

Mr. Churchill:

Because of his admiration for your father and mother and his acquaintance with them, Mr. Amon Carter, president and publisher of The Star-Telegram, had made arrangements for you to be his guest at the Fort Worth club and to attend the rodeo also, occupying his box.

Mr. Carter has supported your parents in their fights during war-time and felt that he would like to be courteous to you on your visit here, especially after the Woman's club committee had joined with him in this plan.

He resents the way that he has been treated and also the manner in which the Woman's club committee was treated. He feels that you should have shown him and the committee the courtesy of notifying them if you had not been able to get here in time to accept the invitation and hospitality.

He would like to impress upon you the fact that Fort Worth and Fort Worth's people deserve more consideration than this.
