

Receipt

April 27th, 1915

Mr. Wm. Massie, Cashier,
Fort Worth National Bank,
Fort Worth, Texas.

My dear Mr. Massie:

I wish to thoroughly make an explanation to you relative to the check of A. G. Carter for $10.00, dated April 1st, on us, and payable to George S. Oliver.

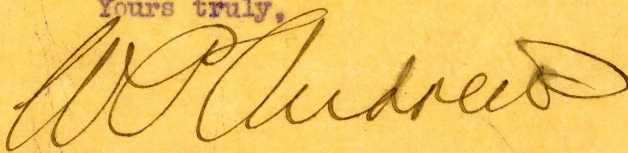

On or about April 1st Mr. Carter got in touch with a few deceptions that inverted the retina, whereby everything diminished into nothing. At that time it appears in his wild delirium he came in contact with the tent of a wandering evangelist and after the audience had escaped he tore it down and wrote this check upon it.

While we acknowledge the check in a sense to be good we will not undertake to pay this check unless you will agree to deliver it with all charges paid at the counter of the First National Bank. I think that according to the clearing house rules we can compel you to do this and sustain the charges of a moving van in order to present the check here for payment.

~~again~~ It is to be hoped that Mr. Carter will get his optical nerve ~~restored~~ or he is liable to draw checks on the main tent of the Barnum & Bailey Circus.

Assuring you that we will pay the check and hoping that Mr. Carter's friends may be able to catch him and put some goggles on him, I beg to be

Yours truly,

Cashier
