The people all laughed at Will Rogers
 His "wisecracks" were always a "hit,"
 He knew how to joke, and others he'd "soak,"
 But they never tired of his wit.

3

A writer of fame was Will Rogers
 He wrote like no other could do;
 His was the sort, whose columns were short
 He told what he thought and was through.

4

An actor so great was Will Rogers
 His good-humored face on the screen
 His picture they'd show; the people would go
 And stay till they saw ev'ry scene.

A flier at last was Will Rogers
 He liked to soar up in the sky
 But beneath the moon, the crack-up of doom
 The time came for Rogers to die.
