Speakers Deny Pink Charges

BY DIANA DUPY

Two visiting lecturers for Ministers' Week Thursday shrugged off statements in a letter circulated in Fort Worth accusing them of Communistic sympathies.

Dr. Harold A. Bosley delivered the Wells lectures and Dr. Franklin H. Littell delivered the Oreon E. Scott lectures.

The Skiff received a letter connecting Dr. Bosley of Christ Church Methodist and Dr. Littell of Chicago Theological Seminary with ultra-liberal organizations.

Commenting on the statements Dr. Bosley said, "These letters have preceded me all over the country beginning at the time I became dean of the School of Divinity at Duke University in 1945. The group keeps up with all activities I participate in which they feel are left-wing or socialistic. These men make a vocation of this undertaking."

The letter, apparently sent from an organization calling itself the Fort Worth Committee of Christian Laymen, linked Dr. Bosley and Dr. Littell with the Methodist Federation for Social Action. The MFSA is a group composed of ministers, teachers and laymen who are concerned with social matters.

Dr. Bosley said he withdrew from the organization in 1952 because he was not satisfied with the far left and radical ideas of the leaders of the group. Dr. Littell also withdrew from the group.

"The group never bothers to print other organizations of which I am a member," Dr. Bosley stated. He is a member of a commission on equitable relations between races, a Methodist representative to the General Board of the National Council of Churches and a member of the World Council of Churches on International Affairs.

"The most exciting thing for me is the opportunity to be on college and university campuses. I have spoken to groups all over the United States and in South America, Japan, Korea and India.

"I am able to get a notion of the quality of the coming generation as they are addressing themselves to the future," explained Dr. Bosley.

"I think TCU is doing a fine job in producing a Ministers' Week such as was conducted this year. I have not seen it surpassed anywhere. I feel the success is attributed to the interest that Dr. Sadler has taken, the interest of the faculty and the gratifying number of students who attended the lectures," said Dr. Bosley.

Dr. Littell firmly denied much of the material printed in the letter. One particular statement said that in his book "The German Phoenix," he "greatly admires the World Council of Churches, Karl Marx, Sigmund Freud and Friedrich Engels." Dr. Littell said that he admires the World Council of Churches, but he had one complete chapter on Communism and what is wrong with it.

"I demand primary sources and face-to-face encounter. I am prepared to discuss the matter with any person who exists," Dr. Littell maintained.

Asked if he supported integration movements at SMU, Dr. Littell said he was involved in one sit-in demonstration.

"A white student tried to strike one of my Negro students and I instinctively stepped between them. Any pastor who wouldn't do it with one of his flock, something would be wrong," he said. If people will discuss the problem a light can be found to solve the situation, Dr. Littell emphasized.

Four TCU Beauties Honored by Auto Show

Feminine beauty and shiny cars vied for attention Sunday as the Fort Worth Auto Show opened in the Exhibits Building on Amon Carter Square. Four TCU coeds were maids of honor for the show.

Selected for the honor were Benet Bishop, 19, Temple sophomore; Virginia Lattimore, 18, Fort Worth freshman; Rose Ann Norton, 19, Shreveport sophomore, and Marty Pratt, 18, Fort Worth freshman.

The coeds were among eight maids of honor chosen from 24 women at the Colonial Country Club recently. Anna Beth Bigham, 19, of Graham took the queen's crown, which for the past two years has been won by TCU coeds.

The Auto Show is sponsored by the Fort Worth Star-Telegram and the New Car Dealers Association of Greater Fort Worth.

Brothers Four Set Feb. 2 Performance

The Brothers Four will present a program of folk singing and comedy routines at 8 p.m., Feb. 2 in Daniel-Meyer Coliseum.

The group is being sponsored by the Entertainment Committee. "The response of the student body to this program will determine the feasibility of bringing more big name entertainment to the campus," said Palmer McCarter, committee chairman.

Tickets are on sale at the Student Center information desk at $1.50 for students and $2 for adults. Tickets also will be sold during registration.

The Brothers Four is a group of former University of Washington students, John Paine, Mike Kirkland, Dick Foley and Bob Flick.

They entertained at college parties and a few outside affairs. The group then auditioned for a night club manager and broke into that field. They made popular the ballad, "Greenfields."

'I GOTTA SIGN OUT'

The fluffy white Pekingese puppy who seems to be pawing through the dormitory checkout slips probably should sign out, since he spent about two weeks in a girls' dorm room on campus recently. But the need for secrecy became too great for the dog housers (who aren't in it yet). A male friend of the girls now is keeping the 10-week-old pooch in his Fort Worth apartment. NSA, Piano Competition Top News Stories of Fall

BY LARRY RICHARDS

Controversy over the National Student Association, integration, international piano competition and contested elections were only a part of the news made at TCU during this closing fall semester.

A mild form of integration took place at the University when the Board of Trustees announced that three Negro students would enroll in Harris College of Nursing in the fall.

Piano Competition Held

The Van Cliburn International Quadrennial Piano Competition began in late September, followed closely by one of the most controversial issues to hit the campus in a long while. This was NSA.

The NSA debates began in ear-

Library Will Be Open This Sunday

The University's library will be open from 2 to 6 p.m. Sunday for last minute cramming for finals.

Response to the few Sundays it has been open this semester has been good. Acting Head Librarian Nell Ornee has recommended the facility be opened several weekends during the spring semester as a result of increased student use.

ly October and raged back and forth until the student body defeated affiliation in a vote taken shortly before the Christmas holidays.

During the course of the NSA issue, speakers for and against NSA were imported, debates were held by both student factions and Student Congress, and petitions were circulated trying to stop what appeared to be a Congress decision to have the final say on affiliation.

Under pressure from the student body, Congress voted to take a campus-wide opinion poll to ascertain student feeling toward University affiliation with the association.

NSA Defeated

The results of this poll, which soundly defeated affiliation, were instrumental in killing any action for the present.

The Cliburn contest focused the cultural eyes of the world on TCU and Fort Worth.

After several delays due to the large number of semi-finalists, Ralph Votapek of Milwaukee won the competition from a vast assemblage of entrants from all over the world and as far away as Japan and Russia.

Two of the big sports events of the semester centered around the TCU-Texas football game and the retirement of L. R. "Dutch" Meyer as athletic director.

The University of Texas Longhorns tasted the sweet fruit of revenge in November when the Frogs met the No. 5 team in the nation. Attempting a repeat performance of last year, when the Frogs defeated the Longhorns, 6-0, the University team met a determined defensive squad who was seeking nothing short of victory. Texas won, 14-0.

Meyer, head football coach here from 1934 until 1953, has been athletic director since his retirement as head coach.

Elections hit the headlines in December when Student Court declared the election of junior, senior and Mr. and Miss TCU favorites void because of alleged ballot irregularities resulting from duplication of nominees for two offices.

Museum Possible

As the fall semester wheezed its last remorseful breath, plans were afoot to transport the first TCU building at Thorp Spring, now used as a farmer's cowshed, to Fort Worth to be used as a campus museum to house historical documents and curios. The building would be reconstructed on the Worth Hills Golf Course addition to the campus at an estimated cost of $60,000.

What the new semester will bring for the University, its students and faculty, only fate can determine, but if the spring semester follows the form of the fall term, a scintillating semester is in prospect.

Philosophy Assistants Announced

Dr. Gustave A. Ferre, chairman of the Department of Philosophy, has announced two graduate assistant instructors in philosophy for the spring semester.

Robert Lohman and Douglas Mace will assume their duties as part time instructors when classes convene Jan. 31. Lohman will teach the "Introduction to Philosophy" course offered at Carswell Air Force Base in conjunction with the TCU Evening College program. Mace will hold small discussion groups coinciding with the introductory philosophy course offered here.

Lohman received his B.A. from the University of New Mexico. He is combining his master's work in philosophy at TCU with his duties as pastor of the Christian Church in Hillsboro.

"The discussion group will serve a two-fold purpose; clarification of points the slower student doesn't grasp in class, and exploration of an idea which the inquiring student wishes to pursue.

"This discussion class has been on the planning board several years; we hope it will be profitable to the students," concluded Dr. Ferre.

Cortell Holsapple, dean of the Evening College until his death in February 1962, was honored by a special resolution adopted at the annual convention of the Association of University Evening Colleges last fall.

IFC Considers New Proposal

The Interfraternity Council last week considered two proposals to alter the scholastic standing required of a pledge for his initiation into a social fraternity.

The proposals are:

(1) Lowering the current 2.2 requirement for initiation to a 2.0.

(2) Adopting a flexible requirement which would keep the pledge requirement two-tenths above the all-freshman men's average for the previous year.

IFC member "Tex" McIver said that 58 per cent of last semester's fraternity pledges failed to achieve the minimum 2.2 average. Either of the new proposals, he believes, will diminish greatly this percentage.

"This is an Interfraternity Council measure and therefore will not affect sororities," McIver noted. "Nor will the lowering of initiation requirements influence the requirements for pledging."

A decision on the proposals is expected at the next IFC meeting early in February.

INFERIORITY CAN BE FUN

The second gravest problem confronting college students today is inferiority feelings. (The first gravest problem is of course, the recent outbreak of moult among sorority house canaries.) Let us today look into the causes of inferiority feelings and their possible cures.

Psychologists divide inferiority feelings into three principal categories:

1. Physical inferiority.
2. Mental inferiority.
3. Financial inferiority.

(A few say there is also a fourth category: ichthyological inferiority—a feeling that other people have prettier fish—but I believe this is common only along the coasts and in the Great Lakes area.)

Let us start with the feeling of physical inferiority, perhaps the easiest to understand. Naturally we are inclined to feel inferior to the brawny football captain or the beautiful homecoming queen. But we should not. Look at all the people, neither brawny nor beautiful, who have made their marks in the world. Look at Napoleon. Look at Socrates. Look at Caesar. Look at Lassie.

We are inclined to feel inferior

What I mean is that you can't always tell what's inside a package by looking at the outside. (Sometimes, of course, you can. Take Marlboro Cigarettes, for example. Just one glance at that jolly red-and-white package—so bright and pert—so neat but not gaudy—so perfectly in place whether you are at a formal dinner or a beach picnic—so invariably correct for any time, clime, or condition—one look, I say, at this paragon of packs and you know it has to contain cigarettes of absolute perfection. And you are right! That pure white Marlboro filter, that fine, flavorful blend of Marlboro tobaccos, will give you a smoke to make the welkin ring, whatever that is. So those of you who have just been sitting and admiring your Marlboro packs since the beginning of the semester, why don't you open a pack and light one? Light a cigarette, I mean—not the package. Then you can settle back and smoke your Marlboro and, at the same time, continue to gaze rapturously at the pack. Thus you will be twice as happy as you are if that is possible.)

But I digress. Let us turn now to the second category—mental inferiority. A lot of people think they are dumber than other people. This is not so. It must be remembered that there are different kinds of intelligence. Take, for instance, the classic case of the Sigafos brothers, Claude and Sturbridge, students at Wake Forest. It was always assumed that Claude was the more intelligent just because he knew more than Sturbridge about the arts, the sciences, the social sciences, the humanities, and like that. Sturbridge, on the other hand, was ten times smarter than Claude when it came to tying granny knots. But no matter; everybody looked down on "Stupid Sturbridge," as they called him and looked up at "Clever Claude," as they called him. But who do you think turned out to be the smart one when their granny almost got loose and ran away? You guessed it—good old Stupid Sturbridge.

We arrive now at the final category, financial inferiority. One way to deal with this condition is to increase your income. You can, for example, become a fence. Or you can pose for a life class, if your college is well heated.

But a better way to handle financial inferiority is to accept it philosophically. Look on the bright side of poverty. True, others may have more money than you have, but look at all the things you have that they don't—debts, for instance, and hunger cramps.

And what about friendship? You don't need money to have friends, and let me tell you something, good people: the older you get the more you will realize that nothing is so precious as friendship, and the richest man in the world is the one with the most money.

Rich or poor, you can all afford the pleasure of Marlboro, available at popular prices in all 50 states of the Union.

Author, Bible Professor Suggs Receives $6,000 Study Grant

Dr. Jack M. Suggs, professor of New Testament, has been awarded a $6,000 fellowship by the American Council of Learned Societies.

Dr. Suggs plans to do advance research next year in "The Religion of Wisdom and Apocalyptic Speculation in the Literature of Late Judaism and Early Christianity" at the University of Heidelberg in Heidelberg, Germany.

Dr. Suggs will hear Gunther Bornkamm, one of the world's top scholars on the New Testament whose "Jesus of Nazareth" is the authoritative statement of present-day study of Jesus.

DR. SUGGS was one of many scholars who competed for the fellowship given by the council, which is made up of all the major learned societies in the humanities in the United States.

Dr. Suggs is one of the leading young New Testament scholars in the country. He was born in Electra and attended high school in Joinerville, Texas.

He took his B.A. from the University of Texas in 1947. He received his B.D. from TCU's Brite College in 1950. In 1954 he earned his Ph.D. at Duke University where he held the Kearns Fellowship.

Dr. Suggs is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Alpha Kappa Delta and Pi Gamma Mu. He was president of the southwestern section of the National Association of Biblical Instructors in 1958. At present he is secretary-treasurer of the southwest section of the Society of Biblical Literature.

HE JOINED THE TCU faculty in 1952 after serving as minister of Christian Churches in Buda, Bertram, Austin, Gladewater, and in Wendell, N.C.

The award winner is author of "The Layman Reads His Bible," published in 1957, and "The Gospel Story," published in 1960.

His articles on the New Testament have appeared in the Harvard Theological Review, the Journal of Biblical Literature, Novum Testamentum and in other publications.

Dr. Suggs won the fellowship after his studies on the "Apocryphal Book of Wisdom" were published in Encyclopaedia Britannica and the Journal of Biblical Literature.

Roofing Accident Victim Improved

Don Lynch, victim of a roofing accident Jan. 5, was reported to be in good condition at Harris Hospital Friday.

Lynch, Fort Worth senior, was burned severely on his face and neck after falling from a ladder with a bucket of hot tar. He was taken to the hospital and placed under intensive care for 72 hours.

He is now in room 659 and will be there for an indefinite period of time. According to his wife, his condition is no longer considered critical; however, it will take some time for his injury to heal.

Opera Certificates Allow Discount for Teachers

Certificates for the Fort Worth Opera, Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana," and two ballets will allow a discount for teachers and school administrators.

The performance will be held at 8:15 p.m. on Jan. 16 and 18 in Will Rogers Memorial Auditorium.

Certificates may be obtained from Mrs. Audrey Campau, administrative assistant to the dean of the School of Fine Arts.

These certificates will allow a discount of 50 cents to $2.25 on the purchase of tickets regularly priced from $4 to $1.75.

The Central Ticket Office, Hotel Texas, will honor certificates prior to the performance.

Tickets also may be purchased with discount at Will Rogers Auditorium box office after 6:30 p.m. on performance night.

Campus Thefts Total 12

More than a dozen campus thefts are reported during each semester, reports TCU Security Chief Bill Biggars.

Chief Biggars asks all students lock their cars when leaving them, day or night.

The thefts include clothing, books, cameras and other items. Chief Biggars mentioned an incident in which a new student went for the first time to see his dorm room before moving in.

When he returned to his car, all his clothes were missing.

Officer Due Promotion

Capt. Robert Breeding of the University Air Force ROTC has been notified of his selection for promotion to major. The new rank will become effective "not earlier than July 15" according to orders. The promotion will be made "as vacancies become available."

Skiff Posts To Be Filled By Committee

Applications are being accepted by the Student Publications Committee for The Skiff editor and business manager positions for the spring semester.

The Skiff editor will appoint his own managing editor and sports editor, subject to the approval of Bill Sheridan, Skiff faculty adviser, or the publications committee.

Editorship of the Horned Frog also is a Student Publications Committee appointment, but it is for one-year as opposed to the one-semester Skiff appointments. Faculty and staff members of the committee include Dr. D. Wayne Rowland, Journalism Department chairman; L.C. White, vice chancellor for fiscal affairs; Amos Melton, public relations director; Dr. William Hawes, chairman Radio-Television Department; Mrs. Landon Colquitt, assistant professor of English; and Dr. William C. Nunn, professor of history.

Journalism students on the committee are Carol Lee, Lamesa senior; Larry Richards, Fort Worth senior, and Linda Kaye, Fort Worth senior.

Mock Air Raid Held By AFROTC Last Week

A mock air raid drill was held on campus by TCU's Air Force ROTC from 11 a.m. till noon last Thursday.

According to Cadet Col. Bruce Holliman, cadet commander of the Air Force ROTC detachment at TCU, the drill was carried out to introduce cadets to a disaster situation.

Each cadet had an assignment to accomplish, from "surviving" fallout to finding "radiation deposits."

The drill is an annual operation of the AFROTC.

Good news for Student Congress. It is not alone on the college scene in its lack of interest in anything politically worthwhile. In fact, the platform on which it huddles each Tuesday night apparently is crowded with similarly naive student governments all over the country.

News of this collegiate phenomenon, and to some it sadly is not news at all, comes from an article in Time magazine.

The Time discussion concerns the theory of Yale psychology professor Kenneth Keniston, former Rhodes scholar and Harvard junior fellow.

In an article, "American Scholar," in the Phi Beta Kappa journal, Keniston asks and answers this question: What peculiar American trait causes U.S. collegians, taken as a whole, to remain politically unconcerned?

That's the question. The answer is slightly more complex.

To begin with, Keniston points out, American university students have gotten "apolitical" because they've had nothing to rouse them. They've had no feudal walls to crash or tyrant kings to dethrone. As a result, these students grow up now in a world which apparently is more respectful of "the hedonism of beer-and-twisting at Fort Lauderdale and the smugness of those who hit 800 on the college board exam."

Having no inspiration for politics or active preservation of a free democracy (such inspiration being ignored by giggling student governments and over-worked faculties), some students take to beatnikism and other "self-centered styles of behavior that Keniston calls 'youth culture.'" Still other politically stagnant students, and this strikes closer to home ground, have decided that the "privatism" of early marriages and big families are replacements for big careers.

It is Keniston's belief, then, that the students of the United States are not only past the stage of fighting politically but are even above the famous American tradition of making lots of money.

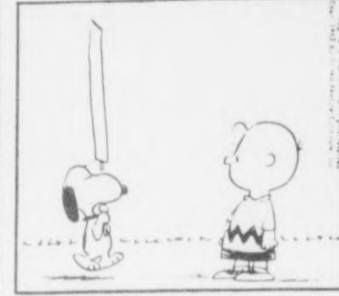

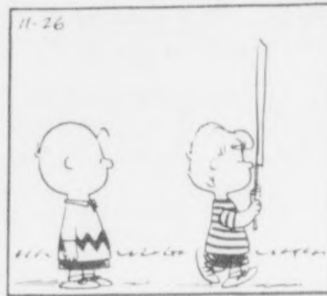

Included in this phase of the psychologist's theory is the idea that all modern examples of youth behavior, namely the beatniks and young married couples, have one thing in common: they lack a "deep commitment to adult values," including politics.

A possible cure for this pitiable condition is renewed interest in government and politics. But, under current conditions, such interest is unlikely because of the "deterrent" nature of campus politics. In other words, our student governments themselves help rob us of the political values deemed vital by history.

According to Keniston, "By dealing only with trivia (depriving Clark Hall of Christmas decorations because it wasn't in Dorm Council), student government subtly argues that only 'omni-competent officials' have the wisdom to make real policy decisions.

Said another way: Campus student leaders hide in laughter and fun the fact that they are playing an insignificant game of footsie.

Meanwhile, the thinkers and action men, the real leaders, must stand by in silence.

S.C. Capers

Last Tuesday night, Student Congress was called to order by President Galen Hull at 4:34 p.m. After that, confusion reigned.

What transpired in the next two hours and 40 minutes was almost unbelievable, with many congressmen voting on matters they obviously did not understand. Time after time, proposals were read by member Stan Read. His colleagues repeatedly would ask for clarification. By the time discussion was finished on a given amendment, puzzled looks still could be seen on many faces.

Because of congressmen's lack of understanding of the proceedings, the senior class is left without a presidential representative. President Lynn Morrison was off Congress because of a by-laws violation. Class Vice President Howard Walsh, named by Congress in the fall to serve in Morrison's place, also was dropped because last Tuesday's confused Congress did not approve one of Read's proposals.

The Read motion provided for keeping Morrison as senior class president and Walsh as the representative. But the idea was nixed. The Skiff is not sure why.

One thing does appear certain: Student Congress has not shown itself competent to transact important business. This statement is not made vindictively, or with feelings of antagonism toward any individual congressman. It is made as a plea for better student government.

Congressman Read is one of the most knowledgeable members of the governing body. The committee he headed to straighten out the Morrison mess did a good job, with Read and Wayne Ewen, College of Arts and Sciences representative, as the main workers.

For instance, in an effort to avoid future trouble the committee recommendations called for the establishment of class constitutions, which would outline duties and responsibilities of class officers.

Congress, acting as though Read had proposed the abolition of the campus flagpole, righteously struck down this attempt "to take away elections from the classes."

All the motion did was put a deadline on adopting the constitutions, badly needed if class government is to be effective. President Hull was admittedly disappointed at the fate of the proposal.

Earlier this semester, after criticism by The Skiff of Congress action in the National Student Association controversy, President Hull facetiously asked a Skiff writer if he thought Congress should be abolished.

That might be a little drastic, but if things continue as they did last Tuesday, Congress' ineptness will become self-destructive.

The Skiff is the official student newspaper at Texas Christian University, published Tuesday and Friday during college class weeks except in summer terms. Fort Meredith Engineers are carrying through plans to improve the "existing temporary housing" for soldiers stationed at Oxford. Many people on both sides of the University of Mississippi-Meredith question are seriously wondering if all this tension will ever be eased or if there will be a Berlin wall atmosphere right here in the United States.

Supporters of the Kennedy decisions on the issue are not saying they feel any differently now about the previous action taken by the federal government, but a considerable number must be asking if, at this stage, construction of living quarters for the troops standing by for James Meredith is the wisest step. Nobody begrudges the 300 military policemen a little comfort, but interests of much more significance should be paramount. Anyway a troop rotation scheme or incentive pay are only a few of the means by which the hardships imposed on these troops can be lessened. And they are, after all, in the armed forces, and are in-and-out of this kind of situation anyway.

Certainly no fans of Mississippi Governor Ross Barnett, we will concur with him in objecting to the plan as an "unwarranted project." But that is as close to his line as we can stand, since our opposition is based on reasons other than an unconvincing concern for a state's sovereignty and taxpayers' money (the latter of which is surely a reversal in Barnett's thinking). If for nothing more, the federal move is threatening to discredit a state-federal relationship which might not really be so uncompromising.

Trusting the housing will be erected, we ask what would be wrong with designing and locating the quarters so that they may be used possibly for male student dormitories when (if) the military forces are finally withdrawn?

BY MALVIN MAJORS

The five-man staff of the security office has issued more than 100 tickets during the fall semester and more than 30 three-point offenders have received citations for their autos are banned from on-campus parking. Mary Meacham, pretty secretary to Campus Security Officer Bill Biggars, estimated 20 tickets per day, including Saturday and Sunday, received citations. Biggars has been on campus for more than 10 years. Officers on the force are Patrolmen C.A. Clayton, D.G. Hughes, W. Waits and Nolan Strahan. Strahan has been on campus for more than two years and the others have more than five years service each.

"THE MAJORITY of citations are written for failure to observe proper time limits while parking," according to Chief Biggars. "New students especially should take heed of the fine rate. A charge of $3 will be made for the first offense, $6 for the second and $12 for the third. Also on the third offense, the student's auto is banned from on-campus parking."

The fourth offense gets for the student a referral to the Student Welfare Committee or the appropriate administrative officer. The fourth offense also may result in a student's dismissal from school.

STUDENTS NEED not feel singled out for punishment. Instructors and other TCU officials are subject to the citations and any fines they refuse to pay will be deducted from pay checks by the Business Office.

Should it be necessary to remove an illegally parked car, the auto will be towed away by an independent wrecker operator. The owner of the auto will find himself charged with a wrecker fee in addition to a parking ticket.

As with any University fee, all fines must be paid before a student may re-register, receive a transcript of credits or be granted a degree.

The Security Office is open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Saturday until noon. Offices are in room 14 of Sadler Hall.

Dean Brigham Following Him of Work for Church

BY RAY REECE

His dad was a Christian minister. His early life was molded by the Christian church. He devoted his career to personal guidance and administration, recently within the church. He must be the man for the job.

His name is Dean W. Brigham. His job, effective Feb. 15, is director of living endowment, an office of the development division of TCU, which deals with gifts, trusts and other support from individuals.

The development division is directed by Dr. O. James Sowell, Brigham's new boss.

Coming into Brigham's history is that he is indeed settling in an appropriate notch. "When I was a youngster," said Brigham, "the church was my whole life. After I graduated from school I stayed as close to it as I could to do the best job I could."

Brigham's first assignment, as a Civil Service employe in 1933, was with the National Youth Administration in Oklahoma. He remained with the government from then until 1958 when he accepted a church position in Indiana as director of the men's work division of the Association of Christian Churches in Indiana.

So what would motivate a man to drop the dividends offered by an operation like the Civil Service?

It's like Dean Brigham said. He wanted to remain as near the Christian church as possible. He wanted to work full time with the people in the church and when the chance came he took it.

From Indiana, Brigham came to Texas in 1961 as director of men's work, evangelism and stewardship of the Texas Board of Christian Churches.

Now he's coming to TCU.

MRS. MEACHAM explained that she often writes letters to law enforcement officers throughout the United States in an attempt to identify license numbers appearing on the cars in TCU parking areas.

L. C. White, vice chancellor for fiscal affairs, reported an average revenue from fines of more than $6,500 in each 12-month period. Salaries and other administrative expenses of the Security Department amount to more than twice this figure.

THEN WHY have the police section?

Administration officials contend the "campus cops" prevent traffic jams.

Woman's Club Holds Tea

Music and dancing native to far-away lands will add international flavor to the Faculty Woman's Club tea at 3 p.m. Tuesday.

The affair, honoring TCU foreign students, will be held in the Faculty Lounge in Reed Hall. Co-chairmen are Miss Elizabeth Youngblood and Mrs. A. T. DeGroot.

The foreign students themselves are scheduled to present the program. Miss Tammy Tien-Ming Kung of Taiwan will perform a native dance, Miss Gilka Cespedes of Bolivia will present a selection of folk songs on the guitar, and Peter Chang of Taiwan will play the harmonica.

In addition, Peter Chiu will lead a group of students in singing several native songs.

The program will close with the presentation of the Moslem call to prayer in Arabic, with an English translation, by Najji Hamideh of Jordan.

Faculty wives who have visited foreign countries and those who are natives of foreign countries will be in the receiving line, as well as Miss Youngblood and Mrs. L. Moffitt Cecil, club president.

Mademoiselle Magazine

Coeds Picked for Panel

Two TCU seniors, Corrinne Monday, speech therapy major of Dallas, and Jan Borders, marketing major of Fort Worth, have been appointed to represent TCU this year on Mademoiselle's national College Board.

The annual College Board competition is designed for women students with talents in art, writing, fashion, merchandising, promotion, or advertising. Board members are selected through entries showing their interest and ability in one of these fields.

As College Board members, they will report news from TCU to Mademoiselle. Both are eligible to compete for the 20 guest editorships to be awarded by the magazine in May. To win one of the top 20 prizes, the coeds must submit a second entry to show their aptitudes for magazine work.

The 20 College Board members who win guest editorships will be sent to New York during June to help edit, write and illustrate Mademoiselle's 1963 August college issue.

They will share offices with the magazine's editors, advise the staff on campus trends, interview well known writers and artists and represent the magazine on visits to publishing houses, stores and advertising agencies.

They also will be photographed for the college issue, and will be considered for future staff positions with Mademoiselle and other Conde Nast publications.

As a special bonus, the 1962 guest editors were flown to Rome, where they spent five days attending fashion showings, visiting art galleries, sight-seeing and attending parties in their honor.

The only reason people get lost in thought is because it's unfamiliar territory.

Wortham Named To TCU Council

Dr. John L. Wortham, chairman of the Economics Department, was elected recently Add-Ran College representative to the University Council.

Dr. Wortham will serve a one-year term on the council.

The University Council, an expansion of the earlier Deans Council, is the principal policy-making body for TCU academic affairs and student life, said Vice Chancellor James Moudy, council chairman.

The council is composed of all deans and one elected representative from each of the colleges and schools.

Books for Asian Students Will Be Gathered in Drive

The annual drive to provide books for Asian students will be conducted on campus Jan. 21-23.

This year all books collected will go to Silliman University in the Philippines. The university is located in Dumaguete Province on the island of Negros Oriental.

Silliman was suggested as recipient for the books by Dr. L. T. Ruiz, former president of the university, who is a guest lecturer in sociology and anthropology at TCU this year.

According to Dr. Ruiz, English is spoken in many of the classes at Silliman, therefore most types of books are acceptable. Text books especially are wanted.

Books donated should be in good condition, and published after 1945. Quality paperback books are acceptable.

Barbara McWilliams, service chairman for the United Religious Council (URC), sponsor of the project, said that it would be most helpful if entire classes would donate their books to the drive.

Collection boxes for the books will be located at the information desk in the Student Center and at the office of the Director of Religious Activities, Room 106 in Sadler Hall.

Advertising Club Chooses Officers

Alpha Delta Sigma, TCU's advertising fraternity, has named new officers for the spring semester. They are Ken Williams, president; Jack Moriniere, vice president and Buddy Thomas, secretary-treasurer.

Moriniere, Lynn Ligon, David Sturgiss and David Stevens were appointed to a committee to prepare exhibits for the Advertising Field Day.

Ministers' Week Called Rewarding Experience'

BY LARRY RICHARDS

...highly invaluable and a very rewarding experience," commented Noel Keith, chairman of the Undergraduate Religion Department, on the success of Ministers' Week activities here.

Week activities, evolving around the theme "crucial current national and international issues," were highlighted by the Judaean-Christian viewpoint, sponsored by the Wells, E. Scott and McFadin lectures.

Harold A. Bosley, pastor of the Christ Church Methodist in New York, presented the Wells grant is provided by the East Dallas Christian Church in honor of Dr. L. Wells, a former minister

Bosley, well-known for his knowledge of the text of the scriptures, spoke on such topics as "The Power to Release Great Faces."

Scott lectures were delivered by Dr. Franklin H. Littell of the Chicago Theological Seminary. The Scott Foundation of Chicago provides for these lectures as a contribution to facing temporary world problems.

Littell has conducted research on how religion deals with changing times and is familiar with the urbanization process and its effects upon the church.

Two of Dr. Littell's topics were "An Historical View of American Protestantism" and "The Great City (The Challenge of Pluralism)."

The McFadin series was delivered by Dr. Glen C. Routt, professor of theology in Brite College.

The McFadin Fund was started as a TCU loan fund and the income derived from it has been used to provide a "refresher course" for ministers during Ministers' Week.

Dr. Routt spoke on "The Lordship of Christ Over the World" and "Lordship and Discipleship."

All three of these presentations will be published as books in the future, according to Dr. Keith.

Dr. Keith felt the most outstanding thing about Ministers' Week was "the fellowship shared by these ministers as they met and visited with friends they hadn't seen for years."

NASA To Provide Career Keynoter

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration will furnish a keynoter for TCU's 10th annual High School Citizenship and Career Conference, announced Amos W. Melton, director of public relations.

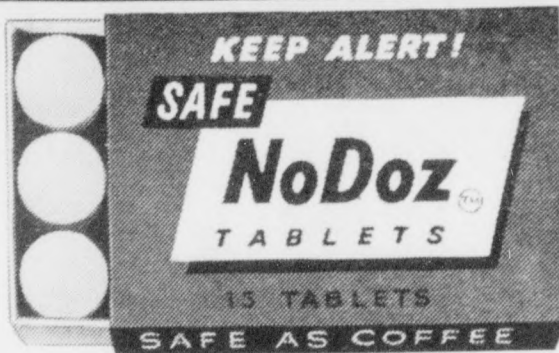

Confirmation of the exact speaker still is pending, he added.

The conference, which will be held on Jan. 25 at TCU, is sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce of West Texas, the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce and the University. Seniors from 400 North Texas high schools have been invited, according to Melton.

NASA's representative will open the conference at 9 a.m.

A panel discussion headed by five Fort Worth businessmen gets under way at 10 a.m.

At 11 a.m. the students will attend one of 32 conferences to discuss career interests.

Delt Basketball Meet Tips Off Feb. 1 and 2

The seventh annual Delta Tau Delta Invitational Basketball tournament set for Feb. 1 and 2 has received entries from seven colleges which will represent 16 teams.

All eight University fraternities will participate and will bring the number of teams to 24.

Sam Houston State, North Texas, Texas Tech, East Texas State, SMU, Lamar Tech and Midwestern will be represented.

The tourney will begin at 2 p.m. and will be held in both the Little Gym and the Practice Gym, because of the number of teams entered.

The Delt chapter of Baker

University in Kansas won the tournament last year, but the Interscholastic League has ruled that no out-of-state teams may enter this year.

The league ruled that since the tournament started on a Friday, that students from out-of-state schools would be absent from classes more days than the institutions could allow.

Trophies will be presented for the championship, second place consolation, all-tournament team and one for the sorority with the best attendance.

Admission to all tournament games will be free.

Cagers Pause for Exam

Semester exams will put a three-week damper on the Southwest Conference basketball race beginning this week. The next conference action will be Feb. 2. However, all teams have scheduled a non-conference game after the week of finals.

The Frogs do not play a home game again until they host the Aggies Feb. 9. After finals, they play University of Houston, Texas and SMU on the road.

Saturday night, TCU's cagers lost a one-point decision to Baylor, 60-61, to extend their losing streak at home to six straight games.

Led at Half-time

Guard Bobby McKinley led TCU to a 38-29 halftime edge with his switch shooting counting 14 points. But the Bears clogged the middle and held McKinley to four points in the second half.

The Frogs looked like a different team from the one that had lost to Texas Tech and Arkansas, in the first half. But with seven minutes expired in the second half TCU began to crumble. And with eight minutes left, Baylor went ahead 51-49 to stay.

McKinley led the Purples scoring with 18 points followed by forward Norman Bonds' 15. Guard Jerry Wade racked up 11 points. Forward Winston Moore of Baylor copped game scoring honors with 19 points.

Mid-term Averages

Three Frogs are averaging in the double figures at the mid-term break. Wade continues to lead TCU scoring with a 14.5

average on 189 points. Archie Clayton is second with 11.3 mean on 147 marks. McKinley is third, averaging on 136 points.

As a team, the cagers averaging 65.8 points a game compared to the opposition's TCU has scored 856 points the opponents 926. The Frogs stand 3-10 on the season have a 0-4 conference win record.

McKinley ranks in the nation's top 20 in free throw accuracy with 44 of 52 for 84.6.

In the freshman game, Wogs surprised the Baylor 67-42, with Roger Potts leading 16 points and Dale Abshire

Race Seminar Begins Friday; 150 Expected

Student Congress will present a Human Relations Seminar on "Desegregation in Southwestern Schools... Prospects and Problems" here Friday and Saturday.

"The seminar is an attempt to learn more about other campuses and what to do if racial housing, social or cultural problems arise in the future at TCU," said Bill Tomlinson, chairman of the seminar committee. "We, as a leader school, want to be prepared for and aware of situations arising from desegregation."

Begins Friday

The second annual seminar begins at 7:30 p.m. Friday when the movie, "Raisin in the Sun," is shown in the Student Center Ballroom. Admission is free to all University students.

The Rev. Thomas Griffen, Negro minister from Houston, will speak at 9:15 a.m. Saturday in the Student Center Ballroom.

After the speech, a student-faculty panel will discuss segregation. Panelists will be Dr. Paul G. Wassenich, associate professor of religion; Stan Read, Dallas senior; Paul Sims, member of the Texas Board of Christian Churches; and Mrs. Harold Lunger, member of the Fort Worth Urban Renewal Committee.

Saturday Luncheon

Delegates only may attend the noon luncheon Saturday in the S.C. Ballroom. After lunch, Dick Gregory, Negro comedian from Chicago, will entertain with a humorous speech concerning the segregation problem.

Because of inadequate facilities, University delegates are limited. Each campus organization may send two delegates. If any other student wishes to attend, he may contact Lou Casten, seminar publicity chairman.

150 Expected

Each Southwest Conference school will send representatives from their Student Congresses. One-hundred-fifty TCU delegates are expected this year.

The Human Relations Seminar overcame several obstacles before it was begun. Student Congress approved the program in the spring of 1961, but later nullified its first decision because of difficulties in planning. Students also were uncertain of the purpose of the seminar.

The first seminar was held March 30, 1962, with 136 students and resource persons attending. Guest speaker was Dr. Muzaffer Sherif from the University of Oklahoma.

Mrs. Margaret Harris, R.N., Supervisor of Nurses at the infirmary, checks work progress on the new campus medical facility. University of-officials say the building will be completed and ready for occupancy next September. Work on the $215,000 structure was begun last month.

First in North Texas Area

TCU Adopts Chemistry Ph.D.

TCU will be the first university in the North Texas area to offer the Doctor of Philosophy degree in chemistry.

Only six other schools in Texas now have such programs. They include the University of Texas, Rice, Houston, Baylor, Texas A&M College and Texas Tech.

Dr. M. E. Sadler, University chancellor, announced that the Ph.D. in chemistry will be offered here beginning next September.

The Ph.D. degree program will be the fifth instituted by TCU since 1960 under its plan of academic expansion. Doctoral work already is in progress in physics, mathematics, psychology and English.

Main objectives of the new program are to help supply highly qualified personnel for the rapidly expanding chemical industry of the Southwest and to produce needed teachers for colleges in the area.

Plans for the new degree in chemistry were worked out by Dr. W. B. Smith, who came to TCU as a Robert A. Welch Visiting Scientist in 1960. He was made department chairman a year later.

Dr. Smith is a graduate of Brown University, expert in organic chemistry, and author of several textbooks in the field.

Dr. Joe E. Hodgkins, graduate of Rice University, will handle work in organic chemistry. Another Rice graduate, Dr. W. H. Watson Jr., and Dr. R. K. McLeod from the University of Virginia will head the physical chemistry part of the Ph.D. program.

Degree work in organic and analytical chemistry, teaching and research will be handled by the following faculty: Dr. John E. Spessard from Oklahoma State University, Dr. E. R. Alexander from the University of Colorado, Dr. Henry B. Hardt from Columbia University, and Professor F. M. Lisle, North Texas State University graduate.

New Infirmary Construction On Schedule

TCU's new infirmary building will be ready for occupancy next September, according to C. White, vice chancellor for fiscal affairs.

Contracts totaling $210,667 were awarded and construction was begun on the structure last month.

Most of the funds for the infirmary, $192,000, were donated last year by the Brown-Lupton Foundation of Fort Worth. An additional $5,000 will be spent on equipment, White estimates, making the total cost $215,667.

The one-story building will have 44 beds, waiting and examination rooms plus quarters for nurses and supervisors.

Nominations Open Again, Primary Election Set Feb. 13

Ho, Hum. Same song, second verse.

Nominations were opened again yesterday for junior and senior class favorite and Mr. and Miss TCU. Nominations may be registered at the information desk in the Student Center lobby until Thursday.

The primary election will be held on Feb. 13 with the run-off following on Feb. 15.

The winners will be presented at the Valentine Dance on Feb. 16.

The new nominations and elections are being held because of alleged ballot irregularities resulting from duplication of nominees for two offices which took place in December's elections.

All of the elections held in December were voided by Student Court, but it later ruled that only the junior and senior favorites and Mr. and Miss TCU should be thrown out.

English College Leader Will Speak Here Today

The Rev. Roy Stuart Lee, president of Nuffield College of Oxford University, England, is to speak here this week.

The Rev. Lee took his B.A. and M.A. at the University of Sydney, Australia, and a bachelor's of Philosophy at Oxford. He taught at a theological college in Australia for two years, then returned to England for his Ph.D.

DURING WORLD WAR II he served as chaplain to No. 1 Casualty Clearing Station in London, experiencing the full brunt of the London Blitz.

The Rev. Lee has been President of Nuffield College since 1960.

He also has written two books on psychology and religion. He will speak at the following places today: the Chapel at 11 a.m.; the Student Center Ballroom to Chi Delta Mu at 12:30 p.m.; and to Brite College students and faculty at 7:30 p.m.

HE WILL SPEAK at 7 p.m. Wednesday at the Student Center in Room 205 to a general audience, and at the Student Center Room 203 to Alpha Chi and Honors Program students at 7:30 p.m.

Alpha Chi is a national honorary scholarship fraternity with membership limited to juniors and seniors.

Students in the pre-honors program include freshmen and sophomores who have high scores on College Entrance Board Examinations and who are enrolled in invitational courses.

High jumper Jacky Upton and miler Marvin Silliman will be the Frog's top threats in the games. The meet will usher in the debut of new track coach Mal Fowler who replaced J. Eddie Weems last spring.

All Southwest Conference schools except Arkansas are invited, along with many other schools, to compete in the first meet of the season.
