Tickets are $1.50 per person, and may be purchased from Mrs. Mary Madux in the Brite College office, and in Dr. Noel Keith's office in Undergraduate Religion.

It is the purpose of the Ministers' Wives Club to provide programs of interest and spiritual and intellectual enrichment for the student minister's wife, according to Mrs. Charles Kemp and Mrs. Elmer Henson, club sponsors.

Young Democrats To Sponsor Talk

Congressman Jim Wright, who represents Tarrant County in Washington, will speak in Will Rogers Auditorium at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Although sponsored by the Young Democrats, Wright will give a non-partisan talk explaining his job in Congress.

Dr. John F. Haltom of the government department announced that government classes which meet at the time of the talk will be in attendance.

School Gets Grant for Institute

The University has received a $91,400 grant from the National Science Foundation in Washington, D.C., according to Chancellor M. E. Sadler.

The purpose of this grant is to conduct a Summer institute for high school teachers of science and mathematics.

Dr. Ben T. Goldbeck, Jr., associate professor of mathematics, will be director of the Summer Institute, which will be held on the TCU campus for six weeks, June 6-July 15, 1960. This will be the second year the university will sponsor the institute.

Graduate-seminar level courses will be offered in four fields: physics, mathematics, chemistry and biology. Instructors for the courses will be from TCU, with guest lectures and seminars to be given by outstanding scientists from over the nation.

Six hours of graduate credit may be earned during the six-week course, or the program may be taken on a non-credit basis.

Dr. Golbeck states that the objectives of the program include: 1. To improve the subject-matter competence of the participating teachers;

2. To strengthen the capacity of these teachers for motivating able students to consider careers in science;

3. To bring these teachers into personal contact with prominent scientists who participate in the Institute, with a view to stimulating the interest of the teachers; and

4. To create greater mutual understanding appreciation of each other's problems among teachers of science and mathematics at both the high school and college levels.

Applications for admission to the Summer Institute must be received by TCU not later than Feb. 15 to assure consideration. Applicants who are accepted will receive stipends for travel and living expenses during the course as well as tuition costs.

International College Life Viewed by Students Here

"An International View of College Life" is the subject this week as international students here give their impressions of American life.

These talks are being held each day this week, except on Tuesday, Room 215 of the Student Center. They are sponsored by the Baptist Student Union.

Andrew Takahisa, a graduate student from Japan, was the speaker on Monday. He compared college social life in America to that of a Japanese university.

Takahisa received his B.A. degree in 1954 from Gakugei University in Tokyo and currently is working toward his Master of Fine Arts degree at TCU.

Today the feature speaker will be Anant R. Negandhi, a graduate from the University of Bombay, India. "A College Education in America as Compared to a College Education in India," will be his subject.

Negandhi is working on his Master of Arts degree in economics at the present time.

"Comparing the Religions of Jordan and American Campuses" will be viewed by Suhail Matalaka of Madaba, Jordan tomorrow. Matalaka will receive his B.A. in psychology in January.

Rounding out the week's programs on Friday is Jeanette Potter, a Fort Worth sophomore. Miss Potter, majoring in history, will speak on "Building Better Relationships with International Students."

COFFEE TIME

The Activities Council hospitality committee will honor the School of Education with a "Coffee Time" from 3 to 4 p.m. this afternoon in the upper lobby of the Student Center.

Dean Smith to Represent University at Conference

Dr. Laurence C. Smith, dean of students, left Tuesday to represent the University at the Institutional USAF Conference on Air Force ROTC affairs at Maxwell Air Force Base in Montgomery, Ala.

Lt. General Walter E. Todd, Commander of Air University at Maxwell Field, stated that the purpose of the conference is "to establish a better working relationship between the Air Force and all the institutions which participate in the Air Force ROTC program."

General Todd's proposal for the conference was approved by the Secretary of the Air Force on the basis that the conference would provide a forum in which the conferees could consider "the formation of a standing group of institutional representatives, to be available on call to consult with the key Air Force officials on AFROTC problems.

"If such a group is to be regarded as representative and authoritative; its members must be selected by all 176 of the participating institutions."

The first purpose of these present actions is to give all present a common appreciation of the scope and complexity of problems facing both the institutions and the Air Force.

Second, these problems are the type of which mutually satisfactory solutions can be achieved through joint consultation and agreement between appropriate Air Force officials and the prospective standing group of institutional representatives.

Dickens Play To Be Given By Fine Arts

The School of Fine Arts will present "A Christmas Carol" at 11 a.m. Tuesday in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

The Charles Dickens play, adapted and directed by Marc McCrary, will be a 45-minute reading where the cast members assume several different characters.

Two of the members of the cast are Beverly White, Jonesville, La. graduate and Roger Puckett, Houston senior, as narrators.

Gary Cooper in 'Cordura' Learns What Courage Is

By J'NELL ROGERS

"They Came to Cordura," currently playing at the Hollywood, is a picture with a big cast, tremendous acting and a realistic plot. Starring are Gary Cooper, Van Heflin, Tab Hunter, Rita Hayworth and Richard Conte.

The picture relates a man's discovery of courage in reality—that it comes from the heart, not from heroic deeds.

Gary Cooper plays an awards officer whose job is to observe the soldiers fighting Pancho Villa's raiders in Mexico in 1916, and to choose men worthy of receiving the Congressional Medal of Honor.

Cooper isn't too effective but this is more than compensated for by Rita Hayworth's fine performance as an unglamorous lady without a country.

The fact that the movie is so realistic in setting and true to life keeps it from having much of a plot.

One shouldn't miss "The Wreck of the Mary Deare," due soon in second-run houses. This sea-faring motion picture has forceful acting, suspense and a good plot.

Gary Cooper and Charlton Heston team together to give the movie-going audience one of the best two-man performances ever seen on the screen.

Heston, a ship salvage wrecker, discovers the Mary Deare during a storm at sea. He boards the ship, which is deserted except for her captain, Gary Cooper.

How these two men face the coming terrors provides the action from this point on. There is enough realistic acting to hold the audience spellbound for the entire two hours.

Sneak preview goes last Sunday night saw Frank Sinatra and Gina Lollobrigida emote in the cinemascope production, "Never So Few," a film version of a recent best seller. Those who have read the book will be surprised to find that the mood, action and continuation there is maintained in the show. Casting and character portrayal are excellent. This movie is a must for those who like their shows realistic and moving.

Opening today at the 7th Street will be "The Man Who Understood Women," with Henry Fonda and Leslie Caron.

"Tamango," a story which deals with the slave trade, opens tomorrow at the Bowie. The story deals mainly with a slave's struggle with the sea captain, played by Curt Jurgens.

A love affair between a white man and a Negro girl is another feature of the movie, causing it to be banned in some places. Dorothy Dandridge co-stars.

A remake of the biggest silent picture ever made, "Ben Hur" will open Dec. 18 at the Tower Theatre in Dallas.

The picture, which cost 15 million dollars to make, tells the story of people who lived during the period between the birth and death of Christ. Slave galleys, chariot races and sea battles provide some of the action in this dramatic movie.

This picture is a religious story combined with exciting fiction and a very beautiful love story.

Charlton Heston, Jack Hawkins and Stephen Boyd along with Martha Scott and Cathy O'Donnell are a few of the stars in this "cast of thousands" motion picture. Advance reserve tickets must be obtained by mail order or at the Central Ticket office downtown.

"Beloved Infidel," the true love story of Sheilah Graham, Hollywood columnist, and F. Scott Fitzgerald, noted author, is due to open Friday at the Worth Theatre.

Gregory Peck and Deborah Kerr star in this movie which takes an intimate glimpse into two lives.

Moving on down to the Palace Friday for its third week at a downtown theater will be "A Summer Place." This story, concerning the love affairs originating from Pine Island, Maine, is really packing them in.

TO CHAPERONE?

An upperclassman was relating the fact that he had a date with his girl friend a certain night. "The three of us will have a very good time," he said.

"Three?" a friend asked. "Yes," the student replied, "my parents are out of town and I have to take the dog along."

Rifle Team Places Second

The Army ROTC rifle team fired its way into a second-place position in the annual Fourth Army Area rifle matches at Fort Hood last Saturday.

Firing in the meet were Army ROTC teams from high schools, junior colleges and colleges all over the Texas area. The ROTC team fired against eight college teams.

TCU scored 3612 points, falling before first-place Arlington State's 3750. A&M placed third with 3595.

Joe Huddleston, Fort Worth senior and team captain, won individual honors as high-point man for the match. Huddleston fired 385 out of a possible 400 points.

Other members making the trip were Ray Leuty, Fort Worth senior; Willis Murphy Jr., Fort Worth junior; Gaylord Tate, Muleshoe senior; James Carter, Fort Worth junior; Chester Sullivan, Fort Worth junior and Cullen Turner, Fort Worth sophomore.

DR. FROOD ON A CURIOUS DECISION

There is considerable talk in tobacco circles about the introduction of new cigarette flavors. It is expected that you will soon be able to buy cottage-cheese cigarettes, sarsaparilla cigarettes and fresh-garden-vegetable cigarettes. You will be happy to know that Lucky Strike has decided to stick with its own remarkable taste—that of fine tobacco only. A pleasant decision, I'd say.

Applications Are Available For Park Jobs

College students desiring summer employment in the national parks are urged to complete application blanks which are available in Thurman Morgan's office in Brite College.

The blanks will be used as a basis for interviews to be conducted by Jay G. Williams, associate director of the Christian Ministry in the National Parks, when he visits Brite College on Dec. 16.

Williams will be here from 4 to 10 p.m. to give a general presentation concerning the program before interviewing the students.

Seminary students interested in a position should have preaching experience and organizational ability.

College students should have special ability in at least one of the following areas: music, recreation, Bible study, drama, publicity or Christian Education.

The program is sponsored by the department of Evangelism of the National Council of the Churches of Christ.

Jobs are open to both men and women, who are provided with room and board, but they must pay for transportation to and from the parks.

Most jobs run from the first of June to September 10, and all students are required to stay until their contract terminates.

Several times each week in the parks, services are conducted for the thousands of people isolated from immediate contact with churches. The student workers organize and conduct these programs after working hours.

Death Days or Holidays?

Before long students will be packing their bags and starting their trips home for the Christmas holidays.

Some trips will be short—others long and tiresome. Those planning to drive are reminded to exercise the greatest precautions against traffic accidents. Over and over they have been reminded, but without a doubt, some will be involved in one.

The greatest precaution anyone can take is to be alert and careful. "Watch out for the 'other fellow'." "Observe all traffic laws." These words of advice have been pounded into people for years, but there are still thousands killed each year.

Our Safety Officials are doing all within their power to reduce fatalities and injuries to American people. It can't be left entirely up to them. Individual drivers must take heed and watch out for themselves. They scorn the police for giving tickets and using radar sets to control speeding the way a burglar scorns a burglar alarm.

Every student, in his own mind, thinks he is able to drive as well as the next one, and that he is able to handle his vehicle at any speed which he chooses to drive.

Even if they are expert drivers, the unforeseen may occur without warning any time, and the most expert driver may not be able to avoid an accident.

Safety, safety, and more safety practiced by students during the holidays is the only thing that will protect them from a mishap.

Those who are thoughtless and careless but able to get through unharmed will just have to wait later to get theirs.

To Buy or Not to Buy

"No corsages please." This statement appears with regularity upon posters advertising the school dances throughout the year. The idea behind the statement has been to promote better attendance at the dances.

The Activities Council dance committee figures that the financially embarrassed men will frequent the Ballroom more if flowers are not required. To this idea we agree but there are other thoughts on the matter.

Since there are only two or three so called "big dances" during the school year, why not let there be an option on the presentation of flowers.

Most dancers could afford the corsages for the few special dances and would appreciate the idea of giving their dates flowers for the sole purpose of affection if for no other reason.

Don't Stop Now

The Frogs have upheld half of their dual championship performances of last year by taking a share of the Southwest Conference title in football. Now comes the other half . . . basketball.

After two frustrating defeats in three starts the student body rallied around the Frogs and produced the largest crowd of the season to cheer the Frogs to a big victory over A&M. This gathering of the Frog clan carried on through the season, through rain, wind, sleet and cold weather.

Support doesn't stop there—the cage season is here. There won't be any wind, rain or sleet in Public School's Gym, but the TCU spirit will be there.

What's the Purpose?

By BETH MORRIS

If we can't have a trophy, why have a Committee? What would be the purpose of the Sportsmanship Committee?

When the University of Texas moved to do away with the Sportsmanship award last spring they said the steps were "being taken for a more mature attitude toward Southwest Conference spirit, sportsmanship, cooperation and exchange of ideas."

Now that an "exchange of ideas" has taken over, some believe the attitude of sportsmanship has disappeared.

Striving to win and the idea of competition put life into the Conference, but the Trophy was an added spark. It served to remind students there was a Code of Conduct existent in the SWC.

The procedure of voting for a winner in some cases was faulty—committee members were out to work their school into the winner's spotlight.

As stated in the old constitution of the SWCSC, the members judged a school's spirit of sport by a deserving number of points ranging from one (for excellent conduct) to six (very poor).

Records later revealed that in the spring meeting of 1958, after voting on the basketball season, TCU didn't stand a chance. Rice, Arkansas and SMU led in the balloting, but winter tallies at the Cotton Bowl, after a good football season, proved different.

In the revised constitution, the procedure was knocked out entirely and a new section added; it states—"The Trophy is a symbol of the chairmanship of the committee and the work it must supply in being chairman."

It doesn't matter anymore if we go to a Conference school and stage a riot, so long as TCU is the chairman that year, we've got a trophy to prove what good sports we are.

Similarly, if trophies are being awarded for work on the committee, why not give one to the Cotton Bowl Committee or to a few of the other groups that work so diligently throughout the year to make events successful?

Now all the Committee does is meet twice a year, have a good time at someone else's expense and discuss Conference behavior.

The uniqueness of the Trophy has vanished, and like the man said, the Committee is useless and is hanging "onto the coattail of the Cotton Bowl Committee with certainly no excuse to do so."

Observing a few scenes between classes . . . that was a big line down at the Ticket Office for BB Bowl ducats, but the groans were bigger after their early morning purchases . . . keep your eyes open for the best-dressed girl on campus, people, we'll be asking for your nomination in the near future . . . how about the guy wandering around campus looking for a lost book of baseball statistics (how about it, Brock?) . . . two more Skiffs, until Christmas.

TECH—

According to the Toreador, one of Tech's residents is unhappy about leaving the premises:

"Elmer, the reluctant chimpanzee, was evicted from his cage Monday afternoon after a long hard fight.

"Dr. Sylvan Kaplan, head of the psychology department, presented Elmer to the Fort Worth Zoo. The large black chimp was no longer needed for experimental purposes and was too expensive to keep as a pet. Elmer, however, had no intention of leaving his cage.

"Dr. Kaplan and his assistants begged, pleaded and cajoled, but Elmer turned a deaf ear. To the delight of a gathering of students, teachers and wide-eyed kindergarten children, Elmer screamed, cooed, scowled, rattled the bars and swung from the roof of his cage."

I don't blame him. Elmer had a fellowship and an offer to head the psychology department before they found out who he really was.

RICE—

The Thresher reports of disciplinary action taken in the case of five students who apparently entered a girls dormitory:

"Final action by the colleges concerning the invasion of Jones College by five freshmen Oct. 19 has been taken.

"The five, four from Will Rice and one from Wiess, have been placed under room arrest for two weeks until the beginning of the Thanksgiving holidays; then they will be confined to the campus from the end of the Thanksgiving holidays until the beginning of the Christmas holidays. The Will Rice slimes have been placed on disciplinary probation and the Wiess boy on College probation.

"During the room arrest period, the frosh will not be allowed outside of their rooms except for class, labs and meals."

Good grief! I hope their rooms have indoor plumbing!

TEXAS—

The Daily Texan tells of court action which recently occurred in Austin:

"A 21-year-old former Austin State School student charged with attempting to criminally assault a University coed last month has been adjudged insane.

"The judgment was made after Dr. David Wade, a psychiatrist, described the man as having a 'very low IQ' and as being the victim of 'hero delusions'. Dr. Wade recommended that he be committed to a mental hospital.

"The state, which had instigated criminal proceedings against the man, did not contest the insanity proceedings."

Surely the man should be committed, but what will the University do for another biology instructor?

The Daily Texan also relates of a thrilling discovery in the field of science:

"A new magnetic bottle which may provide greater stability for containing hot ionized gases in magnetic fields is under experimentation at General Dynamics Corporation."

Just think of it! Bottled lectures!

Psychology Expert Speaks on Anxiety

Dr. Raymond B. Cattell, international authority in the area of human personality and social psychology, will give the invited address before the eleventh annual meeting of the Texas Psychological Association to be held in Fort Worth tomorrow through Saturday.

Dr. Cattell will speak on "The Psychophysiology of Anxiety" at the annual banquet scheduled at 8 p.m. Friday, in the Gold Ballroom of the Hotel Texas, convention headquarters.

Dr. Saul B. Sells, professor of psychology, here, is program chairman for the convention. C. J. Firkins, director of the University's Testing and Guidance Center, is in charge of local arrangements.

Registration will begin in the Hotel Texas lobby at 3 p.m. tomorrow. Student members of the TCU chapter of Psi Chi, national honor society for psychology majors, will be in charge of registration.

The first general session is scheduled at 9:15 a.m. Friday in the hotel ballroom, with Chancellor M. E. Sadler making the welcoming address. Dr. Carl F. Hereford, president of the Texas Psychological Association, will make a report on the organization's activities. Dr. Hereford is research director of the Austin Community Guidance Center.

TV OR NOT TV

The academic world has made its first tentative steps into television—a few lectures, a few seminars, a few lab demonstrations—but colleges have not yet begun to use television's vast capacity to dramatize, to amuse, to stir the senses, to unshackle the imagination. Like, for example, the following:

ANNOUNCER: Howdy, folksies. Well, it's time again for that lovable, laughable pair, Emmett Twonkey Magruder, Ph. D., and Felicia May Crimscott, M.A., in that rollicking, roistering fun show, American History 101... And here they are—the team that took the "hiss" out of "history"—Emmett Twonkey Magruder and Felicia May Crimscott!

DR. MAGRUDER: Howdy, folksies. A funny thing happened to me on the way to my doctorate. A mendicant approached me and said, "Excuse me, sir, will you give me 25 cents for a sandwich?" and I replied, "Perhaps I will, my good man. Let me see the sandwich."

"What-um You-um Want-um?"

MISS CRIMSCOTT: Oh, how droll, Dr. Magruder! How delicious! You're a regular Joe Penner!... But enough of badinage. Let us turn to our rollicking, roistering fun show, American History 101.

DR. MAGRUDER: Today we will dramatize the taut and tingling story of John Smith and Pocahontas. I will play Captain Smith and Miss Magruder will play Pocahontas.

ANNOUNCER: But first a message from our sponsor... Folksies, have you tried Alpine Cigarettes yet? Have you treated yourself to that fresh filtration, that subtle coolness, that extra-long, extra-efficient filter? Have you? Hmmm?... If not, wake your tobacconist and get some Alpines at once!... And now to our grim and gripping story. Picture, if you will, a still summer night. An Indian maid stands by a moonlit brook. Suddenly she hears a footstep behind her. She turns...

MISS CRIMSCOTT: Oh! John Smith! You-um startle-um me-um!

DR. MAGRUDER: Howdy, Pocahontas. What are you doing by the brook?

MISS CRIMSCOTT: Just washing out a few scalps. But what-um you-um want-um?

DR. MAGRUDER: I came to see the Chief.

MISS CRIMSCOTT: You-um can't-um. Chief is leaving for Chicago.

DR. MAGRUDER: On what track?

ANNOUNCER: And speaking of tracks, stay on the right track with Alpines—the track that leads straight to smoking pleasure, to fun, to frolic, to sweet content... And now back to those two gassers, Emmett Twonkey Magruder and Felicia May Crimscott.

DR. MAGRUDER: Well, folksies, that's all for today. See you next week, same time, same channel.

MISS CRIMSCOTT: Stay tuned now for "William Cullen Bryant—Girl Intern."

ANNOUNCER: And remember, folksies, there was a time when you needed to smoke two cigarettes to get what you get from one Alpine—one cigarette for light menthol, one for high filtration. Today you can get it all in a single Alpine, which means you no longer have to go around smoking two cigarettes at a time, causing your friends to snigger, and violating the fire laws.

And speaking of TV, remember to watch Max Shulman's "The Many Loves of Dobie Gillis" on CBS every Tuesday night—presented by Marlboro Cigarettes, from the makers of Philip Morris and Alpine.

However, the Frogs left the court during the half with the score 39-30 in favor of the OCU team. As the second half opened, the Purple cagers fought back to lead early in the fourth quarter, but were outlasted by the Redskins.

After the game with Tulsa, the Frogs take off on a tour that will carry them to Des Moines, Iowa for a game with Drake University, then to Minneapolis, Minn., to play Creighton University and back to Tulsa for the last game of the road trip.

TCU starts conference play Jan. 5 against the Arkansas Razorbacks at Fayetteville, but during the holidays, the "Brannonmen" will participate in the annual SWC tourney in Houston Dec. 28-30.

All-America List Totals 18 at TCU

The selection of tackle Donald Floyd and fullback Jack Spikes to All-America teams this fall brings the list of Frog All-Americans to 18 since 1927.

Floyd's pick on the LOOK Magazine team last season and his choice on the UPI and Coaches' elevens this fall, makes him the first Frog ever to be selected as an All-America in two successive years.

Raymond (Rags) Matthews was the first TCU griddy to make the national teams when he was chosen as an end in 1927.

In 1932, Johnny Vaught, the present day Mississippi coach, earned All-America at a guard position. Darrell Lester followed in 1934 by grabbing the nation's top ranking as a center.

"Slingshot" Sammy Baugh won recognition as one of the games greatest passers in 1936 and was an easy choice for the national honors.

The 1938 national championship team produced three players as All-Americans. Davy O'Brien as quarterback, Ki Aldrich earned recognition as an outstanding center and L. B. Hale rated a tackle spot.

During World War II, Darrell Palmer received the coveted honor for his great tackle play.

The year 1944 found Clyde Flowers pulling down another All-America post at tackle and Lindy Berry got national mention in 1949 for his brilliant direction of Dutch Meyer's spread formation attack.

The 1951 SWC champions produced three who got various honors. They included Keith Flowers at center, tackle Doug Conaway and tailback Ray McKown.

Jim Swink, the famed "Rusk Rambler," was a cinch for the honors in 1955 when he led the nation in scoring with 125 points. Center Hugh Pitts also got some All-America mentions that year for his fierce linebacking.

Tackle continued to be a good spot for Frog greats when Norman Hamilton was named to several national teams. Floyd continued the tackle tradition last year and was joined by Spikes this year.

TCU has had its share of All-Americans and can expect many more to follow the tradition.

interest. If anyone has a complete answer—that will protect the rights of the schools and the deserving viewers—the NCAA will be happy to have it. But it's not enough to say 'it should be televised' just because we want to see it. There's much more involved."

Merci, Mr. Melton. Your 'epistle' clears up many doubts and false facts concerning televised football. As was said, there probably is no perfect answer. However, if a member of the viewing audience thinks he has a solution, perhaps he would be interested enough to send it to the Sports staff.

TCU HOSTS TULSA TONIGHT

● BALLIN' THE JACK ●

By Jack Harkrider

Television and the NCAA.

Amos Melton, assistant to the Chancellor of TCU, had a recent conversation with Howard Grubbs, official of the Southwest Conference and member of the NCAA Television Committee. Naturally the subject was televised football games.

According to Melton, Grubbs outlined the NCAA's stand on televised football games and Melton passed this along, in reply to a recent column.

"Here are the facts," Melton states in his letter. "The NCAA Committee sets up a program of 13 Saturdays during the football season. Of these, it is agreed that nine will be nation-wide telecasts of one game and four Saturdays will be used for 'regional' shows—when top games of each region may be telecast in that region. The whole package is sold to a network which, in turn, sells it to a sponsor with the provision that said sponsor may pick the nine national games to be carried.

"This year for Thanksgiving, the sponsor chose the ill-fated N. C.-Duke affair. There was nothing anyone could do about it from a national standpoint.

"Now, the only exception possible is what the NCAA calls the 'no-conflict, sell-out situation'. This provides that if a game is a sellout 48 hours before kickoff, it may be televised in the home cities of the competing teams—providing another game is not being played in that area which would be hurt. In the case of the Texas-Aggie game, that meant it could have been aired in Austin and Houston (counted as A&M's hometown). But the University of Houston was playing there the same day, so TV was barred in Houston. So, only Austin could have carried the game. There was no way Fort Worth or Dallas could have had the game under the rules, since the national sponsors had selected a game for nation-wide showing. The fact Texas had been on TV twice had nothing to do with it.

"You also mention the 'near sellouts' and boy, we should know about them, having faced the problem several times. On two occasions in recent years, TCU has been near a sellout for a certain game. Fans coming to buy tickets late—when only end zone seats were left—would ask the big question. Is it going to be televised? If so, they, they said, we'll just sit home and watch it rather than buy end zone seats. You can't blame them, of course, but the result is that the game would never be sold out.

"If we assured them the game would not be telecast and they went ahead and bought tickets—yet on game day, it was televised, we were accused bitterly of breaking faith. As a matter of fact, we have had TV stations (anxious to televise a game) actually buy up the last 1,000 or so tickets so it would be a sellout.

"Pretty confusing, I'll admit. But a great many folks have been wrestling with the problem for a great many years. Not one would say they have the perfect answer. I doubt there is one.

"But keep in mind that under present rules, a game can't be televised just because it is a sellout—or not. If it's a nationally selected game by the sponsor, it goes on whether or not—and the stations that have contracted to carry the NCAA package must carry it. On 'Regional Weeks', there's more latitude and any game selected for that region may be carried.

"On the 'no-conflict, sell-out situation', the game may be carried by another station in the two hometowns—provided they're sold out 48 hours in advance and no other team is playing in that area which would be hurt.

"Oh yes. One more point. You say money received for TV under the above (not a National-Regional game) would pay for the unsold seats. Not so. In such cases, the fee is usually very nominal and just enough to cover installation of wires, etc. At least that has been so in our case.

"Forgive the length of this epistle. But there's so much confusion about this thing that I thought it might be of

Loss of the 1958-59 starting basketball team (pictured above) through graduation, has left head coach Buster Brannon with a rebuilding problem. Defending SWC cage champions, the Frogs now hold a 1-1 record and are expected to have a stronger team than predicted in pre-season ratings.

Wogs to Tackle Tarleton Tonight

The TCU Wogs will challenge Tarleton State College tonight in their first home game of the year.

Scheduled to start at 6 p.m. in the Public Schools' Gym, the Wogs will be led into action by Alton Adams, a 6-9 skyscraper, who leads the Wogs in scoring.

In their first outing, the freshmen downed Lon Morris Junior College, 87-75, to post their first win over the school in four years.

Adams led the game in scoring with 24 points and nabbed 19 rebounds off the backboards. Alton Fowler, former Fort Worth Poly star, was the second high scorer, sinking ten field goals and two free throws, to total 22 points.

Pete Houck surprised the fans by entering the game in the final half and scoring 14 points in nine minutes.

Frosh Coach Johnny Swaim feels his team has more potential than recent Wog cagemen and is expecting them to have a successful season.

Included on the freshman schedule are the following games:

- Dec. 15, Lon Morris at Jacksonville.
- Jan. 9, A&M at Fort Worth.
- Jan. 3, Tarleton at Stephenville.
- Feb. 3, SMU at Fort Worth.
- Feb. 6, Texas at Austin.
- Feb. 9, Baylor at Waco.
- Feb. 17, Baylor at Fort Worth.
- Feb. 20, SMU at Dallas.
- Feb. 29, A&M at College Station.
- March 3, Texas at Fort Worth.

Frogs Seek Second Win For Season

TCU will meet the University of Tulsa tonight in the Public Schools Gym for the third game of the season.

The Frog dribblers started the season with a bang by beating Austin College 65-47 and then traveled to Oklahoma City to meet the OCU Chiefs. After falling behind 12 points early in the game, the Frogs came back to lead in the closing minutes, but were finally beaten, 69-64.

The Chiefs downed the Frogs, using practically the same team they had last year. Suffering only minor losses after graduation, the Chiefs have one of the strongest teams in this region.

Frog guard Jerry Pope was high-point man with 16, and is considered improved since last year. Center Don Williams cleared the backboards to lead the Frogs in rebounding, while piling up 13 points and was a vital part in the second-half recovery by the Frogs.

The Chiefs' high scorer was Center Harry Vines, who racked up 23 points, with many of the shots coming from near center court.

Gene Tsoodle, a Kiowa contribution to the Chiefs, was one of the big features of the game. He played very little, but dumped six of eight field goals from the floor and wound up with a total of 13 points.

The SWC defending champs got off to a bad start when the Chiefs gained a 23-8 lead at the end of nine minutes of play.
