Dear Amon:

On my recent tour, I checked daily about you and your condition and was delighted to hear that day by day you were resting and were on your way out of the hospital. Your many friends over the system inquired and I was rather proud to be the emissary of good news.

I got home to find the fine steak from the Grand Champion and, although I have not cooked it, I intend to do so tomorrow and will be thinking of you with every bite.

Thanks for remembering me again, and I will be seeing you on the afternoon of the 24th when Amon Carter Field, the finest airport in the world, is starting its dedicatory services.

Sincerely,

O. M. Mosier
