Dear Ame:-

If anyone is going to make a lot of money, I don't know who I would rather see make it than you! You certainly have put across a great big proposition in Fort Worth, and things would be all wrong if you did not cash in on it after having built it up.

I cannot get the idea out of my mind, though, that if you ever want to take in more territory you will be just as successful as you have been in Fort Worth. My experience is that it is just as easy to do a great big thing -- and in many cases much easier -- than it is to do a medium-sized stunt. Please don't understand me as saying that the Fort Worth proposition is a piking proposition because I don't mean that at all. I do think, however, that the opportunities in New York are much greater than in any smaller community.

I saw Harry Browner on the street the other day, and he said that he had just left you and that you expected to be in New York shortly. I am wondering if he had this straight, as I sincerely hope I will not miss you while I am out of town from February 21st to March 4th. If you do intend to be in New York shortly, I certainly wish you would let me know.

Very sincerely yours,
