Dear Mr. Carter:

Many thanks for the generous lot of pecans which you rescued from the squirrels and sent to me. I am glad you did not give Will Rogers your entire crop, because I am so fond of pecans that I would have been denied the pleasure of receiving these if you had.

I see that Ma Ferguson is after your scalp. I would bet all I am worth you will win out. You couldn't lose on anything. If I could make as many friends as you have and hold their love and affection as you do, I should feel that this life was a great success.

With all good wishes for the holiday season, believe me

Very sincerely yours,
