Grid Teams Clash
In Spring Training

"Camel Club" and "Old Gold"
Squad Meet in First Game of Season.

Note: This game was played too late to get the winner in the Skiff.

The first pitched battle between the two teams of the Texas Christian University spring football camp took place Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. With more than thirty men reporting for the workouts, Coach Ed Kubale, who has charge of the practice, has divided the squad into two groups, one, "The Camel Club," is captained by "Possum" Clark, the other, "The Old Gold Club," is headed by Ody Thompson, Frog fullback of last season.

These two clubs will meet in a regular game each week of the training period, and the winning team will be treated to a theater party downtown.

Fundamentals will be stressed in the training, according to Kubale, with much emphasis being placed on tackling, blocking, and interference running. This is the first year that spring football at T. C. U. has approached success, but with every man of last year's squad who is not out for track or baseball, as well as many others, reporting, Head Coach Matty Bell will be able to get a line-up on his team for next fall. The squad reporting now is bigger than the Purple squads of the past two regular seasons.

Handball Is Taken
Up by T.C.U. Girls

Nine Go Out for Team—
W.A.A. Adopts Game
as Minor Sport

Girls of Texas Christian University have been stealing the boys' stuff again. They have taken up handball, which has been strictly a boys' sport until about two weeks ago, when girls first began to manifest interest in the sport.

Edith Hudson and Elizabeth Harris were the first to learn the rules of the game and it is through their interest that other girls have taken up this sport.

The boys taught the girls to play and showed them many of the tricks of the game, never dreaming of the trouble which they have brought to themselves. Each day boys stand in line waiting for their fair sisters to tire of their new sport and leave the court to them. As there are only two handball courts at the gymnasium, it is probable that hours of play will be divided between the boys and girls.

Even though handball is conducive to reducing, working up a good sweat in a few minutes, none of the girls who are playing need to lose weight. The largest girl weighs only 131 pounds.

All of the girls out for handball also play tennis. Two are members of the varsity tennis team.

The Woman's Athletic Association of T. C. U. recently voted to adopt handball as a minor sport and points toward the awards given by the association may be earned by practicing 30 hours and playing in a certain number of games. The number will be decided later. Allene Allen of Fort Worth, was recently elected W. A. A. manager of handball and is arranging a tournament.

Nine girls are out for the team and several others have signified their intention of coming out. The following girls have reported to the manager for practice: Edith Hudson, Elizabeth Harris, Betty Glenn, Pauline Barnes, Cecelia Byrnes, Hazel Kinney, Virginia Greer and Mary Elizabeth Cunningham.

Frogs Open Season
Here Friday With
Baylor University

To Play 2-Game Series
With Coach Jennings'
Bears

TEAMS EVEN LAST YEAR

Complete New Infield to Start for T. C. U.—Both Have Veteran Outfields.

The T. C. U. varsity nine will open its Southwest Conference baseball schedule here Friday and Saturday with the Baylor University Bears of Waco. The Frogs and Bears tangled in four games last year, splitting each of the two-game series.

The first two games in 1927 were played in Waco, the Bears winning the first, 7 to 5, and the Frogs annexing the second contest, 10 to 5. Horace Brewster, former T. C. U. football and baseball star, worked on the mound in the first and Harold "Hobo" Carson pitching ace for the Frogs last season, won the second game, Carson now is coaching freshmen baseball and is assistant to Coach Meyer in freshmen football and basketball.

The teams reversed the order of victories in the return series played here, the Frogs taking the first game, 7 to 3, and the Bears winning the second, 7 to 1. Brewster again was credited with the loss although he only worked three and one-half innings and Carson was the winning pitcher in the first game.

The Bears lost as many veterans by graduation as the Frogs did in 1927. Coach Morley Jennings has had to develop an entirely new infield and two new catchers. He only has one veteran moundman "Lefty" Shelton, who teamed with Stallings to win most of Baylor's games last season. Shelton is captain.

The Frogs, too, only have one veteran pitcher back, big Jake Williams, and have a new infield and catching staff. "Blackie" Williams, shortstop the past two years, is being used in left field and his hitting is steadily improving. Capt. Jimmy Grant will be in center and Orrin Steadman or Lowell Parrish in right field.

FROM the B. B. A. department, three T. C. U. girls are taking their degrees this year. In a way there is nothing remarkable about the fact, and still there is something a little different about it too.

One naturally thinks that the young ladies will enter the business world which they probably will, but I doubt to any great extent, and we are rather proud to know that three of our girls are going to buck the business game. We think of them as being on the front line trench in the midst of the business fire, and the thought is quite thrilling.

HOWEVER I am wondering about some hundred or so other girls in T. C. U. who will take A. B. degrees, and who will fill some mighty important positions in the business world. Do you get what I mean?

Just this: some one who has thought a lot has said, "Show me a real successful man, and I'll find a true woman who was the reason for his success." There is no use to argue about generalities. Let's take some specific cases that we are acquainted with. I know a man in the business world today who has possibilities, but whose possibilities are held down because of one thing and that one thing is his worse half. He is very intelligent, has ideas, is a go-getter, and should be a potential manager of the business in which he is engaged, but he won't. Here is the reason:

HIS wife is very nice, loves him a lot, and would do anything to see him reach the top, but she can not for the simple reason that she doesn't have the "IT" that is necessary to present day social contact.

One can hear quite a bit about so and so's wife going here, and doing this and that, and how well she entertains, and how nice she always looks, and how fine Mr. So is getting along in business, and Mr. So gets all of the benefit, and Mrs. So a little, but not half she deserves.

PERHAPS Mr. So is successful, but perhaps Mrs. So is also a part of that success, and she is a business woman too. She has tact, character, grace, and a million other small things that go to help make a successful Mr. So.

Think it over, and then try to estimate the number of A. B. girls who will be masters of B. B. A. successes.

Rambles

"WE" WALK
. . . . TO SCHOOL

ANT NATURE GRAND

OVER THE HILLS

AND OUT TO

T. C. U.

SPRING IS HERE

I LIVE under the viaduct down by the railroad tracks, but if you climb the tracks you can see the stone buildings of T. C. U. looming in majestic splendor on the horizon, and meeting you every morning with a kind invitation to come on over.

One morning last week I yielded to that call and climbed the tracks for a morning walk to school.

It was a typical March morning with lifeless gray clouds rolled in front of the yet sleepy sun, and the cool spring dampness of the earth was being swept into your face by a faint breeze that stung your cheeks and made you drink in great gulps of air.

IT SEEMED as if all the world was awakening from its long winter hibernation; birds were chirping their shrill notes, mother earth had begun to let tiny bits of green decorate her for the coming Easter, and even the trees were forgetting their winter nakedness in their yellowish green buds.

I crossed a maze of streets and shuffled thru the railroad yards before stepping into a morning of fun on the other side, where there were fewer man-made things, and the vestiges of nature cropped out amidst tin cans, and old automobile junk.

ALMOST before I knew it I was walking over a long rolling plain which would finally drop off into a deep canyon in the distance. So along I whistled and walked with my gun under my arm, lazily making my way thru the dew dampened grass—just happily thinking, and dreaming. Now I was on the edge of a high cliff, surmounting a deep canyon, down whose treacherous walls I must climb.

Just one fall, resulting in some dirty fingernails, and I was at the bottom of the canyon. In front of me was a small pool of dead water pattering on the surface of the still stream from the ceiling of overhanging rocks. As each little drop made its roll on the water, it made my reflection rock until I was smashed on the banks.

UP THE other side of the hill I climbed, and just as I reached the top, old friend sol awakened and blinked enough to cast his fiery gaze across the western horizon, and there stood our Sunlit Alma Mater, shining bright in the sweep of the morning sun.

On up the rolling hill I trudged, feeling the softness of the ground, watching Bob-O Links and Doves switch from the flowing midst of long dead broom weeds, now sweeping to and fro in the fresh breeze, still wondering, and thinking.

Almost to the summit of the never ending hill, I stumbled upon the ruined home of a ground squirrel, routed by some hungry hound who had pounced upon his prey with yelps of glee, and a few feet farther on, the only game of the morning jumped from his hiding, and scooted away to safety, a cotton tail too fast for my gun.

THEN AS suddenly as I had entered I stepped from the grandness of nature out upon the hardness of man's asphalt, and wearily made my way up the street, thru the arches and at last stood between the great columns, and looked back over the trail I had made. Just one long mile from home, and some 20 short minutes with the difference of parking worries, etc. saved, and safe in my jeans.

My legs were tired and weary, but gee it was worth it. I saved a whole dime.

And the silken, sad, uncertain rustling of the purple curtains, thrill us, tells us that the amateurs backstage are fighting for the peep-hole.

Robbie—What do you think of Sinclair Lewis?

Haacksma—Let's see, he works in the library, doesn't he?

Lester Boone says, "Dogs delight to bark and bite, but the flea delights without barking."

"Isn't that just like a woman?" said the simp as he saw the statue of Liberty.

Mrs. Helen Fouts Cahoon, soprano, who has appeared in numerous recitals, oratorios and concerts in the North and East, will appear in concert at the Texas Christian University auditorium, Tuesday evening, April 10.

In the years from 1913 to 1919, Mrs. Cahoon was a teacher in the voice department of T. C. U., and was director of music department at the university in 1918.

Mrs. Cahoon has been complimented very highly in reviews by many Eastern critics. She has studied under Max Heinrich and Walter S. Young of New York; has served as a member of the faculty of the National Academy of Music, New York as teacher of piano and voice at Friend's University, Wichita, Kan., and has acted as soloist and piano accompanist in concert work at St. Andrews church, New York.

Tickets for her concert will be 50 cents for students and may be gotten from Prof. John W. Ballard or at the Bookstore.

The Scholarship Society of T. C. U. is planning a banquet for its members to be given sometime in May, according to the president, Luther Mansfield.

Mr. Mansfield and Dr. John Lord reported on their recent trip to the Scholarship convention in Brownwood at the last meeting. Work on the constitution was also completed and voted on.

Frogs Split Two Exhibition Games

Schepps Bakers Are Defeated by 8-1; Wildness Cause of First Loss.

Within two days the T. C. U. Horned Frog baseball team divided as many games with the Oklahoma City team, of the Western League, last Friday, and the Shepps Baking company team Saturday, of the Dallas Industrial League. The former team was the victor by a score of 7-4 while the latter was the losers to the tune of 8-1. Oklahoma City was encountered in Weatherford, where they are training for the ensuing season, and the bakers were played on the home lot. Both games were hotly contested and each team was pushed to its limit to subdue the other.

The Frogs garnered more hits than did the Oklahoma Indians, but the wildness of Walker, Frog sophomore pitcher, attributed to the scoring of the Indians.

However, the Mayermen did not have any great difficulty in setting down the visitors from the East Texas town. Both games were exhibition affairs prior to the opening of the Southwest Conference season here Friday and Saturday, when the Frogs take on the Baylor Bears. It being the first games of the season for both teams, the strength of either one cannot be determined at this early stage of the game, but the prediction is that any club will have a hard time beating the Frogs for they have one of the best defensive clubs that they have ever had, and with fair pitching and hitting the Bears will be sent home holding the sack.

Intramural Track Contests Planned

An intramural track meet is the latest development in athletics at Texas Christian University. The intramural basketball season at the university has become one of the most popular activities on the campus, and Prof. Graham Estes, in charge of all inter-class activities, now announces a series of dual track meets, with a final meet to be held on April 23.

All students, except those now going out for varsity track, are eligible to compete on their class teams. In the class meets points will be awarded on the 5, 3, 2, 1 basis, but in the final meet, 10, 8, 4, 2 will be the ratings. Frosh Lose to Decatur

John Lowe Fairly Effective on Mound for Wogs.

The Frosh baseball nine lost a close game to the Decatur Indians here last Friday by a 7-6 score. The game was hotly contested, first one team leading then the other.

John Lowe, star pitcher for the Arlington Heights High here last year, was on the mound for the Wogs, and was fairly effective. Coach "Hobbs" Carson is fairly well pleased by the showing of his team, and is driving the squad in preparation of coming games.
