

September 3, 1937.

Mr. Silliman Evans, Publisher,
The Nashville Tennessean,
Nashville, Tenn.

Dear Silliman:

This will introduce to you Mrs. Carl Deakins, who, as you may recall, has been my secretary for seventeen years. She and Mr. Deakins are going to spend their vacation in Tennessee and will pass through Nashville.

Mrs. Deakins is anxious to see a modern newspaper plant and I told her, by all means, to stop off and see you, as I felt it would be a privilege to give your plant the once over. (She has liability insurance.)

While I realize you are extremely busy, if it is not an imposition, I would appreciate any courtesy extended Mrs. Deakins.

With best wishes, I remain,

Sincerely,

AGC.KD