

Frog Nine Claims SWC Title

To Meet Farmers Tomorrow

By JIM HENDRICKS
The pressure is off. With TCU's first Southwest Conference baseball title in 23 years safely tucked away, the Frogs close out their regular season tomorrow afternoon with Texas A&M here.

The Christians will be out to bring their SWC mark to 13-2 in the Aggie game. In 1955, a regular Frog nine finished with a 2-13 record.

Junior righthander Ken Wineburg is expected to get the pitching call from Coach Dutch Meyer. Wineburg, a converted pitcher, has been used only sparingly this season.

Bob McDaniel was the winning pitcher Monday as TCU belted Rice, 9-5, to move within one victory of the championship. McDaniel is the conference's top hurler with an 8-1 record.

Those eight victories tied a conference record set by Bobby Layne of Texas in 1946.

The Christians sacked up the crown Tuesday by stomping last-place Texas, 9-1, on the Frog diamond. Frank Windgeger pitched a seven-hitter against the Steers to register his fourth league triumph.

The Purple, knotted 1-1 with Texas after the first inning, pulled away with two-run bursts in the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh frames.

Center-fielder Carl Warwick and shortstop Al Paschal led the Frogs at the plate with three hits each. The Longhorns contributed.

Four Seniors Awarded Vanderbilt Scholarships

Four TCU seniors have received scholarship grants totaling $1,000 from the Vanderbilt University School of Religion.

They are Michael Gehlen, Douglas Sanders, Richard Dulin and Bill Howerton. Howerton also is the recipient of a $200 Rockefeller Foundation grant.

The group will begin study at Vanderbilt in the fall. Gehlen, Sanders and Dulin will serve Tennessee Disciple churches.

No Special Examinations Planned Except for Graduating Seniors

No special test periods are scheduled during final examination week except for graduating seniors, Registrar Calvin A. Lambie said.

Departmental examinations will be given at the regularly scheduled time.

Tests will start Monday, May 28, and continue through Friday, June 1. All grades for seniors must be in the Registrar's Office by Tuesday, May 29.

The schedule follows:

HERE ARE TCU'S FIRST SOUTHWEST CONFERENCE BASEBALL CHAMPIONS IN 23 YEARS.

Chest Drive Closes; Total Due Tomorrow

By DAVE BROWN

With clubs, fraternities and sororities, Student Congress and individual students frantically raising money, TCU's annual Campus Chest drive rolled on to its merry conclusion last night.

When the final figures are in, prizes will be awarded the most generous—or energetic—club, fraternity and sorority.

Funds obtained by the drive will go to the World University Service, Jarvis Christian College, the Tarrant County Day Care Association, the Children's Opportunity Center, the YMCA World Service, Lena Pope Home, the TCU Student Emergency Fund and a board and room scholarship for one or more foreign students at TCU.

Last year the drive garnered $750. The goal this year is $1,956.

Final figures will be announced tomorrow by Dale Edmonds, Campus Chest chairman.

In other business, Tom Lyles, treasurer, announced a $5,000 position bond had been purchased for the Student Association treasurer.

The bond cost $25 and is good regardless of who holds the position of treasurer.

Lyles also reported that $5,000 of the Permanent Improvement Fund had been invested in the Farm and Home Savings and Loan Association of Fort Worth.

First dividends will be paid June 1.

Congress approved $95 to help purchase uniforms for the new cheerleaders.

The uniforms will cost approximately $300. The athletic department is furnishing $200.

Students To Direct Two Plays

Students in acting and directing classes will present two one-act plays in a free studio performance at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Little Theater.

An original play by Dr. William C. Nunn, "And Gladly Teach," will have its first public appearance.

Cast members are Misses Carolyn Falgeau, Esther Huckabee, Barbara Jones, Maralyn Boyens and Joe Douglas, Richard Midgett, Jack Beaven and Bob Thomas.

Director is K. Miller, and his assistant is Miss Jackie Hicks. "Junk" by Henry C. Smith will be the second play.

In the cast are Miss Pat Wood, Norman Perry, Milton Smith, Miss Sally Watt, Vic Robertson, Bob Thomas, Miss Nita Webb, and Ronald Boutwell.

Director will be Miss Diane McMurray.

Student Service Award Winner Will Be Named

The winner of a Congress-sponsored student service award will be announced next Thursday.

The $75 scholarship will go to the man or woman who has "done the most for the student body during 1955-56," as determined by a plurality vote in Congress.

Nominated for the award were Misses Barbara Alford, Jo Ann York, Angela Boone and Barbara Sullivan and Dale Edmonds, Ronny Coleman, Dave Brown and Joe Latham.

Mary Dell Brown Tops Writing Field

Miss Mary Dell Brown received two first-place awards yesterday to take top honors in the annual creative writing contest.

The Fort Worth sophomore, who also retained the $250 Creative Writing Scholarship she received at mid-term, was awarded the $10 prize for her short story, "The Last Autumn," and the $10 award for her non-fiction prose entry, "A Comparison of Values."

Miss Brown was presented by Miss Jacqueline Hicks, who won first place in the Lena Agnes Johnson Literature for Children Contest, tied for second in the Walter E. Bryson Poetry Contest and received an honorable mention in the short story contest.

Bill Camfield, Fort Worth senior, designated as the most recognized winner in 1954 and who won first place in the short story and Southwest Literature Contest last year, placed second in the short story contest and the non-fiction prose contest.

Awards totaling $105 were made after an address by Madison Cooper, Waco attorney and author. Mr. Cooper spoke in Ed Landreth Auditorium on "An Amiable Mixture."

Winners and speakers were honored with a luncheon in the SC ballroom.

Dr. Arthur Sampley, vice-president of North Texas State College, and a poet, spoke on "Meaning, Metaphor and Magic" at 3 p.m.

Winners in 11 divisions were presented with awards and copies of the creative writing publication containing their work. They include:

Margie B. Boswell Poetry Contest for TCU Graduates and Ex-Students:

First place, $25; "Elegy," by Mrs. Betsy Feagan Colquitt and "St. Francis" by Everett A. Gillis, Lubbock, a tie. Gillis was main speaker for Creative Writing Day last year.

Second place: "The Wind-harp," by Jenny Lind Porter, Austin.

Third place: "Four Women" by Mrs. Ramona Maher Martinez, Albuquerque, N. M., who placed second in the contest last year.

Honorable Mention: "Repeating Voyage," by Mrs. Joyce Rogers Shrake, Fort Worth; "Chance Encounter," by Frances Azile Taylor, Hollywood, Calif.; "Spring Is a Theory," by Mrs. Gerald Layton Miller, Jacksonville, Ill.

(See Writing Contest, Page 8)

Connolly, Mrs. Hall Win Gough Oratory Contest

By LINDA LEWIS

W. K. Connolly, Fort Worth sophomore, and Mrs. Billie Hall, Fort Worth junior, took first places in the men's and women's divisions of the 42nd annual Gough Oratorical Contest finals Wednesday in the Little Theater.

Both Connolly and Mrs. Hall are married students. This is the first time both first places have been taken by married persons, according to Dr. E. L.

Pross, chairman of the speech-theater-radio department.

Second place in the men's division wound up in a tie between K. Miller, Fort Worth senior, and Bobby Patton, Fort Worth sophomore.

This is the first tie for second place in the history of the contests.

Women's division runner-up was Miss Pat Wood Perryton freshman. Third was Miss Barbara McCoy, Jacksboro freshman.

Art Shop

Band Will Give Concert Sunday; Next Year's Majorettes Chosen

The Symphonic Band will present a free concert at 3:30 p.m. Sunday in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

The concert will be the first under the direction of James A. Jacobsen, director of bands.

On the program will be the march "Colorado," the prayer and dream pantomime from "Hansel and Gretel," the Phedre overture, "Meditation" from "Thais" and the "Force of Destiny" overture.

Also Offenbach's Orpheus overture, the Plantation song from "The Atlanta Suite," the Comedians' Gallop from "The Comediana" and the march "His Honor."

Eight majorettes and two drum majors will head the Horned Frog band next fall.

Chosen Saturday in tryouts among 15 high school seniors and two TCU freshmen were Misses Faye Redwine of Cisco, Linda Kay Arnett of Decatur, and Janeen Cunningham of Wharton.

Alternates are Misses Josie Bird of Arlington, Barbara Davis of Comanche and Sallie Raines of Kermit.

Billy Head of Groesbeck was chosen assistant drum major.

All will enter TCU in the fall.

They will join head majorettes Misses Barbara Alford and Freddie Broughton, and Misses Joyce Gibson, Maudie Harrall, and Joann Calcaterra, and Ruben Fechner in fronting the band.

The Ballet Preparatory Workshop will present "Cinderella" at 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday in Ed Landreth auditorium.

David Preston, instructor in ballet, is in charge.

Admission will be 50 cents and tickets may be obtained in the office of the School of Fine Arts.

Harris Cavender, Fort Worth junior, will present a piano recital at 8:15 p.m. tomorrow in Ed Landreth auditorium as partial fulfillment of a requirement for a major in piano.

"Telarama" will not be presented at 1 p.m. Sunday because of a "Telethon" on KFJZ-TV at that time.

In the final program of the year May 20, the physics department will demonstrate equipment and methods.

At the annual banquet Tuesday night of Sigma Alpha Eta, national honorary speech fraternity, officers for next year were installed.

They are Misses Kay Keller, president; Gayle Goldberg, vice president; treasurer, Marilyn Lund and secretary, Doris McBee.

Mrs. Dorothy Bell will speak at a combined banquet of the International Council of Exceptional Children, the Dallas Hearing Society, and the Dallas Council for the Oral Deaf at 7:30 p.m. Monday.

Mrs. Bell will speak on the problems of deafness.

Dr. Fallis Due Tribute By TCU Women Exes

Television actress Ann Jordan (Mrs. Charles Pugh, B.A. '45), will present a performance of her "Coffee Time Theater" at a meeting of the TCU Women Exes Association at 12 noon tomorrow in Ridglea Country Club.

The program, in tribute to the late Dr. Lewis D. Fallis, will consist of two sketches, "The Age of Television," and "Victoria in Retrospect."

Randolph to Receive Army Award Monday

Cadet Sgt. Robert M. (Bob) Randolph, Houston junior, will receive the Army Quartermaster Association award at presentation ceremonies Monday.

The award is presented yearly to 10 outstanding junior military science students in schools over the United States.

Randolph is a public administration major, a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Vigilantes, Government Club, and Alpha Chi. Last year he was awarded the TCU president award and scholarship.

Damon Veach Will Head ISCA During 1956-57

Damon Veach, Logansport, La., sophomore, was elected president of the Independent Students' Collegiate Association Monday night for the 1956-57 school year.

Others elected include Miss Louisa Smith, first vice president; Bob Price, second vice president; Miss Faye Kohler, secretary; and Miss Bernel Ivey, treasurer.

Deadline Is Announced For Dropping Classes

Saturday, May 19, is the deadline for dropping courses for the spring semester, Registrar Calvin A. Crumbe said.

30 Mexican Students to Be Here in July

Thirty men from Monterey Technological Institute will arrive July 1 in the first student exchange plan involving Mexican students' study at TCU.

TCU students have attended summer sessions at Monterey Tech for the past seven summers.

The students will take a concentrated course in English during July. Dr. Lyle H. Kendall, associate professor of English, who is coming to TCU this summer from U.S. Naval Academy, will teach the course. Egydio Romanenghi, of the Spanish department, will assist.

While in Fort Worth, the students will tour Fort Worth Greater International Airport, Art Gallery, a TV station, Forest Park Zoo and James Record Aquarium, General Motors plant at Arlington, as well as Dallas attractions.

They also will tour the Fort Worth City Library and City Hall, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram and Carswell Air Force Base.

Social affairs will include dinner at the homes of Fort Worth students and faculty members, a picnic at a typical Texas ranch, a party at the Fort Worth Boat Club, watermelon party in the Student Center and various movies.

Editorial Comment

Lightning struck twice in the Southwest Conference this year with the second bolt coming from the Frog baseball team.

Earlier, the football team ran through the conference like greased lightning.

This is a repeat performance of 1932-33, when the football eleven captured the conference crown and the baseball nine won its first Southwest Conference pennant.

Like a Bolt From the Blue

Until this week the title stood alone in TCU conference baseball wins. Now two pennants will rest in the trophy case.

The flag winning '33 nine was coached by a comparative newcomer to the conference, Leo (Dutch) Meyer.

The '56 aggregation also is coached, as everyone knows, by Dutch, no longer a fledgling.

Congratulations are in order to the current team, for at the start of the season few considered it as a threat. After a mediocre season last year the team was apparently headed for the same fate when it suddenly exploded and began its march toward the crown.

Once again, thanks to this year's Frogs.

From One to Eleven

Thirty-five years ago, the Creative Writing Contest was started by Walter Bryson, who offered one prize in poetry writing.

Today the contest includes 11 prizes—10 for students and one for exes.

In 1921 the award was presented at one of the three weekly chapel services. Yesterday, 1956, the prizes were given at a campus-wide convocation.

The contest has grown since its birth. This year 139 students entered, 10 more than last. With the increase in entries, the benefits received also have grown.

Winners of the various writing contests receive more than just a certificate of a college honor. This is an honor that lasts through life. The prestige of the Creative Writing Contest reaches far beyond the boundaries of the campus.

Many well-known and distinguished writers are past winners of the contest. Prizes or places won are often mentioned in biographies and are included in recommendations and biographical data.

In 35 years, one award has grown to 11 and the Creative Writing Contest is one of the most valuable and far-reaching services performed by the University.

Degree or Experience?

"What value is my college diploma in applying for a job after graduation?"

Often asked by graduating seniors, this question was answered rather discouragingly in a panel discussion during a three-day student tour sponsored by the Dallas Advertising League.

The question was answered by a group of advertising and marketing executives, who were considered representative of Dallas advertising. Though directed at a particular field the question,—but not necessarily the answer—holds true in most fields for any college graduate without an assured job.

The gist of the answer at the Dallas meeting, boiled down, seemed to be, "None, without experience."

Experience is the key word to a job apparently. How it can be expected of college students to have experience is beyond us. For four years their energy has been directed primarily toward obtaining a degree. According to the Dallas men, the college graduate is now well-prepared to start at the bottom of the heap. High school students, going right into employment, have four years experience and, the panel intimated, are exactly four years ahead of the college-degree holder. (But which will be further ahead 15 years from now?)

Another question follows: "Has my college education been a waste of time and money?"

The panel answered this one too. In some fields, experience is more necessary than a college education. However, in certain creative fields, a college education is mandatory.

Indications are that creative jobs are on a top management level where degrees are of primary importance. However, without experience, the graduate can't get on top and without a job, he can't get experience. A vicious circle?

All in all, a pretty bleak picture was painted.

There are perhaps two consolations for the college graduate:

1) If and when he gets to the top of the ladder, perhaps he will know enough not to fall off.

2) If he's lucky, father won't discover the value (?) some executives place on the ultimate result of the money he's investing in getting junior equipped with a college degree.

Wrapped Up in His Work

Noted Snake Collector Finds 'em, Keeps 'em

By LANTZ FERIS

The large sinister-looking snake, the color of a well-worn shiny blue serge suit, wiggled vainly trying to escape Dr. John Forsyth's firm grip.

"Actually he's harmless," the soft-spoken herpetologist said, "but he's rather short-tempered and will bite if he has a chance."

With that he dumped the snake back into a cloth bag.

Knotting the mouth of the bag, Dr. Forsyth gestured about the room, lined from floor to ceiling with preserved and live specimens, and said:

"I'm glad TCU doesn't object to my keeping a few pets around the office."

On the shelves was everything from pickled toads to live copperheads.

A few new boarders were added last weekend when Dr. Forsyth, a professor of biology, returned from a field trip to Stephen F. Austin Experimental Forest near Nacogdoches.

The trip was part of a meeting of the Texas Herpetological Society, of which Dr. Forsyth is president.

As a result of the expedition, the biologist brought back several live specimens including two cottonmouth water moccasins, a coach-whip, a coral snake and "sacks of assorted frogs and toads."

With the additions, Dr. Forsyth now has nine live snakes in his office. Five are poisonous.

The poisonous snakes are used to teach students to recognize dangerous types.

Keeping a roomful of snakes has its hazards of course. Cages containing poisonous varieties are kept securely padlocked.

This precaution, however is not taken with harmless specimens. This occasionally has led to trouble.

Once, a group of Cub Scouts, on a tour of the biology department, was taken through Dr. Forsyth's office. Somehow during the tour a cage containing a king snake was left unfastened.

The oversight went undiscovered, and the building was locked for the night.

About 3 a.m., Dr. Forsyth was jangled awake by a phone call from a nightwatchman who had found the snake loose in the building. Upon description, Dr. Forsyth identified it as harmless, then headed for the school.

He found an apprehensive nightwatchman at each end of an upper hall and the troublemaker coiled docilely midway between them. The snake was recaptured without incident.

Tuesday morning Dr. Forsyth was faced with another capture. Opening his office door, he found a gift from one of his students.

The present: an 18-inch snapping turtle, staring slugishly at him from the center of the floor.

Confidential SW Campus

By GEORGE SMITH

A&M—

As many know by now, the Aggies are on probation by the National Collegiate Athletic Association's action last week.

A&M President David E. Morgan said that all violations have been corrected and no one case has been reported in the past year.

The Battalion uncovered recent item which The Skiff should hasten to explain.

When plans for coeds living three to a room were announced, included was a statement that an anonymous apartment house would be leased to house some of the girls.

Said the Battalion — "How will a girl ever explain to her parents why she has been moved off-campus to an anonymous house?"

On second thought, The Skiff can't find an answer.

ARLINGTON STATE—

From the Shorthorn comes a column devoted to much ado about nothing containing an item concerning historical books. Wished someone would come up with an interesting one, maybe authored by Mickey Spillane.

Said he knew of one who tried to write such matter after reading it, not even Confidential would print it.

Send it along — we'll try anything once. Only two more issues anyway.

NORTH TEXAS—

Little known fact was announced to the United States via the Tonight TV program with Steve Allen doing the honors.

The Five Front, a jazz group from North Texas, played number on the program after which Allen said the school was the only one of which he knew that offered a degree in jazz. Dr. Gene Hall, the director of a well known historian in jazz circles, was cited by Allen for the group.

Saw the group in action and believed it put forth an effort of which their school can be proud.

ARKANSAS—

A candidate for office at Arkansas came up with a snappy fire vote getting slogan if the administration goes along with his proposal.

The outspoken politician, in favor of a "grade support program which he says is similar to a "guaranteed annual grade — GAG."

The candidate says this system "will just about take the uncertainty out of going to college."

From the helpful hint department of The Skiff to next year's politicians.

Prof. Stimson Gets EC Post

Prof. Troy Stimson has been grounded at least for part of the time.

The aviation-minded founder of the Flying Frogs and National Intercollegiate Flying Association has been named assistant to Dean Cortell Holsapple in the Evening College, effective June 1.

Prof Stimson will help with administrative details, student enlistment, in-plant and short courses. He also will continue to instruct some aviation courses.

Prof Stimson started the NIFA in 1948 after the University Aeronautics Association decided to quit sponsoring intercollegiate flying.

TILL WE MEET AGAIN

I always find myself yawning hugely when a comedian, having finished his act, steps out in front of the curtain, takes off his putty nose, assumes a sincere stance, and delivers an oration full of tender and lofty sentiments.

So how come I'm doing precisely the same thing right now?

Two reasons. First, because I couldn't possibly make you laugh at this time of the year; cramming for finals has left you wan, woebegone, and in no mood for innocent merriment.

Second, because this is the last column of the current series, and I'd be a liar if I didn't admit I was just a tiny bit choked up.

It was two years ago that the makers of Philip Morris asked me to write this column. My first impulse, frankly, was to say no. Though I am a man who likes a dollar as well as the next fellow, my talents just do not seem to lead me in the direction of writing advertising copy. When called upon to rhapsodize about soap or sox or cigarettes, I get to giggling uncontrollably and have to be helped home.

"Buddies," said I to the makers of Philip Morris, "I smoke Philip Morris myself, and I think it's a jim-dandy cigarette. But that's all I think it is — a cigarette. Not a graven image. Not a love object. Just a smoke. I'm afraid I can't get reverent enough to write ad copy for you."

To my astonishment, they seemed delighted. "Reverence is not required," said the people at Philip Morris. They assured me that I would not be required to write fulsome commercials — that I could rib the cigarette and the company all I liked — that my columns would be mine alone, with no editing, no suggestions, and no supervision.

"Hah!" I said by way of reply.

But they kept insisting and finally, my thin breast full of misgivings, I went to work.

For the first few weeks they were scrupulously true to their words. Not one syllable, not one comma, was ever changed; not one quarter-ounce of pressure was ever exerted. But my doubts were not laid to rest. "When will the honeymoon be over?" I kept asking myself.

...the honeymoon is still going on

The answer, gentle readers, is that the honeymoon is still going on. This finishes my second year for Philip Morris. During that time, though I'm sure my copy caused an occasional conniption fit in the boardroom, my carte blanche has remained as blanche as the day it was issued. Whatever I've perpetrated in this column has been, as they guaranteed, mine alone.

They've been living dolls, the makers of Philip Morris, and I think I may be forgiven for getting a trifle misty. And as long as the stops are out, let me say that it's also been a big charge writing for you, the college population of America. Your response has warmed my old heart, and on the occasions when I've visited your campuses, it's been deeply gratifying to see that you're still as pleasantly disorganized as ever. I figure that as long as the likes of you exist, I'm in business.

So, for now, goodbye. Stay well. Stay happy. Stay loose.

©Max Shulman, 1956

Old Max has said it all. We, the makers of Philip Morris, can only add a heartfelt second chorus: Stay well. Stay happy. Stay loose.

Balanced Field Collides At Arkansas Tomorrow

What may be the best-balanced field in several years will compete this weekend in the annual Southwest Conference track meet at Fayetteville.

Just about every school in the loop has a chance to pick up a sizeable number of points in both track and field events, with the University of Texas rated a solid favorite to take team honors.

The Longhorns will rely upon their rapid-moving dash men for the bulk of their points. Texas A&M has been accorded an edge in field events.

But Baylor, SMU and Arkansas could foul up the two favorites' title plans. All three schools have strong entries in both divisions.

TCU's only real shot at an individual event victory rides the slim legs of hurdler Bill Curtis.

Curtis will be favored in the high hurdles, an event which he won in his only appearance two years ago. Curtis was not in school last year.

Two Mural Teams Earn Playoffs

Two intramural softball teams earned playoff posts as a result of games played this week.

Phi Delta Theta came from behind to beat Delta Tau Delta 11-7 in the final game of Tuesday afternoon league play.

The Fabulous Independents routed the Brite Boys 23-7 to gain the honors in the Monday afternoon independent league.

In other leagues playoff positions are still undecided.

Lambda Chi Alpha and SAE lead the Thursday afternoon fraternity league each with 2-0 won-lost records.

The Royals lead the Wednesday afternoon independent league.

Playoff schedules will be announced as soon as all league games are played. Student Intramural Directors Van Rathgeber said.

The Waurika, Okla., junior has run the timbers in 14.0 once already this season, the top reading to date among conference hurdlers.

Texas will enter such standouts as Bobby Whilden in the 100-yard dash, Whilden in the 220, Lavern Voigt in the 440, Bob Hanson in the 880 and record-shaving teams in the 440-yard and mile relays.

A&M's strength will come from such worthies as Tom Bonorden, defending champion in shot put Bobby Gross in the discus, Jim Clark and Winton Thomas in the pole vault and Emmett Smallwood in the low hurdles and broad jump.

Favorites in other events include SMU's Clarence Miller and Baylor's Fred Bentley and Tom Kelly in the high jump, Arkansas' Ed Morton in the mile run and Morton and Texas' Walter McNew in the two-mile race.

David Weaver of SMU ranks as the pre-meet choice in the 880-yard run, while Oran Helvey of A&M and Ed Keasler of Rice are favored in the javelin throw.

Best bets for double winners in the 1956 meet should be Whilden of Texas in the 100 and 220 and Smallwood of A&M in the low hurdles and broad jump.

Other TCU entries rated a chance in the meet are John Mitchell, discus; Jack Webb, shot put; Virgil Miller, broad jump; and Clarence Culwell, 880.

During the meet, Southwest Conference officials will meet to rule on admission of Texas Tech and/or the University of Houston to the conference. This is expected to be the best chance Tech has had for admission in history.

The conference fathers also are expected to decide upon the keeping or dropping of a 1955 probationary ruling against Texas A&M, which barred the Aggies from post-season competition until 1957.

Two weeks ago, the NCAA passed a similar ruling against the Cadets, banning them from any national competition sponsored by that agency.

Frogs Bow To Baylor

TCU golfers lost to Baylor, 4-2, Tuesday in the season's final Southwest Conference match.

The Frogs took the No. 2 singles match and the No. 1 doubles.

Larry Smith beat George Hale, 6-5, in singles play and Eldridge Miles and Smith whipped Ronnie Honeycutt and Hale, 3-2, in the No. 1 doubles match.

Honeycutt edged Miles, 1 up, in the No. 1 singles match.

Baylor also took the third and fourth singles with Eddie Parma downing Everett Hull, 3-2 and Kenneth Helms defeating Delzon Elenburg, 5-4.

Baseball

The Frogs also swiped eight bases, with Warwick garnering four and Paschal two.

The victory over Texas qualified TCU for a spot in the NCAA regional playoffs later this month with Arizona, champion of the Border Conference.

The two teams will meet in a best two-of-three series May 21 at Tucson, Ariz., to decide the regional title. The winner of the regional round will be qualified for the NCAA final beginning next month at Omaha, Neb. A national college champion will be decided then from several regions across the country.

The Wildcats are defending Border Conference title. They defeated A&M last year in the regional playoffs.

What young people are doing at General Electric

Young ad man handles G-E jet and rocket engine advertising

The first jet engine ever to power an American plane was built by General Electric in 1942. Since 1948, G.E. has supplied the Air Force with over 30,000 of its famous J47 jet engines. And General Electric's jet experience soon will be paying additional new dividends to national defense. Its J79—called the most advanced engine of its type in the world—will soon enter production.

The man responsible for reporting G.E.'s jet and rocket engine progress to its customers and the public is Roy O. Stratton, Jr., 27-year-old account supervisor in the Company's Apparatus Advertising and Sales Promotion Department.

Stratton's Work Important, Interesting

Stratton supervises the planning and preparation of direct-mail promotion, brochures, films and presentations, as well as public-informational space advertisements for Time, U.S. News & World Report, Business Week, Aviation Week, and other magazines.

Considerable personal contact with the Armed Services makes Stratton's job an interesting one. Last year he traveled over 60,000 miles, visiting many of the country's Air Force bases to gather necessary information and pictures.

25,000 College Graduates at General Electric

When Stratton came to General Electric in 1952, he already knew the kind of work he wanted to do. Like each of our 25,000 college graduates, he is being given the chance to grow and realize his full potential. For General Electric has long believed this: when fresh young minds are given the freedom to develop, everybody benefits—the individual, the Company, and the country.

SPORTLIGHT

By JIM HENDRICKS

About two months ago, you could have bought TCU's chances in the Southwest Conference baseball race with a tin penny. No pitching behind Bob McDaniel, the experts said. Too little experience in several key spots, they continued, pointing a scornful finger also at the dismal cellar finish of 1955 and noting that the veterans on the '56 club were the same ones who had fallen on their faces last year.

Dutch Meyer must have been angered considerably by that kind of talk. And when Dutch gets het up, things start to pop.

He went to work building his kind of team, a hustling, fire-spitting squad, ready to do anything for a run. Dutch demanded of his men that they be in top physical condition. They got that way fast.

The Dutchman's outfit perked up at the opening bell for family play and kicked those early predictions in the teeth. They clobbered Baylor, dropped one to SMU, then embarked on a nine-game winning streak which left them on the brink of TCU's first diamond crown since 1933 and its second in history.

The Mustangs delayed celebrations a bit last Saturday at Dallas, but four days and victories over Rice and Texas later, the Christians came off the field pounding each other on the back and jabbering wildly about the upcoming NCAA regional playoffs with the University of Arizona.

There are a lot of reasons why the Frogs led the pack.

There was the surprise development of four sophomores, Carl Warwick, Willie Maxwell, Travis Groom and Jim Shofner, into high-caliber ball players. Warwick had been rated a good prospect prior to the opening game, but the other three had been more or less overlooked by the prediction artists. But not by Dutch.

McDaniel proved the big gun on the mound that he was supposed to be. With "Mac" in there, the Frogs had a touch of class which separated them from run-of-the-mill squads.

Frankie Windegger's coming of age as the Christians' No. 2 thrower was the added spark, though. Now owning a reliable second-line chunker, Dutch could afford to sweat his pitching problems a bit less.

Larry Roseborough, unnoticed for two years behind the plate, arrived offensively and defensively as a first-quality backstop. Groom anchored first base and added a timely hit here and there. Charley Quick remained a steady, capable second base guardian, with his hitting improved greatly over 1955.

Al Paschal, the slender senior at short, displayed a touch of near-professional ability with wood and glove. If any single individual on the club could be cited for doing more than his share in the race to the flag, it would have to be the Frogs' whippet-fast leadoff hitter.

Shofner at third and Maxwell in left gave the Purple a strong port side defensively. Warwick, in center, turned into a fine outfielder and a lethal swatter.

Bob White, holding down the cleanup slot in the batting order, provided the long ball at opportune moments.

And, of course, there was that business of baserunning, a practically-forgotten art revived by Dutch to take advantage of his team's natural speed. The Frogs won many a game primarily because opposing hurlers couldn't remain at peak efficiency with the pesky Christians on the paths.

Overall it was a team triumph, a surprising combination of individual performances which scrambled the March ratings something awful. The new assistant coach, Rabbit McDowell, was a big factor, too. His strategic know-how and technical advice were an invaluable boost.

But give the biggest chunk of credit to an old warhorse named Meyer. Determination, he taught, and it paid off.

Girls Walked A Mile From J. Paul Sheedy* Till Wildroot Cream-Oil Gave Him Confidence

"Done anything tonight honey?" Sheedy asked his little desert flower. "Get lost!" she shrieked, "Your hair's too shaggy, Sheedy. Confidentially it sphinx!" Well, this was really insultant. So J. Paul got some Wildroot Cream-Oil. Now he's the picture of confidence because he knows his hair looks handsome and healthy the way Nature intended . . . neat but not greasy. Take Sheedy's advice. If you want to be popular, get a bottle or tube of Wildroot Cream-Oil. Nomad-der if your hair is straight or curly, thick or thin, a few drops of Wildroot Cream-Oil every morning will keep you looking your best. You'll agree Wildroot really keeps Sahara-n place all day long.
