SECOND TRIO CHOSEN FOR CONFERENCE

For the second consecutive year, three TCU seniors have been chosen to participate in the National Business Tomorrow Conference, sponsored by Princeton University. "Investing in Human Capital" will be the theme for the Oct. 10-13 session in Chicago.

Selected for 1991 are Catherine Karpinski, political science/international relations major from Lenexa, KS; Virginia Ridgley, English/political science major from Wylie; and Karen Yeh, chemistry major from Euless.

"It is difficult for even one student to be selected," said Dean of Students Libby Proffer in announcing TCU's 1991 participants, "and this is the second year in a row that the University has had three chosen."

Last year TCU was represented by economics major Andrew Black, biology major Bryan Cannon and social work major Laura Whitworth. All were graduated with honors in May.

Paul Timothy Schmidt and Taryn Glivinsky were chosen from TCU in 1989 and 1987, respectively.

The conference is limited to 200 students selected from colleges and universities across the nation. Structured around speakers, panels and small discussions emphasizing interaction between students and nationally known executives, the meeting will focus on different ways companies are striving to integrate minorities and create a more team-oriented environment. All expenses are paid for the participants.

Confirmed speakers for the October conference include Richard Mahoney, chairman and chief executive officer of Monsanto; Charlene Hunter-Gault of the MacNeil Lehrer News Hour; Grace Pastiak, plant manager of Tellabs; and Ralph Stayer, chairman and CEO of Foods.

Leadership qualities of Catherine, Virginia and Karen are evident in their participation in campus activities. All were chosen last fall for Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities.

A transfer from Boston University, Catherine is active in the Pre-Law Association, Interlock, College Republicans and Student Foundation. She is a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority. An orientation student adviser last summer, she is a volunteer teacher of Spanish in a Fort Worth magnet school.

Also active in the Pre-Law Association, Virginia is a member of Golden Key Honor Society and R.O.A.D. Workers and participates in the Honors Program. The Student Foundation member serves as a Campus Mentor, is active in Interlock and serves on the Residence Hall Council.

Karen, also in Golden Key and the Honors Program, has been a study leader of Campus Crusade for Christ and active in International Student Association. She also has been a study leader for Alpha Epsilon Delta, the pre-health honor society.

SOVIET SPACE DISCOUNT TICKETS AVAILABLE

"They were the first to show us the dark side of the moon...the first to reach another planet...the first to walk in space," note the exhibitors of a 50,000-square-foot array of artifacts and interactive features now in Fort Worth.

TCU students, faculty and staff members may purchase adult admission tickets to "Soviet Space," on view through Jan. 1 in the Amon G. Carter Jr. Exhibit Hall of Will Rogers Memorial Center. The $7.25 fee, discounted from $8, covers the use of a 40-minute audio cassette guide in English or Spanish. The Student Center information desk, open 8 a.m. through 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, offers the tickets.

The Soviet civil space agency, Glavkosmos, and Boston's Museum of Science collaborated to produce this first comprehensive view of the Soviet space program for United States audiences.

By presenting "Soviet Space" locally, the Fort Worth Museum of Science and History Association also has ensured access for residents of the Southwest.

FOSTER HALL WAS BETTER

Residents of Foster Hall, usually among those with highest ranking grade-point averages, was "short changed" in the last bulletin's summary of spring grades. Instead of the 2.047 listed for 1989, the actual average for that spring was 3.047. Foster ranked third for the 1991 spring with 3.04.

500 EXPECTED FOR ANNUAL ASSEMBLY

Some 500 teen-agers representing Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ) throughout Texas and New Mexico will be on campus next week for the annual Christian Youth Fellowship Southwest Assembly. The July 16-19 schedule includes a series of workshops, sessions and activities on the theme "Called to Serve."

Registration begins at 1 p.m. July 16 at University Christian Church, and area meetings will begin at 4 p.m. Participants will be staying on campus, and activities will be held in University Christian Church. On-campus coordinator is Jim Atwood of admissions.

Keynote speaker will be Alvin O. Jackson, minister of the Mississippi Boulevard Christian Church in Memphis, TN, one of the largest and fastest-growing congregations in the denomination. Other special guests for this year's assembly will be Mark Luera, creative liturgist who is associate minister of Midway Hills Christian Church in Dallas; Trace Balin, contemporary recording artist; and Mark Lowry, a Christian comedian.

PRESS SEEKS STOCK SHOW STORIES

A volume of stories, both historic and humorous, relating to the Fort Worth Exposition and Livestock Show will be published by TCU Press. The occasion is the 100th anniversary of the show, the longest continuously running livestock show in the world.

Much of this history will be anecdotes, recollections and interviews with persons who have been active participants, visitors and guests of the show, explained press director Judy Alter. "In many ways, the history of the show reflects the history of Fort Worth and West Texas, not only from the standpoint of the livestock industry but also in terms of cowboy culture and rodeo development," she said.

Author Clay Reynolds of Denton currently is collecting information for use in the book, which will outline the progress of the show from merely a good idea for civic development through its history as the Breeders and Feeders Show to the present world-famous spectacular.

"We are particularly interested in personal stories from older folks who remember the show when it was held in the coliseum at the stockyards, from cattle and other livestock breeders who brought their animals to compete and from rodeo riders, clowns and other participants," Judy added. Reynolds and Alter also are especially interested in persons with information about the 1915 show.

All materials from contributors used in the book will be fully credited, Judy said. Interested persons should contact Reynolds at Box 13827, Denton 76203, or call (817) 565-2126.

HESELBROCK IS ASSISTANT ATHLETIC DIRECTOR

JACK HESSELBROCK, academic coordinator for TCU athletics for the last three years, has been promoted to assistant athletic director for academic services. His new appointment was announced by Frank Windegger, athletic director.

Jack, who came to TCU after working with Tarrant County juvenile probation services, earned his Bachelor of Science in sociology here in 1982 and the M.B.A. in 1986.

SELF-STUDY OFFICE OPENS

The University's year-long self-study takes major steps forward with the July 1 opening of its office in Bass Building 320-1 and selection of personnel to work with Gene Alpert, self-study director.

Chairing committees will be Nowell Donovan of geology, committee on institutional effectiveness; Ron Flowers, religion-studies, committee on purpose and accreditation; Bob Greer, management, committee on administrative processes; Manny Reinecke, chemistry, education programs; and Jennifer Watson, speech-language pathology, educational support services. Resource members are Dave Edmondson of information services; Jill Estes, business services; Jack Hesselbrock, intercollegiate athletics; Larry Lauer, University relations; Don Mills, student affairs; and Ann Sewell, fiscal affairs. Christina Murphy of the Writing Center is editor.

The new self-study differs from the last one in several ways. Individual units will not be asked to write separate self-study reports; there are five committees instead of 12; and the study will include a section on institutional effectiveness and also will assess the University's planning program.

MUNSON BECOMES ADMISSIONS DEAN

Leo Munson, assistant vice chancellor for academic affairs since 1990, also became the dean of admissions effective July 1. He replaces David Harbeck, who resigned in the spring. Announcement of Leo's additional responsibilities was made by Vice Chancellor Bill Koehler.

Leo, who served as director of scholarships and financial aid from 1983 to 1990, now oversees financial aid, extended education, registration and enrollment management as well as admissions.

A graduate of Colorado State University, he holds the M.S. from Creighton University, where he served as director of financial aid for seven years prior to joining TCU.

Leo is a former U.S. Air Force captain and special agent and was an admissions counselor at Creighton before heading its financial aid office.

FACULTY, STAFF APPOINTMENTS

On June 1, DAVID VANDERWERKEN, professor of English who joined the faculty in 1971, assumed a year-long appointment as interim director of the Master of Liberal Arts program. The alumnus of Colgate and Rice universities, a specialist in sport literature and former president of the Sport Literature Association, is immediate past president of the Conference of College Teachers of English in Texas.

DAVID RASCOE, recipient of the Southwest Conference Scholar Athlete Award in 1988, joined alumni relations this week as assistant director. Holder of B.B.A. and M.B.A. degrees from TCU, the Houston native has been a credit analyst with Team Bank for the last year. He was varsity football coach at Fort Worth Country Day School in 1989-90. The Horned Frog quarterback, who was team captain as a senior, set passing yardage records in 1985-88.

TCU IN THE NEWS

TCU's designation of St. Andrew's Interparochial School as a professional development school was noted in the June issue of Fort Worth Parent, a monthly publication of school-related news. The program, which helps train teachers, is seeking a better way of teaching middle school students to write and to revise at more than the word or sentence level.

JOHN LEWIS, the Frog's leading basketball scorer in the 1987-88 season, caught the eye of celebrity judges and the crowd recently when he outshot 20 other competitors in the Slam Dunk Open in Dallas' West End. He "jumped over two friends crouching six feet from the rim to jam the ball through," according to a Dallas Morning News story.

NOTES ON FOLKS

RUSSELL GRAY (Facility Services) was elected vice president and member of the board of directors for a two-year term at the 13th annual meeting of the Custodial Management Association of Texas June 20 in Austin.

TCU also was in the spotlight when the association, composed primarily of schools, colleges and universities throughout the state, presented its first annual Award of Excellence to TERESA MARTINEZ (Facility Services).

Alumnus MICHAEL SAENZ, president of Tarrant County Junior College--Northwest Campus, has been nominated as second vice moderator for the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ). A nominee for first vice moderator is alumna MARY E. JACOBS, a Dallas native who is co-minister with her husband, William, of Desert Dove Christian Church in Tucson. Their names will be presented at the General Assembly in Tulsa in October.

The Fort Worth Botanic Garden was the site of a June 23 reception celebrating the golden wedding anniversary of Mamie and HERB LAGRONE (emeritus dean, education). The event was hosted by their children and spouses, Ann LaGrone and Joe Shea of Corrales, NM, and Mark and Charlotte LaGrone of Ogden, UT. Mamie and Herb were married June 20, 1941, in Carthage.

MARK THISTLETHWAITE (art & art history) presented a full-day program on art criticism titled "I Don't Know Anything About Art, But I Know What I Like" to participants in the North Texas Institute for Educators on the Visual Arts.

"The Diffusion of Laptop Computers Among Industrial Salesforces" by JANE MACKAY (management) and SUSAN HIGGINS, CHUCK LAMB and BILL MONCRIEF, all of marketing, has been accepted for publication in the Journal of Microcomputer Systems Management.

Marketing faculty members Bill, SHANNON SHIPP and DAVID CRAVENS have had a paper, "Marketing and Sales Strategy Requirements for Competing in Turbulent Markets" accepted for publication by The Journal of Marketing Management. Bill also has been named president-elect of the Southern Marketing Association.

JANET PUMMILL (music) was invited to be a guest performer in the Texas Festival at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D. C. She was accompanist for the Texas Boys Choir on June 16 in the Concert Hall.

"Prodigal Prince Hal," an essay by ALAN SHEPARD (English) that was first published in Fort Worth's Shakespeare-in-the-Park newsletter, has been reprinted as program notes for the two parts of "Henry IV" that are being performed by the company this summer.

CAROLYN SPENCE CAGLE (Harris College of Nursing) recently returned from Orlando, FL, where she presented an invited paper on her research with couples who have delayed childbearing until the third and fourth decade of life. Carolyn's paper, "The Impact of Age on Adaptation in the Pregnancy Cycle," was presented June 12 at the eighth national meeting of the Nurses' Association of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists. Carolyn also served on the abstract selection committee for the research papers presented at the conference and moderated three papers there.

Sympathy is expressed to EARL WALDROP, emeritus vice chancellor, whose wife, Louise, died June 29 at their home. Mrs. Waldrop, a native of Mississippi who had lived in Fort Worth 29 years, had served as president of the Texas Ministers Wives organization. Funeral services were held Monday at University Christian Church, with burial in Greenwood Memorial Park. The family suggests that memorials be to TCU's Louise and Earl Waldrop Scholarship Fund or to Brite Divinity School.

RHONDA KEEN-PAYNE (nursing) has been selected by the National League for Nursing to serve as a site visitor/program evaluator. She will attend a two-day orientation workshop in Atlanta in July.

FRED ERISMAN (English) gave an invited paper, "The Stepchild in the Basement: Trends in Series Books Research," at the Hess Symposium on Dime Novels and Series Books in Minneapolis in mid-June. Fred was one of five principal speakers at the symposium, a national meeting organized by the University of Minnesota and the Saint Paul Foundation to provide a concentrated examination of the status of (and prospects for) scholarship dealing with dime novels and juvenile series books.

JUDY ALTER and TRACY ROW of TCU Press attended the June 23-27 meetings of Western Writers of America in Oklahoma City. "Interim in the Desert" by Roland Sadowsky, published by the press in September of 1990, was a finalist in the short fiction category of the annual Spur Awards. A Spur Award for the best short nonfiction of 1990 went to JOYCE ROACH, TCU graduate and occasional faculty member.

Students in FRANK REUTER's M.L.A. class on the American Revolution July 2 got a welcome interruption in their final exam. David Vanderwerken, interim M.L.A. director, called a pause to present Frank a framed poster calling attention to Frank's retirement and to the fact that he founded TCU's M.L.A. program. The class was Frank's last one before he takes his retirement sabbatical.

PHONE CODES EFFECTIVE JULY 15

Jill Estes, assistant vice chancellor for business services, reminds that long-distance calls will be restricted by authorization codes beginning July 15.

"This in no way will change the manner in which users have accessed long-distance capability in the past," she said. Users who call the TCU operator to have long-distance calls placed should give her the authorization code so she will be able to place the call. Anyone with questions may contact Darlene Housewright at Ext. 7798.

SADLER GETS FIRE DOORS

Fort Worth city codes require that multiple-story buildings have smoke-free stairwell enclosures. To comply with this provision, three fire doors will be installed on the lower level of Sadler Hall. Construction is scheduled from July 22 to Aug. 3, and the contractor, Lydick and Co., will make every effort to minimize inconvenience and complete the work as quickly as possible, said Will Stallworth, director of Physical Plant.
