Tohill's injuries extensive

By JERRY McADAMS
Sports Editor

CRASH ROUTE—This photo shows the path taken by football coach Billy Tohill's auto when it left the roadway Wednesday morning and plowed through a variety of roadside barriers.

TCU head football coach Billy Tohill remained in critical condition at Fort Worth's John Peter Smith Hospital Wednesday evening following an early morning auto crash on the South Freeway.

Tohill spent seven hours in the hospital operating room as various teams of surgeons administered aid.

Investigating officer M.F. Pendergraf of the Fort Worth Police Department said Tohill was southbound on the freeway when he apparently lost control of his 1973 auto and struck the inside divider-median curb.

The car careened back across the southbound lanes and left the roadway, Pendergraf said.

The auto then knocked down a highway signpost, sheared off a light standard, struck a large interstate sign upright, jumped a guard rail, spun around and came to rest under the Loop 820 overpass in the southbound access road.

The mishap occurred about 6:30 a.m. yesterday and apparently involved only Tohill's auto.

One-car Crash

Early reports indicated Tohill had been attempting to avoid another accident on the freeway, but Pendergraf and other officers at the scene said there had been no other wreck.

"A truck driver who saw it said he (Tohill) was in the inside lane and it looked like he just hit the curb," Pendergraf said.

Tohill was outside the car, lying on the ground when officers reached the scene. "We don't know whether he was thrown out or had been pulled out by someone else," said Pendergraf.

He was unconscious when he reached the hospital and remained so throughout the day Wednesday.

Destination Unknown

No one was certain where Tohill was heading. He had planned a meeting of the football staff for 8 a.m. Wednesday morning to go over films of a Tuesday afternoon scrimmage.

Mrs. Daphne Stewart, switchboard operator at WBAP-TV where the films are processed, said an unidentified young man picked up the film shortly after 8 a.m.

Tohill underwent a tracheotomy and was given emergency transfusions upon arrival at the hospital. Dozens of volunteers, many of them members of the Frog football squad, crowded the hospital corridors to donate blood.

Treatment in the emergency room continued until after 9:30 a.m. when the coach was taken upstairs to surgery.

By 12:30 p.m., staff surgeons had completed an abdominal exploration which revealed no damage to the lower organs according to hospital spokesman Malcolm Holloway.

Injuries Many

Also confirmed at that time was a long list of injuries which included: compound fractures of the left facial bones, facial lacerations, multiple rib fractures, compound fracture and dislocation of the right foot and ankle, and a severe fracture of the left wrist.

At approximately 1:45 p.m., with general and thoracic surgery completed, specialists in urology, orthopedics and oral surgery took over and kept Tohill

DEMOLISHED—The remains of the auto driven by head football coach Billy Tohill were taken to a southside wrecking yard Wednesday morning. The auto, a 1973 Lincoln Continental, was a courtesy car supplied Tohill by its owners, Holiday Lincoln-Mercury of Fort Worth. Tohill was critically injured in the one-car crash which occurred early yesterday on Fort Worth's South Freeway.

Committee doors remain locked

Members of the House of Student Representatives voted down a crippled "freedom of information" resolution Tuesday night.

Originally, the proposal was that all University committees with student members should be required to hold open meetings unless individual disciplinary action was involved.

/editorial/

Over a period of three weeks, the resolution was mauled by amendments that steadily weakened it.

The representatives found themselves in the uncomfortable position of having to decide between two white hat ideas—Freedom of Information and Individual Privacy.

No freedom-loving American would be against freedom of information, and anyone voting against individual privacy has to be a Communist, right?

Before the resolution was finally voted down, exemptions had been stretched to include any meeting involving individual reputations—a loophole large enough to drive a Mack Truck through. Anyone who didn't want his words made public, whatever the reason, could take advantage of the exemption.

The question of freedom of information vs. individual privacy is not a new one. In fact, the United States Supreme Court has considered it several times in a variety of forms.

The Court has generally held that individual privacy stops where the public interest in the matter (newsworthiness) begins.

Although a private university does not have to adopt national rights and standards to its operations, the student government here has generally clamored for such adoption. The Student Bill of Rights is an excellent example.

If House members actually do not want to move the University into the real world, they should drop the pretense that they do.

House rejects concept of open meetings

By JEFF BOGCESS

Student representatives rejected the concept of allowing fellow students the right of open access to University committee meetings following a lengthy debate in Tuesday night's House meeting.

Representatives also refused to endorse the placement of students on the Board of Trustees as non-voting members.

Bob Rouke, Student Regulations Committee chairman, presented the resolution calling for all University committees with student members to hold all meetings in public, except where individual privacy would be violated.

Debate erupted over a phrase in the document which referred to "specifically defined discipline committees." Some members said they felt individual privacy could be violated by committees not specifically defined as disciplinary.

Privacy Exemption

Tom Angle, town student representative, moved to amend the resolution by granting an exemption to committees having disciplinary power and meeting to discuss disciplinary matters if the meetings could harm someone's privacy.

Jim Marston, the resolution's sponsor, opposed the amendment. "This amendment is too broad." He added it would dilute the whole purpose of the bill: to open up as many committees as possible.

After more debate, Marston moved that the proposal be sent back to committee for rewording, apparently an effort to save it from being weakened by amendments.

His motion failed and Angle's amendment was adopted.

Glenn Johnson, former Student Programming Board director, spoke against the resolution as a whole.

Johnson said if all meetings were forced open, some disciplinary and personnel actions would not be referred to committees with student members.

Labeling this a "withdrawal of power from University committees," he predicted that in the future discipline would be handed down "from Sadler Hall" or students would be removed from committees.

Amendment

Jim Stikeleather, Pete Wright dorm representative, moved to amend the resolution by having all meetings which might infringe on "personal reputation" exempt from the requirement.

Dick Price, town student representative, said, "It may not be a disciplinary case, but you don't want everyone discussing (what your enemies think of you)."

Stikeleather's amendment was approved, but the resolution was decisively defeated.

In other major business, Marston, Tom Brown representative, introduced a resolution calling for the appointment of three faculty members and three students as non-voting members to the Board of Trustees.

This proposal met opposition, too. David Glendinning, town student representative, said he doesn't think the Board would be receptive at this time to the idea. He added that all major discussion occurs in trustee committee meetings, and thus student input would be limited.

Lanny Gookin, town student representative, responded by saying the non-voting members would be entitled to participate in committee meetings.

The resolution was defeated by two votes.

In other action, Marston introduced a bill which would allow professors to post grades at the end of each semester by listing students' Social Security numbers. The bill was referred to committee.

Tohill into second full season

By BUD KENNEDY

Billy Tohill, a friendly Mississippian whose 33 years of age qualifies him as the Southwest Conference's youngest head coach, joined the Frog staff from Tulane in December, 1970.

He served as chief aide and defensive coordinator for the first six games of 1971 under then-coach Jim Pittman. Tohill assumed the head chores when Pittman suffered a heart attack and died on the sidelines at the TCU-Baylor game.

Finishing third in the SWC race that season, TCU counted a 3-1 record under Tohill's tutelage. He and Pittman were voted SWC Coach-of-the-Year honors, and Tohill won a national award for taking over on the sidelines at that game, which TCU won 34-27.

Last season, TCU jumped to a 4-1 record out of the blocks, then fell to 5-6 after injuries felled key members of the club.

A High School All-American

After earning all-America honors in high school at Batesville, Miss., Tohill lettered three years at quarterback and fullback at Mississippi State. He graduated in 1961.

Tohill then stepped to the Mississippi State coaching staff, handling offensive backfield chores. He donned a Tulane cap in February, 1966.

He will be 34 April 5.

"I've always told my players that if they gave their all and never quit, then they would win their share," Tohill said.

in the operating room until after 4 p.m.

A statement late yesterday afternoon by Dr. Charles Crenshaw, director of the Department of Surgery at Peter Smith, said surgical repairs were completed at 4:30 p.m. and Tohill was being transferred to the hospital's Surgical Intensive Care unit. His condition remained critical, however.

Another statement would be made early Thursday morning, Dr. Crenshaw said.

"I think one of the most important aspects is for a coach to have respect for his players and as men. This I try to do at all times," he said this season.

Three Children

Tohill and wife Bobbie Jean, his high school sweetheart, have three children. Sons Kipp and Kelly are 11 and 6, respectively, and daughter Kerry Jean is 8.

Outside of football, Tohill likes golf, winning his flight in the annual Bella Vista, Ark., Coaches' Invitational and playing on the team that won the Colonial National Invitational Pro-Am Championship in 1972.

Grid plans in limbo

By JOHN FORSYTH

The hospitalization of head coach Billy Tohill Wednesday leaves the future schedule of events for TCU footballers on a play-by-ear basis.

One workout is scheduled for Friday afternoon, said Athletic Director Abe Martin late Wednesday afternoon.

"We've got the defensive and offensive coordinators, so I assume we'll go on with it. The players will just have to go on about their business," he said.

Martin indicated that he was not going to name a temporary replacement for Tohill, until the situation demanded it.

Tohill's Condition

"Billy may be completely conscious by Thursday. He may be able to say who he wants in charge himself," Martin said. "I don't want to jump right in and name someone when Coach Tohill may be able to say tomorrow. I think I know who he'd name, but I don't want to say now."

Martin did say that "we will have to name someone" if Tohill's condition has not improved by Friday.

Sports Information Director Jim Garner agreed that no definite changes had been made. "The baseball team will go on to Austin (for this weekend's league-opening three-game series with Texas). That's in UT's hands down there," said Garner. "I don't know of anything that has been changed."

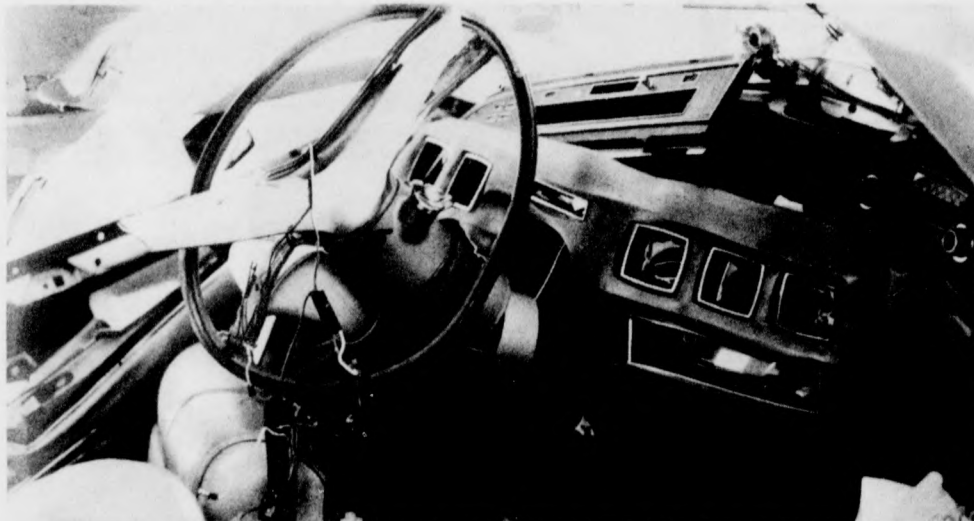

Chancellor James M. Moudy was leaving all changes up to Martin. "I don't know of anything that has changed," echoed Dr. Moudy. "There just hasn't been enough thinking about it."

State of Shock

"I asked the assistant coaches the same thing down at the hospital," Dr. Moudy said, "but they were still in a state of shock. They haven't thought past today."

"They are thinking of nothing but Coach Tohill, just standing around wishing they could do something, like the rest of us."

Dr. Moudy said that a faculty meeting, scheduled for Monday, will still be held.
