which the Dramatic Club is to present during the first week of February.

Thoughts In Verse

SMITH'S FATE

One stormy night last autumn
Old Smith drank like a sponge
Till finally to homeward
He made a drunken lunge;
Into the night he staggered,
And out into the storm,
No human eye shall never
See that familiar form.

We all can see for certain
That Smith was surely doomed
And in his very footsteps
Was due to be consumed;
For he had drunk too freely
Of stuff no mortal should,
And all his liquor primed him
Like kerosene does wood.

The lightning in blue flashes
About him cracked and hissed—
One flash was bound to get him
Where those before had missed.
But on and on he wandered
All in a drunken daze,
Until all of a sudden
He cracked in a blaze.

Now this was how it happened
So sudden like and quick:
The lightning just ignited
A saturated wick.
The smoke of Smith rolled upward
For Fate came swift and dire
And thus was how he perished
A seething mass of fire.

A mere handful of ashes
Was all they found of Smith,
And on the following morning
These were swept up forthwith
Swept up with greatest reverence
And shook into an urn
That bore this pregnant legend:
"The world has Smiths to burn."

SHORTY SPORTS PLANTS

By CARL MAXWELL

Potlicker from the football season! New Orleans papers carried an interview with a former Tulane quarterback on the merits of the Frogs' Sugar Bowl field generalship.

Frank Korsh, of Collyer's Eye, ranks T. C. U., Pittsburgh, and Fordham as Eastern favorites in the Rose Bowl next year. Incidentally, writers of that publication were of the "Texas Christian won from the North Texas Teachers in a great upset" type, and it's gratifying to have them on the band wagon.

Sammy Baugh sat through a little good natured razzing Tuesday night at the field house. A boys' intramural team played the W. A. A. basketball team by girls' rules and wearing boxing gloves. A masked marvel trotted in labeled as "Sam Baugh" to play for the boys.

The boys' height won the game for them. The feature of the title came when one of the girls was fouled for roughing Jimmy Lawrence.

The Frogs gained revenge on them Mustangs in a small measure last Saturday night. The tall Ponies couldn't hit the basket. But then they didn't get many shots from in close. A tight zone defense kept them out, and none of the long shooters was hot.

Clifton Cowan showed up well at the center post when Capt. Willie Walls fouled out early in the second half. Cowan will give someone a race for a regular job when he gets a little more varsity experience. He was adept at getting the ball off the backboard last Saturday.

Arkansas has definitely been established as the favorite to win the basketball race. Last year the Hogs, Owls and Mustangs ended the season tied for the conference crown. Already Rice and S. M. U. have dropped games. We'll know how the Frogs compare with the Owls tomorrow night. But the Frogs won't meet the Razorbacks until Feb. 21. They play two games at Fayetteville on Feb. 21 and 22.

By the time T. C. U. meets Arkansas, maybe Darrell Lester will be ready to play. His height and jumping skill will give the team a lot better chance on the tips.

Authorities have already counted out the Frogs as contenders for the title. But their plays worked better last Saturday night than at any time last season, and Sam Baugh, Roach and Meyer can run defenses crazy with fast breaks. I'll bet we don't end up lower than third place, and maybe higher than that.

Right in the midst of the conference chase we have some private basketball feuds of our own. About two nights a week Prof. Prouse opens up the field house for the intramural games. There are some good cagers in this loop. And you can heckle the officials all you want to.

THIS AND THAT... Little Coleman Sullivan outjumped a tall S. M. U. freshman last week... There are 13 members of the varsity basketball squad... The new man on the squad is J. O. Tolar, a junior college transfer from Tyler... Groseclose and Bull Rogers were caught practicing with a bow and arrow a few days ago... The field house is to have dressing rooms under the seats at the west end... Byrum Saam looks like Ted Husing... And Bob Jordan looks kinda like Bear Wolf... Jimmy Lawrence practiced for the Sugar Bowl game on cold days with spats over his shoes... Darrell Lester looked like Frankenstein in a recent picture of a New York paper's all-American team.

Leo Crockett and Carroll Adair spent the week-end at their home in McKinney.

Hugh McDaniel spent the week-end at his home in Dallas.

T. C. U. and Rice Meet in Cage Tilt Tomorrow Night

Kitts' Five Rated High Although Dropping 2 of 3 Games.

Owls Veteran Team

Brown, Cowan, Smith, Toler Likely to See Action on Meyer Squad.

Tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the Basketball gymnasium, the Frogs meet the Rice Owls in T. C. U.'s second appearance in the conference basketball race. The Owls have played three conference games this year as well as several practice tilts. Although on paper Coach Jimmy Kitts' Rice team figures one of the best in the circuit, they have dropped games to Texas and Arkansas, and barely nosed out Baylor in their opening game.

T. C. U.'s showing against S. M. U. last Saturday night places them in a more favorable light for the coming battle, but they still will enter the Rice game rated as slight underdogs.

The Owls will probably control the tip-off with "Treetop" Kelly, 6 ft. 6 in. pivot man, in the center hole. They have a veteran team, with nine lettermen and a host of promising sophomores. Capt. R. T. Eaton was an all-conference guard last year and is rated one of the best ball handlers in the group.

Coach Dutch Meyer will probably start the same team that faced the Mustangs last week. If the going is tough, these men will go the route, but if any team gets far ahead, several promising boys on the Frog squad will play a great deal. Vernon Brown, Clifton Cowan, Jay Smith, and J. O. Toler are likely to see action.

Probable starting lineups are:

T. C. U.	Rice
Meyer	Seale
Roach	Orr
Walls	Kelly
Saam	Lodge
Baugh	Eaton

Cagers Will Meet A. & M. Monday Night

Frogs Will Engage Aggies in Conference Tilt Before Exams.

The Frog basketballers will meet their third conference opponent Monday night in the field house when the A. & M. team drops in for a game before mid-semester exams.

The Aggies have lost two games to the tall Arkansas Razorbacks, while the Frogs were victorious in their only appearance to date.

The conference race promises to be a scramble—every team except the Frogs have lost at least one game.

Two Fort Worth boys, Max Tohline of Central High and Paul Evans of Stripling, are regulars on the Aggie quintet.

"T" Men to Decide Date of Initiation

The date for the initiation of new members will be decided at the meeting of the "T" Association at 7 o'clock Monday night in Room 205 of the Main Building.

Wilson Groseclose, president of the association, urged that all members be present Monday night, since it will be the first meeting of the group this year.

Red Top Kellow Made 10 Letters In High School

In 1911, 11 miles from Lufkin, a child was born. He was reheaded and had lots of respect for himself in the very beginning.

When he got old enough to go to school he went to Lufkin for this purpose and did right well. He made two letters in football, four letters in basketball and four letters in baseball. He was also vice-president of his senior class in high school.

This all-American (that's what the fellows call him) of whom we speak decided he would attend college and was promised a job by Dr. Webb Walker of Fort Worth. When he arrived he started to work for the Sinclair Refining Company and has held his job ever since. Tracy (All-American) Kellow made a numeral in freshman football and has lettered on the varsity for the past three years.

He lives in Room 106, Goode Hall, and things it a great place to live. Kellow likes to hunt, fish and dance. He also likes to see good picture shows.

"Well, it's like this. I haven't fallen for any girl yet, but I bet I fall like a ton of bricks when I do fall," Kellow says.

Grid Record Praised By 1897 Quarterback

Dr. Samuel Guy Inman Writes Dean Hall, Congratulating Team.

Dean Colby D. Hall received a letter this week from Dr. Samuel Guy Inman, graduate of T. C. U. and quarterback on the football team in 1897, congratulating the football team for its good record this season.

"Heartiest congratulations," the letter read, "to Sam Baugh and all the rest of you. You can't imagine what a kick I have gotten out of the old team's rise to fame, even if it has been done by passes."

Dr. Inman writes in his letter of the games Dean Hall and he played together, when passes were unheard of. "In those days," he recalls, "a couple of Christian Endeavors at end and quarter-back were as important, at least in their own estimation, as any player who ever made all-American."

Dr. Inman now lives in New York City and made mention of the amount of publicity that T. C. U. had gotten in the New York papers. Joe Williams, who was here at the time of the S. M. U. game, wrote many favorable write-ups about the Frogs, Dr. Inman said.

In closing he wrote, "Thanks to the boys for furnishing the Inman family as many another friend of T. C. U. a great season of enjoyment and a chance to 'tell the world' about the marvels of the old home state and alma mater."

The ex-quarterback is now, since 1916, executive secretary of the Commission of Coordination in Latin American Missions. He is one of the foremost authorities on Latin America. He also lectures for a course in Columbia University.

Cantor to Award Scholarship

Eddie Cantor, movie star, has set aside $5,000 for the purpose of awarding a four-year scholarship and complete maintenance at any American college or university to the person who writes, in the opinion of a board of judges, the best letter on the subject: "How Can America Stay Out of War?"

Seniors Hold Lead In "A" League Race

Frosh and Sophs Tied for Second—Juniors Rest in Cellar.

The Seniors had to fight all the way Tuesday night to win from the Sophomores by one point, 17 to 16, and to take the lead in the "A" League race with two victories and no losses.

In the first game Tuesday the Freshmen easily won over the Juniors, 24 to 17. The Frosh and the Sophs are tied for second place, with one victory and one loss. The Juniors are in the cellar with two losses.

The Seniors led 8 to 7 at the half, Vic Montgomery having made all of the Senior points. The Sophs took the lead at the opening of the second half and held it by one or two points up until the last two minutes of play. However, with the score 14 to 16, Tracy Kellow made a field goal and Dutch Kline tossed in a free throw to put the Seniors out in front by one point which they held the last few seconds to win.

The starters for the Seniors were: Forwards, Montgomery and Lozo; center, Wilson Groseclose, and guards, Jimmy Lawrence and Kline. For the Sophs: Forwards, Bobby Bass and Don McLeland; center, Charles Mabry; guards, Elliott Phares and George Dunlap.

In the "B" League games played Monday night, having been moved up from Thursday, the Outlaws took the lead in the tournament by defeating the Sophs 61 to 6.

The Seniors won over the Frosh 25 to 14. The Freshmen and the Seniors are now tied for second place, with one loss and one victory. The Sophomores are bringing up the rear with no victories and two losses. Jimmy Jacks and Allan House starred for the Outlaws in their one-sided victory. Each made 20 points.

Colts Defeat Wogs 32-26 in First Game

Norton, Dewell High-Point Men for S. M. U.—Ki Aldrich Leads T. C. U.

The Polliwog cagers were defeated by the S. M. U. Colts, 32 to 26, Saturday night before the varsity teams met. It was the first game of the season for both teams.

The Colts, who were taller than their varsity teammates, took the lead immediately and held it all the way. Only in the second half, when the Colts ran in a flock of substitutes, did the Wogs make any progress.

Roy and Brad Snodgrass showed up well at the forward posts for T. C. U. Ki Aldrich, who was high-point man for the Wogs, with eight points, proved himself to be a nice ball-handler.

Norton, S. M. U. forward, with 19 points, was high point man for the game. Bill Dewell, the same man who dealt the freshman footballers so much misery, was second with nine points.

The following started for the Wogs: Forwards, Pat Clifford and Roy Snodgrass; center, Russell Hynch; guards, Aldrich and Carroll Adair.

The Freshmen's next game will be after the examinations. Their opponents have not been announced.

Byrum Saam's Sports Announcing Rated Among Best by Ted Husing

T. C. U. has a second Ted Husing in the person of Byrum Saam. In fact, Ted even went so far as to say that Byrum was one of the best sports announcers in the country, after hearing him broadcast the Rice-T. C. U. and S. M. U.-T. C. U. football games over the Columbia Broadcasting network last fall.

Byrum also announced the local follow-up for the Dartmouth-Princeton and Army-Navy games.

Just 21, Byrum has been in the announcing game for four years. In 1932 he was operated on for appendicitis and couldn't play football himself, so he wanted some kind of a job that had something to do with football. E. S. Farrington, director of athletics for the Fort Worth Public Schools, decided to try him at announcing the plays of high school games over the newly installed loud speaker system. Byrum's career was begun.

Jimmy Harris, sports announcer for KFJZ, who was to follow Byrum's broadcast, said he couldn't keep up with him, so the next thing Byrum knew KFJZ was asking him to broadcast games over the radio station.

Then followed two years of part time announcing for KFJZ, football games, baseball, wrestling and boxing.

In 1934 he went to KTAT, where he is now accounted a regular sports announcer. He has a regular broadcasting period from 1 to 3 o'clock every afternoon.

Though all of his 21 years Byrum has lived in Fort Worth, he has visited in every state west of the Mississippi except four. He was graduated from Central High School here and received two letters in football and two in basketball.

When he was 17 he went to Chicago as manager for the West team in the East-West game there.

In addition to sports events, he announced for Freddy Martin's orchestra, and "got some pretty good breaks on bands." But he says he'd much rather broadcast football, since he knows more about that than nearly anything else.

His name was submitted to the CBS by Ed White, head of public events and special features for the network, but was withdrawn when it was known that he was still in college.

Byrum is a junior in T. C. U., and though he is majoring in business administration, his real ambition is to have a career like Ted Husing, who is his ideal, and eventually get into "big time" broadcasting.

Frog Cagers Win From SMU 29-23

T. C. U. Spurts Ahead in Last Half to Take First Game.

The Frog quintet took the S. M. U. cagers into camp last Saturday night by a score of 29 to 23. The game was a thriller—down to the last few minutes, when T. C. U. spurted ahead.

The score was tied several times, and the Mustangs were in the lead twice. They scored two quick field goals and a free throw to lead 5 to 2—their greatest margin—in the opening minutes of the tilt.

The Frogs quickly overcame this lead and were on the big end of a 14-to-12 score at the half. S. M. U. came back fast after the rest period to again lead the Frogs 19 to 21.

Timely shots by Saam, Meyer and Baugh put T. C. U. to the front once more, and they were never headed. Saam led the Frogs in scoring with eight points. High scorer for the game was Blanton, Mustang forward, who made 10 points.

T. C. U.'s offensive plays worked better than at any time last year. But the margin of victory was the Frogs' fast breaking when they got the ball off the S. M. U. backboard. Baugh, Walls and Cowan were very effective in grabbing the ball after Mustang shots.

Saam and Baugh were the outstanding floor men in the game. Clifton Cowan, lanky sophomore center, did some neat work after Capt. Willie Walls went out on personal fouls.

Buck Roberson and Waller Moody Defeated Carl Maxwell and Gene House in the Finals to Win the Tennis Doubles Championship in 6-1 6-2 6-4.

This leaves only the handball singles unfinished in the intramural tournaments. Hays Bacus and Horace McDowell are scheduled to play in the finals of this event.

Ex-Art Students Tell of Exploits

1 Has Studio in Dallas, Another Attends Art Academy in Philadelphia.

Prof. S. P. Ziegler has received several letters from former students, telling of their recent exploits.

Newsome Gay, student in 1929-30, has opened a studio of his own in Dallas. After leaving T. C. U. he spent several years in Chicago, where he studied commercial art and completed some important professional commissions.

Madeline Rowntree, student in 1934-35, writes from Houston, where she is now living, that the Houston Museum of Fine Arts has accepted one of her paintings for an exhibition of work by Houston artists. The canvass was painted in the T. C. U. art studio last season and is a study based on the Indian motif.

Miss Sarah Smith, an art graduate of '33, spent her Christmas vacation in New York City. She visited the art galleries and the numerous art exhibitions of the metropolis. Miss Smith has a scholarship to the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts in Philadelphia.

Fencing Team Joins Southwest League

T. C. U. to Participate in Championship Tournament March 28, 29.

Fencing, the one-semester-old infant of the T. C. U. sport world, has taken its first step this week.

An invitation to join the Southwest Fencing League has been extended to the team by Oscar Grunow of Dallas, president of the League. The invitation will be accepted, according to Travis Griffin student instructor.

The league is not an intercollegiate affair, although a number of Southwest schools are represented. Among them are S. M. U., A. & M., Texas Tech and Oklahoma University.

"Considering the short length of time that we have been organized, the invitation is a distinct honor," Griffin said. The T. C. U. squad was organized this fall.

The league sponsors four dual meets for each team besides the championship tournament which is held each year. The Southwest Fencing League championship will be decided in Dallas on March 28 and 29.

T. C. U. will fight matches with the Fort Worth and Dallas Y. M. C. A.'s and with S. M. U. before the championship tournament.

"Dead Week" Reigns As Students With Long Faces Haunt Library

By Rosemary Collyer.

The campus is at present enveloped in a shroud of silence, as you no doubt have observed. And why is this? This, my fellow students, is because of "dead week." Meaning that for the majority of the campus the realization has finally come that the dread examinations are, in truth and in fact, a grim reality. The library, which is at any other time of the year a sort of social meeting place because of limited space in the drug store, has turned into a fortress of learning. When some unsuspecting student makes the least little sound therein, he is likely to incur the wrath of his best friend, who is trying valiantly to master 14 weeks of learning in one.

Entire small libraries are removed daily to the private residences of students for the purpose of writing that term theme. The supply of ink in the old library is running low. Wonder what became of the milk bottle that was used last year to collect pennies for the ink supply? It was a good idea.

We have surveyed the library, now let us turn to some of the inhabitants, for such they have become of late. Indeed, there are several who have gone into retirement until the fatal day of Jan. 22 dawns. Otherwise happy countenances have become haggard and drawn from worry over back work that just has to be done. Several heads are bowed. Can it be that they are so full of learning?

In contrast to the mentally harassed, we have with us (as we are told we have always the poor) the smug student, greatly in the minority, who has labored diligently the entire year and who now has no fear of the fruits of his labor. Majestically aloof, he pursues his course, but we wonder if he has derived as much as he really should from his half year at T. C. U. For instance, does he know who pitched the Sugar Bowl game?

Nevertheless, all the answers to the exams cannot be, "T. C. U. has a great football team." So in the final analysis all that we can say is "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's" and so forth—very much and so forth.

And, so, shipmates, we are on the rocks. Into the water. It is up to us to sink or swim. Personally ye old society editor can't swim a stroke.

Maximum Income Aids Little

If each person in the U. S. was limited to $5000 income a year and the excess redistributed, the average income would be increased by just $100, according to Dr. Ralph C. Epstein, Dean of the University of Buffalo School of Business Administration. Beyond that, there is not enough to go around, said Dr. Epstein.

Miss Maxine Whitten spent the week-end at her home in Grandview.

James Merritt attended a house party in Wichita Falls last week-end.

Charles Jeffries, is seriously ill at his home.

Morris will have charge of the church in Breckenridge. Other faculty members and ministerial students in T. C. U., who preach regularly at nearby churches, will carry out this theme for their Sunday services.

"Alligator, Where Are You?" Is Pass Word in Goode Hall

It happened one day in scrimmage. The tackle pulled out to block. When he got to the place his opponent was to be blocked out he merely eased off. "What you doing there?" yelled Coach Bear Wolf. "That is just what an alligator would do if he came to a log in his way."

Now an alligator is commonly known as "el legarto des Indias, the cayman, or American crocodile" scientifically speaking, but not so in this particular case. This so-called "alligator" was born in Breckenridge and moved to Abilene when only seven years of age. He attended Abilene High School and made three letters in football and two in basketball. He was also secretary of his junior class.

Then came the day to graduate. His mind was made up to attend a university but which one was the problem. He came to Texas Christian and found a job. Everyone was friendly to the six-and-one-half-foot, 210-pound gent with grey eyes, and he fast found the University a great place. Of course, he wanted to play football and that is just what he has been doing for the past three years on the Horned Frog team.

He made a freshman numeral in football and followed it up with three varsity letters. He also made a numeral in freshman basketball. At the present time he is president of the "T" Association and monitor in Goode Hall.

He likes to hunt and ride horses and thinks Fort Worth is a great city and that T. C. U. is a great school. "Yeah, I think this is about the best school a fellow could attend, because everyone is so friendly. Much more so than other places I have been," he said.

Who is he? Haven't you guessed by now? He is none other than Wilson "Alligator" Groseclose, a member of one of the nation's four greatest football teams, the Texas Christian Horned Frogs.

When someone in Goode wants Groseclose, the pass word is "Alligator, where are you?"

Student Camps In Nearby Wood In Fall, Spring

Compared to his wall tent with its kerosene lamp and sturdy army cot, John Clendenin, Penn State freshman, doesn't think much of the room in town that snow and colder weather have forced him to move into.

Until just the other day, Clendenin was camping in the woods outside of town, doing his own cooking on a small wood stove, and studying by lamp-light with no sound to disturb him except the rustling footsteps of an occasional small animal.

"It's not so bad here," Clendenin said at his new residence, "but I liked my tent better. I wasn't so cooped up."

He will go back to the woods in the Spring, Clendenin said.

Mrs. J. H. Richards visited her daughter, Dorcas Evelyn, in Jarvis Tuesday.

Director Gillis Revealed as 'Boy Who Made Good'

Prof. Don Gillis would make a good story for Horatio Alger. He now directs both bands he joined as a freshman at T. C. U. in 1931, following his recent appointment by Governor James Allred to director of the 111th Medical Regiment Band.

He was appointed director of the Horned Frog Band, in which he served four years as first trombone and scholarship man and the last two as student assistant director, following his graduation last spring.

Gillis will hold the rank of warrant officer, a commissioned officer just below second lieutenant, as a result of his rise in the medical band. His promotion came as the result of a test taken in November, and a recommendation by Cecil Meadows, former director of the band.

Miss Louise Elliott of Christian College, Columbia, Mo., was recently the guest of Miss Lucille Trent.

Dick Wright, a former student of T. C. U., now in the United States Navy, was a visitor on the campus Monday.
