BACCALAUREATE DAY

Inspiring Address to Graduates in Literary and Special Departments.

LARGE AUDIENCE PRESENT

Greatness of This Age and The Cause Skillfully Treated.

The pastor of the First Christian Church of Oklahoma City, J. H. O. Smith, delivered a sermon at the University auditorium last Sunday night which was notably inspiring to a large audience of some seven hundred and fifty people. The sermon was delivered directly to the graduating classes of the university, who sat in cap and gowns at the feet of the speaker. The theme, if we should choose it was, "The Power of Christianity," or "The Greatness of the Present Age." The orator spoke in world terms presenting truths of universal significance and speaking as a citizen of the universe would speak.

A notable point which Rev. Smith made was that the present age vastly outstrips any age of the past, even in those things which it is often said by scholars to be lacking in viz., literature and the other arts. He said that, judging the worth of an artistic production by the great ideas it contained, America had produced the

CLARK HALL DEDICATION

Impressive Program to be Rendered Next Wednesday at 10 A. M.

Probably one of the most impressive of the many commencement programs will be held at 10 a. m., June 12, when Clark Memorial Hall is to be formally dedicated. This will mark the fourth spacious, magnificent building now on the campus reservation, all having been constructed in a little more than one year's time. Such progress speaks well for the Christian churches of Texas and the citizens of Fort Worth. The needs of the university demanded that at least one more building for the young

CONCERT MONDAY NIGHT.

The music faculty rendered their climatic program, Monday night at 8:15 o'clock in the university auditorium. It was the crowning effort of this department for the year. The very best that is to be found in music was rendered by able musicians, and all who were so unfortunate to not hear the program, indeed, have much to regret.

The following is the program as rendered:

- Concerto No. 7 ..... d'Beriot
Miss Ault
- a. Crescendo ..... Lassen
- b. From a Wandering Ice Berg Op. 55, No. 2 ..... Mac Dowell
- An Errant Princess of the North,
A Virgin, Snowy White
Sails Adown the Summer Seas
To Realms of Burning Light.
- c. Valse Mignonne.... F. A. Johnson
- Una Furtiva Lagrima ..... Donizette
Mr. Cuprien
- a. Impromptu ..... Schubert
- b. Nocturne ..... Greig
- c. March of the Dwarfs ..... Geig
Mr. Techau
- a. I Breathe Thy Name ..... Salier
- b. The Rosy Morn ..... Ronald
Mr. Cuprien

THE CLARK HALL CAMPAIGN.

One Thousand Dollars Raised Past Week.

The campaign for money with which to build Clark Memorial Hall is being pushed by Financial Agent W. M. Williams, and during the past week he secured two gifts amounting to one thousand dollars ($1,000) for this purpose. Dr. R. H. Gough of Hillsboro gave $200.00 and Mrs. H. B. Barnhart of Austin, $8.00. Sister Barnhart had previously subscribed $2.00.00 for T. C. U. this year; hence this really means $1,000.00 gift from her. These faithful friends of Christian education are also very active in the other departments of the church work; and it is a great inspiration to receive not only their gifts but their good wishes and blessings also.

THE HORNED FROG APPEARS

This Years Annual is Truly Typical of University Life.

Last Friday morning Manager Wise made it known that the eager public could obtain their annuals at the business office. Many students were already prepared with the necessary coin and immediately procured them. Between classes and during spare hours during the whole of the afternoon many interested groups of students were seen in the halls, in chapel and in unoccupied class rooms eagerly perusing the interesting pages of the new annual. And this year's annual certainly merits all the interest that the students have shown in it, for it is well edited in every way.

From cover to cover the Horned Frog shows careful and consistent work on the part of the editors. Every department is well and truly represented. Editor-in-chief Hall has easily upheld the high standard of this most important and carefully prepared publication of the university. He has succeeded in that highest attainment of making the book truly representative of the past year of the university life. Another admirable success of the publication is the entertaining qualities which it possesses. The editor and his assistants have produced agreeably able write-ups, poems and local jokes.

The work of the art editor, Joseph J. Murray, is certainly commendable. The most noticeable and successful work of this department of the book is the cartoons produced by Murray and his assistant, Ray Camp. The color plate inserts also display much skill. Many novelties are to be seen in the arrangements of the group pictures and throughout the book shows evidence of the skilled hand of a critical and discreet artist.

The representation of the athletic, oratory and religious activities deserves special mention. Each member of the staff who had charge of these matters plainly revealed the deep interest which T. C. U., in both her stu-

MRS. ALEXANDER READS

Post Graduate Recital Consists in Reading of "Polly of The Circus."

The most difficult as well as the most successful reading that has been attempted this year of all the many oratorical programs was the reading of "Polly of the Circus," rendered last Friday night, June 7, by Mrs. C. I. Alexander. Mrs. Alexander has just completed a year of post graduate work in the oratory department of the university and many features of this program showed the careful and consistent training that she has received.

To portray fourteen different characters, to give to each a separate and distinct individuality and role, to keep from giving some minor characters too much prominence, to show the relation of all the characters to the story, to keep the story always clear and prominent, to reveal the setting of each scene, and to bring to the hearers the deeper meaning of a great drama is indeed a difficult task. All of this however was admirably accomplished in this reading by Mrs. Alexander. We saw plainly the various characters connected with the show, the churchmen and churchwomen, the two negro servants as well as the hero and the heroine. We saw with our very eyes, as it were, the unfolding of a life in the little circus rider, Polly, the unpleasant experiences of John Douglas with the narrow minded church people, the brave sacrifice which the noble girl made to save her benefactor, the minister, from experiencing a breach with his people, and the noble act of the minister which saved the life of the girl he loved.

Mrs. Alexander showed plainly by her reading a high appreciation of the subject matter and a truly appropriate interpretation which easily met the approval of the audience. Her attitude toward her hearers was that of one who has a distinct message to bring them to which she expects them to listen because it vitally concerns them. Her individuality was plainly preserved throughout, there being absolutely no imitation of affectation. The reading was indeed a great success and a fitting close to her work in the department.

Another feature of the program

ANNUAL JOINT OPEN SESSION OF LITERARY SOCIETIES.

As is customary a literary program was given this year in which two representatives from each of the college literary societies took part. This program was rendered Saturday night, June 8. It was a well arranged program and very much appreciated.

The welcome address by Ray Camp was in every way appropriate as well as interesting. Camp performed the difficult task of making a short speech interesting, and he had said something when he left the stage, too.

The "Song of Loves," by Miss Ellen Parker was delivered in the delightfully pleasing manner and with the appropriate interpretation which we have learned to always expect from her.

The oration, which followed, on the subject "The Invisible Power Behind the New China," was delivered by Roy G. Tomlinson in his usual good appearance. Tomlinson discussed the success of Christianity and Christian principles in this newly modern nation.

The piano number, "To Spring" by Greig, rendered by Miss Elizabeth Henderson was much appreciated as was shown by the applause. Miss Henderson has justly won a unique place in the hearts of T. C. U. students as a musician.

A short story, treating negro life, entitled "Beware of Preachers," was very entertaining. This story by Miss Sidney King displayed much skill of the author in the story writing art. One very attractive feature was the oddity of the story.

The troubles and the perplexing situations into which a bachelor with a strange baby was thrown were all made very real to the audience by Mrs. C. I. Alexander in her reading. This was one of the most thoroughly entertaining numbers of the program, and was naturally much appreciated.

A fitting close to this program was the vocal solo, "Goodbye Sweet Day," rendered most successfully by Edwin Ewell. Successful singers have pronounced the tone quality which Ewell displayed on this occasion as excellent.

The last chapel program, which was rendered last Saturday morning, was one of the best of the year. It was successful, especially in causing us to review with much pride the year's work that has been done. The students enjoyed the scripture reading and comments by Prof. E. R. Cockrell and the splendid talk delivered by Dean W. B. Parks.

SOME SKIFF ACOMPLISHMENTS.

The first issue of the Skiff of this scholastic year contained a carefully outlined editorial showing our purposes and aims for the paper. We are proud to look over them again at this writing and to recognize that easily the majority of these have been attained, and further that other important accomplishments have been realized which at first we did not dream of accomplishing. The editors believe that we have published a truly successful series of Skiffs. Some causes which we have espoused have been favorably received and in several ways we have seen evidence of a successful and uplifting influence being exerted by the Skiff. We are thankful to know that in some measure we have contributed to the preservation and support of that intangible thing which makes our university what it is and which we call the "T. C. U. Spirit."

We leave the errors out of this discussion in the hope of giving the critic something to do. However, we have noted many that have occurred and have "pigeon-holed" them with the mark, "Warnings—for future reference." We hope to make use of them during the coming year and thus to improve much on what has been done.

THE EDITOR'S APPRECIATION.

Throughout this year many students have contributed much toward the successful publication of this paper. For all this the editor wishes to express his sincere thanks and thus add a mite to that reward for which all these generous students have worked, viz: the pleasure of serving Texas Christian University. For much encouragement the editor owes and wishes here to express many thanks to Dr. O. L. Lyon, Professor Chas. A. Exley and President Frederick D. Kershner.

To Herbert E. Bozeman, who was athletic editor during the football and baseball seasons, the Skiff owes probably more than to any other one student or faculty member. The editor remembers very distinctly that this faithful member of the staff took much interest in the Skiff while the editor was "green at the job," and on many occasions gave this "greener" the benefit of his broad newspaper experience. One of these occasions which was much appreciated was when Bozeman came privately to the editor's room and showed him about fifty definite errors in one of the early issues of the paper which could and should have been avoided. John Bateman kindly took up the thankless job of athletic editor when Bozeman could serve no longer, and has been a faithful and prompt member of the staff ever since. Not a single time has this man failed to hand in his material on time, and his writing has been of the very first quality, too. Another man who has written much along athletic lines, but whose name does not appear on the list of staff members, is J. W. Cockrill. His work has been of the highest order and was much appreciated, coming as it often did in the time of need.

Miss Bess McNeill, who has faithfully kept track of happenings at the Girls' Home for the Skiff throughout the whole year, has been at all times dependable, never casting off her Skiff duties because of other pressing responsibilities. Miss Amboline Tyson has also "made good" as editor of religious activities, and Miss Mason as editor of the music department.

Many others, not regular members of the staff, have contributed much at various times through the year that has been appreciated, some in the way of news write-ups and others in the way of interesting joke contributions. Among these has been our "European Correspondent," Prof. Egbert R. Cockrill, who has sent us several very interesting articles concerning important matters in the countries which he was visiting.

With such important and faithful assistance as we have named it is not a wonder that the Skiff has been called by good critics the best college paper in Texas, but the marvel is that it has not been a much greater success. Much credit is therefore due these of whom appreciation has been expressed.

THE SKIFF FOR SUMMER.

During the summer months Prof. Anderson, business manager of the University, will have charge of the Skiff. He will publish it weekly in a slightly reduced size and send it to anyone interested in T. C. U. for the small sum of 25 cents. Furthermore, this is one thing that "Marse Jim" will sell you on a credit. Every student knows what a welcome visitor the summer Skiff has been to their home in times past. Every student should know, too, that the Skiff is one of the best "student getters" that the University can possibly have, and that therefore he should see to it that every person of his acquaintance who is or may contemplate attending T. C. U. has a Skiff. Send in a card with a long list of names of your friends who will be interested in it, and Prof. Anderson will take care of the money part.

REGARDING OUR ADVERTISERS.

The Skiff appreciates fully the part which the Fort Worth business firms have played in the successful year which now closes. Without the aid of their advertising we could never have been able to publish this paper. Hence we are very grateful indeed to those friends and supporters of young people and of colleges for the support which they have given us. We hope that one of the first things which the students do when they return next year will be to make these our firm friends among the business men know that their friendship is appreciated by giving them the first chance at your trade.

MUSIC STUDENTS' RECITAL.

Last Thursday night a recital was given by a number of the music students of the university in the auditorium. The entire program was very much appreciated and it easily upheld the high standard of the music recitals of the year. Several numbers were given prolonged applause. The program of the evening which is given below shows the high order of the music used:

AN INTERESTING COMMENCEMENT ORATORICAL RECITAL TUESDAY.

Rarely ever have the students and friends of Texas Christian University had the pleasure of listening to so many enjoyable graduating oratory recitals. The class of graduates this year is larger than for some previous years and necessarily, they were able to give the public more entertainments. And from the first one of these down to the last, all have been of the highest character and reflect due credit upon the department.

The closing recital will be given on Tuesday night, June 11, in the university auditorium at 8:15 o'clock. This event should be the crowning effort of all past events. Just the piece most suited to the character of each individual reader will be rendered. It will be noted that the following, closing program given by the graduates consists of a number of quite interesting miscellaneous selections:

The Heart of Old Hickory ..... Drowngoole
Miss Brown
How Aunt Minerva Joined the Legislature ..... Harris
Miss Henderson
Binni ..... Kipling
Mr. Ferguson
An Abandoned Elopement ..... Martin
Mrs. Alexander
A Vinandiere's Sacrifice ..... De La Rames
(Cutting from "Under Two Flags")
Miss Kinsey
Oration—The Master Men ..... R. G. T.

True Strong, a T. C. U. student of '11, visited at the University last week.

Miss Leta Pitts is the guest of Jo Cannon.

Don't forget to pay that Skiff subscription to Tomlinson TODAY.

Miss Dyne of Whitewright is spending commencement with Mildred Anderson.

Mrs. Murray of Sulphur Springs is the guest of her son, Joe.

Earl and Leroy Gough, both of the class of '11, are visiting during commencement.

Burl B. Hulsey left his work as manager of a cotton mill in Central Texas long enough to visit during commencement.

Prof. Egbert R. Cockrell arrived in time to hear the greater part of the commencement program. Prof. Cockrell has been spending the past year in study with his family in England, France and Holland. Both he and Mrs. Cockrell will be in their old places as Professor of History and Political Science and head of the Art Department respectively at the opening of the next year.

Bill Massie, Pete Wright and Nap Barnard were all up from Dallas Sunday. The bankers could not remain for any of the programs.

Don't forget to get that Horned Frog at the office. You will enjoy it during the whole summer and it will be one of the most entertaining books you could possibly show your friends.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Murray, with their two sons, Ray and Daniel, are visiting their son, Joe, and will have the pleasure of seeing this son Joseph participate in several of the programs during the commencement exercises.

It is time to get that Horned Frog. You will find it at the business office.

Be sure to buy one of the best annuals that has ever been published at Texas Christian University. You will find that at the business office.

The Senior class has put out a splendid and creditable annual. They deserve your support financially as well as sympathetically. Buy one of the books and enjoy yourself as well as show your loyal spirit.

SECRETARY BRYANT OF LOCAL Y. M. C. A. ADDRESSES T. C. U. STUDENTS.

In the University Auditorium during the regular period Wednesday morning Secretary Bryant of the Fort Worth Young Men's Christian Association delivered a much appreciated address to an audience of students and faculty members. His theme was, "Why People Should Study the Bible." He included in his talk a discussion of the Bible as a great book of history, literature and morals. Then several strong points were made as to why a Christian should be a careful student of the great book.

HORNED FROG CRAWLS OUT FROM PRINT SHOP ON MORN OF JUNE 7.

Business Manager Wise under innumerable adverse circumstances has financed the proposition in a most skillful manner. The manager-ship of any publications in Texa Christian University is conceded to be the most thankless and yet the hardest work that a student could have. It was evident early in the year that only little help could be depended upon from the business men of Fort Worth, but resourceful Wise immediately set about, undaunted, to secure glee clubs and other performances all of which returned something, though little in "Horned Frog money." Finally he succeeded in doing what many had pronounced impossible in securing a very appreciable support from many business firms in the city. His work in financing such a costly and well arranged annual deserves great praise.

greatest poetry of any age. The speaker further showed how that Christianity had produced wonderful changes in the life of nations, and that not only a classical education was necessary to fit the present day young man for future service, but that he must be a student of those great truths laid down by Christ. He said in regard to the ministry that the day of the weakling, and the fellow who was too light for heavy work and too heavy for light work in the pulpit had passed. He divided people into two classes; those who were in the world to get all they could out of it and those who were living in it to contribute all they possibly could to it, stating that the ministers as a class were giving more to the world than they got out of it.

Rev. Smith expressed much appreciation of the bright dreams held dear by the young people before him and hoped that each person would reach a realization better than his own present dreams.

Rev. Smith had a charming delivery, having a rare command of language and a melodious voice. His sermon contained much of the humorous vein as well as well-expressed and appreciable truths.

The Baccalaureate program as it was rendered was opened with the doxology by the congregation, after which Rev. L. D. Anderson lead the invocation. A song followed and then the reading of the Scripture lesson by Dr. Clinton Lockhart. Rev. E. M. Waites followed with an earnest prayer, and then the T. C. U. Octette sang Pleyel's Hymn. The audience then listened to a few announcements by Dean Parks before the Octette sang "Sweetly Resting." Then followed the interesting sermon which we have reviewed. At the close of this Prof. F. W. Culprien sang "Just as I Am," by Hawley in his most attractive manner. After the hymn "Abide with Me," Rev. W. M. Williams pronounced the benediction.

which served to relieve the audience of the strain of the tense drama which was being presented to them, as well as to allow the reader a short rest between the second and third acts was the vocal solo rendered by Miss Willie Theford. She sang "In the Dark, in the Dew," which contained a most appropriate and beautiful sentiment for the occasion, that of gratitude. The song was for a mezzo voice and thus allowed the low rich tones of the singer to express this sentiment in a most pleasing manner.

SHIRLEY SOCIETY ELECTS OFFICERS.

At a regular meeting of the Shirley Literary Society recently officers were elected for the first term of the coming scholastic year. Clifton Ferguson was chosen to lead the society as president for the opening term. John P. Cox, prominent in athletic circles, will act as vice president. J. W. Cockrill, who served for the past term as vice president, was made secretary. E. Bufford Isaacs of Midland was elected treasurer, and, according to custom, the retiring president, Ray Camp, was made sergeant-at-arms.

Four of the above named men will be Seniors in the Literary Department next year and the other will be a Sophomore. Every man has proven his worth in many ways in the past and much is expected of their work, because of the hearty co-operation which they will have from their fellow society men.

Stay until the last word is said and get the full benefit of a splendid commencement program.

Miss Vera Heath, an old T. C. U. student, stopped off a day or two last week on her way to attend the Denton Summer Normal. Vera has just closed a successful year's work at teaching.

Many students still owe the Skiff subscription. This is a matter which in all fairness to yourself and the Skiff should be settled at once.

If you owe your subscription you should pay it at once. Roy G. Tomlinson or Ferguson will receive it.

Clark Hall Dedication

men be constructed before the opening of another school year. At the beginning of school last fall every available room for men was taken and with present prospects decidedly more rooming quarters will be required next September, hence Clark Hall, which is being erected, will necessarily be completed and equipped by the time it will be needed.

The laying of the corner stone should be the most impressive because of what the new building will mean to Christian education in the State. And again it will be impressive because of the memories it will refreshen of one who helped to found the university, and of one who has done most for the school. The following is the program to be rendered on that occasion:

Song—America.
Resolutions of Board as to Clark Memorial Hall, T. E. Tomlinson, President Board.
Address, Maj. J. J. Jarvis.
Song—Clark Literary Society.
Brief Address—Randolph Clark Placing Stone.
Prayer.
