TCU WILL HONOR ALUMNUS/NEWSMAN SCHIEFFER

Bob Schieffer, Fort Worth native and TCU alumnus who spends his professional life calling attention to world news, will be in the spotlight himself during commencement Saturday. The award-winning CBS newsman will be awarded the honorary Doctor of Humanities degree.

Some 775 earned degrees will be conferred upon Class of 1986 members during the ceremony, which will begin at 7:30 p.m. in Daniel-Meyer Coliseum. Chancellor Bill Tucker will preside.

Participating in the honorary degree portion of the occasion will be Vice Chancellor Bill Koehler and Faculty Senate chair Ed McNertney. Special music will be presented by the Symphonic Winds under the direction of Bob Blanton. The call to worship and benediction will be given by Vice Chancellor Paul Hartman, and Ruth Whitlock will lead the hymn and alma mater.

Schieffer is internationally known as chief Washington correspondent for CBS News and anchorman of the Saturday edition of "CBS Evening News." A member of the CBS staff since 1969, he has served as the network's Pentagon, State Department, national and White House correspondent. He has anchored every major news program of CBS News in addition to traveling throughout the world on assignments. Schieffer spent some three months in Argentina covering the Falklands War. He also has reported from conferences or summits held in the Soviet Union, China, the Middle East, Africa and Europe. For his reporting, Schieffer has won four Emmys and an Overseas Press Club award.

Schieffer was a reporter for the Fort Worth Star-Telegram after earning a bachelor's degree in journalism at TCU in 1959. He became the first war correspondent from a Texas newspaper during the Vietnam War. Prior to joining CBS News, he was an anchorman for WBAP-TV, now KXAS-TV.

Earlier this spring Schieffer was elected to TCU's board of trustees.

Named by the alumni association in 1981 as its first Homecoming Honoree, Schieffer was featured speaker for that weekend's Century Club luncheon. In 1983 he was awarded an honorary doctoral degree by Austin College.

Schieffer serves on the board of the Corcoran Museum of Art in Washington, DC, and paints in his spare time. He has studied art at the Art Students League in New York, and his works have been seen regularly in Washington-area galleries. He holds membership in Sigma Delta Chi/Society of Professional Journalists.

Schieffer and his wife, the former Patricia Penrose of Fort Worth and also a TCU graduate, have two daughters, Susan and Sharon.

TWO EVENTS WILL HONOR GRADUATES

Spring graduates, along with those who completed their degrees in December, and members of their families will be honored at two Saturday afternoon events.

An organ recital will be presented by sophomore organ major Guillermo Willie Martinez of Texas City. Open to the public, the program will begin at 2:15 p.m. in Robert Carr Chapel.

Hosted by the University, a reception for graduating seniors and their families is planned for 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. in the Student Center ballroom. The special occasion offers opportunity for faculty and staff to join in the day's festivities with the graduates.

TCU AMONG PARTICIPANTS IN MAY 14 PROGRAM

Academic programs offered at 20 private institutions throughout the South, including TCU and SMU, will be discussed with high school students and their parents during a free session on May 14. Sponsored by the 20-member Southern Consortium, the public event will be held in Dallas at The Lincoln Hotel, 5410 LBJ Freeway, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Formal presentations as well as personal sessions with representatives of the independent colleges and universities will be included in the evening session. The diverse educational opportunities of the member institutions, all of which practice selective admissions, will be discussed. High school counselors in the Fort Worth/Dallas area are being invited to a May 15 breakfast with consortium representatives.

Members of the Southern Consortium, founded in 1979, all subscribe to an ethical code assuring good practice and selectivity in college admission. The institutions include Rice and Trinity universities along with TCU and SMU in Texas. Other members are Agnes Scott, Davidson, Hollins, Rhodes, Rollins and Newcomb colleges in addition to Emory, Furman, Sewanee, Stetson, Tulane, Miami, Richmond, Vanderbilt, Wake Forest and Washington and Lee universities.

Serving as contact persons for Fort Worth/Dallas area residents are admissions dean Ned Boehm and SMU admissions director Andrew Bryant.

FAMILY STUDIES/HOME EC ADDS FOUR MAJORS

Four new programs leading to the bachelor's degree in family studies and home economics will be added to existing programs beginning with the 1986 fall semester. As announced by department chairman Marilyn Eigsti, the new concentrations will be in human development, programs for young children and early childhood delivery system, all in the B.S. degree program, along with family studies and home economics for the B.A. degree. Vocational home economics and family studies, which have been the major areas of study, both lead to the B.S. degree. Teacher certification is a part of the programs in early childhood education and vocational home economics education.

"This realignment of major studies will give each program its own identity as related to specific courses," Marilyn explained. "Each specialization has been designed to prepare students for professional careers in addition to serving as foundations for graduate studies."

As an example of the specialization, she called attention to the need for human development studies in such careers as social service positions in business, government and education. "In this program, which is the only one of its kind in the Fort Worth/Dallas area, we focus on the understanding of individual needs from birth to death."

The relationship between the individual and his/her environment is the major emphasis in the department's six degree majors. "The broad area of home economics encompassed in these programs provides a unique setting for such specialized studies," the chairman said.

After the cadets are commissioned, F-4 jets will fly over the stadium, and the 8th Air Force Marching Band will perform. That night the new officers will be honored by family and friends at a private ball.

The commissioning of seven new Army officers will be held at 10 a.m. in Room 141N of the Moudy Building. Faculty and staff are invited to attend both ceremonies.

TWO GRADS EARN PRESTIGIOUS FELLOWSHIPS

Coveted fellowships for doctoral study have been awarded to two recent graduates. Carol Sumner Schneider, who earns the M.Div. from Brite this week, has been named a Mellon Fellow in the Humanities, and Troy Davis (B.A. '84) will study abroad on an ITT International Fellowship.

Carol, a resident of Waverly, IA, and a graduate of the University of Iowa, will begin work in the fall on the Ph.D. in historical theology at the University of Chicago. Troy, who is completing his M.A. degree in history at Marquette University this spring, will study at Trinity College in Dublin.

KICKAPOO FOOD AND CLOTHING DRIVE UNDERWAY

TCU's giving tradition continues May 12-16 with a student-sponsored drive to collect food and clothing for the Kickapoo Indians.

The Kickapoos, most of whom live under a bridge between the Texas and Mexico border near Eagle Pass, lost half their village to fire earlier this year. Some of the families have moved onto nearby land donated to the tribe, and the others will probably join them by the end of the year, according to the Rev. Larry Crocker, minister of First Christian Church in Rockdale.

The TCU drive, organized by the Social Justice Task Force of the Campus Christian Community, is designed to replace articles that were destroyed in the fire. Clothing, small appliances and nonperishable food items are being sought. The drive is deliberately set at the end of the school year while students are packing to leave for the summer. A similar drive by students last year netted 25,000 pounds of goods--enough to fill an 18-wheeler.

This year a truck, whose use is donated by Moore Transportation Company, will be parked in front of TCU's Brown-Lupton Student Center throughout the drive. Donated goods can be deposited at the truck; collection boxes have also been placed in the dorms. Additional volunteers are needed to collect the boxes and may contact Sylvia Balch in the UM office for instructions. Monetary donations, including a special collection taken at Brite's May 6 chapel service, will be used to purchase staples. Checks may be mailed to University Ministries, Box 32898.

MFA SHOW STARTS TODAY

Figurative abstractions by graduate student Chris Williamson of South Hadley, MA, will make up the year's closing show today (Tuesday) through Saturday in Moody Building Exhibition Hall. Williamson's works are created of laminated wood painted in acrylics, oils and other media. A graduate of Dartmouth College, he is a Master of Fine Arts candidate.

Hours of the showing are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays and 1-4 p.m. Saturday. Opening reception will be held from 5:30 to 7 p.m. today.

WRIGHT, SCHOLA PERFORM HERE MONDAY

Congressman Jim Wright will join Schola Cantorum of Texas in a unique performance in Ed Landreth Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Monday. The majority leader will narrate dramatic passages from the writings of Thomas Jefferson as Schola performs Randall Thompson's "Testament of Freedom."

The collaboration between Congressman Wright and Schola is a repeat of a highly successful performance at the Kennedy Center in Washington, DC, in June 1985. Tickets are $8 for adults and $5 for students and senior citizens.

SERVICES HELD FOR TCU HONOREE THOMAS

Funeral services for Julian B. Thomas, past president of Texas Electric Service Co. who was awarded the honorary Doctor of Laws degree by TCU in 1975, were conducted May 10. Credited with "bringing electricity, water and prosperity to West Texas towns in the 1940s and 1950s," he died May 7.

Under the leadership of Thomas, who earned two degrees from Texas A&M and was honored by his alma mater in 1974 as one of its distinguished alumni, TESCO added 11,000 miles of electrical power lines and 265,000 customers in West Texas area. He also was instrumental in the development of a 204,000-acre-foot lake in the Big Spring-Odessa area as well as other such surface water supplies as lakes in Arlington, Graham, Colorado City and the Leon Reservoir. He was a pioneer in the construction of above-ground power plants and assisted with nuclear power research projects.

Thomas, an internationally known engineering consultant for the electric power industry, was president and general manager of TESCO for 20 years before being named its board chairman in 1961. His civic interests included heading the trustees of the Mary Coats Burnett Trust of Fort Worth and serving on the boards of the Dallas/Fort Worth Airport, University of Dallas and Oklahoma Christian College, Council of Scientific Societies and The Association for Graduate Education and Research (TAGER). His directorships included the Chamber of Commerce, YMCA and Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show.

IT'S LAST CALL FOR ON CALL

TCU News Service will produce a new "On Call" this summer, so that a complete listing of faculty and staff members and their fields of study will be available in the fall to serve as both a media guide and a speakers booklet for Fort Worth organizations.

The deadline for submitting information was April 15, and the response from faculty and staff has been excellent. To anyone who forgot to send back the information form, we say: "There's still time to get it in before the semester's end. If you've misplaced the form we sent, just call Ext. 7810, and we'll gladly provide another."

FOOTBALL TICKETS ARE AVAILABLE NOW

Tickets for the Horned Frogs' six-game home season for fall are available now in the ticket office at Daniel-Meyer Coliseum. The ticket office is open from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays. Deadline for these purchases is June 27.

IT'S A SPORTY SUMMER AHEAD

Any youngster interested in sports should find a spot at TCU this summer, when camps will be held in football, basketball, soccer, baseball and tennis.

Tennis camps by Tut Bartzzen for both boys and girls will be conducted June 2-6, June 9-16 and June 16-20. June 8-12 are the dates for Jim Wacker's football camp senior division (ages 13 and up), both overnight and day camp. Day camp only will be held June 9-11 for the youth division (ages 8-12).

Bragg Stockton will be conducting baseball camps for boys June 9-13, June 16-20, June 23-27, June 30-July 4, July 7-11, July 14-18 and July 21-25. Fran Garmon's girls basketball camps will be June 15-20 and June 22-27.

Dave Rubinson will be running four soccer camps--June 22-27 for girls, July 6-11 for boys and co-ed camps July 14-18 and July 28-Aug. 1. Last of the summer camps will be four basketball sessions for boys under the direction of Jim Killingsworth--July 13-18, July 20-25, July 27-Aug. 1 and shooting camp Aug. 4-6.

HONORS COME TO STUDENT TRAINERS

Ross Bailey has plenty to brag about as the school year ends. Three of his students in athletic training have earned special honors.

Elliott Hill, graduating senior from Austin, has been hired by the Dallas Cowboys for a new graduate-internship program. He will serve as the Cowboy's second assistant trainer. Randy Reaves, a graduate of Brewer High School in White Settlement, is one of only 20 students in the nation to be awarded a National Athletic Trainers Association Scholarship. Lampasas senior Britt Brown has been picked to work at the Cowboy training camp in Thousand Oaks, CA. He follows four other TCU seniors who previously helped at the camp.

COOKE, CHAPMAN HEAD SKIFF AND IMAGE

Alea Cooke of Boyd and Cathy Chapman of Duncanville will be editors of The Daily Skiff and Image, respectively, for the fall semester. Selections of top staff positions for both publications were made at the April 29 meeting of the student publications committee, chaired by economist John Wortham.

A senior majoring in broadcast journalism, Alea interned last summer at the Wise County Messenger and will return there for the coming summer months. Pursuing the news-editorial track of journalism, Cathy interned last fall with the National Urban Coalition through TCU's Washington Internship program and was associate editor of its newsletter. Since mid-spring, she had been co-editor of The Daily Skiff.

Stephanie Lathouras of Arlington, a junior majoring in advertising, was chosen as advertising manager for both student publications.

NOTES ON FOLKS

Journalism chair DOUG NEWSOM has just returned from West Virginia where she presented Bethany College's first endowed Benedum Lectures and lectured to classes May 4-9. While there she stayed in the historic Gresham House.

HARRY OGAWA (Marriott Food Service) has been named interim catering manager following ED SCULLY's acceptance of a position with a Pensacola, FL, company. Harry can be reached at 923-4401. TOM SCHUMAKER and STAN HUDGINS will be assisting him.

"How to Improve Your Golf Game," issued by Chisum, is the latest work of CHARLES KEMP (distinguished emeritus, Brite) in cooperation with Colonial Country Club's head pro Roland Harper. Consisting of conversations between them about all aspects of the game, the volume also includes biographical sketches of some of the world's greatest golfers and how their experiences can help the average player. Both Colonial Club's pro shop and University Christian Church have copies for sale.

Adjudicating band and orchestra competitions has kept CURT WILSON (music) busy this spring. On March 1 he was sight-reading judge for UTA's Jazz Festival competition. He adjudicated concert bands, orchestras and jazz ensembles at the Liberty Bell Music Festival in Philadelphia April 26-27. On May 3 he judged the Texas Catholic Bandmasters high school jazz festival in Dallas, and this weekend he was in Chicago to adjudicate the Greater Midwest Music Festival.

Back at TCU, Curt's TCU Jazz Ensemble, bluegrass band and Cowtown Dixieland Brigade played a total of five performances during Fort Worth's Main Street Festival and on May 7 performed at the 30th anniversary festivities for Texas Commerce Bank in Hurst. One of Curt's former graduate assistants, KIM CORBET (M.M. 1978), is a classical music disc jockey for KERA and also is on the faculty at both SMU and UT-Dallas.

Sympathy is extended to CECILIA GREENWOOD (dean of students office) on the May 3 death of her sister, Miss Helen Henry, lifelong Fort Worth resident. Mass of Christian Burial was held May 6 at St. Andrews Catholic Church.

JOHN LARGE (music) attended Symposium/Workshop IV of The Foundation for Research in Singing of the International Association for Research in Singing at New York University April 26. John presented a paper titled "A Study of the Literature on the Training of the Young Singing Voice." He is also general secretary of the association.

An article by DARYL SCHMIDT (religion-studies) on "Biblical Hermeneutics on Peace Making in the Bishops' Pastoral" is included in the April issue of the Biblical Theology Bulletin.

DAVID GRANT's book, "God the Center of Value," is one of only 21 in the field of religion to be selected by the American Library Association publication Choice as an "Outstanding Academic Book of 1985-86." The book was published by TCU Press.

She also presented a paper on gifted and talented reading instructional programs to the annual session of the International Reading Association in Philadelphia. That paper will appear in the next issue of the journal Challenge Research and Teaching the Gifted Child. SMALL BUSINESS SEMINAR RESCHEDULED

A seminar on small business entrepreneurship, which was originally scheduled for April 30, will be offered from noon to 3 p.m. tomorrow (Wednesday) in the TAGER-TV studio.

Open to faculty and staff members as well as students, the seminar will examine several tax structure alternatives and other "getting started" decisions important to long-term success or failure of small businesses. These decisions and optional approaches will be discussed.

The seminar was produced by Arthur Young's Entrepreneurial Services group and is offered through the PBS National Narrowcast System and will be viewed on monitors in the TAGER studio. TAGER is operated by continuing education. Additional information is available from Muirheid at Ext. 7632.

TCU IN THE NEWS

Journalist TOMMY THOMASON was the interview subject for Channel 4's segment on victims of crime and the media that aired April 16 and 17. The subject, which more and more is in the spotlight, will be the theme of a national symposium hosted by the journalism department late in the fall.

Needs of family members of alcoholics was the topic HAP KLINEFELTER (counseling) discussed on the KMEZ Radio talk show on April 20.

MALATHI and SUMATHI VENKATAPPAN, who became "firsts" when both were tapped for membership in Phi Beta Kappa recently, were the subjects of a feature story that appeared April 20 in the Dallas Morning News.

"Those Who Can, Teach" was the heading on a spotlight section story in the May issue of FORT WORTH Magazine about TCU's executive-in-residence program. The story focused on the current visitor, Bob Davis, and was complemented by his photo.

"Private colleges run a quart low on oil money" was the headline on Kim Brewer's Star-Telegram story on April 24. Quoted in the story was Chancellor BILL TUCKER, who noted that for some time TCU has been investing some of its oil income in a "quasi-endowment" fund.

Student STEVE CODER, wearing a Long John Silver cap, was shown in the April 26 Star-Telegram as he competed in the annual ROTC Trinity River raft race. His First Platoon of Alpha Company came in second.

"State's school districts hustle to woo prospective teachers" was the headline for the April 23-24 story in the Star-Telegram EXTRA about teacher placement. Teacher placement coordinator DALE YOUNG was quoted extensively regarding competition for beginning teachers.

Criminal justice program director BILL HEAD was the source used by the Star-Telegram for its April 23-24 story on terrorism. International terrorism "may be the type of war we will see" in what Bill describes as "a new era."

TCU has no plans to participate in the prepaid tuition program, according to Chancellor BILL TUCKER, who was quoted on the subject in the April 23 Star-Telegram. Some area institutions, including SMU, offer such plans on a limited basis.

Outtakes from coach JIM WACKER's TV shows last fall were used by KXAS-TV sports director Scott Murray on April 27 to pay tribute to Jim in recognition of his 49th birthday...and his hosting the first American Heart Association golf tournament April 28 at Shady Oaks Country Club.

"Not whether you win or lose, but how you think about the game" was the Star-Telegram's heading for the April 27 review of "Sport Inside Out," the TCU PRESS volume authored by DAVID VANDERWERKEN (English) and SPENCER WERTZ (philosophy).
