Monday Morning

Dear Mr. Carter

I received your very nice letter this morning and also the letter from a man. I never enjoyed anything more than I did reading his letter, and learning that he was feeling fine and in good condition considering the circumstances. I know how happy it must have made you feel to hear from him.

I am going to write him this morning, and at least once a week from now on because I know how much he must look forward to letters from here. Since he can only write four cards and three letters a month, I don't expect to hear from him because those few letters can best be used by writing to you. It is for this reason that I would appreciate just a word from you or Katrine if any thing out of the ordinary happens to him.

I finish the course of study here in a little over three weeks, and I have not received any further orders yet so I do not know where I will go.

I want to thank you again for your very nice letters and all the information you have sent me about Aman.

Respectfully yours,
Pat
