

September 5, 1950.

Mr. O. M. Mosier, Vice-President
American Airlines, Inc.,
100 Park Avenue
New York City, N.Y.

Dear Red:

As discussed with you during your recent trip to Fort Worth, would it be possible for you to issue some kind of card to Mr. Hugo Anderson, Vice-President of the First National Bank of Chicago, and to Mr. Glenn Forgan, Assistant Vice-President, which would give them preferential service, so-to-speak, in the matter of reservations from time to time.

The First National Bank (by the way, one of the finest banking institutions in the United States) is an excellent airline customer and someone in the organization is continuously aboard one of your planes.

I would appreciate it very much if you would contact your Reservations Manager in Chicago and ask that they get in contact, personally, with both Mr. Anderson and Mr. Forgan and arrange a plan whereby they would be able to get reservations on a must ride basis if possible. I think it would be the means of a relationship beneficial to both the American Airlines as well as the Bank.

Thanking you and with best wishes, I am

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in blue ink, appearing to read "J. I. Carey", with a horizontal line underneath.

AGC:kd