Dear Amon:

This morning I have received from home the marked page of the PRESS of January 20th, which has the picture of the stature of Will and the children and the horse, and I have stopped to look long at it and laugh and dream again that he is home. You know, it's really hard to estimate what it would have meant to this country and our generation if he had lived until this moment.

I cheer always for your own relation to him and your loyalty to the immeasurable good which has been and is that man and his life.

With affectionate best wishes to you and yours, I am

Sincerely yours,
