My dear Mr. Carter:

The writer has experienced so many knocks and kicks in life that they have no affect on him whatever. I really would not feel like I was living if somebody was not stepping on me once in a while, but when I came over to the office and found that a good friend of T. C. U. unsolicited and unasked has given six times as much as his share for one particular thing it certainly gets under the hide.

This band uniform proposition was worrying me no little bit, because we have to figure our finances very closely and not having anything in the budget for band uniforms, this $300.00 was staring me in the face and I really did not have time to get out and make it up.

It is this sort of spirit and helpfulness that makes you deserve the kind of honors that were heaped on you the other night.

Let me express to you for the University and myself our sincere thanks and appreciation for not only this evidence of your loyalty and friendship, but the many other things you have done for us in the past.

Sincerely yours,

TEXAS CHRISTIAN UNIVERSITY
