JAZZ COUNTRY GROUP WINS JAPAN TRIP

One cold day last winter Curt Wilson got a call from a friend who passed along a tip: "Some Japanese executives are going to be in Dallas soon to audition country-western bands, and the winner gets an expense-paid trip to Japan."

Fantasies about warm breezes in the temple gardens passed through Curt's mind. He's the director of jazz studies and the conductor of TCU's award-winning bands--jazz bands, that is. Pretty soon he also became director of the "TCU Blue Grass Country/Western Band."

That group, pulled together from his jazz band, entered and won the Japanese auditions and will leave Fort Worth tomorrow (Wednesday) to take part in "An American Fair," described as Tokyo's version of the Neiman-Marcus Fortnight. The fair will take place in Tokyo's largest department store, Isetan.

Members of the "TCU Blue Grass Country/Western Band" are bass player Rob Allibon, senior business major from Arlington; Steve Coover, guitar, senior music education major from Weatherford; drummer Jeff Deets, senior art major from Haltom City; banjoist/vocalist Ron Shultz of Arlington, who will be a senior here next year; and vocalist Karol Ann Kely of Sulphur Springs, a TCU student before she took time off to train for the upcoming Miss Texas Pageant in her role as Miss Duncanville. One of the 10 finalists in last year's Miss Texas contest, she plans to return to TCU later to complete her degree.

APRIL 28 RECEPTION WILL HONOR SIX

Six faculty and staff members will be recognized for their combined 114 years' service to the University from 3:30 to 5 p.m. April 28 at the annual retirement reception in Student Center ballroom. Chancellor Bill Tucker will take part in the brief ceremony and make presentations to the honorees.

Retiring with the longest record of service is Hoyt Gibson, professor of marketing who joined the faculty in 1962. The North Texas State alumnus earned both M.B.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Texas, where he was a lecturer in marketing in 1957-62. Author of a number of published studies, he has been active in Southwestern and American marketing associations as well as the National Conference of Physical Distribution Managers.

R.C. Norris, assistant director of radio/TV at the University of Texas in Austin for eight years before joining the TCU faculty in 1964, formerly served as UNESCO consultant for Latin American educational TV and was a consultant to the Peace Corps on a Colombian ETV project. Holder of two degrees from UT-Austin and the Ph.D. from the University of Michigan, he was presented two national awards for educational radio production by the Ohio Institute for Education by Radio-Television. Among the former departmental chairman's published studies is "Game Photographers: The Forgotten Crew in College Football."

Merlin Jenkins, associate professor of music, will be recognized for 21 years' service in the School of Fine Arts. Formerly a band director for public schools in Haskell and Abilene, he holds two degrees from North Texas State. Merlin is active in the National Association of College Wind and Percussion Instruments and the National Trumpet Guild.

An alumna of Millikin University, Toni Newton joined the staff in 1967 as secretary to the chancellor and since 1971 has been his administrative assistant. The Illinois native is well known for her varied activities, ranging from singing with the Sweet Adelines and a barbershop quartet and being an alumnae advisor for Delta Delta Delta sorority to serving on the board of University Christian Church and participating in the National Association of Female Executives and the TCU Woman's Club. Named to the Order of Omega, she and her late husband, Bill, were the "adopted parents" of a number of football players and were honored as fellows of Brachman Hall.

Helen Martin, acting director of continuing education since last summer, joined that division in 1970 as administrative assistant. She was named assistant to the director in 1976. Helen began her career in Civil Service with the Pacific Air Force Headquarters and later was a secretary with GEM International and Carey-Wolf Co.

Retiring after eight years as head basket ball coach, Jim Killingsworth led the Frogs to one of their most successful seasons earlier this year when the Purple cagers were TCU's first representatives in NCAA post-season tournament play since 1971. Jim compiled a 130-106 record here while coaching teams to the National Invitational Tournament in 1983 and 1986. The Northeastern Oklahoma State graduate came to TCU from Oklahoma State, where he coached two seasons after six years at Idaho State.

DOWNNEY BECOMES NEELEY SCHOOL DEAN

Kirk Downey, chairman of the Department of Management since 1983 and a recognized business consultant, has accepted appointment as dean of the M. J. Neeley School of Business. Following a national search, he was chosen from among a field of more than 100 distinguished educators and business leaders, according to an announcement by Vice Chancellor Bill Koehler.

"In just three years, since he joined the TCU faculty as professor and chairman of the management department, Dr. Downey has made a significant contribution to students and colleagues as well as the community," Dr. Koehler said. "His superlative leadership as interim dean since last fall confirms the appropriateness of his selection for this important position."

Kirk, professor of management at Oklahoma State University before coming to TCU, is a consultant to such international organizations as Chemical Bank of New York, Citibank, Security Pacific of Los Angeles and Seattle First National Bank. His other consulting activities include Phillips Petroleum Company and Westinghouse Electric Corporation. Holder of the Ph.D. degree in organizational behavior from Pennsylvania State University, he formerly was on the faculty of the University of Kentucky.

An alumnus of Kansas Wesleyan University, Kirk concentrates much of his research in the areas of organizational behavior and administrative theory as well as policy and decision making. Former editor of the Journal of Management, he continues to serve on its editorial board and on the editorial board of the Academy of Management Review. He served on the board of governors of the Southern Management Association in 1980-83 and is a former editorial board member for the Journal of Business Research.

Active in the Academy of Management, Kirk is the author of some two dozen studies in such leading publications as Human Relations, Journal of Management, Academy of Management Review, Administrative Science Quarterly and Organizational Behavior and Human Performance. He is a frequent participant in professional programs and is a text reviewer for such publishers as Addison-Wesley, John Wiley and Son, Canfield Press and Little, Brown and Co.

A search advisory committee in addition to members of the TCU faculty and staff along with University trustees participated in the year-long search for the Neeley School dean.

VIVI FLINDT IS DANCE GUEST

Vivi Flindt, a former principal dancer with the Royal Danish Ballet who now directs the Dallas Ballet Academy, will be a guest teacher here Thursday. Her advanced ballet class at 10 a.m. in the Ballet Building will be open for observation. Ms. Flindt teaches the Bournonville technique.

She is the wife of Flemming Flindt, artistic director for the Dallas Ballet and also an ex-principal dancer with the Royal Danish Ballet.

FRESHMAN PLAYWRIGHT REACHES SEMIFINALS

With a one-act play that uses odd names, dreamlike elements and a hierarchy of lawnboys, Z. Bart Thornton has reached the semifinals in the prestigious Young Playwrights Festival, sponsored by the Dramatists Guild in New York City.

A freshman, Bart wrote "Igniting the Flashlight Fire, or Mr. Memory's Last Chance" last summer. It strings together several unrelated events that meshed in his imagination to produce an expressionistic, non-linear play about the interrelation of identity and memory.

"I think people see in most of my work the same intensity or complexity that they recognize in their dreams," said the 19-year-old son of Kaye Thornton of admissions and her husband, Z. Joe. As a semifinalist, Bart will go to New York this month to watch a professional cast prepare and perform a staged reading of his play, directed by playwright Thomas Babe, author of "Fathers and Sons" and "Salt Lake City Skyline." Bart was the first of the 12 semifinalists to be assigned a director, and he believes Babe volunteered for the job because the two have similar traits as playwrights.

"Babe has been called such things as 'baffling' and 'extremely original,'" Bart said. "I like to think my work fits into those categories, too, so it sounds like I have the perfect director."

Bart describes his style as summoning the dream world into reality. Meanings are not always clear and never definitive, so the audience is challenged to create individual interpretations. While his plays may confuse the audience, he sees that as a positive effect. "I think you have to be confused. If you're ever going to sort out anything and make sense of anything, it has to start with confusion," he said. "I really think the opposite of confusion is apathy."

His understanding of his writing has been enhanced since he enrolled in TCU last fall, though some of the help has come from an unexpected direction. "My modern art course may have helped me more than any writing class I've had because a lot of my goals are the same as some post-Impressionistic painters, who wanted to emphasize the dualism between the actual canvas itself and the reality they were trying to show," he explained. "That's been one of my goals from the beginning--to show that it is a play. Also, reading Pirandello helped me some to realize what I'm doing."

After each of the 12 semifinalists' works is staged, three to five winners will be selected, and those plays will be produced in New York City this fall. The playwrights, who must be 18 or under when they enter, will receive a royalty and a year's membership in the guild. The contest was begun in 1982 under then-director of the guild Stephen Sondheim. While he waits this summer to hear whether his play will make the finals, Bart will be at Yale University, enrolled in a six-week playwriting workshop.

SYMPHONY TO PLAY CONCERTOS MONDAY

Vocal and instrumental soloists will join the University Symphony for its annual concerto concert at 8 p.m. April 27 in Ed Landreth Auditorium. Six students selected during a concerto competition earlier in the semester will perform with the symphony the first movement of each concerto.

Angela Gipson, sophomore music education major from Joshua, will play Haydn's Trumpet Concerto, and Michele Groff, Houston senior flute performance major, will play the piccolo solo in Vivaldi's Concerto in C major. Mozart's concert aria, Vorrei Speigarri, Oh Dio, will be sung by soprano Patricia Helvey, senior from Bedford, and Vanessa Klimek, graduate assistant from Kent, WA, will perform in Faure's Elegy for Cello and Orchestra.

Mozart's Bassoon Concerto will be performed by Ralph Morgan of Dallas, a sophomore majoring in music education. Jean von Berg-Sykes, graduate assistant and orchestra concertmaster, will play Mozart's Violin Concerto No. 3. Opening the program will be Beethoven's Cariolan Overture.

METROPLEX ART ENTRIES ACCEPTED

Leaders of Art in the Metroplex, which has gained in popularity so rapidly in the four years it has been staged here that it drew more than 1,200 entries last year, have put out the call for 1987 entries. Sponsored by The Committee for an Artists' Center and the TCU Department of Art and Art History, the show will be held Sept. 12-Oct. 9 in both the Brown-Lupton Gallery and Moudy Building Exhibition Hall.

Jurying the entries will be Dr. Donald Kuspit of New York, critic and author of both books and articles dealing with art and artists. Eligible are artists living in Tarrant, Dallas and adjoining counties. Entry forms may be obtained by calling Ext. 7643. Work will be judged on the basis of 35mm slides, which must be submitted not later than June 15. Artists may enter paintings, drawings, prints, mixed media works, photography and sculpture, up to three entries per person at $5 per entry.

BOOKS CHOSEN FOR INTERNATIONAL FAIR

Two books published by the TCU Press are among 100 small press titles chosen for exhibition at the 39th Frankfurt International Book Fair. Scheduled for October, the exhibit is a project of the Literature Program of the National Endowment for the Arts with cooperation of the United States Information Agency.

Chosen from TCU are "Soledad, or Solitudes" by R. G. Vliet in the prize-winning novel category and "Summertime" by David L. Fleming in the small press novel category. Both titles will be available for purchase by international book wholesalers, according to Press director Judy Alter.

THOMASON RECEIVES NATIONAL HONOR

Tommy Thomason of journalism is one of 12 recipients of the 1987 National Teaching Award for Excellence in the Teaching of Journalism Ethics. Supported by The Poynter Institute for Media Studies, the award is sponsored by the educational committees of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, Associated Press Managing Editors and National Conference of Editorial Writers.

The honor to Tommy is "in recognition of your accomplishments and of the high regard in which you are held," said Martin Linsky of The Poynter Institute. He will take part in a June seminar at the institute in St. Petersburg, FL.

A visiting assistant professor for a year before assuming his current position in 1985, Tommy is an alumnus of Ouachita Baptist University and holds master's and doctor's degrees from East Texas State University. In 1982-84 he was director of public relations at Dallas Baptist University. Tommy co-directed the first-of-its-kind national symposium on crime victims and the media at TCU last fall.

BARR CHOSEN FOR FULBRIGHT AWARD

Vice Chancellor Peggy Barr is one of 20 college and university administrators selected as members of the Fulbright Program jointly sponsored by the German government and the United States. The group will participate in a seminar April 27-May 19 in Germany. The focus will be on educational, cultural and political issues involved in international education.

Dr. Barr is past president of the American College Personnel Association, which presented her its Senior Scholar and Senior Professional-Annuit Coepris Award last year. Author of some 20 published studies, she received the 1986 Award for Outstanding Contribution to Literature from the National Association of Student Personnel Administrators.

MAGIC, COMPUTER CLASSES SET FOR SUMMER

"Magic for Kids," "Computer Camp" and "Summer Art Workshop" are just a few of the courses to be offered on campus this summer.

Games and sports in a non-competitive atmosphere, the improvement of motor skills and cardiovascular endurance and innovative stunts and tumbling are all a part of the Magic program to be offered June 8-July 3.

Twelve different computer camps will be offered in July. Children age 8 to 80 with various computer skill levels are invited to attend. The summer art workshop is divided into two sections for exceptionally talented students in grades 6-12. Additional information on these and other courses to be offered is available from the continuing education office, Ext. 7130.

LIBRARY FRIENDS GIVE PARHAM PORTRAIT

Friends of TCU Libraries presented a painting of the late librarian Paul Parham to Mary Coats Burnett Library and elected Fort Worth residents Edwin Fay and Victor McDaniel as new board members at their recent annual meeting at Colonial Country Club.

The portrait of Paul, now hanging on the east wall of the library lobby, is by Fort Worth artist Jill Bush. It was formally presented by Ann Pierson, a past president of the Friends organization.

Also honored at the annual meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Milton Moseley, presented the Carol Jim Renshaw Award in appreciation for their gift to the library of a rare Koran in honor of Paul, as well as Dr. and Mrs. A.M. Pate Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Sebert Pate and the James Newcomers, given the Friend of the Year Award for creation of the Pate-Newcomer Collection on Luxembourg.

Winners in the Student Book Collecting Contest were Cathy Kotowski, Brite student from San Antonio, first prize of $200 for her library on feminist theology; Eric Nylander, freshman computer science major from Colorado Springs, 2nd, $100, for his collection of science fiction and fantasy; and Allison Adams, Irving senior ballet major, 3rd, $50, for her dance library.

TCU, UCC CHOIRS TO SING SUNDAY

The Choral Union and the University Christian Church Chancel Choir, both directed by Ron Shirey, will join Sunday to perform "King David," a symphonic psalm by French composer Arthur Honegger. The major oratorio presentation will begin at 7:30 p.m. in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

The "King David" will be presented in its original orchestration with soloists, narrator and the Witch of Endor taking their places. Members of the local Professional Musicians' Union will make up the 13-piece orchestra.

BABBILI RECEIVES BRACHMAN AWARD

Anantha Babbili of journalism has received the 1987 Brachman Teaching Award for Excellence. Selected by members of Brachman Hall and its Living/Learning Program, Anantha was recognized for extending teaching beyond the classroom and developing an active role in student life.

A faculty member here since 1981, Anantha received a 1985 National Teaching Award sponsored by the education committees of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, the Associated Press Managing Editors and the National Conference of Editorial Writers. An expert on modern mass communication, he is listed among the 3,000 most important persons in the media branch of new media technology and satellite communications, compiled by the West German journal New Media.

Before entering the field of education, Anantha served as managing editor for the Indian Herald in his native India. He received the master's degree from the University of Oklahoma, where he was named 1976 Student of the Year. He earned his doctoral degree from the University of Iowa.

PUBLIC RELATIONS SEMINAR SET

"Public Relations: An Indepth Look" is the theme for the Thursday/Friday seminar to be held on campus under the sponsorship of the Greater Fort Worth Chapter of the Public Relations Society of America and TCU's continuing education office.

Designed for professional development of persons involved in public relations, the two-day schedule also is planned as an extensive review for those taking the PRSA accreditation exam. The test will be administered Saturday. The $100 registration fee, being accepted by extended education now, includes lunches and materials.

Doug Newsom will represent TCU on the seminar's faculty. Others will include public relations executives, consultants and educators. Scheduled for 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. on both dates, the sessions will be held in the Student Center.

NEWCOMER HONORED IN LUXEMBOURG

James Newcomer, vice chancellor emeritus, has received the Order of Merit from the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg. The presentation was made April 4 at the Bel-Air Hotel in Echternach, Luxembourg, by Gernand Boden, minister of education, on behalf of Grand Duke Jean of Luxembourg.

Jim recently published a history of Luxembourg in English, the first such work to be published in English since 1913. Among guests at the ceremony was Mrs. A.M. Pate Jr. of Fort Worth. She, her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Sebert Pate, and Jim recently were honored by Friends of TCU Libraries for the creation of the Pate-Newcomer Collection on Luxembourg, which covers historical, governmental, economic and social aspects of that nation.

1986 CUPS GRADUATES NOW REGISTERED

All of the 1986 graduates of the Coordinated Undergraduate Program in Dietetics passed the national exam to become Registered Dietitians. The eight currently are employed as Registered Dietitians. They include Mary Albers, clinicandl dietitian at Memorial City Hospital in Houston; Lauren Brickman, clinical dietitian, South Miami Hospital in Miami, FL; Robin Brown, clinical dietitian, Walls Regional Hospital in Cleburne; Cindy George, program specialist with Associated Milk Producers Inc. in Tulsa. Employed in Fort Worth are Connie Peraglie, nutrition education in St. Joseph's Optifast Program; Teresa Ramirez, clinical dietitian at Fort Worth Osteopathic Hospital; Diane Stoltman, clinical dietitian, All Saints Episcopal Hospital; and Vondell Zimmerman with Marriott Corporation's food service at TCU.

Achieving the Registered Dietitian designation as a result of completing the test the first time it is taken is a tribute to both the individuals and the program's faculty, noted department chair Nell Robinson.

ISOLINE, THOMASON TO BE FEATURED

Former art department faculty member Charles Isoline, now of Baylor University, and Ronald Thomason, who did the three commissioned works for TCU's centennial celebration, will be among 23 artists whose works will be featured in the American Home Week Art Show. The April 25-26 general exhibit as well as the opening gala on April 24 will be at Thistle Hill.

Proceeds from the show will be designated for restoration of the cattle baron mansion-museum at 1509 Pennsylvania Avenue. Hours will be 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on April 25 and noon to 5 p.m. on April 26. General chairperson is Wini Klein, wife of Ted Klein of the philosophy department.

Isoline's works, recently in a retrospective exhibit at Baylor, include TCU scenes as well as other art pieces owned by some faculty members and other Fort Worth residents.

LECTURE TO ADDRESS COMBAT DECISIONS

Jeff Davis, an Army Reserve captain, will discuss the combat decision-making process and its practical applications at a meeting of junior officers, non-commissioned officers and enlisted personnel today (Tuesday) at 7 p.m. in Room 155S of the Moudy Building.

Currently a Bell Helicopter sales representative to the Middle East and Africa, Davis is a graduate of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point. His lecture will use the four-step Boyd's Cycle to analyze battles fought in the 1973 Arab-Israeli war and various battles in Africa. The Boyd's Cycle draws a direct correlation between two men engaged in a fight and two commanders engaged in a battle. Davis will outline the thought processes each go through to decide how to conduct the fight and illustrate the unique similarities.

NOTES ON FOLKS

HORTENCIA KAYSER (speech communication) participated in the March 25-29 Texas Speech-Language-Hearing Association Conference in Fort Worth. She presented the paper "Strategic Competencies of Children in Bilingual Classrooms," a study funded by the TCU Research Fund.

JOHN SHERIDAN (management) has been named Distinguished Visiting Professor of Management at the Graduate School of Professional Accounting at Northeastern University during June. The visiting professorship is sponsored by the public accounting firms in Boston.

BILL MONCRIEF (marketing) and Alan Bush of the University of South Florida were informed that their paper, "Consumer Attitudes Toward Professionals' Television Advertising," has been accepted at the Journal of Professional Services Marketing.

ROBERT DORAN (mathematics) delivered an hour-long address on C*-algebras at the April 2-4 meeting of the Texas section of the Mathematical Association of America at Tarleton State University. Also attending from the mathematics department were CHARLES DEFTER, who participated in a meeting of institutional representatives; VICTOR BELFI; and L.A. COLQUITT and C.R. COMBRINK, who attended a meeting of former and current department chairs.

Included among guests at the recent Honors banquet were four smiling faculty members whose children were recognized as senior scholars. Of the 36 students honored, four are faculty related. They are BRENDA FRYE, daughter of BOB (English) and ALICE (library) FRYE; JENNIFER SMITH, daughter of DURWOOD and DARLA SMITH (biology); JIM LINK, son of JIM LINK of ranch management; and KAREN HOEHN, daughter of DICK HOEHN (Brite).

KAY HIGGINS (housing) recently presented a workshop on the Myers Briggs Personality Inventory entitled "Understanding Me--Understanding You--How We Work Together" for the Amarillo Women's Network.

Alumna CYNTHIA PATSCHKE, who received the B.S. degree with a major in habilitation of the deaf in 1982, has been named a President's Scholar at Gallaudet University. The program there recognizes graduate students who are the most accomplished of those who have a 4.0 cumulative grade-point average sustained over 12 or more graduate hours, according to President Jerry Lee. Formerly of Tyler, Cynthia and other honorees will be honored at an upcoming recognition dinner.

SPENCER WERTZ (philosophy) attended the annual spring meeting of the New Mexico-West Texas Philosophical Society held recently in Santa Fe. He chaired a session on causal reasoning and read a paper titled "Chasing Paradigms: From the Corruption of Sport to Sport Samadhi." Spencer also attended sessions on ancient philosophy and phenomenology.
